RUM ROW GONE SAYS OFFICIAL

Patrol Boats Keep Too Good a Watch Over Liquor Vessels.

GO TO CANADA NOW.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (United Press).—Liquor smugglers who attempted to land cargoes at New York when "Rum Row" was a fixture off the New England coast, have turned their activities to Canadian dry provinces, according to Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coastguards. "Rum Row" as a permanent institution is ended as far as the United States is concerned, he said to-day.

"When a liquor boat is sighted off America now a patrol boat immediately puts it under surveillance," Billard said.

"The boat cannot land its contraband in the United States so it takes it to Canada. Of course the service is not infallable. A load of rum seeps by the blockade now and then but there will never be another 'Rum Row' as long as the coastguard is functioning."

WAVES SWEEPING ON FISHING VILLAGE

Heavy Loss of Life Caused By Storm in Russia.

NIKOLAEVAK, Russia, Dec. 28.—Canadian Press. — Heavy loss of life and great property destruction, have been caused in several fishing villages of this district by mountainous waves from the Pacific Ocean, which hurled tons of ice, some blocks ten feet deep, on the villages during a great snowstorm. Many women and children were buried alive under great avalanches of ice and could not be dug out because their men folk were all away on fishing expedition.

GOD'S GARDEN.

We all love flowers; we like to watch them grow, to admire their beauty and smell their fragrance. Some of us like tending them, picking off the old dead blooms, to give the new a chance, watering them, and with pleasure watch the effect of our care, to see the drooping plant stand up straight with renewed life; how it repays us our little effort, what joy it gives us to see them thrive, for in helping them to live we find our own life enriched.

Ah! says someone, I see what you are driving at. You are going to preach a sermon; yes, I am—a little one. I want to talk about human plants and flowers—"God's garden." How sensitive are some of these plants, and the most sensitive are the ones most full of life. These, like garden plants are the most easily nipped by the frosts and harsh winds; they droop for the lack of water, and would soon die if neglected.

We are the under-gardener of the Great Gardener. He, whose birth into this sin-striken world, we have just celebrated. Ah! What a gardener He was; He moved so gently that He never broke a bruised reed, nor quenched the smoking flax; everywhere all the time, He was watering and tending His plants. He healed and caused to grow straight the poor bent, crooked woman, drove out disease, gave the poor weeping widow her dead son back again, and everywhere He went caused joy and wonder and gladness. Truly the wilderness was blossoming as the rose and the solitary places made glad, and the kingdom of Heaven was right at their door, but they were not ready for it, and how far it seems away yet; we have a long way to go, but how it will repay us to so live as our Lord, that we bring it nearer that peace on the earth which the angels heralded and Christ lived and died to win.

Humbly I sign myself, sincerely, wanting to be worthy of the title.

EXTRA GUARDS FOR MURDERER

Man Who Confesses To Slaying Thirteen Closely Watched.

IS RECOVERING.

FARWELL, Texas, December 28. — Canadian Press. — Extra guards to-day were assigned to watch Geo. J. Hassell, who is confined in the county jail here, following confessions to the slaying of thirteen persons.

Charged with murder, following his admission that he killed his wife and her eight children, and placed the bodies in a dugout on his ranch near here three weeks ago, Hassell last night confessed to slaying a woman and three children in California three years ago. He refused to reveal the names of the California victims, or to comment on the crime, other than to say 'It was a good job," the Sheriff said.

Hassell is recovering from self inflicted knife wounds, which the physicians at first believed might prove fatal.

EAST EMILY, Dec. 27.—Quite a large number of people attended the concert given in the school house at Orange Corners on Monday night, Dec. 20th.

Jack Frost and the Butterfly

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

WHAT shall we say to our children of death? "Oh," cries a mother, "don't speak of it!" But how can we avoid it? The flowers fade and die, the kitty dies, the canary goes to sleep and won't wake up, a wreath hangs on the door down the street and grown-ups talk in hushed voices of death and the child wants to know about it. If we shrink and refuse to treat the matter normally, mystery and dread surround the subject and the little mind grapples alone, often in terror, with this greatest of all problems. The only thing to do is to face it squarely for the child. I know a mother who from childhood lived constantly in the shadow of the fear of death. Any thought or word connected with it turned her cold. Then came her own child, and under the dominance of mother love, in her efforts to spare her child the agony she suffered, she smothered her own feelings and strove to make death not a dreadful thing, and in doing so for the child learned to view it as the great sleep from which the awakening is the realization of spiritual longings.

Till summer had gone and the leaves had turned gold.
Then, flitting about in her gossamer dress
She wondered why she should feel chilly and cold.

Far down in the garden she found a late rose,
So there in the sunshine she flitted and danced.
Jack Frost riding by on the Wind of the North
Saw her fairy-like form and was deeply entranced.

He cried, "I adore you!" She breathed, "I love you."
And they danced on the rose in a whirlwind of bliss.
But soon in the garden the fair butterfly
Lay cold in his arms at his first frosty kiss.

He tenderly lifted her down to the ground
To sleep, so he thought, through the winter, white snows,
And over her bed made of golden-brown leaves
He tucked the sweet petals of summer's last rose.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

Peterboro, Dec. 27, 1926.

Editor, Peterboro Examiner.

Dear Sir,—As I am a candidate for Alderman, I wish to put forth a suggestion which I believe would be to our city's advantage, and which I would advocate if I were elected.

This is the age of advertising—and not merely local, but of national and international advertising. Our magazines and newspapers of today carry our message through more than one nation. Then, why not advertise our city and our industries?

Other cities, which have worked out such an advantageous scheme, have found it successful, and are planning more intensive campaigns. Their worthy example is being followed by other progressive cities.

Through our local advertising work, well carried out by the co-operation of our manufacturers and merchants, as instanced by our "Made-in-Peterboro" Fair last fall, Peterboro citizens should be fully aware of our possibilities. We know these things; why not make them known?

"Know your city and talk it," and similar slogans, have been adopted in other cities and have been found effective.

Toronto is one big example of what advertising, sensibly managed, will do. Do you know why one city will secure 90 per cent. of all big conventions? There's a reason.

The advantages are very plain and soon become evident. Industries investigate and if properly encouraged, locate here. Workers would move in, wages and work are steady, empty houses fill up, and building commences. In short, prosperity reigns.

Think this over. I know it will appeal to you. Business finds advertising necessary to profits. Why not run our city on a business basis?

I believe that by forming a committee of aldermen, business men and manufacturers, and co-operating with our local service clubs, we could successfully bring our city and our industries before the country at large.

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE.

Rev. A. J. Langford Delivers Timely Sermon at New Church.

Speaking on the subject of "The Eclipse of Jesus," Rev. A. J. Langford, minister of St. Clair Avenue United Church, told his congregation he was afraid sometimes that the world to-day was allowing emphasis on the humanity of Jesus to put the deity of Christ the Lord into the shadow. It was not enough, said Mr. Langford, to admit that Christ was the "first great Laborite" or the "first Rotarian." These acknowledgements of the human side were all right in their way but for the Christian Church to make of Christ anything less than a Redeemer of men was to endanger his eclipse. Mr. Langford appealed to his audience to continue the spirit of Christmas and the Christmas carol throughout the years, with the vision of Christ as the Saviour of men.

. . . MIRROR OF THE PUBLIC MIND . . . INTERPRETER OF THE PUBLIC INTENT . . . TROUBLER OF THE PUBLIC CONSCIENCE.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING.

The Toronto Star on Saturday in its editorial columns urged that when the details of the Government control bill are being considered provision should be made to prohibit advertising by the brewers and distillers.

Examiner readers will remember that some weeks ago this paper made a similar suggestion, and furthermore, that during the recent campaign W. H. Bradburn, member-elect for Peterboro City, pledged himself to use his efforts to see that liquor advertising will continue to be illegal under the new system as it is now under the Ontario Temperance Act.

The wisdom of this restriction is apparent to everybody, surely.

Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists can agree on this one point anyway, that it is desirable to make it impossible to push the sale of liquor through extensive advertising.

A legtiimate channel of supply for those who want to purchase liquor may be a necessity, may perhaps be the only practicable policy for this or any other country, but at least there is no necessity to have the billboards and newspapers of the Province filled with liquor advertising.

THE NECESSITY OF VOTING.

Sixteen citizens have been public-spirited enough to offer their services to the community for the six municipal positions that have to be filled at the annual municipal election.

They have enough interest in the welfare of Peterboro to be willing to make the sacrifice of time and energy that is necessary in the assuming of the duties of these public positions.

In most cases they are in the field from a sense of public duty, and because they have been urged by those who know their worth to allow their names to go on the ballot.

The least the rest of the electors can do in return for this commendable volunteering of service is to show that they are willing to do their part by using their franchise.

Voting takes place on a public holiday; there is nothing to stop anybody from voting but sheer indifference.

The polling booths in the schools are conveniently located, the electors are being notified by card as to where they vote, and not the slightest excuse is offered those who do not take the trouble to say by their ballots by whom they want the city's business managed during the next year.

When so many citizens are willing to give up many hours of their time to civic business, common gratitude should force the balance of the electorate to assume its small share of the responsibility.

A GREAT SHOWING.

The Canadian National Railways continue to issue bulletins that bring satisfaction and confidence to the people of Canada.

The latest summary of earnings and expenses, showing net earnings that set a new high mark in the history of the road, is the finest kind of a Christmas gift to Canadians.

The statement shows that during the first eleven months of the present year the gross earnings of the Government-owned railway system were $242,854,988, while the operating expenses for the same period were $41,451,628, leaving net earnings of $41,451,628.

There is much food for satisfaction, not only in the fact that the gross earnings are bigger than any recorded for a similar period during the five years which have elapsed since the amalgamation of the various units into the present system, but that the net is the highest ever piled up by the system.

Cheerful, too, is the announcement that the relation of expenses to receipts continues to show a decrease.

The operating ratio for the first eleven months of this year was 82.93 per cent, while for the same period three years ago it was 97.23 per cent.

OVER THE WHOLE YEAR.

One feature in connection with Christmas that should not be lost sight of as the festival of this year passes on is the desirability of trying to keep permanently in operation the thought for others and the spirit of good-will and generosity that make the celebration of Christmas what it is.

Families in needy circumstances have been discovered and helped in Peterboro during the last few days.

Thanks to generous citizens, Christmas found them supplied with food and fuel, while youthful hearts were made happy by the things in which children delight.

But it must not be forgotten that want is felt at other times than the Christmas season.

The wind is as chill in February as in December; the pangs of hunger are none the less painful because Christmas has passed.

There are always those who need a helping hand, and therefore while it is a splendid thing to bring cheer to a down-and-out family in the Christmas season, it is a still more glorious thing to do what one can at all times for homes where the wolf is more or less a permanent visitor on the doorstep.

In short, let us try to spread Christmas over the whole year.

SALE OF ARMS.

With murder and violence past the epidemic stage in the United States and now enjoying the status of a highly-organized business, one wonders just how long the public will be content to take its criminal class for granted, says The Hamilton Spectator. One of the reasons, it is recognized, why there are so many gunmen in the United States is that there are so few difficulties in the way of buying a gun. There will come before the United States Senate at the next session an act which will bar pistols and revolvers from the mails. It has already received the endorsation of the House and it has been accorded the enthusiastic support of the Post Office Department, jurists and law-enforcement officers, who are a unit in declaring that the majority of bandits get the supplies for their arsenals from mail-order houses, the proprietors of which are not concerned about the purposes to which their wares are put. It is ridiculous legislation, it is admitted, that permits mail-order houses to sell pistols and shot-guns to any one having the price to buy, while completely setting at naught municipal regulation of the sale of firearms. Two of the largest mail-order houses of the United States voluntarily abandoned the practice of selling firearms by mail, but the unscrupulous in the business viewed the withdrawal of the big fellows only as an opportunity for themselves to make fatter profits. The Post Office Department, which has a pretty good idea of the identity of merchandise passing through its hands, is authority for the statement that thousands of pistols are delivered by postmen each year in every big city of the United States. Cancellation of the legal right of mail-order companies to traffic in arms would seem to be something that could be made unanimous, but it will be surprising if existing legislation has not its defenders when it parades for consideration.

THE CHRISTMAS CARD HABIT.

Some years ago it was said that the Christmas card habit was dying out. It seemed to be very generally regarded as what G. B. S. would describe as an "unbearable nuisance." The prophets have again proved false. There never were so many Christmas cards exchanged as this year. Perhaps this is partly due to a change in the fashion of Christmas cards. Time was when one went to the stationers and participated in a scramble; one pawed over a motley lot of more or less indifferently printed poorly worded cards, and finally in desperation grabbed a handful because everybody else was doing it. Proceeding to address them to friends one found half the cards inappropriate and the other half soiled samples of careless printing. But they must be sent and one found consolation in the thought that the cards which the same friends would send to us would have just as many shortcomings as our own.

Came a development that altered all this—the introduction of cards that would express individual taste and yet that could be produced by the million in a multitude of styles. The addition of the name of the sender, printed from type or engraved plate, or written in as a personal autograph, gave it the personal touch. Inasmuch as these cards had to be ordered well ahead of Christmas the last-minute rush was eliminated, and as there was but one choice of card to be made and a host to choose from the fatigue of selection disappeared. The idea caught on and, as has been said, the Christmas card habit which seemed on the wane has grown to extraordinary proportions and apparently has not yet reached the flood.

Freed from its irksome features, the exchange of Christmas cards is altogether pleasant. As each envelope is addressed one has a mental picture of the intended recipient, one recalls the last meeting, one speculates on a lot of things, one wafts a message of love, of joy or of sympathy. These mental close-ups are repeated when, all through Christmas week, cards are received from the same and perhaps other friends. We get a thrill; we have been thought of; we are reminded of somebody we had almost forgotten; we see familiar writing on the envelopes; we warm to the feeling of brotherhood.

CONFIDENCE IN 1927.

The most striking proof that the confidence which the business world has in the continuance of unparalleled prosperity in the coming year in the United States, is that recently furnished by Wall Street, when the United States Steel Corporation declared a stock dividend of $203,321,000. This action by an influential and conservative group of financiers and industrialists, who control one of the world's greatest business corporations has had a tremendous effect in establishing general confidence throughout the country in the economic and financial outlook for the new year.

It was announced by E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors and his associates, that the property conditions and earning capacity of the corporation justified a 40 per cent. stock dividend, consisting of 2,033,210 additional shares to be distributed among the 90,000 stockholders. Those who will benefit by the distribution range from Judge Gary to President Coolidge, who holds 40 shares of common stock. The President will receive 20 additional shares, which probably will give him a profit of between $2,000 and $3,000.

Some of the larger stockholders will profit enormously by the distribution. The assets of the corporation are nearly $2,500,000,000, or almost $280 of capital behind each of the outstanding 5,083,025 shares at $100 par value. Such an exhibition of prosperity is bound to strengthen the tone of confidence that pervades almost the whole country. If the steel and iron trade, with its allies in the structural industries, is one of the basic indexes of prosperity in the country, the effect of such extraordinary prosperity will be almost incalculable.

This gigantic corporation was founded in 1901 by a consolidation of about 20 subsidiary companies. The stock, at first heavily watered, has been put on its present basis by a careful policy of financial management. In 25 years, it has made aggregate net profits of more than $2,000,000,000. About half of that surplus has gone into the present bonus to stockholders. It is an astonishing example of the progress and stability of big business. It ought to be some encouragement to industrial activity in Canada to be assured that the outlook is bright in the adjoining Republic.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Remember, one of your first duties of the New Year is to poll your vote at the municipal election.

This is the week New Year's resolutions should be made. Next week is the time they are usually broken.

The announcement of spring training dates by the big league ball clubs is a hint that winter is not so long after all.

Crowded trains over the week-end showed that Christmas still reminds most people that there is no place like home.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 28.—With receipts of 1,332 cattle, 54 calves, 32 hogs and 140 sheep at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, the cattle trade was slow, heavy steers selling 15c a cwt lower. Butcher grade were steady to strong.

Too many heavies were offering. Export steers brought $7 to $7.50, with choice handyweights up to $7.50. Exporters requirements were about 200 head, and they have been able to more than complete this.

Good cows brought $4.50 to $5.50 with bulls ranging from $3.50 to $5.25 a cwt.

Calves were steady at from $12 to $13 for choice. The trade was good.

Only one load of hogs were offered. They were steady at price of $11.15 off car for thick smooths. Stronger hog prices are looked for, the trade being able to absorb a few of these.

There were no sheep offered, but the lambs of the good variety brought $11 a cwt.

The commission men are not advising shippers at the present time to send in cattle, leaving it more to their own judgement.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the holidays in England there were no cables received by Montreal grain exporters yesterday and in consequence business in this direction was dull. The local and country demand for cash grain was also of a very limited character, but the undertone to the market was firm.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a moderate demand from local buyers.

The milfeed market was moderately active and the undertone was steady. A steady feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats, and a fair trade was reported.

The demand for eggs was limited, but prices were firm. The receipts were 748 cases.

The trade in potatoes was dull but prices were unchanged. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.55 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.40 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

Only a small trade was done in butter but prices were steady. The receipts were 203 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade but values were unchanged. The receipts were 104 boxes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Helped by a decrease in the United States visible supply total, wheat prices took an upward swing yesterday. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-2 to 7-8 net higher, with corn unchanged to 5-8c off; oats at 1-8 decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents down.

Month-end and year-end adjustment of accounts led to enough buying of December wheat yesterday to lift the December price here to a premium over May at times, whereas on Friday last the December quotation showed one cent a bushel discount. Meanwhile Winnipeg messages yesterday told of fair buying of future deliveries there on the part of export houses.

North American exports for the last week, too, showed an increase both over the previous week and a year ago. Thus an outstanding question continued to be as to whether or not wheat from Argentina and Australia moving to Europe would yet force a lower level of prices. Something of a setback in corn values took place in connection with the announcement of 1,826,000 bushels increase of the corn visible supply. Offerings of oats lacked volume.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the price of hogs.

CHICAGO CATTLE

FADS OF THE FAMOUS

POLA NEGRI

Pola Negri, exotic motion picture tragedienne, has no fad. Or it might be said that she has many if a love of things beautiful, of the best of art and music and jewels can be considered a fad.

But this, with this woman who remains remote, aloof, lonely more than any other in the public eye, is not a passing fancy. It is her nature.

Miss Negri, when asked by United Press to make known her fad first asked to have the word defined. To her it was not a word of common use. When it was made clear what was wanted the famous Paramount star answered the question with a graceful sweep of her hand.

She pointed in turn to a bowl of deep, red roses beside her chaise lounge, to a rare, first edition on the stand at her elbow and to a grand piano on which was racked Kreisler's "Spanish Lullaby."

"You see," she said. "I like them all. They are my 'fads' if you like.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

BAIT FOR CRIMINALS

By Dr. Frank Crane.

An ostentatious display of gems or other valuables, implying immense concentrated wealth, is a lure to the criminal.

Wearing expensive jewelry is not only bad taste, but it is advertising to somebody to knock you down and rob you.

A certain woman owns several expensive diamond rings and brooches which she keeps locked up in the safety deposit vault because she is afraid to wear them.

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury recently attended the opening of the Chicago Opera adorned in diamonds and emeralds in a tiara, dog-collar necklace and bracelets, and was the observed of all observers.

Doubtless she enjoyed the adornments, but she was also placing a premium upon those gentlemen friends who live by their wits to lay for her in some dark alley and get her valuables.

At the wedding of the Princess Astride the other day millions of dollars' worth of jewelry were displayed.

When so many people are struggling very hard to make a bare living it does not set very well with them to have this enormous wealth flaunted before them.

One has a right, of course, to do as he pleases with his money and to own an expensive gem or so if he likes. But it is best, all in all, to keep your jewelry in a safety deposit vault at the bank and wear paste.

If you are known to be rich everybody will think your gems are genuine and if you are poor they won't believe your gems are good even if they are of intrinsic worth.

On the whole if you are going to display anything, we should recommend paste.

The argument for simple attire and lack of ornamentation is not based upon any religious feeling, but simply upon the question of good taste and a fair consideration for your fellows.

A woman's handbag was snatched out of her hand the other day on a street car in Chicago, and the judge soundly reprimanded the woman for exposing her valuable bag to the wiles of the malefactor.

Simplicity is safety, and one way to abate the criminal activities of the world is not unduly to tempt them.

And by the way, if you are going to give your wife or your sweetie something to make her happy, would it not be better to buy a bond which produces regular interest than to give her a jewel which produces nothing?

CHRISTMAS RECITAL

Bethany Pupils of Miss Olga Fowler Give Fine Concert.

BETHANY, Dec. 28.—On Thursday evening the piano pupils of Miss Olga Fowler held their usual Christmas recital at the home of Mrs. F. C. Dawe, Main Street. The large living room was prettily decorated with Christmas bells and streamers with a large Christmas tree in one corner.

A goodly number of the friends and interested acquaintances of the young people gathered to listen to a very good programme of music, etc.

Little Miss Beatrice Darroch gave a recitation entitled "Mr. Winter" and little Miss Patricia Poulter sang a dainty song entitled "Jack Frost." Among the pupils who played were the Misses Helen Patton, Viola Gray, May Smith, Ruth Hamilton, Wilma and Edna Beer, Leone Dawe, Beatrice and Pauline Darroch, Patricia Poulter, Ellen Kincade, and Evelyn Bigelow. The boys who played were Lawrence Steer, Karl Monk, Morgan Bigelow, and Robert Sisson. On the Christmas tree were gifts for each pupil from Miss Fowler and gifts from one to another to Miss Fowler. Lawrence Steer made a very good Santa Claus and Miss Winnie Dawe assisted in distributing the gifts. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Dawe for her home was moved by Miss Fowler and responded to by a hearty handclap.

A treat of candy was passed around and the singing of the National Anthem brought the programme to a close.

TODAY Industry stands on the threshold of a New Year—a Year fertile of Opportunity such as Canada has not known for years.

1927 should be a year of greater sales—a year of increased population and consumption in Canada, of vaster exports to the rest of the world.

But it will be also a year of keener competition, of close-margined prices.

How will your cost of production stand the test?

To help lower your costs for 1927, Goodyear offers the services of Goodyear Industrial rubber goods, and of Goodyear-trained men to discuss installations with you.

Goodyear Transmission Belts for greater economy in transmitting power—and for longer life.

Goodyear Hose for water, steam, air, acids, beverages—for all uses—each specially built to give the greatest number of months of service.

And Goodyear-trained men who will expertly and impartially recommend for each problem in your plant the type of equipment which their experience and observation indicate it most needs—whether it is a Goodyear product or not.

'Phone or write—a post card will do—for a Goodyear man to call.

THIRTY-FOUR DEAD AS RESULT OF CHRISTMAS BOOZE PARTIES IN THREE UNITED STATES' CITIES

NEW YORK HIGHEST.

Say 90 Per Cent. of Liquor in Chicago is Poisonous.

DETROIT, Dec. 28.—Five dead, 44 seriously ill, and at least 100 others treated for alcoholic poisoning, was the toll in Detroit of Christmas parties, according to a careful survey by hospital authorities and the Coroner's office yesterday.

The 44 were all admitted to hospitals because of serious alcoholic poisoning. This included eight women. In addition, several persons were brought in as the result of accidents, due, doctors say, to liquor.

Records of Hospitals.

The check covered the period from midnight Thursday to 6 a.m. Monday. The records of all hospitals and the Coroner's office were examined. Hospitals reported that men and women were coming in all day Christmas for treatment for poisoning as a result of Christmas Eve drinking parties. Most of these patients required only simple treatment to relieve their condition, brought on by bad whiskey, gin and wine. Others were in so serious a condition that their lives were endangered for hours.

New York's Big List.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The total number of deaths ascribed to holiday alcoholic indulgence mounted to 22 throughout the city. This is four more than were reported as the Christmas toll of 1925. Seventeen of the 22 died in Manhattan, four in Brooklyn and one in Queen's County. Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Norris said that until chemical analysis of the stomach content of the victims could be made it was impossible to state positively whether death had been due to "quantity or quality."

Seven at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28—Seven deaths attributed to alcoholism occurred in Chicago over Christmas, the police announced last night.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, City Health Commissioner, said 95 per cent. of the liquor brought to the city laboratories for analysis was found to be poisonous, and estimated that 90 per cent. of all the liquor consumed in Chicago over the holiday contained poison in one form or another.

Disclaims Responsibility.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Government chemists are hopeful in the near future of making industrial alcohol more distasteful but less poisonous through new formulae, but in the meantime the Government is accepting no responsibility for any deaths resulting from the drinking of liquor recently.

It was explained yesterday that 2 per cent. of wood alcohol is placed in most of the industrial alcohol, but that this quantity would not be sufficient to cause death.

HAVELOCK TO HAVE MANY CANDIDATES

Most of Those Nominated Signify Intention of Running.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 28.—The nominations held here yesterday resulted in three candidates for the Reeveship, eight for the Council, eight for the School Board, and two for the Hydro Commission.

The following were nominated for Reeve: W. T. Curtis, S. S. Joyce, and Alfred Spencer. Mr. Spencer decided later that he would withdraw from the contest for Reeve and would again enter the contest for Councillor.

All last year's councillors, Firman Haig, David McAdam, James Ketchem, and Alfred Spencer, are seeking re-election. The four new candidates in the field are Stanley Barlow, Harry Gordon, E. J. Leeson, Isaac Barlow. With the exception of Isaac Barlow they all signified their intention of running for office. Mr. Barlow told The Examiner that he had served on the School Board for twenty years and he did not think he would seek another municipal office.

The retiring members of the School Board, J. H. Moore, H. V. Roche and Edward Fennell were again nominated. New candidates for the Board are Robert Anderson, Dr. J. Holdcroft, Robert Scully, Fred E. Post and Joseph Huffman.

C. H. Brewster and Richard Sanderson were the only two nominated for the Hydro Commission and were elected by acclamation.

CHAPLAIN IS NOT SEEKING DIVORCE

Attorney Denies Rumor That Comedy King Wants Separation.

HAD NO INTENTION.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Lloyd Wright, attorney for Charles Spencer Chaplin, declared here yesterday that the film comedian had no intention of seeking a divorce from his estranged wife ,the former Lita Grey, in Mexican courts, as intimated in a report from Nogales, Ariz.

"There's nothing to it," Wrigh: said. "I never heard of Chaplin being in communication with a Hermosillo, Sonora, attorney, until I read it in the paper today."

Wright indicated that his client was awaiting some action on the part of Mrs. Chaplin, who announced recently that she would sue the comedian for divorce.

Mrs. Chaplin likewise had not heard of any Mexican angle to the domestic rift, she said, and even if her husband did contemplate some such action, it would not alter her plans in the least, she added.

W.M.S. MEETING

Regular Gathering Held at Home of Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 28.—The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. (Rev). Lovelace on December 14th and was fairly well attended. Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. (Rev.) Wilding. The meeting opened by repeating the W. M. watchword, and the singing of hymn "Take Time to be Holy." Mrs. H. Macklin read the scripture lesson, Matthew 2nd 1-12. Mrs. George Ingham led in prayer, after which the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. Mrs. O. Varcoe read the devotional leaflet, "Belief and Trust," and Mrs. Andrew Brown read a paper, "Prayer For Trust." A chapter from the study book was read by Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace, "Opening Gateways of Knowledge."

Mrs. Lily Turner read a very interesting paper entitled "Why India Needs a Doctor."

A financial report was given by the treasurer which was very satisfatcory.

Mrs. C. M. Varcoe favored the gathering with a piano solo and was very much enjoyed. The roll was called, when each member responded with a verse of scripture.

The minutes of November meeting were read and adopted on motion of Mrs. Smith.

The meeting came to a close with singing "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" and prayer by Mrs. Lovelace. Lunch was then served and a social half hour was spent.

The members of St. James' W. A. Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Parker on Thursday, December 16th with a fairly good attendance. The president, Mrs. J. T. Drope, conducted the meeting, which opened with singing hymn 356, followed by repeating the W. A. prayer in unison. Minutes of November meeting were read and adopted. Bible reading was given by Mr. John Brickman, St. John, chapter 4.

A vocal number was given by Mrs. Ernest Timlin and Miss Marian Coyle, entitled, 'Sound the Alarm" and was much enjoyed by those present.

The programme for January meeting was arranged and the next meeting place will be at the home of Mr. Edward Weir.

The closing hymn 290, was sung after which a dainty luncheoen was served by the hostess.

TIMELY SERMONS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Special Christmas Music Also Given in Churches on Sunday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28. — Special Christmas messages, both in theme and song, were the keynote of St. John's services on Sunday. Rev. W. Elliott took as his theme, "The Magi and the Child", leading the congregation in thought from the magi or wisemen of Persia to the Babe at Bethlehem. These magi followed the Star, for they had long looked for a sign of the coming of Christ. Christmas in their custom of gathering at Christmas time, are following in the foosteps of the wisemen when they gathered at the footstool of Christ. They also have a Star to follow, the Bible, also their parents, homes and Sunday schools.

The music for the morning was: Soprano solo, Mrs. G. McArty of Toronto; anthem, "Christians Awake", solo parts taken by Miss Cherrie Turner, Miss Essie Cassan and Mr. J. H. Bell; anthem, by the choir, soloist, Miss G. Payne.

In the evening Mr. Elliott continued his story of the birth of the Saviour and brought out the facts that as surely as the landlord of that inn at Bethlehem missed his great chance to receive the Christ just so many people today are missing their chances Mr. Elliott repeated a poem, "Lament of the Inn Keeper," which typifies the people of to-day. The innkeeper's lament was, "If I had only known", and many people today, if they only knew, would plan their lives a great deal different than they do now.

Organ prelude.

Anthem, "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings," Miss E. Meiklejohn, Miss K Connor, Mr A. Rollo, Mr. H. Donald.

Soprano solo, "Great Joy to Earth," Mrs W. A. C. Witthrine of Windsor.

Ladies Quartette, "Sleep, Holy Babe", Mrs H. O. Richardson, Mrs. A. L. Malcolm, Mrs. D. W. Douglas and Miss L. Young.

Quartette, "The Birthday of a King", Miss C. Turner, Miss I. Stephens, Mr. G. Lucy and Mr. W. Henson.

Anthem, "Nights of Nights", choir.

Orchestra, Violin, Mr Stephens of Toronto; violin, Mr. R. Hazell, saxaphone, Mr. E. Thomas; cornet, Mr. L. Clegg; trombone, Mr. E. C. Dolman.

At the conclusion of the service, Mr. Elliott extended a hearty vote of thanks to the organist, Mr. Hazell, his choir, and the orchestra, for their excellent musical programmes for the services.

St. Andrew's Church.

The services of St. Andrew's church on Sunday were of a Christmas nature. Rev. Mr. Grier preached two excellent Christmas sermons and the music for the day was beautiful. The junior choir assisted at the evening service. The music for the services was as follows:

Anthem, "Behold the King."

Solo, "The Virgin at the Manger", Miss M. Dickson.

Carol, "Oh Christmas Bells."

In the evening:

Organ solo, "The Angelic Choir".

Carol, "Holy Night."

FATHER HANLEY 25 YEARS PRIEST

Beloved Pastor of Tweed Church Celebrates His Jubilee.

TWEED, Dec. 28.—Rev. Father Hanley celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, and in commemoration of the event, he was tendered a reception by the children of his congregation in the Tweed Opera House on Tuesday evening. The programme prepared for the occasion was a splendid one and consisted of choruses by the children; a drama, entitled, "The Hidden Gem," and a play, "Mystical Gifts," by six young ladies. This production was beautifully staged, and those who had charge of the arrangements certainly left nothing undone to make the event a huge success. The stage was beautifully decorated for the occasion with silver and white.

At the conclusion of the programme Father Hanley was presented with an address and bouquet of roses by the children.

Following mass in the morning he was presented by the congregation with a purse and address. His reverence has many friends among all classes of people in Tweed.

THE HALL STORE

SAINT and SINNER
By ANNE AUSTIN

"Oh, my sainted aunt!" "Long" Lane snatched up the first news section of the bulky Sunday paper from the dining table which Faith was setting for breakfast.

"Here's Cherry, big as life and twice as handsome, right spang in the middle of the front page! And, gosh, this photo of old Monkey-Gland Cluny musta been taken twenty-five years ago! Don't he look noble? Hey, Cherry!" he bawled, "Come see how it feels to be famous!"

"Don't tease her, Long," Faith begged, looking at him imploringly with tear-reddened eyes. The violet smudges left by a sleepless night lay like the very shadows of tragedy upon her pale ivory cheeks. "And for heaven's sake, don't make any wise cracks before Dad and Mother about it. Dad looks as if the miserable business is killing him by inches!"

"You woke me up, Long." Cherry appeared at the dining room door. With her glorious, tousled mop of copper and-gold curls, her sleep-dewed golden eyes and her sleep-flushed apricot cheeks, she looked like an adorable, innocent child. "What's the rocket? Oh, the paper! Give it to me!" She was galvanized into action; sleep was completely routed from the misty topaz eyes, which blazed with excitement.

"Which picture did they use? Oh! They did take that one with the rose. Didn't it come out well? Oh, dear, there's a smudge of ink under my right eye, but it really looks like a beauty spot, doesn't it? Heavens! What enormous headlines! You'd think I'd committed a murder or something! 'FAMOUS ATTORNEY TO WED FLAPPER BEAUTY.' Gee, I bet that'll make dear old Ralph froth at the mouth. 'Flapper beauty,'" she giggled. "And more headlines under that 'Ralph Winston Cluny, former district attorney, former state Senator and noted criminal lawyer, confirms engagement to beautiful stenographer. Indignant relatives of rich and aged fiance refuse to believe news. Confirmation also comes from humble Myrtle Street home of titian-haired beauty'." Cherry read on, excitement making her voice shrill. "Well, I like that! 'Humble Myrtle Street home'!"

"Well, it ain't a palace," "Long" swung a chair to the table and reached for the bowl of corn flakes. "Invite the reporters out to see the new wallpaper and the birdies on the window curtains, and that rug I bought and the red and black painted furniture," he suggested, chuckling wickedly. "Knock their eye out! Maybe they'll get you to write articles for 'The Home Beautiful' section of the Sunday paper. 'How I dolled up my parlor to catch a rich husband'," he went on, grinning widely and without malice. "Hey, Faith, call this cream? It's positively blue!"

"We can't afford cream for the cereal. I skimmed off the top of the bottle for the coffee," Faith answered, hoping to divert his attention from Cherry, whom she expected to see burst into tears of humiliation and despair at any moment.

"Well, can you beat this," she ejaculated, looking up from her swift silent reading of the column and a half devoted to the story. "Just listen, Faith—the nerve of 'em: 'Just after midnight this morning, Mrs. Seymour Allbright, nee Miss Alice Cluny, daughter of Mr. Ralph Cluny, made a personal call at the editorial offices of The Star and demanded that the Cluny-Lane engagement be 'killed.'

"'Since she would not give her reasons, a reporter was sent to interview Mr. Cluny for the second time, and again secured confirmation of the engagement, with the additional information that the wedding would take place on Thanksgiving Day. Although roused from sleep at that late hour, Mr. Cluny graciously answered questions of the reporter, and commented voluntarily: "'November twenty-fifth will be the happiest day of my life. Miss Lane, while extremely young, has the charm and dignity of a much older woman, coupled with rare beauty'." Cherry laughed gleefully, and looked up at Faith with bright, untroubled eyes. "Can't you just hear him say it—'Has the — ah — charm and — ah— dignity of a much—ah—older woman.' Boy Howdy!" Still laughing, she bent her head to read on, absorbedly.

"Well, can you feature this!" She struck at the page with a small clenched fist. "Just listen, Faith, the mean old things!—'When little Miss Cherry Lane, not quite nineteen, becomes the bride of Mr. Cluny, whose age is 68, she will also become the stepmother of Mrs. Seymour Allbright and Mr. Alexander Cluny, noted corporation lawyer, and the step-grandmother of Mr. Ralph Cluny II, assistant district attorney, of Miss Eileen Cluny, daughter of Mr. Alexander Cluny, a sophomore at Bryn Mawr and the same age as the future Mrs. Ralph Cluny.

"'She will also be the aunt by marriage of Mr. Robert Carr Hathaway, prominent young architect, rumors of whose engagement to the beautiful and petite Miss Cherry Lane are set at rest by today's announcement.'

"There's a lot more you didn't read," "Long" Lane told her cheerfully, reaching for the platter of eggs and sausages. "There's a column on page three, telling all about old Monkey-Gland—where he went to school, who his daddy and his granddaddy was, and the swell political jobs he's held, and some of the big murderers and grafters he's defended—"

"Shut up, Junior," Faith said quietly. She had made no comment at all as Cherry read the newspaper story, but her face was pale and stern. "Call Dad and Mother to breakfast, and see if Joy's up yet."

When he had left the room noisily, Cherry uncovered her eyes and looked appealingly at Faith. "He believed in me, Faith. He's rather a nice old duck, isn't he? He stuck up for me when his tattling old daughter sailed into him. I guess I'm in for a big fight with the relatives now—old money-grabbers! Well, I'm going to show them a thing or two!" Her small face was set pugnaciously, but when she had retrieved the paper, a smile of pure pleasure dawned on it slowly. "I'm awfully glad they used the picture of me with a rose. It really shows up awfully well, doesn't it, honey?—like a movie star's photo."

CHARLES ST. CHARLES.

MADOC, Dec. 28.—The funeral of Bailiff Charles St. Charles was held on Friday morning from his home to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where mass was said by Rev. Father O'Riordan. It was a sad culmination to the long struggle for life waged by Mr. St. Charles that he should have been laid to rest on Christmas eve. He had been a patient sufferer during the illness which followed the shooting affray, bearing with Christian fortitude the pain and sickness of those long weeks. In his address, Father O'Riordan referred to the loyal citizenship Mr. St. Charles had always shown in the performance of his civic and religious duties. He had endeavored to live an earnest, upright life. That he was held in high esteem by the citizens of Madoc was shown by the large congregation present, representing all denominations, and also by the large number of beautiful flowers which had been sent, including a wreath from the corporation of Madoc. Fifty spiritual offerings were also gratefully received.

Mr. St. Charles leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. D. Barrie, and one son, Charles, both of Madoc, his wife having predeceased him about five years ago. There also remain two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Jandernoa, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mrs. Margaret Diller, of Tewamo, Mich.

Mr. St. Charles was bailiff, county constable and town constable for twenty-five years, and has been truant officer for the Public school for some time past.

The bearers were Messrs. F. Feeney, Will Stewart, G. Foote, T. Caverly, G. Barrie and J. Laffin. Interment was made in the Sacred Heart cemetery.

The roses and other cut flowers were donated to the altar for Christmas.

CATCH CASSIDY.

Besides Cassidy's furniture and personal effects, there were fifteen bottles of beer and numerous empty ones in the house, police said.

SEYMOUR COUNCIL SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Contest Expected, However, For Every Place on Board.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28.— All of last year's Seymour Township Council will seek re-election for the year 1927. Reeve Grills will be opposed by ex-Reeve Vonvolkenburg, and Deputy-Reeve Peake by ex-Councillor Milne.

John Locke is the new man seeking a place on the Council.

At the nomination meeting yesterday, Reeve Grills reviewed the work of his Council the past year. He said the roads were never in a worse condition in the spring of the year than they were last spring, and he considered the road gang had done exceptionally well under the circumstances. He wasn't in favor of doing work late in the fall, but there was no other alternative this year, owing to their late start and the bad weather encountered.

Referring to the criticism of the Rawdon Boundary Bill, the Reeve said: If the bill was excessive, it was the Rawdon Council not honest with the Seymour Council that made it so. Rawdon had presented their bill, and it was up to the Seymour Council to pay their share. The Rawdon boundary was one of the main topics of discussion, but the affair was so complicated it was difficult to straighten out.

Township Clerk, Dr. G. A. Hay, thought the biggest trouble was the laxity of the Rawdon Township Clerk.

Clerk Hay also enlightened the electors on the increased assessment. The $3,000.00 additional, was entirely from the Hydro possession, and it was only after a lenghty fight that the Clerk's efforts were successful.

Reeve Grills said he would again be a candidate and asked for the support of the electors.

Deputy-Reeve Peake reviewed the financial statement, and praised the work of the road gang. They had put on crushed stone at an average of 93c a yard, and their gravel averaged 81c a yard.

He said he would be a candidate for re-election and asked for the support of the electors on his past record.

Councillor Innes referred briefly to the work done on the roads, as did Councillor Lynn and Allen. All would seek re-election and asked for the support of the electors.

Ex-Reeve George Vonvolkenburg had been urged to offer his services to the Township again, and had consented to do so. He objected to spending money on the roads late in the season. He would have the road gang do any grading or levelling necessary or in other words prepare the road-bed and have the farmers themselves put on the gravel. He had served the Township for ten years, and asked the electors for their support for the Reeveship.

Andrew Milne said he would be a candidate for Deputy-Reeve and asked for the support of the electors. He criticized this year's Council for the high assessment and tax rate in view of the fact they had very little expense for new machinery or repairs.

P. B. Nelson said he had not decided to stand for Councillor. He dealt at length with the question of roads, and wondered if a steam roller would be a good investment. It was only a suggestion, and he would like to have the opinion of others of the electors.

Rev. Mr. Daniel asked the Reeve if a man and team working on the road for the township should charge for drawing out a car stalled in the mud.

The Reeve replied, he wasn't sure of the legality of the act, and added, he guessed the teamster was looking out for the almighty dollar.

Lindsay Anderson, speaking from the audience said he admired the Council for the way they had dodged fixing the roads down his way, which is the 8th Line. They were blessed with an overdose of fresh water springs on the 8th Line, and he thought it the worst road in the Township.

The Reeve informed him if he would take a drive over the whole Township with the Council in the spring, he would know something about bad roads, and Deputy-Reeve Peake said $150.00 was spent there this past year, and $400.00 the year before.

For Reeve.—William S. Grills, by Frederick Peake and Ernest Haig. George S. Vonvolkenburg, by Andrew Milne and A. H. McKelvie.

For Councillors.—Robert A. Lynn, by Ernest Haig and Will Stephens. Robert Innes, by William M. Stephens and Fred Bennett. Will T. Allen, by Fred Bennett and Ernest Craighead. John Locke, by A. H. McKelvie and James Watters. P. B. Nelson, by A. H. McKelvie and James Watters. Rev. C. D. Daniel, by P. B. Nelson and E. Stillman. Andrew Heagle, by Andrew Milne and Elsee Stillman.

ANNIVERSARY OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

Special Services Held at Millbrook United Church.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 28.—The anniversary services of the United Church Sunday school were observed on Sunday, December 26, a union of the school session and the regular morning worship being held at 10.30 a.m.

Mr. Wellesley W. Staples, of Lindsay, was the special speaker for the day, the superintendent, Mr. W. Fred Fallis, the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, and the Rev. Joseph Wilks being also on the platform.

The offering for the day was in aid of the Sunday school funds, and in explaining the financial standing Mr. Fallis said his first order for the year's supplies, when he became superintendent ten years ago, amounted a little less than $100.00; this month the literature totalled about $227.00.

Mr. Staples gave an inspiring address, holding the attention of the tiny tots and the big folk as well, using the text, "Hitch your waggon to a star" (Ralph Waldo Emerson).

Some suggestions toward reaching this ideal, which were given detailed attention, were: Fill your mind with the very best thoughts—the Bible, and other good literature, being sources of supply. Look for the best things in life, and in people—you will see just what you are looking for. Hear the best instruction—your parents, pastor, teachers are doing their best to give you this. Choose your friends those who expect the noblest, truest, and best things from you. Finally, follow the Star of Bethlehem, and like the Wise Men, you too will find the Saviour, and give Him worship and allegiance.

The report of the secretary, Mr. W. G. Rowland, was full of interest. The attendance for the day was 203; offering $12.45; for the quarter, attendance 1,245; offering $60.23; verses learned, 939; for the year, attendance 7,119; average per Sunday 136; verses learned 6,274; average 120; offering $277.60; average $5.33.

The school gives a Bible to every scholar who does not miss a Sunday during the year; this year fourteen qualified. The superintendent distributed the awards. Providing a Bible has been given one year, the pupil may choose a hymn book or other suitable award the next year. Those attending the 52 Sundays for 1926 were: In the Primary Department, Orval Lunn and Freddie Brown; in Mrs. T. H. Aiken's class, Stanford Brown; in Mrs. O. Williamson's class; Margaret Smith; in Mrs J. McKnight's class, Johnston Rowland, Orval Bonner, Gordon Muspratt; in Mrs. J. Hatherley's class, Ann Rowland; in Mrs. I. Natrass' class, Harry Freelove; in Mr. C. C. Garside's class, Harold Hawken, William Skitch; in the Tuxis' Square, Manley Turner, Bruce Freelove.

An unusual record was established by two scholars, one of whom, William Skitch, has not missed a Sunday for 11 years, and by Manley Turner, who has been present every Sunday for 7 years, winning this year the gold seal for his Robert Raikes' diploma. Mr. Wesley Brown a member of Mrs. (Dr.) Rea's Bible Class, was the only adult to be present all 52 Sundays, and a Bible was given him.

Those receiving awards for reciting verses were: Myrtle Nattrass (240); May Ferrin (321); Helen Mitchell (188); Stanford Brown (240); Jack Stinson (263); Jean Stinson (276); Sadie Rowland (228); Johnston Rowland (166); Eric Clarke (104); Bertha Lang (191). At least 150 verses must be learned or no award is given.

Every child in the Primary Department, which has an enrollment of 50, exclusive of the cradle roll, is given a book suited to the varying ages.

Rev. Mr. Wilks closed the service with prayer.

NEW COLORS.

CHRISTMAS MAIL ALL CLEANED UP THIS MORNING

Late Parcels and Letters Went Out to Recipients Today.

GREAT RUSH OVER

Mountains of Mail Which Filled Office Have All Disappeared.

The greatest Christmas rush in the history of the local Post Office came to a close yesterday. For the past five or six days the staff had been faced with what seemed an impossible task, each train bringing an additional mountain of mail for the people in this vicinity.

So great was the efficiency of those employed that by noon on Christmas Day the office was entirely emptied of all mail received until that time.

The week-end, however, presented another problem as the mail continued to arrive in as vast quantities as ever.

This mail was all cleared out yesterday and once again conditions in the office are normal.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

TWEED UNITED CHURCH.

TWEED, Dec. 28.—Tweed United Sunday School rooms presented an attractive appearance on Thursday evening. Mr. W. S. Gordon, Superintendent, was chairman of the happy occasion and expressed himself as being proud of being Superintendent of such a fine school and as an associate worker with such a fine company of teachers.

The programme from beginning to end was most enjoyable, consisting of carols, songs, recitations, piano solos, duets and dialogues. The dialogues were especially fine and full of Christmas spirit and were well carried out.

A pleasing number was the presentation of a silver sandwich tray by the school to Mrs. John Sager, who has been pianist for the school for many years, and who gives her time so unselfishly in the interests of the school. The closing number was the arrival of Santa Claus, who was hailed with delight.

S. S. NO. 12, OTONABEE.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 21st, the school-house of S. S. No. 12, Otonabee, was crowded to capacity and many were turned away when the pupils of School Sections Nos. 8 and 12 gave a joint concert under the direction of their teachers, the Misses Ivy and Mae Petrie.

They were assisted by the young people of S. S. No. 12, who presented a very humorous play, entitled, "Aunt Hester's Dilemma." Aunt Hester, an old maid of 42, has been left a fortune of $100,000 provided she marries the first man who proposes to her. The way in which she avoids the numerous proposals provoke many comical situations. At last, deciding that odds are against her, she decides to marry a young man of her own choice, who is in love with her niece, but he won't propose to her. But in the end a happy climax is reached in a triple wedding.

The cast of the play follows:

Aunt Hester—Miss Anna Fitzgerald, who kindly took the place of a member who was ill.

Dorothy, her niece—Mae Petrie.

Sally, the maid—Ivy I. Petrie.

Sam Green, Sally's lover—Harold Lancaster.

Judge Smith, the family lawyer—Earl Petrie.

Billy Smith, his son—Chris. Luttmer.

The neighbors—Adam White, Kenneth Petrie; Joe Kinny, Bruce Sargent; Ben. Platt, John Mackenzie.

Mr. Charles Webster made a splendid chairman for the occasion. Mr. Harvey, of the Alladin Lamp Company, very kindly provided lamps for the evening. At the close of the programme Mr. Edwin Sargent distributed the gifts from a well-laden Christmas tree. The proceeds, a silver collection, amounted to $16.30.

The complete programme follows:

The congregation was anxious to express in some manner to Mr. H. F. McNichol, who has acted for a number of years as secretary-treasurer of the church ,their appreciation of his faithful services so they took advantage of the opportunity offered by the gathering at the entertainment to present him with a club bag.

Mr. William Hitchins read the following address, Mr William Mathison presenting the bag.

H. F. McNichol, Esq., Havelock:

The officers, members and adherents of Knox Presbyterian church, Havelock, ask your acceptance of this club bag as a mark of their sincere appreciation of your many years of devoted, zealous and efficient service as secretary-treasurer of this church and hope you will be long spared to enjoy the use and convenience of this token of the high esteem in which they hold you.

That Mr McNichol was so completely taken by surprise added to the enjoyment which his friends felt in having part in an event of so pleasant a character.

THE SPAN OF LIFE

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Dr. Irving Fisher, of Yale University, says that the average span of life shortly will reach one hundred.

Another scientist says it will be about seventy-five.

There is no doubt that the average span of life is increasing. It used to be much smaller than it is.

Most of our illustrious forefathers were old men at fifty. Now a man at that age is just in the prime of life.

One of the modern problems s what to do with the flapper grandmother. She is being severely censored by her grand-daughter for being too lively.

Nowadays a woman often "steps out" after she has passed the age of sixty.

One of the causes of the increase of the average span is the prevention of disease due to researches by the use of the microscope, and by the efforts of medical men.

The ravages of yellow fever have been assuaged. Cholera and malaria have been mitigated, and the former plagues that used to rage in cities have been done away with.

It has been due largely to the increase in hygienic conditions in modern cities.

Somebody called medievalism "civilization upon a dung heap." One of the things that strikes a traveler is the superior cleanliness of American cities and the attention they give to matters of sanitation.

Time was when the water supply of almost every city was polluted. Now the water supply of Rome and Naples is excellent.

If people can be taught to live in hygienic surroundings, have plenty of exercise and sunshine, eat proper food and keep their bowels open, there is no doubt they will live longer.

So far bright's disease, hardening of the arteries and pernicious anemia, not to mention other diseases, have baffled the efforts of science. A new prevention of diptheria, and one for measles, have been announced as probabilities.

It might be mentioned here that much of the increase in the average span of human life has been due to the efforts of insurance companies.

P. C. I. AT HOME

The Assembly Hall of the Peterborough Collegiate was the scene of the prettiest and most jolly dance of perhaps the whole holiday season last night, when the P.C.I. held their seventeenth annual At Home. The students at P.C.I. take great pride in the success of their dance and infinite pains are taken in the decorating and general management to ensure success. It has become one of the most exclusive of the big dances in the city.

The large Assembly Hall was decorated in the garnet and grey of the school colors. Streamers formed a colorful canopy that swayed and eddied above the dancers. Small evergreen trees with tiny glistening lights half concealed the orchestra on the platform, and softly colored lights cast a glow over the scene. Three moons smiled down on the dancers from different parts of the hall.

Much of the credit for the tasteful decorating and success of the dance is due the efforts and planning of the committee consisting of Miss M. Montgomery and Mr. C. S. Browne of the staff, and Misses G. Comstock and D. Couper and Messrs. S. Widdess and H. Bookhout.

The patronesses were: Mrs. A. S. Couper, Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mrs. M. Comstock, Mrs. J. W. Fraser, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Mrs. H. R. H Kenner, Mrs. A. L. Killaly, Mrs. (Dr.) Neal, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Mrs. R. Denne.

Some of those present were: Misses D. Cooper, I. Cooper, E. Killaly, D. Donley, G. Comstock, M. Comstock, Margaret and Mary Denne, M. Hamilton, M. Davidson, V Davidson, J. Bryce, A. Amys, J. Fraser, E. Cottrell, Forrester, Nan and L. Parsons, E. Cooper, S. Thompson, A. Logan, A. McKone, I. Connolly, I. Nelson, M. Mason, K. Whitehouse, B. Hill, C. Morris, H. Jackson, D. Moir, A. Healed His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of recovery was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely healed my rupture. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may have a complete recovery without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen Carpenter, 599 N Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N.J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Father Time Will End Lakes Diversion Quarrel

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 28 Father Time and Mother Nature eventually will settle the Lake diversion controversy, and with no regard to the arguments of either side, Frank Taylor, Fort Wayne, Ind., geologist, told the Geological Society of America today. If the present land tilting in the Great Lakes Basin continues, the two will step into the picture about 5100 A.D., he said, and will cause the four upper lakes to discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls to go dry as a result of the uplifting of the land at Buffalo.

CITY NOSES ARE KEENER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—City folk have better noses than country persons—not more beautiful but keener. Dr. E. E. Free, of the Forum, has reached that conclusion by having 400 persons smell different things, from spoiled eggs to attar of roses.

MILLBROOK COUNCIL GIVEN ACCLAMATION

No Contest For Reeve or Deputy in Cavan—Seven For Council.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 28. — The official nomination meetings for the village of Millbrook and the township of Cavan were held in the Town Hall on Monday, December 27, and were well attended by the ratepayers.

There will be no change, locally, in the personnel of either the Council or the School Board, Reeve W. T. Wood and Councillors J. R. Eakins, G. W. Sayles, P. Stinson and T. J. Lang being returned by acclamation. The members of the School Board are: A. A. Smith, secretary-treasurer, H. R. Armstrong, J. A. Vance, G. E. Burnham, L. C. Russell and L. W. Smith.

Apparently the ratepayers are well satisfied with the Reeve and Council, since it is ten years since there has been a municipal election, Reeve W. T. Wood has been in the Council ten years, and been Reeve for the past seven years. G. W. Sayles has completed his tenth year as member of the Council, and the others have had at least eight years as "city fathers." Reeve W. T. Wood is in the running for Warden of the United Counties for 1927, Reeve M. J. Elliott, of Bowmanville, being also in the field for the same office.

Reeve Stuart Fallis and Deputy-Reeve George Hootan were returned by acclamation; for Councillors the former members, R. J. McKnight, V. R. Hunter and Walter Finney were nominated, and in addition to these H. A. Elson received nomination for both Reeve and Councillor; T. W. Belch, J. H. McGill, and D. Robinson being the other names on the list. Mr. Elson withdrew from the Reeveship but may stand for Councillor; D. Robinson has qualified and will probably stand for election.

A feature of particular interest at this meeting was the presentation of the "Baptie Scholarship" prizes won by Audrey Larmer, who stood first, and by Gladys Williamson, both pupils of Miss Ethel McKnight, teacher at S. S. No. 8 (Whitfield's), north of the village.

Township Clerk J. N. McGill presented the cheques, which are for $35 and $22.50 respectively, and hearty applause greeted the neat speeches of thanks made by each of the recipients. A framed diploma in connection with the Scholarship will be presented to each winner, though this matter has to receive definite attention in the immediate future before these will be ready.

The "Baptie Scholarship" has an initial fund of $1,000, this amount having been bequeathed by the late Dr. Baptie, of Ottawa, and invested in a bond bearing interest at 5½ per cent., the interest going to the two pupils having highest standing in the entrance examinaion in Cavan township. This is the first year the Scholarship has been presented.

Trustee Wesley Williamson addressed the gathering, and in the course of his speech pointed out that this is the third prize won by pupils from S.S. No. 8 within the past year, or a little over.

The silver cup, donated at the annual school fair for South Cavan, was won by Miss McKnight's pupils three years in succession, becoming the permanent property of the school; the first prize for the best map of the Dominion given by the Cavan Women's Institute in connection with the school fair, was won by Gladys Williamson, $3.00 being the amount received; Gladys also stood second with her essay in the competition initiated by the Chamber of Commerce, Peterboro, on "Why Peterboro is the best industrial centre in the Province."

Evidently the ratepayers for this section of Cavan have a teacher in charge of their school, as Mr. Williamson pointed out, whose pupils show, in a very definite manner, the results of her efficient training, reflecting credit not only upon their instructor and their school, but upon the entire township as well.

A silver shield, presented as a trophy by the School Fairs' Association for efficiency in a stock judging contest, is also the property of Whitfield's School, having been won by some of the boys at one of the annual fairs before the silver cup was the prize offered to induce keener competition and interest among the rural schools in the South Cavan section.

The Boston Yacht Club will celebrate its 60th anniversary November 22.

Corns

Removed this easy way

No one need suffer from corns. They are easy to remove if you go about it in the right way. To get rid of corns boldly take a Radox foot bath. After one bath the corn will probably come right out. When you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts the dead skin of the corn combines with the Radox Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in the water, and so softens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily. Radox does not affect the living skin. It is only the dead skin—the corn—which it dissolves. Your druggist stocks Radox Bath Salts. Half pound pink package 60 cents.

CHILBLAINS nearly drive you crazy with their itching, stinging, burning ache? Radox is just as effective for Chilblains as it is for Corns. Put your feet every night in a Radox foot bath, and soon the red, swollen patches will be gone, the itching will stop and you will enjoy foot comfort again.

The employees of the B. F. Ackerman Company celebrated the Christmas season this year by presenting Mr. B. F. Ackerman, who has just recovered from a serious illness, with a gold-headed cane, and Mrs. Ackerman with an umbrella, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman:

In presenting you today with a Christmas gift, we are doing so, not only in the spirit of the season, but also as an expression of our gratitude that you have been spared, after your recent serious illness, to once more take up your responsibilities as head of the establishment you have ruled over so long. THIRTEEN DEAD 4,000 HOMELESS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—With thirteen known dead in three Southern States and approximately four thousand homeless as a result of flooded streams, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Kentucky prepared today for more rain. The property damage in the flooded areas has been estimated at more than a million dollars.

Six were reported dead in Arkansas, five in Mississipppi, and two in Tennessee as direct results of the flood. Three thousand were driven from homes in the City of Nashville when the Cumberland River overflowed its banks, and the crest of the wave had not been reached today.

The product of thousands of acres of corn was being transferred from the lowlands of Kentucky and Indiana as a result of the flood stage being reached in the Ohio River.

Rain was forecast for every Southern State today and apprehension was felt, despite the fact that the waters of many smaller streams had begun to recede.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 29 1926.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

The Sun and Neptune are in benefic aspect today, which should be favorable for most activities.

There is a sign of special success for those who attend to details and this class should be lucky in obtaining employment under this sway.

All the signs appear to presage an increased tendency toward one-man rule in business as well as government.

The stars appear to indicate that monopoly of power will be sought in large commercial institutions as never before.

Democracy in the United States will reveal many odd vagaries for there will be a desire to dictate and to dominate on the part of those whom the people delegate to transact public business.

Again there will be a period of sharpest contrasts, for wealth will pile up, while poverty increases, for there will be much unemployment in the next few months.

While women will walk in silk attire, they will also earn it, for the planetary government indicates that there will be added hordes of wage-earners.

In the new year there will be many marvelous movements maintained for the education of all the people. Colleges will provide for poorer students and childhood will be safeguarded as never before.

Perception is supposed to be extraordinarily keen while Neptune is in benefic aspect. Thought transmission may be tried with success by many while this rule prevails, the seers declare.

The new year is to be a time when extremes of sentiment and activity are apparent. There will be few persons who have not definite courses of action.

System and order will be more prevalent than in the past, for science is to enter into the most-trivial affairs of life.

This should be a day profitable to artists, since it is conducive to the understanding of their ambitions.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much success in the coming year. Elderly persons may marry and all ages will be susceptible.

Children born on this day probably will have a lot of common sense and ability to make life a prosperous experience.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT what makes it worth while for the non-advertiser to spend money in advertising is just the same reason that the successful business uses it for, and that is because it brings profitable returns.

THAT advertising not only makes a bigger, better business, but it makes bigger, better business men.

THAT the wisest and most progressive business men are the liberal advertisers.

THAT good advertising that permeates the advertising columns is absorbed and retained by the buying public.

THAT due to the increased attention women are paying to advertising, the use of the printed page is becoming more necessary in every line of business.

OLD MASTERS

O world! O Life! O Time!
On whose last steps I climb,
Trembling at that where I had stood before:
When will return the glory of your prime?
No more—oh, never more!

Out of the day and night
A joy has taken flight:
Fresh spring and summer, and winter hoar
Move my faint heart with grief, but with delight
No more—oh, never more—!

—P. B. Shelley: Threnos.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Here are red satin garters to match red satin pumps. Gold initials give the much-desired personal touch. Fur garters to match the fur coat are also shown and garters for evening wear made of satin to match the gown and rhinestone embroidery and lace to match the ornamentation of the georgette handkerchief.

Despite the shortness of skirts there seems to be place for the garter. The reason some women discarded the garter when skirts became more and more abbreviated was because there was danger that it might show! But after all, is there any reason why a garter shouldn't show? Once, of course, there was reason for such a prejudice against the showing garter. It was not that the garter showed but that the leg encased thereby should show. Strange that we should have retained this prejudice against the garter when we have so valiantly outgrown any prejudice against showing our knees.

You may take it on good authority that garters are again in fashion. Some of the clever French dressmakers have made garters to go with their gowns—made to match and sometimes of the same material as the frock. Some of these new garters are wide enough to cover the entire knee. Furriers have not overlooked their chance for profit in this regard and so we have fur-covered garters to be bought with the new fur coat.

One who has made quite a careful study of the garter tells us that it is preeminently a Directoire fashion. Women had, of course, worn some sort of garter as a matter of necessity ever since they took to wearing stockings, but it was in the days of the Directoire fashions in France over a century ago that garters became most important. To be sure frocks were not short as they are today, but they were frequently transparent enough to show the garter beneath, or they were slashed up the side so that a tantalizing glimpse of the garter was given when a woman walked.

There must be something distinctive about the present-day garter. The commonplace garter made of colored ribbon pulled over the elastic band beneath is not enough. Usually the really smart garter lacks the little ruffled edging at the sides. And since there is no longer any difficulty in seeing the garter it must be not too obvious. With a black evening frock one wears a garter covered with black lace or silk with a tiny rosette of the lace or a buckle of small imitation pearls or rhinestones. With the white evening frock you may wear a white satin garter trimmed with rhinestone embroidery to match the embroidery on the white georgette handkerchief which is carried at the same time.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Those who fear the waning love of husband or wife have an opportunity to dispel their premonition if they wear its talismanic stone, the beryl. This gem, according to Arnoldus Saxe, possesses the power to reawaken love and bring the rainbow of tranquility to the domestic horizon.

Today's natal gem is the emerald which brings assurance to those who apepar in public, such as speakers and singers. It also bestows on its wearer the power to foretell future events.

Coral color is prescribed for wear today. Its use in sporting contests of all kinds will be attended with good luck.

The white dahlia will bring content to the household where it is used in decoration.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

OLGA'S TEST

"My, but she must be feeling a silly fool," remarked Mirian. "Separated after two months! Phew! And she went around looking so fatuously happy just before they were married."

We were discussing Olga, who had surprised us by marrying again two months before. Olga, with her pretty grey-bobbed hair. Olga, the successful woman lawyer, with a boy in college. Olga, who had been a self-contained, practical widow for twelve years. Olga, who owned her own home and entertained so delightfully. Olga, who had been offered an important government position but turned it down because her private practise was more profitable.

And it was true, she had seemed fatuously happy during those weeks before the wedding. She had blushed and bubbled like a girl. She had seemed incongruously romantic. She had broken out into gay, smart clothes. She had seemed to have recaptured love's young dream.

But now—oh, well, they were separated after two brief months. Olga was seeking a divorce. In her plea she set forth that her husband had married her exclusively for money and the first rift came after a few days when he urged a joint bank account and suggested her making out her will and her life insurance in his favor. When she hesitated and finally postponed acting upon the suggestions indefinitely, he had proved brutally candid and told her he only married her for her money. What else could she have supposed?

Gossip was rife about this suit of Olga's. And most people were taking Mirian's attitude. What a silly fool she must feel! We expected her to keep away from us all and hide her head in shame. "If I were she, I would go off and take a long trip" said Miriam. "Fancy having to face us after this."

But we attended a political banquet last night. And there was Olga, radiant as ever. She sat among some of her fellow professional women and chatted easily. And presently she was called upon to make a speech and she made it with grace, humor, and competent logic. Olga's mind was working as capably and serenely as ever.

She had a case in court today, conducted it cleverly, won it, and was complimented by several male lawyers afterwards. Really, Olga does not seem to be a subject for our pity after all. And if she is feeling a silly fool, no one would ever know.

So I just went up and squeezed her hand, and telegraphed a little sympathy that I would not have dared to put into words. She squeezed back and tossed me a jaunty little laugh.

A few minutes ago she rang me up. "Thanks, dear—mighty sweet of you," she said over the telephone, without any preliminaries. "Awkward and rather painful episode—but I ought to have known better. I ought to have known it can't be recaptured. But think how lucky I am to have my boy and my work. Think of the women to whom this might have meant everything and wrecked their lives. Think how fortunate I am to be living in an age when such a divorce is not disgraceful—and really quite easy to achieve. Don't be sorry for me. All the same, of course, that little hand-squeeze of yours was mighty precious. I shall insist upon being grateful that I could get that romance complex out of my system by so successful and speedy an operation. Oh, yes, it was a jerk—and no anesthetic. But the cure was prompt. It would have been worse to have discovered it gradually. And thank heaven I have my work. Oh, my dear, all women should have their work. It must have been terrible when love was a woman's whole life to have it fail one."

So now I can't help feeling that it is not Olga who is the fool.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

FLEAS

Do folks have troubles? Do dogs have fleas?
Though it ain't polite for to speak of these,
I never yet saw a single pup
But he didn't somehow pick 'em up.
You could use your soap, and your kerosene,
You could scrub and scrub and could get him clean,
You then turn him loose, and as like as not
He'd come home that night with a brand new lot.

Now, fleas ain't things for to talk about
When you're havin' friends, or you're dinin' out,
But there's always some that are present then—
I don't mean fleas, but a lot of men—
Who seem to think, when they have a care,
They're the only ones with a load to bear;
But I sort of feel, though I've got a mess,
That I ain't the only one, I guess.

And I've always thought that a flea or so
Wasn't bad for dogs, and, in fact, I know.
For it makes 'em scratch, and a care or two
Makes a fellah scratch, as he ought to do.
For a sleepy dog not a rat will catch,
But a man's some good when he has to scratch.
The Lord has reasons for things like these.
When folks have troubles, when dogs have fleas.

JOLLY JINGLES

By Graham Hunter

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

What is your favorite bird? Even if you are not an ornithologist and never stalk after birds at dawn in spring and autumn, you must prefer one of the feathered species above all others. Maybe it is the robin—though you may dislike him because of his rather disgusting way of eating worms on your front lawn. Maybe you like the neat little brown-spotted wood-thrush best, though if you live in the city and have never gone into the woods and fields a-birding you may not even know him. Maybe you prefer the parrot for his gaudy plumage or the wicked blue-jay with lovely feathers of blue gray, black and white. Or maybe you know of no bird you like better than the owl. If this is the case then you are like the English Princess Mary in your bird preference.

It is the fashion now to choose some bird, and you may use him as a mascot. He may be pictured on your book plate. A clever idea is to have silhouettes of your favorite bird displayed on a lampshade. A number of swallows in flight makes a lovely design. If your bird favorite is one of the more usual sort—usual, that is, in decorative design, such as the parrot, peacock, owl or bluebird—you may be able to get cretonne, chintz or printed linen showing his contours. These you may use as cut-outs in making cushions, or you may use the material as it is. Your work basket may have a likeness of your bird mascot painted on the cover and you may make use of the same design for the corners of your desk blotter.

If you don't like any bird in particular then maybe you can hit upon some interesting sea creature in the same way. One woman has a keen liking for sea horses—the graceful little fish whose head somehow resembles that of a horse. By good luck this woman found a pair of dull greenish brass candlesticks each of which had the form of one of these creatures, the curved tail for the base and the socket for the candle hidden within its head. Then there are frogs, lobsters, crabs, lizards and a dozen other creatures of the sea whose graceful forms lend themselves to decorative purposes.

NONE OF HIS BUSINESS.

NEW LONDON, Wis., Dec. .—28 An old gentleman entered the post office here recently and demanded his mail. The postmaster looked him over but failed to recognize him. "What is the name, please?" he asked. The indignant caller seemed almost to explode at what he evidently deemed the height of impertinence and responded in a haughty tone: "It's none of your business what my name is—it's on the blotter!"

(By F. D. C.)

Playing at times hockey that was miles below their usual form, the Petes were beaten by the smallest possible margin in their game against the Marlboros in Toronto last night, the former St. Mary's team scoring the only goal of the encounter eight minutes and fifty two seconds after the last period had started.

Rather it was a nightmare of tossed away scoring opportunities.

At times the defensive system of the two teams was as loose as asses, and attack after attack filtered through only to have the assault fail through skill on the part of the rival goal tenders, or lack of it on the part of the attackers.

On the play the score might just as well have been 12-11 as 1 to 0, for few senior games have seen so many close-in opportunities for goals go for nothing.

Without taking away any of the laurels earned by the two "Joes" in the nets—Stark for the Marlboros, and Dwyer for the Petes—both of whom gave a magnificent exhibition of high class goal tending—it may be said that each team repeatedly found itself in a position where the opposing goalie should have been at the mercy of the man with the rubber, and yet the attack failed.

Heintzman for the winners, and Frankie Collins for the Petes, were the chief goats in this respect, the luck of the game decreeing that they should find themselves inside with the puck more frequently than their team mates, and both tossing away at least half a dozen glittering openings, but nearly everybody kicked away a chance or two during the battle.

Ordinarily, the Petes should have beaten the Marlboros last night, as they will, without a doubt, later on in the season, but they picked this fixture to show one of the least ineffective games they have played on Toronto ice. They could do little right, their passing being erratic,and their shooting poor on the attack, while defensively the forward line has seldom looked so disorganized. The wings were repeatedly pulled into mid-ice after the puck carrier, letting McPherson and Heintzman run wild most of the time, and putting a heavy burden on the defence. It was just a bad game, that was all, and at that, with any luck round the nets, the Petes would have pulled it out of the fire.

Stellar honors for the Petes were carried off by Joe Dwyer, whose performance in the nets was an epic. The veteran stopped them from all ranges and at all angles, and the only time he had to lower his flag was after he had stopped a shot and then a rebound, only to have the rubber batted past him on the third attempt. Of the rest there was no particular star. Individually, they all gave their best but they simply couldn't get going in their usual style, except in rare flashes.

What has been said of Dwyer can be regeated in regard to Stark. The Marlboro goalie rose to great heights in blanking the Petes for 60 minutes and some of his saves bordered on the sensational Carl Voss, Queen's, football and Kingston junior hockey star, was on the Marlboro defence, and while not as conspicuous as in junior company, turned in a good card. Primeau was the pick of the forwards, making many dangerous moves, while Heintzman could do everything but score.

Marlboros are not a better hockey team than the Petes. They were not even that last night, with the senior champs below their form, and Eddie Wright's crew will wipe out the sting of last night's defeat before the season is over.

No Score in First.

The first period was featured by fast but scoreless hockey, in which both teams tossed away golden opportunities and pulled off plays that drew the crowd to its feet, only to subside when the shot went wide or the goalie saved. A Ranger-Collins combination was the first promising opening, but Stark blocked easily. Collins drew the first of his three penalties and Marlboros pressed. A pass from Primeau to Heintzman took the left winger inside, but Dwyer went to his knees and made a fine stop. Down at the other end Stark saved in great style when Bogardis fired a rebound at him. Heintzman came back on a solo rush and Dwyer blocked again. Then Stark saved twice on dangerous shots from Ranger and Collins. That is the way the battle went, with scoring opportunities galore, but the goalkeepers masters of the situation, and aided by the erratic work of the attackers. Toward the end of the period the Petes had a royal chance when Heintzman was chased for interference, and Primeau followed for trying to trip McLeod, leaving Marlboros two men short. With a 6 to 4 advantage the Petes buzzed round the Marlboro nets like a swarm of bees, but their frantic efforts to score got them nothing. A three-man combination play carried Collins right inside, but Stark threw himself in the way of the shot and stopped two more in the mix-up that followed. Then Collins, camped all alone in front of the Marlboro citadel, took a pass and calmly shot over the top of the net. Out of that flurry alone the Petes should have bagged a couple of counters but they got nothing.

From the initial face-off in the second period, Ranger and Collins combined to the Marlboro goalmouth, only to have Collins' shot blocked, and in the scrimmage afterward the rubber bounced off Ranger's foot and rolled by the post—an inch outside. Collins drew another penalty for tripping and Marlboro staged a number of dangerous attacks that gave Dwyer plenty of chances to shine. When the sides were even again rushes by Rose and Williams and then by Williams and McLeod, kept Stark on the jump to avert goals. McPherson drew a penalty and the Petes again pressed without result The shoe was on the other foot when Bogardis was chased, and while he was off Heintzman lost a great chance with Dwyer apparently at his mercy. When Bogardis got back Ranger got a rest for stretching out in the Peterboro net during a scrimmage, and his penalty was just over when Bogardis got another. The Petes were thus shorthanded for most of the last part of the period, and they were hard pressed by the Marlboros, who had the edge in condition. However, the period ended without a score.

Both teams seemed to be cautious at the beginning of the last session and for the first few minutes the hockey was the slowest of the night. It livened up all at once, however, when Johnny McPherson slammed in the "million dollar" goal. A rush by Joe Primeau, which did not look particularly dangerous, wound up in a shot which Dwyer blocked easily, but McPherson closed in fast from the right boards and batted the rubber into the net on his second attempt. Dwyer stopping the first rebound.

The Petes put on the pressure and tried desperately to sew up the game but their efforts got them nowhere, not even when Stark drew a penalty for throwing his stick at Kane, and the ultimate winners were without their goalie for a minute. Carl Voss went between the posts and easily handled the one shot the Petes got on the net while Stark was off. When the goalie came back Marlboros successfully played a defensive game for the short time that was left, and the Petes could not score, although they came close more than once, and Stark was frequently tested.

YOUNG FARM HAND ACCUSED OF THREAT

LINDSAY, December 28. — James Bell ,a young Scotch farm hand, is in the Lindsay jail, awaiting trial on the charge of threatening to kill a young girl named Western, the daughter of a well known Mariposa township farmer.

Bell was employed as a farm hand on the Western farm. He commenced paying his attentions to Miss Western but they were not received favorably. On Sunday afternoon he visited the Sunday school which the young girl attended, and informed her that he wished to see her outside.The girl resented his attentions, and he departed in an angry mood. He made the threat that he would kill the girl, and procuring a rifle proceeded to the Western home.

Provincial Constable Storey received a phone message Sunday evening that the young man had made certain threats and was armed with a rifle. He lost no time in hurrying to the farm where quite a number had gathered. The young man was promptly placed under arrest, and taken to the Lindsay jail. Monday afternoon he faced Police Magistrate Bradford and was remanded for a week.

NEVER 'SPORT' UMPIRE STATES

No Uplift Movement Back of Leonard's Allegations in Scandal.

PERSONAL REVENGE

By BILLY EVANS.

Regardless of the innocence or guilt of the four players named in baseball's latest scandal, "Dutch" Leonard emerges from the expose with more murk clinging to his uniform than any of the others.

In the world of sport, Leonard has already been branded as the "squealer." Even in our boyhood days the tattle-tale was never a popular person.

There was no uplift motive back of Leonard's allegations incriminating Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Joe Wood. It was purely a matter of personal revenge.

The attitude of Leonard in the present expose is rather typical of his temperament as a player. To use the slang of baseball, Leonard never was regarded as a real game guy.

Angered at Breaks.

Leonard was one of those pitchers who threw nothing but strikes. He had fooled even the umpire any time a ball was called against him.

When one of his teammates made an error, instead of accepting the miscue as a break of the game, he would stage a storm scene that would put to shame any outburst of a Ziegfeld beauty.

Leonard was one of those pitchers who always liked to pick his spots. He would pitch often to the teams against which he was effective, but either had a sick stomach or a sore arm when named to work against a club that liked his stuff.

Leonard was a southpaw with good speed and a fast-breaking curve, a truly great pitcher, had he possessed the proper heart and temperament.

He doted on pitching against clubs that had five or six left-handed batters in the line-up. Left-handed batters are considered easy picking for southpaws.

Kicked on Balls.

Curve ball pitchers like to keep an old ball in play. The break of the curve is largely influenced by the purchase the pitcher gets on the ball. An old ball is much easier to grip than a slippery new one.

Any time an umpire tossed a brand new ball to Leonard in a pinch he immediately would start singing the blues about how the officials in charge of the game never gave him any but new balls. As a matter of fact, when the umpire reaches into his ball pocket for a ball, he hasn't any idea what kind is coming out, new or old.

Leonard's accusations, regardless of the truth or falsity of them, have done no good. They have simply satisfied what he has regarded as a personal score, dragging into a most unpleasant situation the mothers, wives and children of the players involved.

What price enmity?

HONOR EXPLORER.

HONOLULU, Dec. 28.—The spot on the Island of Gauai where Capt. James Cook, British navigator and discoverer of Hawaii, landed 150 years ago, will be marked with a monument or tablet, if a drive for funds started by the Pan-Pacific Club is a success. Captain Cook landed in 1778, the first white man to set foot on Hawaiian soil. He designated his landing by carving an arrow in the face of a large rock. This sign is still to be seen.

Cook was later killed by the natives.

COBB APPEALS TO GOVERNMENT OVER SCANDAL

Will Lay Case Before Department of Justice at Washington.

ALLEGE CONSPIRACY

Officials Can't See How Any Action Can Be Taken.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—With Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker reported en route to Washington to undertake a new move to clear their names in the latest baseball scandal, the capital yesterday discussed the possibilities of Federal intervention in the case.

Capital authorities were at a loss on what action the baseball men might expect from the government. Interstate Commerce Commission experts doubted that the commission had any authority, although baseball has been held to be interstate commerce.

At the Post Office Department, where it had been suggested the ball players might seek aid on the grounds that incriminating documents involved in the charges had passed through the mails, it was said no appointment had been made for either Speaker or Cobb to meet postmaster-general or chief post office inspectors. High officials said they could see no action the department could take, although they withheld final judgment pending possible presentation of the case by attorneys for the players.

Plans Proposed.

Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, a friend of Cobb, yesterday received a letter from Sam M. Johnson, Mobile, Ala., lawyer, asking him to defend Cobb and Speaker on the floor of the Senate.

At the same time, it was reported one of the courses planned by attorneys for the baseball stars, accused of conspiring to "throw" a Detroit-Cleveland game in 1919, was to ask for a congressional investigation of the entire situation.

Reports that attorneys for Cobb and Speaker planned to seek Department of Justice action on grounds that the Serman Anti-trust Act was violated by one-man control of baseball by former Federal Judge K. M. Landis were discounted by attorneys here. It was pointed out that the Supreme Court has held in the famous "baseball case" decision that the game did not constitute trade or commerce, and hence did not come under the Sherman law.

Not Much Chance.

Senator George Wharton Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvanvia, who argued the baseball case before the Supreme Court, is at his home in Philadelphia. Benjamin Minor, local attorney, who assisted Pepper, said yesterday he saw no possible grounds for Governmental interference in the baseball battle.

Post Office Department officials also continued to express doubt that they could take any action on a possible plea that postal laws were violated when some of the evidence in the case was taken.

Several Senators are known to be much interested in the charges that Cobb and Speaker conspired with "Dutch" Leonard and Joe Wood to "throw" a Cleveland-Detroit game in 1919, and it was felt that the players would not lack influential aid in their attempt to bring the matter before some Government agency.

JOHNSTON HELD 4 INFIELD JOBS

Also Played Outfield and Now Turns to Managerial Post.

FAMOUS VETERAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—One by one the veteran stars are closing their major league careers. The latest to drop out of the big circle is James Earle Johnston, alias "Jimmy," one of the two brothers who participated in the 1920 world series between the Brooklyn Superbas and Cleveland Indians. 'Doc' Johnston played first base for the latter team.

Jimmy, drawing his unconditional release from the Giants, recently signed to manage the Chattanooga club of the Southern Association.

Johnston was one of the most versatile big leaguers of the last decade. He started as an infielder with Kewanee in the Central Association in 1908. Two year later he took up second basing with Ottumwa. He played so brilliantly that he was drafted by the Chicago Cubs.

Released to Birmingham for seasoning, Johnston returned to the outfield and when he became one of the game's cleverest base stealers by pilfering 124 bases with San Francisco in 1913 he was purchased by Chicago again.

In the big leagues Johnston found the catching arms more accurate, and in 1914 he stole only three bases in 50 games. Johnston was considered a flop, and the Cubs sold him to Oakland after 1914.

During the Federal league war Johnston signed with the "outlaws," and following the peace pact he was assigned to the Brooklyn Superbas.

Johnston served with the Superbas for 10 straigth seasons. He roamed around the outfield and played the four infield positions. He soon became recognized as one of the most valuable players in the game, always hustling to win and giving everything he had.

Trying to holster his weak outfield last summer, McGraw purchased Johnston from the Boston Braves, who drew Jimmy in a trade last winter. With age creeping upon the Giants, McGraw, deciding to dispose of his ancient timber, dropped Johnston.

DENY RUMOR.

Speaker and Cobb Say They Will Not Seek Aid From Government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Intimation that they will not seek aid from the government in the baseball scandal was made last night by Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, former American League baseball stars, during a fleeting visit of this city after which they departed for Cleveland.

The two former big league managers met in a hotel here late yesterday with W. H. Boyd, a Cleveland attorney, who is said to be representing Speaker.

Only guarded statements as to what took place were given out, but it was indicated that they would not bring the charges of the alleged participation in betting and fixing a baseball game before the governmental department.

RANGERS LOSE TO TANNADYCE BY A WASHOUT

Heavy Scoring Features Saturday Playing in English League.

BURNLEY LEADS

Several Players Injured Owing to Ice on Playing Fields.

Of the few surprises in Old Country soccer one at least was outstanding and that was the defeat of Rangers at Tannadyce Park by a 2-0 score. Of late Dundee United have been sucking up and Jimmy Brownlie and Co. can now afford to smile. A month ago United came out of the rut to beat Hearts by 5-3. A week later points were shared at Partick, followed by the defeat of St. Mirren at "Juteopolis." But Saturday's victory over Rangers was the greater triumph and to the "Blues" the defeat must have been as bitter as gall. The win served to raise Dundee United a step further from the cellar, but it did not affect the respective positions of the leaders, as Motherwell are still on top, with Celtic, Rangers, Aberdeen and Dundee following in the order given.

Some Heavy Scoring.

Heavy scoring and several bad casualties as a result of the players falling on the ice-bound playing grounds featured the games in the English League. Five goals were common and in the third division three clubs each chalked up seven tallies, so that the roast beef and the "plum duff" must have given strength to the foot and cunning to the eye. The only material changes in the standings in the first division was the exchange of places between Sunderland and Newcastle as a result of the Roker Park team falling at Huddersfield and Bolton's rise above the latter. Burnley retained the lead by "whitewashing" Liverpool, 5-0. Newcastle United climbed to second place, followed by Sunderland, Bolton Wanderers and Huddersfield.

Chapter of Accidents.

It was not a case of Christmas in the workhouse from a soccer standpoint, almost three-quarters of a million spectators witnessing the games in the English League. Some players are not likely to forget this festive season in a hurry, for they have sustained serious injuries, largely due to the frost-bound grounds. Mehaffy, New Brighton's goalkeeper, is in hospital with concussion. Two other severe casualties are Hills, of Swansea, in hospital with a damaged leg, and Wall, of Swindon, with a broke leg.

Camsell, of Middlesbroughs, in his first season in senior football, now leads the list of scoring forwards with 31 goals, five of which he scored on Saturday. Others who registered five the same afternoon were Chandler, of Leicester, and Phillipson, of Wolverhampton, while Dean, of Everton, obtained four.

REEVE J. H. HESS IS RE-ELECTED

THE 1926 FINANCES.

HASTINGS, Dec. 28.—Municipal nominations here yesterday attracted scant public interest, the Council and Board of Education being returned by acclamation, as follows:

Reeve, Dr. J. H. Hess; Councillors Neil MacDonald, R. C. Doxsee, W. M. Fowlds, Wm. Lynch.

The nominations brought out other names, but by nightfall it was understood that they were being withdrawn. Those proposed for the Reeveship with Dr. Hess were R. C. Doxsee and W. Fowls, and for the Council, C. R. Fowlds and Alex. Wilson.

To The Examiner last night, Reeve Hess stated that he purposed making a fresh effort to obtain for street pavement in Hastings the $25,000 grant which he had appealed for in the County Council last June. Reeve Hess contends that the main streets in Hastings which link together the county road systems of Peterboro and Northumberland Counties, should be paved in accordance with the provincial statute, which provides for that condition which exists here. The cost would be borne by the Province, the United Counties and the local municipality. Reeve Hess said he would renew his petition at the January sessions of the Counties Council.

Hastings Finances.

The financial statement of Hastings for 1926, as made public yesterday, shows an overdraft of $2,423.83, with $840.89 uncollected taxes, leaving a deficit of $1,582.94 as compared with $1,888.32 carried over last year on the debit side of the ledger. These figures indicate an improvement by the 1926 administration, which was doubtless a factor in composing the ratepayers' satisfaction with the management of the municipality's affairs by this year's Council.

The financial summary for 1926 was presented by J. M. Baker, treasurer, as follows:

PHIL M'GRAW WINS ON BALK

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(Associated Press).—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, world's bantamweight king, today announced his refusal to go through with a championship match with Bushey Graham of Utica, N. Y., at the Garden, Jan. 7, after failing to get a sanction for a postponement.

Rosenberg desired to put the fight off a month, but the boxing solons, who reinstated the champion only on condition that he meet Graham, ruled against it. They have summoned the titleholder to next Tuesday's meeting.

Rosenberg already is under suspension in Illinois and New Jersey and in ill favor with the National Boxing Association. If suspended here again he automatically will be outlawed in other States.

With the Graham-Rosenberg tilt off indefinitely, Jess McMahon, garden matchmaker, obtained the commission's permission to use the date for a bout between Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Phil McGraw of Detroit.

Morgan must make his class limit, 130 pounds, for the bout, the commission ruled. The Seattle boxer also is obligated to fight Babe Herman in defense of the junior lightweight title at the Garden within 40 days after January 7.

The commission instructed McMahon to go ahead with a welterweight elimination tournament, stipulating that Eddie Roberts of Tacoma, Wash., be matched with Willie Harmon of New York. It had been McMahon's previous plan to pit Roberts against Joe Dundee of Baltimore in a return match. Roberts knocked out Dundee in one round at San Francisco recently.

The Paul Berlenbach-Mike McTigue match has been fixed for Jan. 28.

DEMPSEY CASE IN NEW COURT

Kearns' Suit Switched From Common Pleas to Federal Docket.

ATTACH RECEIPTS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—Common pleas court Friday granted the petition of counsel for J. Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, for the removal of Kearns' suit against Dempsey to the United States District Court.

Counsel for Dempsey, who at first objected to the removal to the Federal court, withdrew his opposition at the last moment. The reason for the transfer was that Kearns, being a resident of New York, and Dempsey, claiming California as his home, the county court did not have the proper jurisdiction, even though Dempsey was staying at a hotel here when served with a summons in the suit.

Kearns charges Dempsey violated a contract which Kearns says entitled to a certain percentage of the receipts and profits of all boxing contests, theatrical engagements or other exhibitions in which Dempsey would participate. His claim amounts to $519,999.98.

Attorney for Kearns obtained an attachment against the receipts of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, held in the Sesqui-Centennial stadium in September, when Dempsey lost the championship title to Tunney.

A motion to dissolve the attachment will be heard by the Federal court.

THIS CANADA OF OURS

THE FIRST PLOW IN CANADA.

Q.—When and by whom was the first plow used in Canada?

A.—On April 28, 1628, the Sieur (gentleman) Couillard used the first plow in Canada. It was drawn by newly imported oxen, and the Indians thronged to look at the "Frenchman's Moose" working for him. Couillard has married Guillenette, a daughter of Louis Herbert, the first man who came to Canada as a farmer—all the other first immigrants were soldiers, fur traders or missionaries. Herbert and Couillard seemed to have worked together, cultivating their land with spade and hoe, till this first plow was used. On the Indian crops were sown, corn, beans and squash, for experts said European grains, etc., would not grow in Canada; but in 1644, April 27, one of the Herbert-Couillard family tried the experiment of sowing the first wheat and it grew.

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

CONTESTS FOR COUNCIL SEATS AND CAMPBELLFORD REEVESHIP

Mayor Kingston To Go Back Without Any Contest.

MANY NOMINATED.

Reeve Davidson Decides To Run as Deputy-Reeve This Year.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28. — Nominations for municipal honors passed off very quietly last night; although there were many nominations many declined the honors bestowed upon them. The office of Reeve was much in demand, with two announcing their intention to run and the third a very probable starter.

Mayor G. A. Kingston will not be opposed, nor is S. J. Abernethy likely to have opposition for the Water and Light Commission.

The Mayor spoke briefly of the efforts of the Council and Water and Light Commission during the past year. The town's contract with the Hydro expired July 1st and they had been carrying on with a tentative agreement, quite satisfactory to the interests of the town, paying $1000 a month for 900 kilowatts, whereas the old agreement was $7500 for the year.

The Town Council had received the sum of $12,000 from the Water and Light Commission, twice the amount of last year, and the Commission still had a surplus of about $25,000. The Commission's earnings have been increasing year after year, turning a deficit of $317 in 1921 to a credit balance of approximately $15,000 in 1926.

The Mayor referred to the many criticisms of two policemen for Campbellford, and quoted figures to show that the present force of two in 1926 only cost the town $266 more than one policeman, a truant officer and a sanitary inspector did in 1924. He would like to see the agreement with the Hydro settled satisfactorily, and also the agreement with the new industry proposing to locate here.

S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission, was the next speaker. He discussed at length the doings of the Commission, their dealings with the Hydro, future prospects of increased output and earnings, giving in all a splendid account of the great asset this town possesses in its municipal power plant. Power users were given a 20 per cent. discount at the first of the year where it formerly was 10 per cent. In spite of this added discount collections had increased over last year.

George O'Sullivan, chairman of the School Board, gave a detailed statement of the operations of the board during the year. They had reduced the estimates last year and he could promise further reductions this coming year.

Councillor Wiggins as chairman of the Finance Committee reviewed the financial statement explaining the items in detail. He would be in the field again for councillor.

Councillor Abernethy, chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee outlined the activities of the committee, and the many improvements they had made in the streets; he would again be a candidate for the council.

Reeve Davidson had promised to step out of the reeveship for his colleague Palliser. He had intended to retire but had been prevailed upon to run for Deputy-Reeve. He referred to the fight that he and Deputy-reeve Palliser had had in the county council over the grant for the lighting of the Campbellford bridge, and of his trip to Toronto as a delegate from the county council to interview the Minister of Highways with respect to having the proposed new highway from Peterboro to Belleville come through Campbellford.

Deputy reeve Palliser spoke chiefly of the activities of the County Council. Of his hard fight against Reeve Maher of Cobourg when the Cobourg reeve objected to the grant for lighting the Campbellford bridge.

With the wish of the people, it was Mr. Palliser's ambition to fill every seat in the council, commencing at the bottom and working up, and he solicited the support of the electors in his next step up to the reeveship.

Councillors Cole, McDonald and O'Sullivan spoke briefly of the work accomplished by this year's council. They were all in the field again and asked the consideration of the ratepayers.

Councillor Stone spoke of need of a sewer and proper drainage for Front street. He advocated the appointment of a field man to induce new companies to locate here. He was undecided about allowing his name to go before the electors.

Major Bygott who was nominated for mayor and reeve declined the higher office but announced his intention of contesting the reeve's chair. He assured the electors he had previous experience to fit him for the office he is seeking. He would procure the aid of the Canadian National Railways Commissioner of industries to secure new industries for the town and could assure ne companies of prompt transportation over the C. N.R. lines. There as nothing in the C.N.R. regulations to prevent him from serving on the Council board of the town.

J. A. Anderson spoke of his efforts in the County Council, on behalf of Campbellford in the past. He declined the majoralty candidature but would consider offering his services for reeve.

R. J. Allen reserved his decision to contest the Deputy reeveship.

H. N. Carr and J. O. Hagerman were not seeking municipal honors at the present time and Thomas Rowe was undecided.

A. T. Linton was the only one to ask the support of the electors for the school board.

DIVES MANY TIMES TO RESCUE FAMILY

COBALT, Dec. 28.—Single-handed, Hubert Provencher, clay belt farmer, rescued his wife and three children from drowning in Lake Timiskaming Christmas Day, according to word received here. Repeated efforts to save the life of his fourth child, a 5-months-old-baby failed.

With his wife and family, Provencher was crossing the narrows of the lake in a sleigh, when he heard the ice crack. He turned back. Two hundred yards from shore the ice suddenly gave way, and father, mother and children disappeared in the chill waters.

Provencher crawled out, then dived and rescued his wife. Again he dived and got two of the children. A third time he went under the ice and found his third child, but repeated dives failed to discover the baby. Two of the children were unconscious when rescued by their gallant father.

Though numb with cold, he rushed them to the cook house of the Nipissing Lorraine Mine, where artificial respiration soon revived the youngsters.

The next day the body of the baby was recovered.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

JOHN GILBERT IN "BARDELY'S THE MAGNIFICENT"

One of the ultra romantic pictures which takes its audiences back to the days of swashbuckling lovers, of powder and patches and paint, of curled perukes and satin breches, of sword fighting and swift lovemaking, is the feature at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, in King Vidor's production of famous Sabatini novel, "Bardely's, the Magnificent," with John Gilbert in the stellar role. The supporting cast, also, is splendid.

John Gilbert, who is rapidly attaining fame as a hero of the romantic type, is at his best in his delineation of the swaggering Marquis de Bardeleys, whose boastful prowess and success among the ladies of the French court, leads him into a wager with his enemy, Chatellerault, a part taken by Roy D'Arcy, who certainly has a wonderful flair for delineations of this type, rivalling in this picture his exceptional portrayal of the slinking reprobate aristocrat in "The Merry Widow." There is more than a little resemblance to Fairbanks in the way in which Gilbert stages an escape from the gallows and leads his pursuers a merry chase, finally landing bodily on the top of the king's coach. But he has a manner of making love which is all his own, and bids fair to rival in popular favor the more subtle wooing of the lamented Valentino. Roxalanne de Laveden, the heroine with the peculiar name, is also an out of the ordinary type. She has just enough of the vixen in her to make her wonderfully interesting, and there is a touch of real life in the way in which she responds to jealousy and shoves her lover into the clasp of his pursuers, giving him to the hangman's noose in a fit of jealous pique.

It is an intensely interesting story with a romantic background, in the colorful life of the French court, and a very romantic plot in the attempt by Bardelys to win the love of the haughty Roxalanne, on a wager with his rival, Chatellerault. To gain his end, Bardelys poses as a traitor to the king as Leon de Lespron, and put himself into the power of Chatellerault, acting as judge at the tribunal of Toulouse. The ending is satisfactory and in line with the general aspect of the picture, which is that of a romantic, historical pageant, colorful, intense and vivid, splendily acted and beautifully screened. It makes a satisfying evening's entertainment, along with a screaming comedy, "Never Weaken," in which Harold Lloyd stars in his own inimitable fashion, and the usual run of good short reels, which include the Trent Waterway Development Association picture, "Kelly's Cruise, described in another column.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

MILTON SILLS SEEN IN COLORFUL ROLE

First National Star Has Unique Characterization in New Film, "Paradise."

"Paradise," a First National picture which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre with Milton Sills in the stellar role and Betty Bronson in the featured feminine lead, is a fast-moving, multi-colored drama of London and the South Seas.

Brilliant Cast.

Rarely have we seen such an illustrious supporting cast as this photoplay boasts. The supporting players are all worthy of carrying a picture of their own. Noah Beery, who always fascinates with his villainous characterizations, has a magnificent part which he carries off in his usual manner—well.

Kate Price and Charlie Murray, in our opinion the greatest comedy team in pictures, are funnier than ever in "Paradise."

Lloyd Whitlock, one of the best looking "heavies" in filmdom, has a splendid role and acquits himself with credit. Others in the cast who deserve mention are Claude King and Ashley Cooper.

Briefly, "Paradise" is the story of the scapegoat son of an earl who, while browsing about London, making his living by his wits, meets a former stage dancer who is up against hard luck and is about to commit suicide. They marry and sail to the South Seas, where the hero has been given an island by his father provided he can find it and find the buried deeds there. The caretaker, a low type white, tries not only to keep the island, but kill the hero and take the girl. To tell the action on the island would spoil some of the greatest suspense one will ever see in a picture.

"Paradise" is an excellent picture and reflects credit on Ray Rockett, its producer, and Irvin Willat, the director.

"KELLY'S CRUISE."

For the first three days of this week, both the Capitol and Regent Theatres are showing a very fine two-reel picture of the Trent Waterway, entitled "Kelly's Cruise," taken last summer under the personal direction of Mr. Frank Stinson, secretary of the Trent Waterway Development Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

This is a very interesting picture, and shows a type of careful screening and a choice of natural beauty spots which pictures the Trent Waterway in a way that makes it stand out in splendid fashion. Any outsider viewing a picture of this type would undoubtedly be moved to admiration over the loveliness of this particular stretch of water, and the inclusion of several colored pictures of evening skies and waters adds a final touch of beauty to a very attractive series of scenes.

Mr. Frank Stinson, with a party of camera men, including V. J. Bach, superintendent of the Government studio at Trenton, and a small cast, spent eleven days last summer, traversing the Trent Canal from end to end, from Midland to Trenton, on the Government cruiser "Oriental," the property of the Trent Canal Engineers' Office at Peterborough, with Skipper Kelly in charge. Two hundred and thirty-five miles were covered in the cruise, commencing at Port McNicoll and ending at Presque'Ile Lighthouse, with the inclusion of several pictures of Peterborough itself, a glimpse of George Street on a busy day, a reproduction of the largest lift lock in the world and the longest concrete span in Canada. Picturesque shores and waters are reproduced in the series, with vistas of lovely moonlit waters, a delineation of McDonald's Cut, blasted from solid rock, of the Champlain monument at Orillia, etched against an evening sky, morning in a tourist camp, the fifty-foot hydraulic lift at Kirkfield, the pontoon bridge at Gannon's Narrows, the Kawarthas, in sketches eloquent of their title of "Bright Waters and Happy Lands," and of the winding Otonabee and the lower waters of the Trent.

These pictures are well worth seeing, demonstrating, as they do, not only the beauty of natural scenery in which the Trent Waterway abounds, but the excellence of our own Canadian-made pictures. Glimpses of familiar figures, of Mr. Frank Stinson, of Dr. Sutton and his daughter Ruth, of Miss Edna Borbridge and Miss Agnes Sowden, are vouchsafed here and there. — Jeanette.

Goldsmith Maid, the great trotter whose memory has been perpetuated by the erection of a granite memorial at Trenton, N.J., reduced the world's record for trotters from 2:17 1-4 to 2:14 and was world's champion from 1871 to 1879.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE LXI—How Weapons Aided Progress. by MAX HAHN

GENERALLY WE DON'T THINK OF WAR AS AIDING CIVILIZATION. TO SOME EXTENT, HOWEVER. THE DEVELOPMENT OF MILITARY SCIENCE BY THE BABYLONIANS WAS A SPUR TO PROGRESS. THE BABYLONIANS WERE QUICK TO SEE THE POSSIBILITIES OF THE NEWEST INVENTIONS, THE CATAPULT AND RALISTA. WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF THESE INVENTIONS THEY PUT AN END TO PETTY WARFARE BETWEEN SMALL NATIONS AND GAVE THEM A STRONG, CENTRAL GOVERNMENT.

ANOTHER DEVICE WHICH HELPED THE BABYLONIANS TO CONTROL INFERIOR GROUPS WAS THE BATTERING RAM. WITH THIS THE ENEMY WALLS WERE OPENED.

The late Mr. Locke was born in Tortaraghan, Ireland, in 1843, and emigrated to Canada with his parents when a mere lad. They settled at the Queen's Bush, Oro Township. At an early age he entered the Wesleyan Methodist Church of Canada, and for sixty-two years remained in its service. He was essentially a pastor, never having held, and never seeking, any public office in the Methodist Church. During the long course of his ministry he held numerous charges in Ontario among which were Bradford, Beamsville, Weston, Colborne, Belleville twice, and was stationed at Toronto, first on Spadina Avenue, and afterward on Yonge Street; at Brampton, Collingwood and Peterborough. When he retired he was assistant pastor to Rev. John V. Smith at Bloor Street Methodist Church, where he remained for ten years,

Mrs. Locke predeceased her husband by ten years. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Walter B. Sparling of Toronto and Mrs. Will Lattimer, Belleville; and one son, Dr. George H. Locke of Toronto.

This venerable old Irish gentleman was of an exceptionally retiring disposition. Nevertheless, his kindlineess endeared him to his friends and his death will be widely regretted.—Toronto Globe.

Rev. Mr. Locke was a former pastor of George street church.

INQUEST NOT NEEDED.

Death of George Loyst Ascribed To Accident While Drunk.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 28—Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney has made an investigation, and has decided that there will be no inquest held in connection with the death of George Loyst, who died at Arden on December 22 as a result of falling on a sharp axe, which resulted in terrible cuts to his face.

Following the death of Loyst, many rumors of foul play have been going the rounds. Crown Attorney Rigney instructed Dr. Suddaby of Sharbot Lake to make an investigation and his report showed that Loyst had been drinking for two days, and that on December 22nd he was under the influence of liquor when he went with a man named Steele to the woods to cut wood. Loyst was trying to get over a fence with a couple of pieces of cedar when his axe fell backwards breaking his leg and causing the edge of the axe to cut his face. He died from hemmorrhage and exposure a few hours later. Dr. Suddaby reported that the deceased had been making moonshine.

BOXING CONTROL TO BE CHANGED

Governor Smith Favors One Man Instead of Commission.

ADOPTION LIKELY.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Control of boxing in New York State by one man in the Department of State was foreshadowed to-day with the approval of Governor Smith's recommendation for the abolition of the present three-man commission by the Republican Controlled Legislative Reorganization Commission. If the Governor's recommendation is accepted by the full legislature, which is considered highly probable, one of the most powerful bodies in pugilism will pass into history.

PADDLERS HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Toronto Canoe Club Clash With Petes at Brock Street Rink.

The Toronto Canoe Club Seniors will provide the opposition for the Petes in the next Senior O.H.A. fixture which is scheduled for Thursday night at Brock Street Rink.

The Petes got a very bad game out of their system in Toronto last night, and are determined to redeem themselves by beating the Paddlers here Thursday.

Toronto Canoe Club have a fast young team, who will have to be watched all the way, and Thursday's battle should be full of interest. Eddie Wright's team made a big hit with their clean fast hockey against North Toronto here last week, and they intend to repeat with a similar brand against Canoe Club.

Mine Business Brisk But Trading Featureless

TORONTO, December 28. Canadian Press. — Business was brisk on the Standard mining exchange to-day with over half a million shares changing hands during the early trading. Price changes were distributed evenly over the list, however, and the trading was featureless. Argonaut declined 1-4 at 53 1-4, while Area Mines registered an eight cent gain over yesterday's close, and Barry Hollinger was 3 higher at 87. Consolidated W. D. Lake was up 1-2 at 19 1-4, and Mining Corporation up one at 320.

B. C. Fishing Leader In Weak Market To-day

TORONTO, December 28. Canadian Press. — British Columbia Fishing led the market in point of activity on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, declining 4 points to 82 in fairly heavy trading. The market was weak and declines were general. International Nickle was one of the few firm stocks, gaining 5-8 at 21½. Canners declined 1-4 at 21½; Industrial alcohol was down 1-2 at 28 1-4; and Page Hersey preferred was down 1-2 at 118 1-2. On the unlisted side of the Market Gooderham and Worts gained a full point at 42 1-2, and Seagram was down 1-4 at 15 3-4. British American Oil gained 1-4 at 83 1-4.

Heavy Wheat Shipments Send Price Down To-day

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Heavy shipments from exporting countries had an early bearish effect on wheat values today. Opening at 1-8 cent to 3-8 cent off, wheat prices later underwent a slight further sag ,but then rallied somewhat. Corn and oats were easy, corn starting 1-8 cent to 7-8 cent decline and subsequently recovering part of the drop. Provisions were irregular.

CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY REPORTS GOOD SEASON

COBOURG, Dec. 28.—The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Homewood Co-operative Creamery Company, which was held at Harwood, Rice Lake, was marked by excellent reports from the different officers as to the success that has attended the year's business. O. H. Campbell gave an interesting address on "Cream Grading and Its Benefits." Following officers were elected: President, George Henderson, Plainville; Vice-President, N. J. Curtis, Mill Valley. Directors: Robert Campbell, Roseneath; Mr. Blezard, Centreton; J. H. Menifer, Plainville; I. Corkery, Harwood; W. J. Jibb, Camborne; Charles Foster, South Monaghan; Mrs. Quantrill, Elizabethville; Mr. Cuddelly, Canton. The engagement of a manager and secretary was left in the hands of the auditors.

AT WAITE-MONTGOMERY-ACKERMAN.

Considerable interest attaches to the pronouncement by N.T.A. Timmins last week that plans were being made to remove about 30 or 40 feet of overburden from the main showing at the Waite-Montgomery property by steam shovel, and then glory-hole the ore and ship it direct to the Horne smelter when the latter is completed. This glory-hole, it is stated, will be 150 feet wide. While saying that eventually all the properties with which he is connected would come to concentration and separation, he also stated that they had considerable ore they could ship for the time being. One concentrating mill to serve Waite-Amulet and Alderson-MacKay is being discussed at the present time.

From this and all indications it is thought that the Waite is likely to be producing almost as soon as Noranda. With the spur line being built in from the Rouyn Railway there is no reason why trainloads of ore can not be shipped to the Noranda smelter, a few miles away, as soon as the latter is ready in the third quarter of 1927.

Lack Of Extra Dividend Causes Sharp Price Drops

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.— (Canadian Press.)— Disappointing dividend action to speculative interests by the Allied Chemical and American Can Companies was held responsible for the sharp decline in prices on to-day's stock market.

Allied Chemical broke below 136 for an overnight loss of nearly 6 points. The failure of American Can directors to declare an extra dividend induced sufficient selling to carry that stock down two points.

Oil, Motors and Merchandising shares, which had shown signs of strength in the early trading, quickly sold down with the rest of the list.

Liquidation in some issues appeared to be of an urgent character, one block of 9,500 shares of Radio Common changing hands at 55 1-2, off 3 points. Dupont, Atlantic Coast Line and United States Cast Iron Pipe all sold down four points or more and American Ice and Austin Nicholls Preferred, three each.

In Chicago seven deaths were reported, in Detroit five, in Des Moines two, in Milwaukee three and in Omaha two, a total of 42. The government declines to accept any responsibility for any deaths due to drinking alcohol which passed through its hands, federal agents declaring that the two per cent. wood alcohol used in most industrial alcohol was not sufficient to cause death.

Scientists Want To Know What Makes a Melody

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Scientists are trying to find out what melody is, in addition to being a mere string of separate musical sounds or notes.

Progress in this direction was explained today to the American Phychological Association by Professor George Humphrey, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

"Everyone knows that musical melody is a string of notes, but any musician will tell you that music is something much more, but he cannot tell us just what it more, nor can we, as yet, tell," he said.

Robinson Blamed By Coroner's Jury For Fatal Shooting

Death From Septic Pneumonia, Caused By Gunshot Wound, Is Finding — Companions of Bailiff St. Charles Tell of Hearing Shots—Robinson Seen in Bush.

WAS DODGING BEHIND TREES SHORT TIME AFTER SHOOTING

(By a Staff Reporter)

MADOC, Dec. 29.—"We the jury empanelled to enquire where, when, and by what means Charles St. Charles came to his death, find that he came to his death at the Village of Madoc on the 22nd day of December, 1926, of septic pneumonia resulting from a gunshot wound in his left chest received on the 15th day of November, 1926, while the said Charles St. Charles was at the farm of Abraham Robinson, Lot 22, in the First Concession of the Township of Madoc, as bailiff for the purpose of seizing chattels for taxes, and in our opinion Abraham Robinson was responsible for firing the fatal shot."

This was the verdict brought in by the jury at the inquest held on the death of Charles St. Charles, who was shot on November 15 while making a seizure of cattle in connection with unpaid municipal taxes.

The jury brought in the verdict after thirty minutes' consideration.

The deceased man, who was 73 years of age, lingered from November 15 until December 22, when he died of septic pneumonia.

Dr. S. A. Eagleson of Madoc was in charge of the proceedings. B. C. Donnan of Belleville, Crown Attorney, represented the Crown.

C. A. Payne and T. Y. Wills of Belleville were present on behalf of the Robinson family. The St. Charles family was represented by E. J. Butler.

The members of the jury were W. H. Kells, G. West, D. Moorecroft, R. O. Riedron, R. Maloney, S. Rollins, T. Nickle, N. Dafoe, and D. McGillivray.

Dr. J. A. Faulkner

Dr. J. A. Faulkner of Belleville stated that he had made a post mortem on the deceased on December 22. In his opinion the cause of death was septic pneumonia, aggravated by a gunshot from a bullet which entered between the fifth and sixth ribs.

Stanley Lewis.

Stanley Lewis, one of the boys who was with St. Charles on the ill-fated occasion, under examination by Mr. Donnan, said that another boy named Sharkey was with him.

Did you hear any shots?
Yes.
How many?
Three.
Where were you when the first shot was fired?
In the end of the lane nearest the house.
Where were you when the second shot was fired?
In the same place.
How long after was the third shot fired?
About half an hour.
Where was St. Charles then?
Cutside the gate.
What happened?
He hollered 'murder, murder, get me a doctor quick.'
After the shot did you observe anyone in the direction from which the shots appeared to come?
About five or ten minutes later I saw a man but he appeared to be further down than the shot came from.
What was he doing?
He was moving from one tree to another and looked as if he was trying to keep out of sight.

Conspiracy Reported To Blow Up the Abbey

LONDON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Some of the morning newspapers publish sensational stories of the discovery of an alleged plot by unknown persons to dynamite Westminster Abbey on Christmas Eve.

According to the accounts, the police received an anonymous telegram containing a threat against the abbey, and the customary police guard was consequently increased without the public being aware of the fact. Officials of the abbey say such mysterious threats are not infrequent, but that hitherto they have proved to be hoaxes.

SIX ARE HELD THEATRE FIRE

Used as Witnesses in Investigation Over Fire at Winnipeg.

PARTY NIGHT BEFORE.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 29 Canadian Press. — Six men now are held at police headquarter following information secured by Provincial Fire Commissioners' investigators that a party was held in the Winnipeg Theatre last Wednesday night.

The theatre building was destroyed by fire on Thursday morning and resulted in the deaths of four firemen.

No formal charge has been placed against those held but they will be called as witnesses at the inquest which will be held on Thursday night.

Claude H. Leigh, night engineer in charge at the theatre, is one of the six men detained by the police, but the authorities have refused to divulge the names of the other five.

The party, it is alleged, was held in a dressing room, and the special investigators now declare the fire started in one of the dressing rooms.

Mystery Monster's Tail Fails Him In Crisis Indian Trapper Sees "Ogopogo's" Death Throes

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press). — "Heaving, cracking ice, thrown up into mounds," near the shore on Akanagon Lake, a few miles north of Kelowna, B.C., says a despatch from there published yesterday by The Morning Star, formed the basis of reports that "Ogopogo, mystery monster, died during the recent cold weather.

Peter Simon, half breed Indian, according to the despatch, said that while hunting along the shore he saw the ice "torn asunder by some monster's struggles, and fragments thrown far upon the shore."

"Timidly venturing nearer," it continues, "Peter said he could see the giant form, sinuous and powerful, outlined beneath the ice, the tail feebly thrashing for freedom and the huge head, bearing a ghastly resemblance to a sheep, raised twise in the agony of its struggles.

"From his vantage point behind a tree, Peter watched the final battle for life, saw the great form become more and more feeble, then subside gently into the ice. Creeping to the lake shore he made certain the monster was dead, then, dropping his rifle, rushed frantically back to Kelowna."

Although reports that "Ogopogo" has died, caught in the ice are believed unfounded because there is very little ice in that district, investigation into the rumors is being conducted.

ADVANCEMENT OF WATERWAYS BEING DISCUSSED

Semi-Annual Meeting of Trent Association Held To-day.

DINNER AT NOON.

Speakers Stress Necessity of Securing Completion of Canal.

Considerable enthusiasm was evidenced at the semi-annual meeting of the Trent Waterways Development Association which commenced at a banquet held in the Empress Hotel to-day at noon. The trend of the various speeches indicated that the next year would see an even greater effort than has been made in the past to bring the advantages of the canal before the public, and also the government, in order that the project might be completed at an early date.

The guests were welcomed by W. M. Fowlds, the president of the Association who in a brief speech informed them of the aims of the association, stating that the purpose of the organization was to keep the public from thinking that the canal was a dead issue.

G. A. Gillespie, president, . Wells Fraser, past president, and C. H. Ackerman, director, were present, representing the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor W. T. Holloway.

"During the past year I have discovered many organizations that are in the city, all with good objects, but I know of none with a more worthy one than yours," declared Mayor Holloway.

"It is one of vital importance to this entire district, and while we should exert ourselves on behalf of others, I believe that we should also endeavor to make a success of the tourist industry.

"I am absolutely in sympathy with your organization and can assure you of the heartiest co-operation from the city of Peterborough.

"In giving you a civic welcome I

THREE FIREMEN LEAVE HOSPITAL

Partly Recovered From Effects of Gas at Fire.

TWO STILL SICK.

This morning three of the firemen who were gassed at yesterday morning's fire at the Albion Sweets, had left the hospital, but Firemen Mason and Degen were still very sick from the effects of the gas and were unable to leave.

All the members of the fire force seem to be suffering somewhat from the effects of the gas, but it is expected that in a few days everything will be normal again.

Smoke from yesterday's blaze did considerable damage to the stock of neighboring stores, especially that of B. Chesler who occupies part of the same building. Much of his stock was soiled and damaged by the fumes.

LAKE DIVERSION WILL BE SOLVED BY FATHER TIME

American Geologist Discusses Land-Tilting in Lake Basin.

FLOW WEST.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 29 (United Press).—Father Time and Mother Nature eventually will settle the lake diversion controversy and with no regard to the arguments of either side, Frank B. Taylor, Fort Wayne, Ind., geologist, yesterday told the Geographical Society of America.

If the present land tilting in the Great Lakes basin continues, the two will step into the picture about 5100 A.D., said Mr. Taylor, and decide in favor of Chicago, causing the four upper lakes to discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls to go dry, as the result of the uplifting of the land at Buffalo.

Land Rising

Mr. Taylor based his belief on the work of Dr. G. K. Gilbert and Sherman Moore, Michigan geologists, whose studies show that in the Lake Huron region land has been rising during the past 2,700 or 3,000 years, approximately 1.48 feet a century.

"Barring human interference and supposing the rock sill at Buffalo to hold firm, Lake Erie would be raised to the level of Lake Huron (as it was before the present extreme low stage) in about 1,600 years, and in 1,600 more the upper lakes would discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls would go dry."

FRANCE NEUTRAL CHINA'S AFFAIRS

WARNS DIPLOMATS.

PARIS, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press) —France intends to abstain from any interference in China's internal affairs. This is the sense of the instructions sent yesterday afternoon to the French diplomatic representatives at Washington, London, Brussels, Peking, Rome, The Hague and Lisbon. At the same time, M. Berthelot, Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office, gave similar assurances to the Chinese Minister in Paris.

It is considered at the Foreign Office that hasty recognition of the Canton government would confirm the state of secession in China and cause trouble in both the northern and southern forces. Violation of China's unity, it is held, would provoke profound and enduring resentment among the mass of the Chinese population, which is fundamentally jealous of the country's political integrity.

The instructions to the French diplomats concluded:

"France deems that discussion of the rights of foreigners over the heads of the opposing Chinese government would be inopportune at the present time and that it would be wiser to wait until the present crisis is over in order to be able to negotiate with authorities really representatives of the Chinese people."

BELL OPERATOR DISCOVERED TWO VERY BAD FIRES

Miss Katherine Martin Was First To Suspect Peterborough Hardware Fire.

'PHONE LAMP LIT.

Twice in fifteen months Miss Katherine Martin, a Bell telephone operator, has discovered fires in the downtown section of this city which would have assumed serious proportions had the alarms been delayed.

At a few minutes to five yesterday morning Miss Martin discovered something wrong with the phone at the Albion Sweets and she immediately suspected that there was a fire and notified Sergeant Thomas who on investigating turned in the fire alarm.

On Sunday morning September 6th, 1925, at about 7:45, Miss Martin found that both telephones of the Peterborough Hardware Company were ringing in. Receiving no answer to her query and being convinced that the premises were unlikely to be occupied at the time, she shrewdly concluded that a fire in the store was the cause of the strange behavior of the telephones. She immediately phoned to the police station and acquainted Sergt. Deannard with her suspicions.

As on yesterday morning, outwardly the store gave no indications of anything untoward, but an investigation of the interior disclosed the fact that there was a fire.

Miss Martin is a quiet, unassuming young lady and she looks upon the two incidents merely as something which chanced to happen while she was on the switchboard.

Fire Chief George Gimblett is loud in his praises of the young lady whose intelligence and promptness on two occasions have averted serious fires in the heart of the business section of this city.

EXPECT RELIEF IN FLOOD AREA

Forecasts For Cold Weather and Clear Skies Supports Hope.

TOLL LIST NOW 13.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press). — Forecasts of colder weather last night and clear skies today supported hopes yesterday that relief was in sight for flooded areas of several States where continuous rains have brought about flood situations.

General rains of Monday night and yesterday were followed by renewed rising of streams in the basin of the lower Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers and more extensive inundation along smaller streams.

Chief interest last night centered on Cumberland and Tennessee Rivers which have overflowed at many places bringing distress to Nashville and Chattanooga and to inhabitants of bottom country in Tennessee and Kentucky.

While these two tributaries of the Ohio continued to rise gradually late yesterday, their crests were expected to move downstream through today and Thursday. The lower Ohio was rising and in Indiana and Kentucky had overflowed low grounds in both States and caused farmers to move livestock and equipment to safer places.

Relief measures were being carried on in Nashville where the greatest distress prevailed. Several score blocks in the Tennessee capital remained under water. Police and sanitary officials provided shelter for refugees and set up safeguards against disease.

The total of fatalities attributed to the southern floods stood last night at thirteen, while property damage could not be estimated.

High waters in Arkansas were still receding last night, and the menace of floods which have damaged crops and highways was believed to have passed.

EXPECT TRADE INCREASE WITH WEST INDIES

Dominion Holds Great Possibilities For Commercial Trade With Colonies.

TO EXHIBIT PRODUCE.

Report of D. J. S. Tyrer Following Business Conference in London.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press) — An increase in trade between West Africa and Canada is expected next year by D. J. E. Tyrer, Canadian manager of Elder, Dempster and Company, Limited, who has returned to Montreal following a five-weeks' visit to England, where he was in consultation with representatives of his company and others interested in the further development of commercial connections between this Dominion and the West African Colonies.

As an outcome of the visit to Canada, last summer, of M. T. Dawe, commissioner of Lands and Forests in Sierra Leone, when he arranger the display of that colony at the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. Tyrer thinks that the increase in trade will be from West Africa westbound to Canada rather than in the other direction, though he has hopes that there will be larger quantities of the Dominion's produce sent overseas to those colonies, and also the Union of South Africa.

When in England, Mr. Tyrer again saw Mr. Dawe who pointed ou that he had received much correspondence from firms whose interest had been aroused by the exhibits of Sierra Leone displayed in Toronto while Mr. Tyrer said that he also had been in communication with a number of companies along the same lines. In view of this interest, it was suggested that the four principal British colonies on the west coast of Africa, viz., Nigeria, the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone and Cambria, should unite to engage a large section at the Canadian National Exhibition next year for the display of their produce, the idea being favorably considered by those with whom it was discussed.

It is thought that the Gold Coast might export quantities of grape fruit to Canada, if arrangements can be made for its disposal on ar-

FLOODED AREAS STILL AFFECTED

Situation Worst Along the Ohio and Tennessee Rivers.

NO MORE DEATHS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Little relief was felt today over the flood situation in the South, caused by recent torrential rains, though generally clear skies forecast for today brought hope to the areas affected. The situation is most tense along the Tennessee and Ohio Rivers, where more than six thousand have been driven from their homes by the waters. The death list remained at thirteen today, though meagre reports from isolated sections revealed that this might be increased when full communication has been restored.

1,000 Weddings In Berlin Christmas Eve, New Record

BERLIN, Dec. 29. — More than 1,000 couples were married on Christmas Eve in Berlin, according to statistics issued last night. This sets a new record for the German capital, though the Yuletide season always has been a popular one in the matter of weddings, surpassing the month of June.

The number of unions solemnized reflects Germany's prosperous economic condition, since during the days of the industrial depression the Reich's number of nuptials dropped to one-fifth that of 1914.

BANK LOOTED FOR $18,000

Two Bandits Make Getaway After Daring Hold-up in Detroit.

BROAD DAYLIGHT.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—After standing guard over two employes for half an hour waiting for the bank manager to arrive, two bandits looted the vault of the Commonwealth Federal Savings Bank branch at Davison and Woodrow Wilson Avenues of $18,000.

The two bandits followed Kenneth Lyons, teller, and Mrs. Elizabeth Burton, bookkeeper, into the bank yesterday morning and forced them to stand at their desks as if at work pending arrival of the manager. When the latter arrived he was forced to open the vault and the bandits removed all the paper currency and escaped.

ALCOHOLIC DEATH TOLL REACHES 26

Many More Cases Admitted To New York Hospital.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—New York's Christmas alcoholic death toll rose to 26 to-day, while a stream of cases continued to pour into the city's hospitals. Meanwhile, dry law advocates have rallied to the defence of the Government in putting poisonous denaturents in alcohol in an attempt to prevent the diversion of industrial alcohol for beverage uses which Medical Examiner Charles Norris has held responsible for the heavy death toll.

Proposal Made That New Bathing Beach Be Given East City.

In order that citizens might have something to guide them when they go to vote on Saturday, The Examiner today interviewed all aspirants to office as Aldermen. Their statements follow:

N. E. Phelan

Nagle Phelan has worked for seven consecutive years on the City Council and during that time he has not missed a single Council meeting and very few committee meetings. He has held the position of chairman of the finance committee during the past six years.

When interviewed by The Examiner, Mr. Phelan said that the financial condition of the city is good now, but it needs careful watching. He said, "One eye must be kept on the city's purse strings and the other on the city's needs, so that the city will progress and obtain the necessary improvements and yet not get into debt." He expressed himself as confident that the tax rate could be reduced materially, with careful handling, in the near future, although perhaps not in the immediate year.

He said that next year the bathing beaches should have good supervisors and that a place for a new beach to replace the one on Lake Street must be found in the south end.

He believes that along the shore of James Stevenson Park would be an excellent situation for a new beach, as the city already owns that property and it should be made a centre of all sports and the river is very shallow there.

In regard to paving, Mr. Phelan said: "I maintain that the present paving so badly in need of repair, ought to be repaired before considering any new work. The road on George Street is especially in a disgraceful condition."

He also would support any method to induce more industries to come here, and to increase present production and employment.

Malcolm McIntyre

M. McIntyre, a resident of the city for a long time, has taken a very active part in public service. He has been in the Council for seven years and during that time he was chairman of the Property Committee and chairman of the Board of Health.

GREAT PERCENTAGE LIQUOR IS POISONED

Report Made By N. Y. Prohibition Authorities For Seized Liquor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)—Ninety nine per cent of the 26,000 samples of seized liquor analyzed during the past year by the prohibition authorities in New York were made from denatured alcohol, says a report of Major Chester P. Mills, prohibition director, made public last night.

The alcohols used, the report asserts, were either "completely denatured" or wood alcohohl or specially denatured types prepared by the addition of poisonous or noxious compounds. Of the samples examined by J. W. Quillan, government chemist attached to the New York prohibition staff, 51 per cent are said to have shown that they had been prepared from wood alcohol and 48 per cent from denatured alcohols.

The death list due to the drinking of Christmas liquor remained last night at around two dozen, including two women. Four more patients were taken to Bellevue Hospital yesterday said to be suffering from the effects of unpotable liquor. These brought the total patients in New York hospitals up to 93. Autopsies performed on fifteen persons in New York City and Brooklyn are said to have shown conclusively that seven of them died from drinking liquor made from poison alcohol.

BOYS' PARLIAMENT SESSIONS STARTED

Kitchener Boy Elected Premier at Monday's Sitting.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(Special). —Reading of the report of the 1926 Parliament was the feature of the opening session of the sixth Older Boys' Parliament of Ontario on Monday afternoon. Ronald Fredenbury, of Perth, last year's Premier, was chairman and Hugh Scratch, of London, read the report. C. F. Plewman gave a short address.

At 6 p.m., in the Central "Y", a "get acquainted" banquet was held. Each member had to introduce himself, tell something of his ambitions in life and of his home riding.

At 8, at the Parliament Buildings, the boys held a caucus. H. A. Hall was the chairman. The purpose was to elect a new Premier and Opposition Leader. There were three boys nominated, Frank Perkin, Ottawa; Earl Lautenschloger, Kitchener, and Hugh Scratch, London.

Mr. Perkin was introduced by Howard Scharfe, Stormont, and gave an address. He was very modest and thought that a new method of selecting members should be arrived at. He stated that only 12 hours was allotted to all the sittings and no time should be wasted.

Fred. Payne, of Welland, told many things about Hugh Scratch, London, whom he thought was fitted to be the Premier. Mr. Scratch also spoke, giving his platform.

Paul Martyn, of Toronto, introduced Carl Lautenschloger. He reviewed the previous Premiers and said that all their good qualities as to oratory, service, etc., were found in the candidate for whom he was speaking.

Mr. Lautenschloger was moved by the kind words of his friend, and said: "It is a time for us all to search ourselves." The progress made in the past year was remarkable. There are now 270 groups, with 2,400 boys, more than last year. He thought that personal leadership work should be carried on the whole year. The Finance Department, in which bond selling is done to raise necessary funds for printing and other expenses, is only the means, not the end, of the Canadian standard efficiency training carried on by the Baptist, United and Presbyterian churches. He was not in favour of a mixed Parliament of girls and boys, nor of a National Parliament, which would involve too much expense.

Ballots were then passed, and Earl Lautenschloger, Kitchener, was elected Premier.

Finance—Frank Perkins.
Provincial Secretary—Alex. Adams.
Organization—Fred Payne.
World Brotherhood — Howard Scharfe.
Dept. of Research—Paul Martyn.
C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T.—Taylor Franklin.
Literature—Harry Buller.
Co-operation—Charles Belemay.
Dept. of Education—Eric Edwards.

Members of Cabinet without Portfolio—David Tough, Vincent Bryant, Morris Bucovesky.

There is a possibility that a new portfolio of rural and pioneer affairs may be added at the next meeting of the Cabinet.

Speaker of the House is Al. Tucker, Toronto.

extend to you all the privileges we have at our disposal and wish you greater success in 1927 than you have ever met before."

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

"I extend to you my thanks for the invitation to be with you to-day," declared Mr. Bradburn.

"I have great faith in your organization; you have accomplished a great deal for this district. I believe it would be worth while ' the municipalities around the canal would petition the government to complete the canal at the northern end.

"We must educate the public to its benefits and this year special efforts should be made in this direction.

"A large number of tourists are expected this year and we must take care of them and give them special sporting facilities.

"I will make a special effort to see that the waters are stocked with fry, and will be only too glad to do anything I can to make your organization a success."

E. A. Peck, M.P.

Expressing his appreciation at being present, Mr. Peck stated that he had been interested in the work of the organization for many years, having acted as secretary for some time.

"I wish to say something about the apparent neglect of the members when the discussion regarding the Canal came before the House last year. The matter came up when most of the Tory members were at Montreal for the purpose of hearing Mr. Meighen, and consequently that no one was there to favor the canal was not through any spirit of animosity. If I had been there I certainly would have spoken in favor of its completion," declared Mr. Peck.

"I think it would be well for a deputation to wait on the Government and explain the advantages of finishing the small stretch that still is uncompleted. Money is loosening up again and it is only a matter of time before it will be available for this purpose," he said in conclusion.

M. H. McCallum, Secretary of the Fenelon Falls Board of Trade; F. D. Kerr, K.C.; J. Wells Fraser, G. H. Fraser, and A. L. Killaly, in brief speeches assured the members of their deep interest in the association.

Among those present were: W. F. Fowlds, Hastings, President of the Association; F. G. Stinson, Secretary; G. H. Fraser, Burleigh, Hon. President; J. B. Hanly, Midland, Second Vice President; E. A. Peck, M.P.; Mayor W. T. Hollaway; George A. Gillespie; J. Wells Fraser; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; T. A. Coughlin, W. R. Learnworth and J. F. McCarthy, all of Hastings; Isaac Naylor, Max G. Brandon, James Daniel, S. E. Minthorne and W. H. McCallum, all of Fenelon Falls; W. C. Moore, Bobcaygeon; A. L. Killaly; C. H. Ackerman, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., Hon. Vice President.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES

ST. PAUL'S, MARMORA.

MARMORA, Dec. 29.—Services were held at St. Paul's on Christmas Day at 8 and 11, the Rev. A. B. Caldwell officiating. The earlier service was a celebration of the holy communion, at which a fair number of communicants was present. At the eleven o'clock celebration there was a goodly number out. The choir sang, "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices?" while the offertory was being taken. The rector preached a most appropriate sermon from the words, "The word was made flesh." He instanced the joys of pagan days as being concerned solely with the present and therefore transient. He showed that they never reached man's soul. He then referred to the joys of Judaism, which could be said to partake of a spiritual essence, inasmuch as they looked toward the future when the Messiah should be born. He concluded his Christmas message by proving that the world received and expressed its truest joy as it welcomed the Saviour. This, the Christian joy, he declared, illuminated the past and the present, as well as the future, and he urged his hearers to fulfil their part in the brotherhood of man as the God-man fulfilled His. The church was handsomely decorated for the festival. On Sunday morning there was another good congregation, the choir rendering "The Infant Jesus" as anthem.

CANADA OCCUPIES SUPERIOR POSITION

C.N.R. Director Says Dominion One of Few "100 Per Cent." Countries.

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (Special to The Examiner). — That Canada is one of the few 100 per cent countries in the world today, was the opinion expressed by Mr. D. J. McDougall, a director of the Canadian National Railways, who has just returned from an extended tour of the world. During his absence from Toronto of four months' duration, Mr. McDougald visited Japan, China, Malay States, Ceylon, India, Egypt, and Great Britain, and he stated that while he found a general improvement in trade conditions in many of the countries he visited, the superior position occupied by Canada among the world's nations was the outstanding impression left by his tour.

"My trip brought home to me forcibly that we in Canada are living in one of the most desirable spots on the earth," Mr. McDougald continued. "Compared to many other countries we are enjoying a marked degree of prosperity and our people are contented and happy. I am convinced by my observations there is no nation which offers the same inducements to its own people and prospective settlers as does Canada from every angle."

Mr. McDougald also paid tribute to the transportation and hotel systems of the Dominion. "I travelled somewhat extensively in various countries visited," he added, and my experience more and more convinces me of the universally excellent service rendered to Canadians by the two great railway systems functioning here, as well as the hotels under their control. I might say they are unexcelled throughout the world.

ITALO-GERMAN TREATY WILL BE SIGNED TO-DAY

Contains No Political Clauses, Says German Foreign Office.

IN LEAGUE SPIRIT.

No Provision Likely To Cause Toruble With Other Powers.

BERLIN, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—The newly drawn Italian-German treaty of conciliation and arbitration, scheduled for signature to-day by Premier Mussolini and Ambassador Von Beurath at Rome, contains no political clauses and conforms strictly with the spirit of the League of Nations with which will be registered shortly, a spokesman for the German Foreign Office said to-day.

The treaty provides for arbitration and amicable adjustment of virtually all classes of disputes which may arise between Germany and Italy, and follows closely the pattern for such treaties already negotiated by Germany with eight other nations.

The Foreign Office spokesman this afternoon said the treaty does not contain any provision calculated to mar relations with a third power. It is pointed out that there is no occasion for clauses whereby signatories respect each other's frontiers, since Italy and Germany are not neighbors.

BRITISH TO SEEK AUTO SPEED RECORD

Sending Big Car To Florida Beach in February.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press). — A serious attempt by British manufacturers to capture automobile speed records now held by the United States is seen in the shipment next February of a big red mystery car from London to some Florida beach. The car is believed capable of two hundred miles an hour, is thirty-six feet long and six wide, shaped like a sea sled, weighs more than three tons, and costs a hundred thousand dollars. It has two motors and a secret transmission system.

Old British Palisade Found In Centre Detroit

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—Part of the northeastern palisade of Fort Shelby, built 138 years ago by the British during the revolutionary war, was dug up yesterday by workmen excavating at Fort and Shelby Streets, the site of the new Federal Reserve building.

About nine feet below the street surface the steam shovel encountered unusual resistance, which examination showed to be a series of oaken stakes in a fair state of preservation. The stakes proved to be part of the palisade behind the officers' quarters, situated on the northeast corner of Fort Street.

Union Of All Churches Needed Says Worker

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 29 (United Press). — Haverhill's seventeen Protestant churches would be merged under a plan proposed by Clarence B. Mitchell, Sunday School Superintendent of the First Baptist Church. "Sooner or later the churches must put up a solid front of Christian service against the evils of the day," he said, in announcing the proposition.

APSLEY NEWS

APSLEY, Dec. 29.—Christmas Day was the quietest in many years in Apsley. For the first time there was no entertainment or Christmas tree provided by the United Church, the minister, Rev. J. W. Ogden and family being away for ten days.

Services were held on Christmas Day at St. Stephen's, Chandos, at 9.30 a.m. and St. George's, Apsley, at 11.30. The special Christmas offering amounted to the generous sums of $17 and $20, respectively. Christmas services were held on the following day (Sunday) at St. Andrew's, Owenbrook, and St. Paul's, Lasswade. There was no service at either the Anglican or United Churches in Apsley on Sunday.

Santa Claus received no less than 110 letters by mail, and through the generosity of the W. A. of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, and St. Alban's Cathedral, also St. George's Church, Toronto, each one had its request granted. On Christmas Eve Santa himself was seen calling at houses locally.

The custom of singing carols in the village street was kept up this year, the choir of St. George's Church being assisted by Messrs. A. Downing, Ephriam Phillips and Herb. Earnshaw.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

ST. GEORGE'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

Yesterday being Holy Innocents' Day, the scholars of St. George's Sunday School assembled in the church at 10 a.m. for worship and instruction.

In the evening at 6 o'clock they met in the church basement for their Christmas party. After all had done justice to supper, the singing of carols, songs and the playing of games whiled away the time until Santa Claus appeared about 8 o'clock. The expected visitor was vociferously greeted, and after a few preliminary handshakes, he opened his large, well-filled bag, and began to distribute gifts. He not only had a gift for every child present, but the Rector, Mrs. Hughes and the teachers were also remembered. After he had been voted a "Jolly Good Fellow" with musical honors, and with ringing cheers, Santa departed, and soon afterwards the children followed his example, each child receiving, on leaving the room, a bag containing an orange and candies.

The room presented a pleasing appearance with its Christmas decorations, thanks to the members of the Sunday School staff, who devoted the afternoon to the work.

FALLIS LINE SCHOOL.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 29.—A very enjoyable Christmas programme was given by the pupils of Fallis Line School, from 2 to 4 p.m., before closing for the holiday week, a number of the parents and friends being present for the occasion.

The teacher, Miss Gladys Gray, had spent some time in training the children for the entertainment, and her efforts were well rewarded by the capable manner in which each acquitted himself and herself on the final day. The school room was gay with Yuletide decorations and the Christmas tree, well laden with parcels, proved the centre of interest for young and old alike.

The items on the program were:

Welcome Song—The school.
Address of welcome—Charles Mason.
School "yell"—The scholars.
Recitation — "When Santa Comes," by Mary Ball.
Recitation—Eric Fallis.
Recitation—Nelles Fallis.

School chorus—"Merry Christmas Day," "Jolly Old St. Nicholas."
Flag drill—The school.
Dialogue—"The Old Woman in the Shoe," in which all the pupils took part.

"Tea Party," followed by the arrival of Santa Claus (Mr. Maurice Gray), who distributed gifts from the tree after being royally welcomed by the pupils.

A treat of candy and apples was furnished by the teacher, everyone present being included in this popular feature of the afternoon's enjoyment. The National Anthem closed the entertainment.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—A society has been formed here to rediscover a land lost for 11,000 years. The group believes that a continent in the Atlantic Ocean once connected Europe with the New World. Traces of it are being sought, and a library of books treating of the subject is being collected.

OLDSMOBILE DEMONSTRATION CHASSIS

OLDSMOBILE DEMONSTRATION CHASSIS IN PETERBORO.

An Oldsmobile demonstration chassis, strikingly lettered, is attracting considerable attention around our streets. This chassis is being driven by Mr. H. E. Porter, mechanical expert from the Olds Motor Works of Canada, Limited, Oshawa. Mr. Porter is driving this chassis on a tour through the principal towns and cities of Canada, delivering lectures on the mechanical features of the new Oldsmobile.

An interesting part of the lecture delivered locally deals with the tests which the present Oldsmobile underwent on the General Motors proving ground before being put on the market. For weeks and months Oldsmobile test cars were driven at varying speeds over the roads and grades of the 1,125-acre proving ground near Milford. In a nutshell these research tests and re-tests, made under the supervision of the greatest engineering corps in the world, anticipated and duplicated owner experience—in advance.

MATERIAL IN PLENTY.

"What's the use of going out to vote? There's nobody to vote for," is a complaint that has not infrequently been heard in regard to municipal elections in Peterboro, and sometimes not without an element of justification.

It, however, is not to be applied to the present campaign.

With five candidates for the position of Utilities Commissioner and eleven aspirants running for five places in the council, the electors have never had a wider choice.

There is quality as well as quantity.

Among the Commission candidates are ex-Mayor Duncan and ex-Ald. E. M. Turner, whose records are well known, and in addition, there is Fred. Hills, successful insurance man, E. R. Shirley, with a high reputation as an electrical engineer, and M. H. Quinlan, a builder of long residence here.

For the Council the electors can make their choice among four members of the present Council, two ex-Aldermen and five new candidates who have been successful citizens in various fields of endeavour.

There is, therefore, no excuse for not voting.

Good men have come forward to serve, and their public spirit deserves the consideration of the electors and a worth-while expression of public opinion on New Year's Day.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

The presence of mind of the Bell Telephone operator who notified the police yesterday that she thought there must be a fire at the Albion Sweets and thereby led to the detection of a blaze that with a little longer start might have caused widespread destruction in the business section, deserve general commendation.

The incident is not the first of its kind that has come to public atentiion in connection with the local Bell Telephone Company staff, another fire in the business section having been similarly reported by an operator, while on other occasions the staff has shown quick thought and willingness to help.

It is evidently a tradition of Bell Telephone training that its operators are not to be mere automatons, plugging in numbers mechanically and checking their brains with their hats.

The girls at the switchboard have given plenty of evidence that they can think fast when an emergency arises, and thus the heroine of yesterday's incident did not consider that she had done her full duty when a glowing light without a response at the other end of the line showed her something was wrong until she had set the police at work to investigate.

That, of course, led to the fire being discovered at a stage when it could be checked.

MOTORING IN WINTER.

Another problem that has been caused by the advent of the motor car is illustrated by the fact that the Ottawa Board of Control has adopted a recommendation to purchase three snow tractors at a cost of $10,500 to aid in removing the snow from Ottawa's streets in order to facilitate motor transport.

The automobile has brought many blessings, but it has carried in its train a tremendous addition to the expense of municipal and Provincial Governments.

Ontario's system of modern roads, built at a cost that would have been considered staggering a few years ago, would never have been undertaken if it had not been for the motor car.

And with the development of good roads for use in summer has come a vigorous demand that these roads shall also be made available for motor traffic in the winter, with the result that the Ontario Government in striving to keep its highway system open during the cold weather is spending a large sum annually.

This movement is now spreading to the municipalities—witness Ottawa—and before long the ratepayers of smaller centres will find themselves called upon to assume the cost of making the streets of their home cities passable at all times for gas-driven vehicles.

PROTECTING PEDESTRIANS.

At last something is being done in the way of traffic regulations to give official recognition to the fact that pedestrians have some rights on the streets, a fact that has been successfully obscured in recent years.

New York City, where during the first eleven months of this year 957 people were killed and 41,485 injured in vehicular accidents, has enacted that from January 1 "pedestrians where no traffic officer is present and no traffic control system is in operation have the right-of-way on crossings, and vehicles must slow down or stop if necessary to permit pedestrians on crossings to pass."

"The regulation," it is explained, "does not protect the person who rushes recklessly from the sidewalks, and it offers no protection to the jay-walker who crosses in the middle of the street. The Police Department can do nothing for him."

This legislation will be hailed by pedestrians as a belated move to justify their existence on the street, which the actions of some motorists have apparently ignored.

It is well to emphasize the responsibility of drivers in regard to pedestrians.

There are motorists who seem to find something amusing in seeing startled people have to jump for their lives on street corners.

At the same time there are pedestrians who are most annoyingly and stupidly careless.

The responsibility of making street crossings safe should be jointly divided; both the man in the car and the man on foot has to do his part.

POPULAR NEWS.

The most interesting news to come out of Ottawa recently is the frequently repeated prophecy that Canadians will enjoy another substantial tax reduction in 1927.

If present estimates work out, one correspondent reports, those who pay in the money to turn the wheels of the Federal machine, may expect:

A further reduction in the sales tax.

Removal of the stamp tax on cheques.

Another feature of the Ottawa report is the statement that the proposed reductions are due largely to the compulsory economy practised during the last five months, when money for Federal purposes was available only through Governor-General's warrants and when spending was consequently kept to the lowest level. This being the case, the average citizen would be glad to have the method continue. Economy in the expenditure of public money is so hard to secure that almost any plan will appeal to those who must find the cash.

President Coolidge has made history in the United States, and feathered his own political nest wonderfully, by drastic tax reductions. The load on the people has been materially lightened. It was done by striking a definite objective and sticking to it. The result was only possible, of course, by equally drastic economy. Appropriations of all kinds were cut here, there and everywhere. Departments could only spend so much money. Mr. Coolidge insisted on it and because public opinion was so squarely behind him, others could do nothing but fall in line. Old-time politicians didn't like the idea a little bit, but the President was determined and that was all there was to it.

What has been the result in the United States? Has the public treasury suffered? Not a bit of it! On the contrary, despite greatly reduced taxation, the Federal Government has been taking in more money than ever, so much so, in fact, that Congress is now discussing a proposition to make a refund of many millions to the people who pay the taxes. There are opponents of the plan, of course, but the money is there and Mr. Coolidge thinks it should be returned to those who put it up. How is this brought about? How is it possible to reduce rates of taxation and still have a bigger Federal income in the long run? The answer is simple. The easing of taxation makes it feasible for the people to invest the money thus saved in a thousand and one ways. One citizen, for instance, pays out $200 less for income tax this year than he did last. What becomes of the $200? It is invested in real estate, an automobile or something else from which the Government, directly or indirectly, gets a revenue or several revenues. Business of all kinds is helped, the people are made happier and more contented, and the general benefit to the country is greatly increased.

Canada can take a leaf out of Uncle Sam's book of experience in this regard. The scheme has worked over there. It should work here. Indeed, it has already been demonstrated that it will work in the not inconsequential income tax cuts announced by Mr. Robb this year. The people were saved a great deal of money and with this money were able to buy many things that were needed and wanted. This helped business generally and when business is helped everyone benefits, including the Government, which, after all, is really everyone.

The people are looking to Messrs. King, Robb & Company to give them another piece of tax relief this year. The way is open. The path is clear. The Finance Minister has definitely promised that the cut will be forthcoming. If it is substantial, Canada will take another great forward step and the administration will have done something more to strengthen the strong position it occupied following the last Federal election. That contest demonstrated that the people want tax reductions. The Robb budget, more than anything else, won the day for the Liberal party. Mr. King can never afford to lose sight of this fact.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Resolve to be a better citizen next year and start right by voting on New Year's Day.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—With receipts for the day amounting to 398 cattle, along with 450 left over from Monday, trade was rather slow at the Union Stock Yards. Fair to good butcher steers were steady in price at $6 to $7 per hundred. Butcher cows ranged from $3.50 to $5.25, with canners selling at $2.40 to $2.50. Exporters took a few head of heavy cattle, which they are holding for next week's shipment. There were very few baby beeves on the market and no stockers or feeders. There was practically no demand for export store cattle. Trade all around is moving slowly, as the packers' requirements are pretty well filled for the present, and until they dispose of some of their present stock there will be little change.

There was a firmness in the price of calves, $12 to $13.50 being the price for choice, with common variety down to $6 a hundred. The trade is quite good in calves at present.

Hogs were firmer, being up a quarter at $11.40 off cars for thick, smooth, $10.50 f.o.b. Selects brought $12.50. Premium on selects, $2.17 per head.

Sheep values were steady. A few common lambs brought $10 a hundred.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85 3-16

Sterling cables $4.85 13-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Heavy selling out on the part of holders of December contracts tumbled values down in all the grain pits yesterday. The severest jolt was to wheat, the July delivery of which dropped to a new low price record for the season. Decided enlargement of the amount of wheat afloat for Europe was an outstanding bearish factor.

Wheat closed unsteady, 2 3-4 to 4 1-8c net lower, with corn 1 3-4 to 2 3-8c down; oats 1 1-8 to 1 1-4 and 1 3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to 30 cents.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. Weather conditions over the corn belt were favorable as a rule. Heavy stocks of corn at terminal markets and limited commercial demand at present also were bearish factors.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Hogs 37,000; top $12.00, paid sparingly; few loads $11.95; practical top $11.90; bulk desirable hogs all weights $11.75 to $11.90; most packing sows $10.60 to $10.90; bulk slaughter pigs $11.60 to $11.85.

Cattle 11,000; best yearlings $13.00, 1,364 pound steers $11.00; bulk fed steers $8.50 to $10.00; bulls steady to strong; vealers 50c to $1 higher; outsiders mostly $13.50 to $14.50.

Sheep 19,000; top natives and fed westerns to all interests $13.15; fair showing $13.00; most heavy lambs $11.50 down; fat ewes $5.00 to $6.35; top $6.50.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—There was no improvement in the foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday and business was again very quiet. There was some demand from New York exporters for ocean grain room to the Continent, and engagements were made to Rotterdam and Hamburg at 17 cents per 100 pounds for January loading, and there was also some inquiry for United Kingdom freight.

The only business of importance done in cash grain in the local market was the sale of several cars of American No. 3 yellow corn at 84 1-2c per bushel ex-track here for immediate shipment from Chicago. Spot prices for Canadian Western oats were reduced 1-2c to 1 1-2c per bushel.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was extremely dull, but values were unchanged.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good and prices ruled firm. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was steady and prices were unchanged.

The egg market was moderately active and prices for fresh and storage grades were firm. The receipts were 2,272 cases.

Prices for all grades of potatoes were well maintained under a quiet demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.55 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.40 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The feature of the butter trade was the renewed demand from local and country buyers and a moderate amount of business was worked at unchanged prices. The receipts were 83 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade, but prices were steady. The receipts were 146 boxes.

A Thought For To-day

COMMON SENSE!

(By James Edward Hungerford).

He wasn't an angel, and sprouted no wings,
Nor was he a "hard-slugging he-man";
He lived in a world of "just commonplace things,"
And wrought what he had— just his plain common sense,
And honestly, "get up," and hustle,
And that's how he hurdled the big success fence,
And landed on top, in the tussle!

And nothing could "faze" him, or "floor" him;
Whatever he tackled, he wouldn't be beat—
Dame Fortune, she couldn't ignore him!
He stayed on the job when most men would have quit,
And seasoned himself to "rough-faring",
And proved he was "game"—a 'go-getter" with grit,
Who wouldn't be downed by despairing!

And sometimes succumbed in the scuffle;
Oftimes he was shipwrecked, and cast "on the rocks,"
And beaten, and "lost in the shuffle";
But always he'd wrest himself out of the wreck—
To hardships he never would knuckle;
Though trouble submerged him clear up the neck
He'd grin, and come back, with a chuckle!

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

THANK YOU, MADAM!

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir:

I have just finished reading your editorial, "Just A Word Of Thanks" but the article needs completing—someone to say just a word of thanks to The Examiner for the wonderful overwhelming paper you gave us on Christmas eve. So lest anyone get ahead of me, in their eagerness to express their thanks, I'm writing post haste.

We know it must have meant sacrifice of needed rest for all who helped produce it, and so we say "Thank You", and a Prosperous and Happy New Year for The Examiner.

Yours very truly,

Grateful Readers of The Examiner.

The Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir:

Since the nomination meeting I have heard the name of one of our aldermanic candidates, Mr. E. A. Stinson, confused with others.

For the benefit of those to whom Mr. Stinson is a stranger, I wish to state that he has been in business in Peterboro, successfully for many years, and as a business man and an active citizen has a wide circle of friends.

As a resident of Brock street in the centre ward, and a heavy taxpayer, he is thoroughly conversant with municipal questions and I feel is quite capable of proving an able representative.

Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., for Victoria and Haliburton, is a brother.

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

PHILIP GOODWIN DEFENCE COMMITTEE.

625 Courtney Street,
Victoria, B.C.
December 16th, 1926.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Sir:

Philip Goodwin, native son of Victoria, B.C., military pensioner, and prison and hospital chaplain of Los Angeles, California, is awaiting execution of the death sentence for a crime of which he is innocent. His prison work brought him in touch with members of the criminal class and it is on the false evidence of one whom he befriended that he is now an inmate of the condemned cell.

Goodwin was charged with murdering James Patterson, a Los Angeles broker, in March 1926, and convicted on the evidence of one Gaines who fabricated his testimony to clear himself.

Affidavits, sworn by reliable and responsible persons, sufficient to establish a complete alibi, were sent to the court by air mail and delivered after the jury's verdict was given but before sentence was pronounced. The judge declared they were too late to be considered, and passed sentence of death.

Acting on instructions from the Consul-General, a member of the firm of honorary attorneys to the British Consulate General visited Goodwin in prison December 6th, and, in his report, said:

"After a searching examination of the accused in the office of Capt. Hobbs and in the presence of a guard, a Mr Lasbery, we are satisfied that Mr. Goodwin is entirely innocent."

Efforts are being made to secure a new trial, and an appeal is made to all organizations in the Dominion of Canada to assist in arousing Canadian public opinion in support of this endeavor. Supporting wires, letters or resolutions should be sent to the undersigned who will make arrangements for their presentation to the proper official Lt. Gen. Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., Dominion President of the Canadian Legion; Hon. T. G. Coventry; Mr. A. C. Pike, Grand Treasurer, Native Sons of Canada; Mr. Robt. D. MacLachlan, Grand Secretary, Native Sons of Canada; Prof. V. L. Denton, Provincial Norman School, and many other prominent gentlemen who are working hard to secure justice, are satisfied that Goodwin is not only innocent but entirely ignorant of the crime, and quite able to prove this if a new trial is granted.

H. W. HART.
Secretary.

BOILS AND CARBUNCLES

Boils are produced from causes both inside the body and from outside infectious influences. When the body reaches a certain stage of acidosis and the system becomes enervated through any bad habits, the outside flesh of the body offers a suitable soil in which the staphylococcus bacteria grow.

A break in the skin occurs some place, such as around the collar band or where the garters pinch, or a tiny scratch with the finger nails, microscopical in size, will break down the epidermis, or skin covering, to such an extent that these microscopical staphyloccci find a place to enter the tissues underneath the skin, burrowing down in the warm flesh which contains material to assist them in multiplying. Millions are produced in a few minutes and a whole colony is soon created, which swells the skin up into what is called a boil. The swelling continues with fever being present and usually great discomfort and pain.

Such degeneration of the skin takes place that the boil will usually open and discharge its contents. In some cases, when the boil is located high up on the neck or on the face, it is well to lance it before the surrounding tissue is so permeated with the poison that the brain is affected by it. In most cases, however, it is wise to wait until the boil breaks, perhaps encouraging it to soften by repeated applications of hot towels or a steady compress made of boiled flaxseed meal.

A carbuncle is simply a multiple boil with three or more openings. These openings discharge pus the same as a boil. Each opening usually contains a core of fibrin, which is a yellowish, green lump formed from the fibrin of the blood.

Lowered vitality can probably be cited as the main cause of both boils and carbuncles. If you have ever suffered from these afflictions, you will remember that each boil started after you had become too tired from overwork, over-excitement or over-indulgence of some kind.

In addition to this trouble being caused by enervation, it is also produced by the use of too much rich food, such as cream, pancakes, sausages, candy and all other material out of which the body builds up a condition of acidosis, which is favorable to the cultivation of boils and the planting of staphylococci, which is the irritating cause.

If boils continue to occur, it is a good plan to have your urine examined, as you might discover that you are suffering from diabetes, which is caused by continued enervation and some of the same causes which produce boils.

Besides correcting your dietetic habits, it is important that you develop more endurance, strengthening every part of the body by systematic physical culture.

The skin should also be kept healthy and as many nude sun baths as possible be taken to keep the pores of the skin in a good condition.

The bowels should never be allowed to become sluggish and should be kept open by daily enemas until you learn to correct your diet, so that they will move normally.

DATING THE NEWS

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Only part of the news is about today: the rest speaks of the past, that has carried over, and the fut that is approaching.

Some events to in a different age.

As you run over the day's news, you find many items that might as well carry another date line than one for the year 1926.

A woman dies after a heavy meal eaten while wearing a tightly laced corset. Date that in the late nineties of last century.

Indians in the Elko district in the West have chosen an old brave as their new medicine man. His qualification was that he distanced all competitors in a sundance. That might just as well bear the date line of a hundred and fifty years ago.

A man in Ohio was rushing home to greet his first born child when he was slain by a fusillade from a clump of bushes by the roadside. That might be dated the sixteenth century, in the days of the Medicis' Italy.

Police are seeking a man with a cork leg, who stole an airplane in Kansas and flew East. That is dated today. People in 1900 would have suggested the date as 2000 A.D. or later, perhaps.

A patient in an eastern hospital for the insane groaned in the night. Other patients complained that he disturbed their sleep. Guards kindly put the sick man in a straight-jacket and locked him in the yard smoking room, nights. Put the date a hundred years ago when brutality instead of understanding was the lot of the unfortunate who became insane.

In Mexico City a man shot down and killed three men. He said he did it for the pleasure of seeing them suffer. That date might be changed to the first century when a Roman emperor was enjoying the spectacle of men coated with tar burning to light his garden.

A young man, just engaged, answers a reporter's question: "Pretty? Well, you can bet your life that I think she's pretty, and nobody else's opinion matters."

Date that any time since the Eden day Adam slipped the leafy ring on Eve's finger to the present, and from the present on to day the world shuts up shop.

MANY NOMINATED STIRLING COUNCIL

Large Crowd Attend Nomination Meeting Held on Monday Evening.

STIRLING, Dec. 29.— The attendance at the meeting held Monday night in the town hall for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Reeve and Councillors of the village, was larger than usual, a great many women voters occupying the seats in the gallery. The following were nominated for Reeve: Messrs. C. B. McGuire, Thos. Cranston and Thos. Montgomery, Sr., and for Councillors, Messrs. Hugh Morton, Samuel Hatton, Jetty Thompson, L. Meiklejohn, German Sine, W. H. Patterson, W. S. Martin, C. F. Walt.

After the hour allowed for nominaitons had expired, Mr. Geo. Luevy, the village clerk, called the meeting to order and invited those who had been nominated to come to the platform as he read their names. Messrs. G. Bedford, F. T. Ward and Dr. H. H. Alger, the retiring members of the school board, who were nominated for the position again, were also invited to come to the platform.

When order was again restored, Mr. Luevy called upon the members of the old council to give an account of their stewardship for the past year.

Reeve C. B. McGuire, being the first to speak, referred at some length to the statement of receipts and expenditures for 1926, which showed the finances of the village to be in a first class condition. The debenture debt of the village is $20,508.57; other liabilities amount to $14,641.68. The permanent assets amount to $100,462.97. Other assets amount to $29,309.75. The other members of the 1926 council were called upon and in his remarks Mr. T. Cranston stated that he was a candidate for the Reeveship. Messrs. Morton, Hatton and Thompson also gave an account of their stewardship. At this juncture the nominees for the school board vacancies were asked to speak and Messrs. Belford and Ward explained the finances and work of the board for the past year in a very satisfactory manner.

Mr. Thos. Montgomery, upon rising, said that he had been asked to offer himself as a candidate for the Reeveship, as it was known that Mr. McGuire was retiring from the council after a service of ten years for the village as school trustee, councillor and reeve. Mr. Montgomery was a member of Rawdon council for several years, and finished his career there by being chosen as Warden of the County Council. After coming to the village to reside he also served as a member of the council here. If there is anything in experience, Mr. Montgomery should be amply qualified to fill the position of Reeve and also know how to approach the county council for anything that might be due the village.

Messrs. L. Meiklejohn and W. S. Martin, who had formerly served on the council, spoke at some length, giving valued information as to how some of the surplus funds in their opinion might be invested.

PRESERVATIVES' USE RESTRICTED IN OLD COUNTRY

Health Ministry Expects Problems When New Law Becomes Effective.

DEALERS OPPOSE.

Boom in Refrigerators One Result of the Enactment.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Neville Chamberlain, the Minister of Health, has his hands full of new problems which will confront the Government on January 1, when regulations prohibiting or restricting the use of preservatives in food become effective.

The fight against preservatives has been waged here for years, the dispute centering around the use of boric acid instead of benzoate of soda, as was the case in the United States when the Pure Food Bill was up for discussion in Congress.

In consequence of the new regulations, there has been a boom in refrigerators. As compared to their usage in the United States, these contrivances are almost a novelty here, except in the homes of the wealthier class.

Use Regulated.

After January 1 the use of preservatives will be prohibited or regulated in sausages and sausage meat, fruit and fruit pulp, dried fruit, non-alcoholic wines, cordials and fruit juices, jams, sugar, beer and cider, alcoholic wines, mineral waters and ginger beers, coffee extracts, pickles and sauces.

July 1, next, preservatives will be totally prohibited in bacon, ham and egg yolk, and in 1928, no preservatives will be allowed in butter and cream.

FRATERNITY SNOBS IS THING OF PAST

Real Fraternity Realizes He Must Be Brother To Everyone.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press) — "Snobbishness amongst college fraternity men is almost a thing of the past," stated William R. Bayes, of New York, ex-judge of the County Court of King's county, New York city, yes-38th diennial convention of Phi terday.

Mr. Bayes is here attending the Delta Theta fraternity. "The real fraternity man is not a snob," he declared. "As a fraternity man he must realize more than ever the obligations that rest upon him to be a brother to everyone, whether a member of a fraternity or not.

"Snobbishness amongst fraternity men is almost a thing of the past. Fraternities have always frowned upon this attitude, and as a result it is unimportant at the present time. Today the fraternity is in reality a vital part of our educational system."

College fraternities on this continent, of which there are 95, each with numerous chapters, have a living membership at the present time of over half a million men and women.

"Snobbishness was one of the objection that resulted in state legislation against them. Another objection was the former hazing system. But this opposition is receding During the past year the anti-fraternity legislation of the state of Mississippi which was in effect for thirty years, was repealed.

"One state only no has anti-fraternity legislation, namely, South Caroline, and we are endeavoring to have that repealed.

"Another of our main objectives is to bring about a uniform system of scholarship markings or ratings. The inter-fraternity conference has just completed a nation-wide survey on the subject of scholarships, the results of which showed that there was no uniformity in markings. Deans and registrars are now working with us toward the establishment of uniformity.

"By having uniformity in this respect we will be able to tell the relative standard of scholarship held by students as a whole; how fraternity men compare with non-fraternity men, etc. The attainment of this objective will prove not only an aid to our own aims, but will be a great benefit to college administrators throughout the country."

AGED GENTLEMAN GOES SLEIGH-RIDING

Mr. Darling, of Lakefield, in 90th Year, Enjoys Outing.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29. — A gloom was cast over the whole village by the news of Sherman Hill's disappearance and many went down to assist in the work of searching and in dragging the river.

Mr. Hill was well known and had a host of friends who were anxious to find some trace of him. He was a member of C company of the 93rd Battalion and was awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous bravery in action. Among those engaged in the search were many old comrades in arms.

A Unique Record.

Mr. Richard Darling and his family spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. James R. Northey on Reid street and had a delightful family gathering.

Mr. Darling, Sr., who is in his 90th year, broke a good many records by going out on a blob sleigh on the hill which was well coated with ice. The old gentleman enjoyed the sport immensely and is none the worse for the strenuous pastime.

Probably no where else in Canada can this feat be equalled. Mr. Darling is a remarkably smart man and is interested in everything in the village and a regular attendant at church and at all public meetings.

"It's the very latest—"

To most women nothing is so old as last year's hat. Unless it be her last year's dress, or coat, or skirt-length.

Men can't understand it. They laugh genially at such simple-minded folly. And while they laugh, they are thinking of how queer the old car looks, even though it's only two seasons old, and how old-fashioned last year's neckties make a man seem.

In other words, men are just bout the same as women when it comes to wanting "the latest." It's a deesire shared by everybody who is young in spirit, eager to be in on everything new and different. It's the most human thing in the world—to want the newest, the latest the best.

The surest way to know what is the latest is to read advertising. The advertisements in this newspaper show you what the new styles in millinery are. They'll settle the question of skirt-lengths. They'll show the newest models in overcoats; in touring cars and sedans and roadsters.

And they'll keep you posted on the latest developments in everything that makes up life. The newest theories of nutrition, the most recent additions to radio, the latest tooth-paste and silverware and household appliance. . . .

Read the advertisements in the newspaper faithfully. Get the habit. Not tomorrow—but today, at the very latest.

No advertisement dares to be out-of-date

While refreshments were being prepared, a spelling match was enjoyed by all.

Sandwiches, followed by ice cream and fancy biscuits, the treat of the teachers, was served. Each pupil received a candy man, a sugar stick wrapped in holly paper and a cracker.

After a vote of thanks had been extended to the teachers by the pupils, the singing of the National Anthem brought a very enjoyable afternoon to a close.

For a few minutes the classrooms resembled a battlefield when crack after crack resounded while the crackers were being pulled. Head dresses of all descriptions were on display as each received a novelty paper hat, which was donned by the owner.

After greetings had passed between scholars and teachers, all went their several ways to their respective homes to spend a pleasant holiday, each feeling greatly indebted to the teachers for the treat, which had been enjoyed by all.

OMEMEE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

At the same time a splendid programme was being given by the Public School scholars in the room beneath. Miss Audrey Weir acted as chairman, and as the many numbers were called, each did his or her part to the pleasure of all. Christmas decorations adorned the walls and a large well laden Christmas tree was the centre of attraction. As in previous years a draw had been conducted in which each child drew from a box the name of another for whom he or she was to place a small present on the tree, and in this way all were remembered.

On behalf of the pupils of the senior room, Mr. L. C. Curtis was presented with a water pitcher and six tumblers to match.

At the conclusion of the programme, an abundance of homemade candy was passed, it being the treat of the teachers, Mr. Curtis and Miss Faulkner.

ST. ANDREW'S, OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 29.—On Thursday evening, Dec. 23, the Sunday School of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its Christmas tree and entertainment.

The programme consisted of over thirty numbers. Every pupil of the school took part. There were recitations galore, two choruses by the entire school, and several musical items by the juniors, as well as vocal solos, piano solos, piano duets and piano and banjo duets. Two good dialogues brought much merriment to the audience. Near the close of the programme the chairman, Mr. Hillier Williamson, spoke briefly on the value of Scripture memorization, and read the names of those who, during the past year, have won certificates and diplomas awarded by the General Assembly for memory work. The names are: Diplomas, Misses Helen Mackey and Bessie Lee; certificates, Misses Emily Mitchell, Bernice Matthews, Eileen Rutherford, Ruth Fairfield, Freda Magee, Laura Hall. Mention was also made of the desirability of having pupils attend regularly. Two pupils, Bessie Lee and Bernice Matthews, were presented with books for having attended every Sunday during 1926.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed the presents from the Christmas tree, the said presentation being so well punctuated with wit and blarney as would lead one to suspect that the Emerald Isle had in the distant past some good claim upon the ancient gentleman.

The programme closed with the National Anthem.

OMEMEE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

OMEMEE, Dec. 29.—Santa Claus was the busiest man in town on Wednesday evening, Dec. 22, when he made his annual official visit to Christ Church and Trinity United Church, where he was hailed with gleeful shouts. Splendid programmes were given by the children of each Sunday School, and the parents and friends of the tiny tots turned out in goodly numbers to enjoy them.

Mr. David Weir was the chairman for the United Church programme, and during the evening he was presented with a handsomely bound Bible from the Adult Bible Class, of which he is the teacher, by Mr. F. G. Sandy, M. P. P.

For regular attendance at Sunday School during the year, Miss Mildred Williamson and Lawrence McQuade received books as tokens from the school.

A humorous Irish Christmas play, entitled, "Christmas with the Mulligans," was well given and elicited rounds of applause. After the following programme Santa Claus arrived, and in distributing bags of candy and oranges from the tree, brought forth many bright answers from little ones in response to his queries as to what he should bring to each on Christmas Eve:

ST. PAUL'S, WARKWORTH.

NORHAM, Dec. 29.—One of the most successful Christmas concerts of the season was held in the Town Hall, Warkworth, a mile from here, on Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Union of St. Paul's United Church. Everything was in excellent form, excepting that the roads and streets were covered with ice. The crowd which gathered filled the hall to its capacity. The programme, for which the High School teachers and Mrs. A. M. Smale deserve great credit, was one which varified past records, and opened with a chorus, "Merry Christmas"; recitation, Jean Gordon; pageant of Bethlehem; Indian huntress drill, by twelve young ladies; quartette, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom," Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thompson, Mrs. James Angus and William Smoker; pantomime, "My Faith Looks up to Thee," Norma Armstrong, Francis Jones, Beatrice Jones, Helen Atkinson and Nellie Greenly; Jack Bowen sang a solo, "If You're Good," between the acts of a comedy, entitled, 'Polly Wants a Cracker," which was rendered in two parts, each of which represented a scene in Jeffrey Wayne's home on an afternoon in October. A chorus closed the programme, after which Santa Claus arrived upon the scene dressed in red trimmed with white and distributed gifts from off the two beautifully decorated trees, which were arranged in the opposite front corners of the hall.

The cast of characters for the comedy were: Jeffrey Wayne, a nervous wreck, Orval Kelly; Thomas Pratt, a college boy, Glen Allan; Inspector Doran, from police headquarters, William Dawkins; Mrs. Wayne, just home from her second honeymoon, Jennie Boyce; Mary Wayne, Jeffrey Wayne's daughter, Verna Thompson; Lucerne Neville, an actress and friend of Mrs. Wayne, Janet Dick; Nora, Wayne's housekeeper for twenty years, Jean Walker.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $136.00.

The annual Christmas concert given by the pupils of S. S. No. 8, (Whitfield's), Miss Ethel McKnight teacher, took place the afternoon before closing for the holiday week, Hazel Morton, a senior pupil, being in the chair.

The decorations carried out the Christmas spirit and gave the school room added attractiveness for the occasion, quite a number of the parents and friends being present. Though Miss McKnight had dispensed with the usual Christmas tree this year, there were heaped up parcels waiting for distribution, and the Yuletide atmosphere was prevalent throughout.

Choruses, dialogues, recitations and a Christmas "yell" made up a programme which was enjoyed throughout, and afterward the gifts were distributed, the teacher remembering each pupil, besides being herself the recipient of a number of presents—tangible evidence of the affection and esteem in which she is held by her scholars.

Mr. Hilliard Lang, one of the trustees, made a brief speech at the conclusion of the programme, expressing appreciation on behalf of himself and the many others present for the entertainment provided, and the good record the scholars have made during the year, under Miss McKnight's capable instruction.

A treat for everyone of nuts, candy and popcorn was served by the pupils before the gathering dispersed.

SAINT and SINNER

When Mr. Cluny called that Sunday day afternoon to take Cherry for a ride in his limousine, there was nothing in his ceremonious, affectionate greeting to indicate that he had been seriously troubled by his daughter's efforts to blacken Cherry in his eyes.

Faith watched them leave her heart heavy with new despair. All during the interminable night that had followed the dreadful scene between Cherry and Bob Hathaway, she had clung fast to the hope that, no matter at what cost to her pride, Cherry's engagement would be broken. She had not for a moment believed that the dignified old man would forgive the headstrong girl for the scene she had created in the library of the Marlboro Country Club. But Bob Hathaway's stammered, incoherent explanation of that scene, made to his cousin, Mrs. Allbright, had evidently been dragged out of the indignant woman by her father and believed with a blind and foolish trust. How could a clever lawyer, no matter how advanced his age, believe that absurd story of Bob's—that Cherry had been "acting" out an account of her aged suitor's wooing?

The telephone had been ringing almost constantly since ten o'clock. Aunt Hattie had demanded full details, and had been acidly amused by them; old school friends of Cherry's and Faith's had called to congratulate her, amusement poorly concealed under their gushing sentences. Chester Hart had called and blustered, while Cherry's tinkling laugh rang out in amused disclaimer that she had "meant anything" by letting him make love to her. Bill and Frances Warren had both telephoned, and Faith, overhearing Cherry's end of the conversation with Bill, concluded that the incorrigible little flirt had halfway promised herself to him also. George Pruitt had telephoned, and had asked Faith to come to tea with the family that afternoon. She had accepted, because, although she dreaded the ordeal of meeting outsiders who would be consumed with curiosity about her sister's engagement, she dreaded even more the ordeal of staying with her anxious, silent parents, and answering the incessant ringing of the telephone.

Mr. Lane, looking old and tired and beaten, had refused, in angry silence, to read the paper, and had shut himself up in the bedroom he shared with his wife, the big family Bible open on his knees. Mrs. Lane, however, took much the same sort of pride in the front page fame as Cherry had, reading and re-reading the account, flushing and muttering at the same passages that had aroused Cherry's anger, and smiling furtively with pleasure at the compliments to her daughter.

"He must be a mighty big man," Mrs. Lane said to Faith, when she had read the account for the third time. "I always did say Cherry could marry any man she picked out. It may turn out fine, Faith. He's certainly a perfect gentleman, and the paper here says he's estimated to be worth between three and five million dollars. Cherry thought he had only one million, didn't she?"

"The paper has probably exaggerated, Mother," Faith turned her eyes away to hide the shame and disgust she could not help feeling.

George Pruitt came for her at four. To Faith's intense relief he acted exactly as usual—cheerful, casual, openly affectionate to Joy, Mrs. Lane and Faith herself. And he did not say a word about Cherry's engagement.

"Mother wants to meet you, Mrs Lane," George sat down on the davenport beside her and laid an arm, with easy familiarity across the broad, billowing shoulders of the pleased and flattered invalid. "She wants to call and take you out driving in her own car. It's all dolled up with silk curtains and plum-colored cushions, but don't hold that against it. It's comfortable, and I don't believe it would hurt you a bit to take a long country drive."

"That'd be real nice," Mrs. Lane beamed on him. Of all the young men who came and went so familiarly in the little Myrtle Street house, she liked him best, for he treated her exactly as if she were one of the girls, as she had often remarked to Faith and Cherry. "I guess a lot of people that didn't know where Myrtle Street was will be looking up this number now," she added complacently.

"And oh, by the way, Mrs. Lane," George rose, patting her hands clasped loosely in her lap, "Selma is in charge of a pageant that the Big Sisters League is getting up for charity, and she wants Joy to take part in it. She'll make her costume for her herself, and there won't be any bother for you at all. A lot of kids are going to represent characters from famous books, and she thought Joy would be just the type for Peter Pan. Think she'd like it?"

"Land alive, she'd eat it up!" Mrs. Lane smiled on him affectionately. "You just tell her to let me know when she wants Joy. And my best regards to your mother. Now, don't keep my big girl out too late. Me and her Pa hardly see anything of our girls any more. I guess the first thing we know there won't be any body left but Joy, with Junior trapisin' around with that Fay Allen all the time and Cherry—"

"Good-bye, Mother," Faith stopped her mother's wandering sentence with a kiss, and fled with George.

"Don't mind too much, Faith," George said, after the car was rolling smoothly down Myrtle Street. "She's really a good old scout. She doesn't realize how she embarrasses you, and I think you hurt her feelings by looking so shamed. That's one thing I admire about Cherry—she flatters your mother, makes her feel as if she isn't a back number, just because she's an invalid and old fashioned.

"Now, don't look like that—as if you're going to cry, honey. Take it all back! You're a dear, even if you are a little too sensitive and serious, and I'm crazy about you. Papa love Mama?" His nice, homely face grinned at her, but behind the smile in his eyes there was a gleam of wistful seriousness.

"Don't, George!" Faith shrank from him slightly. "If you only knew how sick I am of the very word, 'love'! Isn't there anything else for two normally intelligent people to talk about? You read books, you hear good music, you know pictures. Can't you talk about those things—do me the honor to believe that I could listen and understand? Be my friend, George! I don't want a lover, or a husband. I want a friend!" Her voice was a poignant wail of entreaty.

George Pruitt's hands tightened on the steering wheel until the knuckles showed white, but his voice was steady and cheerful as he answered. "I have six medals for heroic friendship. Search the world over and you couldn't find a better grade A certified friend. There's going to be some pretty nasty weather for you until Cherry is married—i she really goes through with it—and I want you to promise me to let me help. I don't know just how far the Cluny clan will go to keep the old boy from marrying and willing his fortune to a young wife and probable children, but whatever they do, I want you to know I'm back of you. It would have been a little easier for you if we'd been engaged—the Pruitt name means something in this town, you know, but—well, friendship it is, to the limit!"

WEDDING BELLS.

SELWAY—DOUGLAS.

WESTWOOD, Dec. 29.—The home of Mr. W. J. Douglas, Westwood, was the scene on Dec. 25, at 4 o'clock, of a pretty wedding when his third daughter, Ethel, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Ernest F. Selway, of St. David's. Rev. S. H. Mayer officiated.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Lila Slade. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens, trimmed with flowers and tinsel.

The bride wore a dress of white georgette, trimmed with silver lace, with white shoes and stockings and a silver bandeau in her hair. She carried a bouquet of roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful rope of pearls, and to the organist an onyx ring.

Immediately after the signing of the register a sumptuous wedding supper was served to about thirty guests.

The happy couple left on the evening train for Pontiac, Washington and southern points. The bride travelled in a dress of navy blue satin-faced Canton, with a hat of black velvet trimmed with blue, and a navy blue marvella coat with fur trimmings.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Selway will reside at St. David's.

BURNBRAE, December 29.—The Burnbrae district will again be represented in the race for Seymour municipal honors. Mr. Robert Linn, for the past two years a member of the council is again in the field for the same office. Mr. Andrew Milne, ex-councillor, is returning to the municipal arena after two years' absence, in the race for the office of deputy reeve. He has as his opponent the holder of that position for 1925-26, Mr. Russell Peake, who is also well known here.

Residents of the Burnbrae district will do their part as they have on other occasions to secure the best representation possible in the township governing body, so that the local candidates are practically assured of strong local support.

CANNING RECORD.

HONOLULU, Dec. 29.—All previous records of daily output were broken here recently when the cannery of the Hawaiian Pineapple Company turned out 76,500 cases of pineapple in 24 hours. This represents 1,836,000 cans. The pineapple pack is exceptionally large this year, with the new fields on the island of Lanai sending in their first harvest.

OBITUARY.

SHERMAN HILL

The funeral of the late Sherman Hill will take place from his late residence, Lakefield, on Thursday afternoon at 1.30, under military auspices, to St. John's Church.

PHILLIP BOUCHIER

LINDSAY, Dec. 29. — Phillip Bouchier, an old resident of Bobcaygeon, dropped dead at his home in that village, after he had returned from a visit with his wife to his farm in Harvey Township. Bouchier, who was about ninety years of age, had just kindled a fire in the cook stove when he fell backward and passed out without a struggle.

HARRY LEAHY.

The death occurred in Detroit, Mich., on Wednesday, Dec. 22nd, of Harry Leahy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leahy, formerly of Peterboro. The remains were brought to Peterboro Sunday on the noon train and taken to the home of Mr. D. Kennedy, Concession street. The funeral took place Monday morning at 9 o'clock to the Immaculate Conception church, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment. The pall-bearers were: Martin Guerin, F. Holland, W. Welsh, Ed. Vinette, J. Kearns and J. Holland.

MRS. JAMES JACKMAN.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29. — The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from St. John's Church of Mrs. James Jackman. Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, of Young's Point, took the service, assisted by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie. The pallbearers were Messrs. E. W. Bailey, H. Beavis, John Murduff, S. S. Spence, E. R. Tate and Richard White.

The mourners included her daughters, Mrs. A. Wilson, of Young's Point; Mrs. W. Ayotte, of Clydesdale, and her son, George; also her four surviving brothers, Thomas, James, William and Robert Watson.

Mrs. Jackman was a faithful member of St. John's parish nearly all her life, since coming to the village, and was regular and faithful in her attendance at the services, and it was often said, "If we were all as faithful as she was the parish would do well." She was one of the ever-diminishing group who worshipped in the old church prior to the building of the present structure in 1866, and her love for her church was an outstanding characteristic.

ROBINSON BLAMED BY CORONER'S JURY

When did you first see Abraham Robinson?

About an hour afterwards.

Where did he come from?

He came from the back of the house.

How was he dressed?

In overalls.

Joe Sharkey, the other boy, gave evidence that corroborated that of Lewis.

Foster Broad.

Foster Broad, a farmer, stated that he was present at the Robinson farm the day the shooting occurred. He heard the three shots, and observed the smoke from the first shot but did not see any smoke from the other two.

Did you observe anything in the direction from whence the shots appeared to come?

Yes; I saw a man crawling on his hands and knees just north of the knoll, where the shooting appeared to come from.

Did you see him later?

Yes; in the hardwood. He was jumping from one tree to another.

Who was it?

I am of the opinion it was Abraham Robinson.

Inspector G. W. Burnett.

Inspector G. W. Gurnett, of the Ontario Provincial Police, was the next witness called.

Have you had any experience in firearms?

I have had a knowledge of firearms and bullets extending over a period of 21 years.

Showing the witness the bullet that was removed from Mr. St. Charles Mr. Donnon asked: "What calibre is that bullet?"

It is a 38.55.

Did you make any investigation of this case?

Yes; on November 15 I was at the Robinson farm and placed Abraham Robinson under arrest.

Did you search the premises?

Yes.

What did you find?

A rifle, some cleaning rods and ammunition.

Did you find a 38 55 rifle?

No, but I found two rounds of 38.55 ammunition

Have you been able to locate a 38.55 rifle since?

No; there was a 38.55 empty cartridge case found on the top of the knoll.

Robinson blamed—Take 4 ....

Eliza Robinson

Miss Eliza Robinson stated that she was a sister of Abraham Robinson. She could not remember what time St. Charles came to the farm. Her other brother, Lemuel, spoke to St. Charles, and St. Charles told him he had come to seize some cattle.

Did you hear the shots?

Yes.

What firearms did you have at the house?

Two rifles and a shot gun.

What calibre were the rifles?

38.55 and 44.

Where is the 38.55 now?

I don't know.

Did anything happen in regard to a hawk a few days before St. Charles visited your farm?

Yes, I heard a shot.

The witness at this stage appeared to be stubborn, earning a reprimand from Mr. Donnan who told her, "I am asking the questions, and it is your duty to answer them."

What was it fired from?

I couldn't say.

Who told him to shoot the hawk?

I did.

Did you see him take the gun out?

I did.

Who?

Abe.

What kind was it?..... ....

I think it was a rifle.

Did you see him bring it back in?

Witness paused for a few moments, and finaly answered "I can't remember."

Where was Abe Robinson when St. Charles arrived?

I couldn't say.

Where did you last see Abe?

I couldn't say.

This concluded the hearing.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

BETHANY UNITED SUNDAY SCHOOL.

BETHANY, Dec. 29.—On Christmas night in the Town Hall the United Sunday school held its annual Christmas entertainment and tree.

An excellent programme of twenty numbers and encores was given by the local talent and members of the school. The programme went through smoothly without any unpleasant pauses and the children and others taking part knew their parts so well that prompting was not needed.

Mr. A. H. Monk, superintendent of the school, was the chairman for the evening and without unnecessary remarks, called for the opening number, a Christmas chorus by three intermediate classes of the school. Rev. A. Poulter, pastor, then offered prayer and the programme was well under way and was as follows:

Recitation—Ruth Rowland.

Dialogue, Mrs. Brown's Christmas Present, by Edna Beer and Robert Sisson.

Instrumental—Helen Patton.

Reading, Santa Claus Greeting—Pauline Thorndyke.

Duet, Misses Jean Thorndyce and Verna Belle Lee, accompanied by Miss Alice Ryley.

Recitation, Santa Claus at School—Beatrice Darroch.

Recitation—Irma Strong.

A short play was given here entitled "Our Betty", in two acts.

Scene I—In the comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, farmers, on Christmas eve. They are expecting the arrival of their daughter, Betty, from the city.

Characters:

Sam Nelson, a farmer—Frank Bigelow.

Ruth Nelson, his wife—Mrs. Walter Rowland.

Betty Nelson, their oldest daughter—Violet Jackson.

Philip Lawless, a neighbor and also a very great friend of Betty's—Douglas Driver.

Ralph Erskine, from the city—George Smith.

Mr. Robert Pike, and wife, Ann Pike, country relations—Keith Thorndyke, Miss Elsie Richardson.

Second scene—In the same home on Christmas morning Mr. and Mrs. Pike have arrived to spend the day. Also Philip Lawless, Betty and her father have gone to the station to meet Betty's city friend, Mr. Ralph Erskine. They are just returning.

Each character took her part well making the play very interesting. A chorus of girls sang "Santa Claus is Coming." With that, the bells on Santa's sleigh announced his arrival and soon he was seen making his way up the aisle to the great enjoyment of the small tots. Santa with the help of others distributed the gifts from the trees to the children and the entertainment closed with the National Anthem.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 28.—The annual entertainment of S.S. No. 6, Smith, was held on Tuesday evening last and was, as usual, a great success. There was a good turnout of children and their parents and friends and the lengthy programme, varied in character, was of excellent quality throughout, reflecting credit on the teacher, Miss Sharpe, and the pupils who acquitted themselves so well.

The following is the programme:

As Miss Sharpe, the teacher of the school has resigned owing to having accepted a position on the staff of Long Branch School near Toronto it was deemed a fitting occasion for the pupils and friends of the school to show their appreciation of her faithful services as teacher in this section. An address and a club bag were presented to Miss Sharpe as a mark of the esteem in which she is held by the pupils and their parents. The following is the address:

Dear Miss Sharpe:

We, the pupils of S.S. No. 6, Smith, take this opportunity of assuring you of the warm affection we hold for you in our hearts. We have many times tried your patience, but you have borne with us and we have learned to love you for this and your sterling worth.

It would be contrary to our wishes if we failed to show you in some tangible way our high opinion of you and what you have done for our school. Therefore we beg you to accept this club bag as a token of our good wishes that accompany these words of appreciation. If it be God's will may you be spared to do the work which you are called to do in your new school. We feel that our loss is another's gain. We take pleasure in wishing you every success in your new school. We want you to feel that at this, your first school, you will always be welcome in our midst.

Signed on behalf of the school:
LIZZIE JOHNSTON,
EVA HIGGINS.

Miss Sharpe was completely taken by surprise but thanked her pupils for their generous gift which will always be a reminder of pleasant days and many friends in S.S. No. 6, Smith.

FOR THURSDAY DECEMBER 30 1926.

Mercury and Uranus are in benefic aspect today, according to astrology. Mars, Saturn and Neptune are adverse.

It is an auspicious rule for the lighter interests of life, for sending out invitations and for various forms of hospitality. There is a good sign for meetings with strangers of opposite sex and acquaintances begun today should bring romance or at least long friendship.

This is read as a rarely favorable sway for all forms of advertising and publicity.

Competition for recognition in business or society will be keener than ever in the coming year, but fame after being hard won will be evanescent, it is foretold.

Scholars are to receive much recognition and to be aided in attaining their high ambitions in the coming year.

Wealth is to be poured out wisely for the common good and the fact that knowledge is power will be more consistently kept in the foreground.

There is a sign today read as indicating continued misapprehension regarding the aims of the United States.

Warlike gestures from foreign nations may be expected, but they will amount to nothing, for this country is to prosper in all things during 1927.

Under this planetary government the aged may cavil at modern ideas, but they must accept the changed conditions, for there are to be more startling upheavals in custom and standards of life than have already taken place, it is prophesied.

Architecture is to occupy attention as never before in America, astrologers forecast, for public buildings of great beauty are to be erected.

Art and all that pertains to the beautiful side of life now will receive the right impetus and 1927 is to be a year of fine achievement in the United States, most blest of countries.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of constant advancement in the coming year. Enterprise will be crowned with success and there should be settled prosperity.

Children born on this day probably will have fine executive ability. These subjects of Capricorn often are able to become the heads of big business enterprises.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

The topaz is this day's talismanic stone. Its influence is health-giving, wealth-giving and certain to bring happiness. It is credited with the power to drive away all things evil. The topaz should be always set in gold.

Those who would acquire wealth, today's natal gem, the turquoise, will prove especially potent. A Persian belief is that one who wears a turquoise on her hand and sees the new moon on the first night of its appearance, is destined to find immeasurable wealth.

Pink is the hue prescribed for wear on this day.

The white geranium is today's significant flower. It promises contentment to the home which it adorns today.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A simple little velour hat trimmed with a bow of velvet ribbon that shows the revived fashion for ornamenting the top of the hat.

Hats trimmed with bows placed right on top of the crown were offered by the milliners two seasons ago. There was something rather "tricky," a trifle amusing, about these hats. But they were not quite convincing. What happened was exactly what you might have predicted. The fashion was one so easily copied that it was taken up avidly by the makers of inexpensive hats—both abroad and to a greater extent in this country. So that within a short time after the idea was launched at the exclusive shops in France these top-trimmed hats were to be had in bargain basements in America. After that the fashion was thrown in the discard.

Now these bows placed on the top of the crown have been revived and appear in the shops that we call "exclusive." This would be a surprising development if it were not the sort of thing that occurs very often in the realm of fashion. If fashion history repeats itself in this matter these top bows will not this time run the risk of over popularity. They are no longer enough of a novelty.

Of course there is a difference in the new top bows. Before, they were placed at the tops of hats that rather narrowed off at the crown. The new hats usually show a tendency to widen toward the top—sometimes even to bulge a little. Then too the bows are often larger. They are not so "perky" as the little crown bows of two seasons ago. The sketch shows a new velour hat with top trimming bow of rather wide velvet ribbon, the loops and ends of which droop down gracefully at the sides.

Some of the new hats show a crown trimming that might be called a tuft. A little bunch of feathers may be placed right in the middle of the crown of the hat so that it takes on the out line of a little fountain.

Perhaps the reason why milliners originated this top trimming and then revived it is because there is so little place on the modern small hat for trimmings. Women will insist on wearing narrow hat for the most—part brimless. They like the close, trim line about the forehead. In some of the new hats a tassel or feather is placed at the side rather toward the back, but such trimming is in danger of tickling your neighbor's nose, and it is even in greater peril of being disarranged and mussed up with frequent wearings.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

YOUR HANDS IN COLD WEATHER

Some women wonder why it is their hands always seem to become soiled so much more quickly in cold weather than in warm weather. It is a tiresome state of affairs because soiled hands need frequent washing and frequent washing is conducive to chapping. Hands really do become soiled much more quickly in cold weather than in warm and the reason is that cold weather makes the skin much less smooth. Under a magnifying glass you could see the rough edges of the skin that is quite smooth in summer even under the same enlargement. Dust and dirt collect in the tiny crevices of the skin—and the more you wash them apparently the more rough they become. The important thing is to keep your hands from being rough and this is best done by supplying the skin with more lubricant. If you can endure the discomfort of it, cover your hands with cream or vaseline and put them in loose gloves while you lseep. Do this several times a week. They will absorb the oils they need, regain their softness and hence remain clean longer.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE FEEL OF THE EARTH

They are making the wide world all cement,
And it's mighty fine when you drive the car;
But I often think of the ways I went
When a block was long and a mile was far,
The village street is a boulevard,
And even the country ways are hard,
And our feet, whatever our roads are worth,
Don't know the feel of the good oldearth.

Once I followed after my father's plow,
And I dug my toes in the moist new dirt,
But I walk the streets of a city now,
And the sidewalks burn and the pavements hurt,
Once the soil was soft to a youngster's feet,
And the world was clean, and the smell was sweet,
And I long again for my land of birth,
And to know the feel of the good old earth.

Oh, I'd like to wade through the dew-wet grass
And to cool my feet in the new-turned rows;
It's a long, long time since I knwe, alas,
How a furrow feels to a youngster's toes.
When I smell the smell of the fertile loam
I shall find a place that will seem like home—
Oh, I'd give a half of the wealth I'm worth
Just to know the feel of the good old earth!

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

By Alma Whitaker.

I am afraid sad people feel saddest of all in the holiday season. I notice that I do not receive so many letters to this column during the "merry" season, but most of those that do come are sad.

The happy people are too pre-occupied during festive seasons to write letters, but the sad people feel their heartaches more poignantly and just have to unburden to some one.

So we have Ellen J. Ellen says she was a successful professional nurse who rose high in her profession in a town of about 50,000 people. She was buying a little property and enjoyed a pleasant prestige. Then she accepted a permanent job with the leading physician, who became involved in a scandal and committed suicide. After that everything went wrong for Ellen, including a nervous breakdown on her own account. She now finds herself alone in a big city, too weak in health to engage in the arduous job of nursing. She has secured a job to telephone people, inviting them to have their pictures taken. It is, she says, a hateful job, and mostly entails snubs, and it only pays $15 a week, which she finds barely enough to keep body and soul together. She has no social friends and even her business confreres don't seem interested in her. So this Ellen is asking herself whether life is worth living?

I want to send Ellen back to a country town. I want her to change her whole environment, do new things, meet new people, start fresh. I think one reason for her loneliness aad heartaches is because she belongs in a small community and the big city overwhelms her. I think she should board with a family where there are children and interest herself affectionately in their affairs, make her friendship necessary to them. That would help her recover her health and capability sooner than anything else.

Then there is Earl C. C. Earl's wife has left him and returned to her parents. Three years ago they married in high romance, but she seems to have come to hate him. He says he doesn't know why. He has a fairly good job and gave her a decent home. They decided to have no children, but later he changed his mind—to her intense indignation. So now Earl is alone, very nervous and irritable, and not doing so well at his work. Earl says he feels positively murderous sometimes. He is only 38—but sees no future for him.

I think Earl needs a new environment too. After all, one advantage of being lonely is that one is free to make all sorts of changes in one's life, to take risks, to move around. What about seeking a job in South America or the Orient, Earl? Or getting out into the backwoods and roughing it for a while? If you still love your wife, keep up a correspondence with her, and perhaps succeed in changing her heart. Get out and take a few chances. Don't be afraid of a few hardships. Change all your interests and get a new outlook on life.

And there is "Father" who writes very bitterly. His only son is doing well in a distant city and has his own family interests. Father is a lonely widower of 65, able to earn very little and dependent on this son for small donations. The son has just sent a check for $25.00, without a cheery word or letter of any kind. "Just chucks the money at me and probably wishes me dead," he sneers.

What sort of letters do you write to your son, father? It is just possible that you have created your own bitterness, you know.

CANDIDATES TELL LAKEFIELD THEIR OBJECTIVES IN OFFICE

MARLING PRESIDES.

Ex-Reeve J. C. Strickland Tells of His Regard For This District.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 28.—At the close of the nominations on Monday evening, T. W. B. Marling was elected chairman for the meeting which followed.

Ex-Reeve Strickland was the first speaker. He came down from Toronto not only to say a few words, but also because the occasion afforded an opportunity to get back to Lakefield. He advised people to stick to the village for it is a good place to live and a good place to come back to, and he was going to return as soon as possible. He thanked the electors for their confidence of the past seven years, during which he carried out the duties of the Reeve to the best of his ability. The two candidates for Reeve are good men, Mr. Tanner and Dr. Kennedy, and personally the ex-Reeve would support Dr. Kennedy because of his knowledge of the special road committee of the county council. Lakefield is in the good roads system now, and that adds three mills to the county rate which this year is being rebated. The speaker feels that whoever goes down to the county council must know something of what is going on regarding the roads and Dr. Kennedy is well posted in the matter. People might wonder at his interest when leaving the village, but Mr. Strickland assured the electors that he will always be interested in the village going ahead.

During the past year the rate of taxation had been cut 2 mills, and while the current liabilities are $700 more than the current assets the rebate from the county council will amount to more than $800, so that there will be a balance. The Reeve thanked last year's council for their co-operation, all the chairmen of the various committees did well with great interest and no shirking. This was especially true of the roads committee. It is a matter of regret that Mr. A. H. Clarke is not running, as he finds he can't carry on his work as Fire Chief and councillor. He and his brigade have done spleudid work and have succeeded in pulling down the insurance rates which amounts to a good many thousands of dollars saved to the village.

Mr. Marling, village clerk, explained the statement which showed $700 deficit. The High School Board had a balance left over which was not required and with the rebate from the county council, the village is in a better cash position than for five years.

Mr. C. S. Tanner

Mr. Tanner listened with interest to what the ex-Reeve had said and appreciated it but he feels that Mr. Strickland's interest in Lakefield is more sentimental than financial while his the speaker's is more financial. If elected to the office of reeve Mr. Tanner promised to do his best to investigate the good roads question, and also with the assistance of the worthy clerk to cut down all unnecessary expense. If any serious matter should come up and a public meeting be deemed necessary, he will co-operate according to the desires of the people.

Dr. M. P. Kennedy

Dr. Kennedy gave a detailed statement of the work of the roads committee of which he was chairman.

Last winter was a heavy winter, with an unusual amount of snow, but he had tried to get the snow ploughing done by school time; also we had a good deal of the same conditions existing now, icy streets, and these were sanded as quickly as possible.

A new system of handling the snow was inaugurated, the streets were graded and rolled; this looked well but it also got rid of the snow, and this was continued to the end of the village, and did a great deal to prevent pitch holes and made teaming easier. The roads were widened for the benefit of pedestrians. This year the same measures have been taken to allow the fire truck to go to any place in the village without the handicap of drifted road. In order to prevent a condition at Mr. Strickland's property, which has meant heavy drifts in the past, they got rid of a fence at the cost of $30, which will mean a saving in snow shovelling.

In the spring another new system was instituted in the village—that of sweeping the streets. This kept the drains clean and made it better for the stores. When the time came for oiling the committee were up against it, for heretofore the village depended on getting an oiler from Peterboro, but this year it was impossible to secure one, so an automatic oiler was procured from Lindsay, which, although drawn by our own team and man, entailed greater expense.

During the summer the committee was kept busy keeping the Main Street in shape for the enormous tourist and local traffic. This is an asset from the point of view of tourists, who too often find the main streets of the villages they pass through bumpy and badly kept, and another reason is that if the street is secured. Whoever is Reeve won't is secured. Whoever is Reeve wan't need to worry because there will be a rebate of 75 per cent, and perhaps 100 per cent.

Owing to the almost continuous rainfall there was nothing done this fall. The hill, the swamp district and Kentucky were neglected this year, but we have a pile of stone which was given the village gratis by the Canada Cement Company, and which when crushed will be used on the streets and will save gravel hauling. Next summer the committee will be able to do more work for less money than this year.

The old adage "A stitch in time save nine," is particularly applicable to roads. There will be very little difference in the taxes next year, no matter who are on the Council.

The speaker was a member of the property committee which purchased a new fire truck last year at the cost of $1,000, which is as good as those listed at $6,000. The committee also started work on a tank on the hill near the school, in a place where they feel it would do the most good. The hill district and Kentucky also need tanks, and the speaker, if elected will make it his policy to see that these tanks are erected in due time.

Another new feature this year was milk inspection, which is an important matter. The speaker was agreeably surprised at the inspection of the stables where the milk supply comes from, they are in good condition and there is no need to worry.

If elected Reeve, Dr. Kennedy said, he will do his best to make the village a good place to live in and a good place to come back to. He is in a position to hear the opinion of tourists, who almost invariably praise the village and its well kept appearance. Whoever is Reeve and Council of next year must bear in mind that they are living in a good town and act accordingly. A skimpy Council means a skimpy town. Money spent in fire protection is well spent, and will save on insurance premiums, and what is the difference whether you save on your tax bill or your insurance premium? Asking, in closing, whether they were any questions.

Mr. Bailey enquired as to the reason of raising the rent of the Town Hall.

Dr. Kennedy explained that the charge had always been $15, and this year the insurance companies boosted the rate to $10 per night for entertainments held or the option of a much higher flat rate. The Council felt they would not be acting fairly if they gave the hall for $5 so they raised the rent to meet the demands of the insurance companies. The privilege of using the hall for $15 had been abused in the past, as people who paid for the night's use, used it several nights, and the light bill went on just the same.

Mr. A. H. Clarke thanked the electors for their confidence in the past year. As chairman of the property committee, he advocated raising the rent of the hall to meet the fire insurance. The privileges of the hall had been abused by several societies, who used the hall several nights and kept the lights going till nearly midnight for one night's rental. As Chief of the Fire Brigade he had tried to make the fire equipment as good as possible, he has a good brigade and he hopes for the equipment to fight fires. Prompt action with the new motor truck and the brigade saved a $15,000 fire at the rink recently. The fire truck is one of the best investments the village ever made. Mr. Clarke announced that he was not in the field this year as Councillor, as he found he could not act as Chief of the Fire Brigade and Councillor, and he preferred to retain the former position and would carry on as long as the people wanted him.

In acting as chief of the brigade, the speaker feels he is only doing his duty as a citizen. The report of the Underwriters' inspector was so favorable that the fire marshal in Toronto sent work that the brigade was a credit to the village. The motor truck has been a tremendous asset and saves time which, in case of a fire, is valuable. In the records of the brigade, the speaker has found that there was often delay in responding owing to the team being away drawing gravel, the truck makes the village independent.

In his report, Mr. Clarke asked only for what was needed, and whether insurance rates come down or not it is important that you should save your property and perhaps lives.

Mr. Clarke closed by asking for the support of the incoming council and also that of every citizen for the brigade.

Mr. W. Tedford, who was chairman of the Charity committee in the last council, said that the expenditure had not been high and should not be as the Canada Cement Company is the backbone of the village and if a man is able and willing to work he need not be idle. Mr. Tedford announced that he will stand for re-election.

Mr. Stephen Harrison said that if he was elected he would do all possible for the village and its people and while he is not in favor of a lavish expenditure still he does not believe in the policy of "penny wise and pound foolish."

Mr. J. W. Ridpath, chairman of the school board announced that if re-elected he would fill the position of trustee in the same measure as in the past.

Mr. Ridpath gave a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of both boards and average cost per pupils for education.

During the summer a basement was put under the original school building and which contains two nice rooms which are used as playrooms by the younger children and which have proved a great asset. As the joists under the older part of the building were rotten some repairs had to be made and this plan was adopted. Mr. Ridpath urged the citizens to make the acquaintance of the school building which is one of the best equipped schools in the province for a place of this size and the school board take pleasure in making it that way. The staff of the public school is efficient and duly qualified and the inspector's report is very gratifying. This year the public school staff has established a record in Ontario if not in all Canada as one of the teachers will complete her fiftieth year of teaching in June next and during that time has not been off duty two days except through sickness. Mr. Ridpath feels that a suitable recognition should be made of her very valuable services.

Dr. J. C. Smith, member of the school board, felt that there was not enough interest taken in the work of the school board, which in his opinion is even more important than the work of the council, who are working only for the time while the board are working for the future of the community, province and country. People are apt to criticize and expect too much of the board, who are not in any way responsible for the educational system, which is up to date. The present school system leads along one narrow channel with the entrance to high school the goal of the public school pupil. The high school leads either to teaching (an overcrowded profession) or to matriculation and entrance to university with one of the professions as a goal. May boys are going to high school who would be better taking a course in agriculture or in manual training. This is one of the problems which the Minister of Education must face in the near future. Technical schools will help to solve this problem.

The speaker was amused at the exreeve taking the credit for tax reduction, which he did last year also, whereas it was the school tax which was reduced, and caused the lower rate. Those who have tax bills for the past few years can verify his statements. The county rate and the debenture rate are beyond the control of the council, and the Public Library rate is a fixed one, and the reduction is in the school rate. The municipal rate for the past three years was as follows:

1925	15.3 mills
1926	17 mills

The school rate for the same time is:

1924	19 mills
1925	17 mills
1926	14.08 mills

The reduced school rate is due to increased county and government grants and a larger number of county pupils. The Board does not take credit of this and they don't think the Council should.

Dr. Smith spoke of the unwarranted interference of the Council in the affairs of the School Board in sending to the County Council a written recommendation, which is on file of an appointee for the High School Board, substituting one who had given faithful and efficient service. The idea of sending such a notice was unprecedented and has never been done by Norwood, who have had a high school for year. In making the statement, Dr. Smith made it clear that he had no criticism to offer of the man recommended, but only of the high-handed overstepping of rights, for if this method is continued, instead of appointing one member to the Board the Village Council are appointng two.

Mr. Strickland asked for an opportunity to reply to Dr. Smith.

Mr. E. R. Tate spoke for the Hydro-Electric Commission, and while they are not in a position to render a statement till the year had closed, he could read a statement up to the end of November, but did not think it was necessary. It is always a pleasure to have the consumer come to the office and see the figures for himself. During the year there have been substantial increases in services—ranges, hot plates, washers, vacuums, toasters and irons. The line has been extended to Mr. Grier's home and he gave a bond to guarantee the taking of power and paying the increased rate from The Grove to his house. There is little chance of a decreased rate at present, although the local commission has fought hard for it.

Mr. Strickland, replying to Dr. Smith. The Council of 1920 deserve a lot of credit for what was done for the school, as previously either the School Board were asleep or the Reeve was asleep, as they lost by neglect thousands of dollars of grants from the County. During the past seven years there have been thousands of dollars received in grants from the County. Regarding the letter to the County Council Mr. Strickland feels that the Council acted within its rights.

A heated discussion followed during which the ex-Reeve, Dr. Kennedy, Mr. Tanner, Dr. Smith and Mr. Wagar all spoke on the matters previously discussed.

The meeting adjourned.

ESCAPED CONVICT CAUGHT IN TORONTO

Joseph Chartrand Has Two Days' Liberty After 23 Years in Jail.

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Joseph Chartrand, who escaped from Guelph Reformatory on Monday, was arrested on Queen Street West on charge of theft. His peculiar actions in front of a store aroused the suspicion of a constable who discovered Chartrand had 16 watches taken from the store, a window of which he had smashed with a bottle.

Chartrand was found guilty 23 years ago of the murder of County Constable Irwin of Webbwood, Sudbury. He served 12 years at Portsmouth and was removed to Guelph, thence to Hamilton Asylum during the war. He was returned to Guelph in 1922.

When arrested Chartrand was wearing a suit he made himself out of a blanket stolen from the reformatory. He told the police he escaped with the aid of a saw he made himself from a clock spring and that he lowered himself from a three-storey window with sheets, then taking a freight train to Toronto.

THE NECESSITY FOR LOOKING AHEAD.

Every great achievement, every large project, in every sphere of life, statesmanship, art, letters, music, science, education, engineering, it matters not which, is the result of sustained effort and plans thought out long in advance. The tall hotel or office building, the great industrial plant, are all first conceived in every detail in the minds of those responsible for them and this is so with every large organization of any kind and particularly so with the various All Expense Travel Tours which have become so popular with the public in recent years.

Canadian National Railways have announced two all-expense tours during the summer of 1927 to be personally conducted by Messrs. Martin Kerr and A. E. Bryson of the Kerr-Bryson Tours. Even now the hundreds of details involved in the organization of these two tours have been practically completed and within a very short time illustrated booklets giving a complete outline and describing the many attractive features of the tours will be available for distribution.

But how about you? Naturally, you would like to join one of these tours, either the one going west through the Canadian Rockies to the Pacific Coast, returning through Yellowstone Park, or the one going East via Quebec and the Saguenay River to the Maritime Provinces, returning via New England and Ottawa. Next year, 1927, is Canada's Jubilee Year, the 60th Anniversary of the birth of this great Dominion and the thoughts of the majority of our citizens will be directed towards the desirability of a better acquaintance with the problems of the different sections of our country, which can best be secured by an interchange of personal visits.

The all-expense tour offers the best, most convenient and least expensive means of doing this, but just as it is necessary for the organizers of such tours to make their plans many months in advance, so it is equally necessary for those who would like to join these tours to look ahead and make their plans well in advance so that they will not be disappointed, and so we say "Plan Now."

If you are interested, write Mr. Kerr at 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, Ont., or Mr. Bryson at 44 Silverthorn Ave., Toronto or your nearest Canadian National Railways Agent and a descriptive booklet will be mailed you as soon as ready.

NEW INVESTIGATION OF M'PHERSON CASE

Grand Jury To Be Asked To Return Joint Indictment.

LOS ANGELES, December 29. — Canadian Press. — The Times says it has learned from an authoritative source that a new grand jury investigation of the Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance case, will be opened here to-morrow.

The newspaper declares Los Angeles county grand jurors will be asked to return a joint indictment against the Angelus Temple evangelist, Kenneth Ormiston, her former radio operator, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy her mother, and other co-defendants, in criminal conspiracy charges. The step will be taken so that all defendants may be tried jointly in the super ior court.

A new grand jury investigation was ordered, following additional disclosures made to the District Attorney's office, by Mrs. Lorrain Wiseman Sielaff, the confessed hoax perpetrator, one of the evangelist's accusers. Mrs. McPherson probably will be summoned before the inquisitorial body.

A "Sportsmen's Service" is held every year at a certain church in London. On these occasions the church is decorated with cricket bats, hockey sticks, tennis racquets and golf clubs, while footballs are suspended in front of the chancel screen.

The Trees' Winter Coats

By SHIRLEY HODMAN WILLIAMS

"DO the trees get all frozen up in the winter? Do they get as cold as ice?" worries John. So I explain to him, "Yes, I suppose they do get cold, but you see it doesn't hurt them because the sap, which is the tree's blood, all runs down into the roots where the earth keeps it from freezing while the trunk and limbs are protected by a coat of bark. In that way the tree sleeps till the sunshine of the spring coaxes the sap back up into the upper part of the tree and wakes it up."

WHEN the autumn comes each forest tree
Takes off its nice green summer gown
And looks bare
In the cold winds there
While its leaves lie withered, dry and brown.

But the forest tree is never cold
For a coat of bark is its winter wrap.
All buttoned neat
Clear from head to feet
While its roots lie snug in the Earth's warm lap.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 9

The bidding in auction is undoubtedly more important than the play, but the difference is not great enough for a player to feel that he has mastered the game when he has mastered the bidding. The play of the hands will always be important both from an offensive standpoint (the winning of the games), and from a defensive standpoint (the saving of games). The offensive play is important when playing with the dummy and it is really remarkable how many players fail to make the most of their opportunities. Defensive play is always more difficult than offensive play because you cannot know definitely what your partner holds. When playing with the dummy, however, a player has twenty-six cards with which to get the best results. There is no guess work connected with it so that if a mistake is made, it is due to faulty use of known materials. The following hands illustrate two important principles of dummy play and should be carefully noted. An analysis will be given in the next article.

Problem No. 11

Diamonds — A, J, 9, 8, 4, 2
Spades — J, 10, 4

Z

Hearts — 10, 7
Clubs — A, Q, 9, 7, 4
Diamonds — K, Q, 10
Spades — Q, 9, 8

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one club, A three hearts, Y four clubs and B four hearts. Z bid five clubs, A and Y passed and B doubled. All passed, A opened the king of hearts and all followed. A then led the trey of diamonds. How should Z plan the play of the hand?

Problem No. 12

Hearts — A, 3, 2
Clubs — 10, 9, 4
Diamonds — K, Q, 10, 9, 6, 3
Spades — 1

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — J, 7, 6, 5, 4
Clubs — A, Q, 6, 2
Diamonds — A
Spades — K, 7, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one club, A one spade, Y two diamonds and B passed. Z bid two hearts and all passed. A opened the deuce of diamonds and Z won the trick with the ace. He now led the four of hearts and allowed B to win the trick with the nine of hearts. B now led the seven of diamonds. What should Z play and how should he plan the play of the hand?

Answer to Problem No. 9

A B
Z

Hearts — A, Q, 8, 4, 3
Clubs — A, K, 3, 2
Diamonds — A
Spades — A, 10, 2

No score, rubber game. What should Z as dealer bid? Z should bid one heart. Don't let 100 aces influence you to make an unsound no-trump bid when you have a sound heart or spade bid as in this hand. The game is far more important than the honor score.

Answer to Problem No. 10

Hearts — A, K, Q, 3
Clubs — 8
Diamonds — A, K, Q, J, 8, 3
Spades — 9, 6

Z

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt and bid three spades, what should A bid? The question in this hand is whether to bid four hearts or four diamonds. The latter bid seems the better bid because of the length in trumps. You are almost certain to be forced to trump spades or clubs so should bid the longer suit. If you should bid four hearts and be forced to trump, you would be in a bad position if you found four or more hearts in an opponent's hand. Four diamonds is much the sounder bid.

Second Period—
Port Hope—R. Ware, 10.00.
Third Period—
No score.

Peterborough's Intermediates got away on the wrong foot last night in Port Hope, losing to the Onarios 4-0 in a fas game on sticky ice. Although they lost, the Petes had as much of the play as the losers, but lacked the final punch to score goals.

Play almost all through the game was of the end-to-end variety, sweeping up and down the ice in one, two, and three-man rushes. For a time in the first period the Port Hopers kept the Petes pretty well bottled up, and then in the third period the Petes had a margin on the play.

Ice is Sticky.

The ice, sticky to start with, became quite soft before the end of the game, although a "No smoking" rule was enforced as much as possible. The puck rolled and jumped, spoiling passes, and many promising rushes came to an abrupt end when the puck stopped in the slush while the skater went on. The Petes were affected more by the poor conditions for passing. They rushed on a wider front, and their longer passes went askew more often than did the short, snappy combination of the winners.

The game was remarkably clean, considering the heavy going. Only four penalties were imposed, three of them going to the home team. They were for checking more strenuously than met with the approval of Referee Steve Vair, who kept a close watch on the play. The Peterboronce offence figured in the scoring, Hutchings going through the centre while Maudsley was off to score the opening goal of the game.

Winners' Defence Good.

Port Hope's heavy defence, with the expert goal-tending of the veteran Micks, kept the Petes out of the scoring column. Crossett and Hutchings, aided by good backchecking, had the losers shooting from outside most of the time, and the long shots were easy for Micks. When the Petes tried to go in they were shunted into the corners, or lost their stride dodging the defending pair. Shots from close in during scrimmages were smothered and cleared coolly by the goaler.

The forward line broke away fast, usually going down three abreast, but the fast Peterborough forwards were usually close behind when they hit the defence, and their passing game was broken up many times. The defence pair also found time for some dangerous jaunts.

Maudsley and Thornton gave Micks the most trouble, rocking him with fast drives from outside the defence. The other members of the team also got in a number of hard shots, Lackey being prominent on his rushes. The Peterborough players, many pounds lighter than their more experienced opponents, rarely got through the defence.

All the Petes played well defensively. LeBarr's work in goal stood out, clearing long shots and smothering close-in attacks with coolness and skill. Lackey and Thornton stopped a lot of rushes, although the latter displayed lack of experience at times, his tricky opponents making him look bad. All the forwards checked back hard, harassing their opponents all the way.

Fast Play at Start.

The game started fast, and Referee Vair didn't ring his bell until five minutes after the face-off. Play went from end to end, although the home team had possibly a little the better of the encounter, working better together as a result of the exhibition games they had played. Maudsley drew a rest about the middle of the period for a body check in centre ice, and while he was off Hutchings went down the centre and shot from between the defence men, giving LeBarr little chance on a drive to the corner of the net. Five minutes later K. Ware shot from the left and beat LeBarr. The last goal of the period caused a dispute. It was shot from the left-hand side, eluded both goalkeeper and goal umpire, and bounced out to the right side of the rink. A. Hills was the marksman, and the goal was awarded by the referee, who overruled the goal judge. Time was called at the face-off.

Interference in front of the goal brought a penalty to Hutchings shortly after the second period opened. Play continued up and down the ice and no advantage accrued to the Petes from his absence. Crossett then was chased for using his elbow in a body check. With the teams even, R. Ware picked up a puck which a team-mate had overskated and scored, LeBarr's view being obscured by the other Port Hope man. Hutchings went off for throwing Maudsley over his knee just before the end of the period.

Some Good Chances.

The Petes started one man to the good in the third period, and commenced a bombardment of the Port Hope goal. During most of the period they kept the winners in their own territory, and Micks was busy. The best chance of the game came early in this period when Thornton took a pass back from Lackey, and had the whole net to shoot at, the goaler being off his balance. He hit the post, and Micks smothered the puck in the scrimmage. A few moments later Thornton was robbed. He lobbed a shot that Micks missed, but the rubber landed on top of the net after beating the goaler entirely. Maudsley also lost a golden opportunity. His bullet-like drive beat the goalkeeper, but caught in the bottom of his pads as he made a wild lunge at it, and fell out as he skated away from the net.

During this period the Petes had things pretty much their own way, Crossett being the only Port Hope man to relieve the pressure to any great extent. His lone rushes up the centre were always dangerous, and several times he gave LeBarr close-in shots to handle.

SOCCER TEAM FOR CANADA

$65 Per Week For Two Months' Tour and All Expenses Paid.

$12.50 TO SPEND.

It is now certain that a Scottish International team will tour Canada next summer. League clubs have been requested by the Scottish Football Association, who are organizing the tour, to submit names and positions of players prepared to travel under the following alluring conditions:

Each player to receive $300 for wages. Each player to receive $125 for outfit. Each player to receive $12.50 per week for personal expenses. All hotel, travelling expenses, insurance (accident, personal, and baggage) will be defrayed.

The team, which will be thoroughly representative, will leave Glasgow on May 13, and return from Montreal on July 15.

I suggest that every club in First Division football should be represented on this tour. I get many letters from the Domnion, and in almost every case the writer puts after his name the name of his native place—Dundee, or Aberdeen, or Airdrie, for example.

I should think that at least ninety per cent. of the players in Scottish football will want to go. They cannot all travel, but the following players would, in my opinion, create a stir across the water:

McLachlin (Aberdeen), Ewart (Airdrie), McInally (Celtic), Gibson (Clyde), Rankin (Cowdenbeath), Thomson (Dundee), Jock McDonald (Dundee United), Skinner, (Dunfermline), Scott (Falkirk), Tom Miller (Hamilton), John White (Hearts), Dunn (Hibs), McEwan (Kilmarnock), Buchanan (Morton), Ferrier (Motherwell), Gibson (Partick Thistle), Crawford (Queen's Park), Cunningham (Rangers), McBain (St. Johnstone), and McCrae (St. Mirren).

I do not expect the S.F.A. will adopt the policy I have advanced. Possibly a team of "stars"—two or three perhaps from one club—will be taken. But, in any case, there's a joyful holiday coming for some lucky fellows, pay for which works out at the handsome sum of $65 per week per player. Add to this the club pay for each player, and we find that the close season of the travellers is to be an exceptionally fat one.—Traveller in Sunday Post, Glasgow.

VANQUISHED ARE NOW VICTORS

Newcastle, Leicester and West Ham Collect Major Points.

BURNLEY ON TOP.

By BILLY FENTON.

Monday's results in Boxing Day soccer in England will tend to strengthen the argument that home environment means much to a club. In several games heavy defeats on foreign terrain on Christmas Day were turned into substantial victories Monday. Notably the cases of Sunderland, who lost 5-4 at Everton, and came back with a 3-2 win, Derby County's 2-0 victory on the heels of a 3-1 slide, Sheffield United's 3-1 score at home, following a four-goal "whitewashing" at Villa Park, and Blackburn Rovers' 5-0 collapse at Huddersfield after a 4-2 win at home. Only three clubs picked up the maximum four points during the week-end grind—Newcastle, Leicester City and West Ham United. Burnley collected three points; Wednesday, Birmingham, Leeds United, Arsenal and West Bromwich Albions dropped all four, and the other clubs each picked up two points.

Burnley Still on Top.

Burnley continue to lead the first division, but Newcastle, who slipped back to third place on Saturday and returned to the second rung Monday, reduced the Lancashire club's margin to one point, and at that have a game in hand. Sunderland follow in third place with 29 points, but have played two more games than Newcastle. Huddersfield come next with Leicester City, Bolton and West Ham United in close pursuit.

The Darlington-Barnsley 3-3 score, published Monday, was correct.

ASK DAMAGES BALL SCANDAL

Cobb and Speaker To Sue Organized Baseball For Slander.

IS "IRREPARABLE."

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 29 (United Press).—Preparation of libel and slander suits in which Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker will ask damages from organized baseball for the charges that they participated in "fixing" a game between Detroit and Cleveland was indicated yesterday as the former big league managers conferred with attorneys.

Speaker's attorney, William H. Boyd, and Cobb arrived here yesterday from Washington and went into immediate conference. Cobb so far has retained no legal counsel.

Boyd intimated yesterday that he will go to Chicago to get all the facts in the recent baseball scandal from Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, and Commissioner Landis.

Boyd described the damage to Cobb and Speaker as 'irreparable,' thus giving rise to the belief that the former baseball stars would ask for big sums.

If action is taken, it was indicated separate units would be filed, by Cobb and Speaker.

PREDICTS FIVE NEW CHAMPIONS

Rickard Expects Changes in Title Holders For Coming Year.

IN FISTIC WORLD.

NEW YORK, December 29. Canadian Press. — Taking his annual glance into the fistic future book, Tex Rickard yesterday predicted that five new boxing champions will be crowned in 1927.

The promoter in a signed story published by the Evening World, named Mickey Walker, Pete Latzo, Sammy Mandell and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg as the titleholders he expects to see deposed, with a successor picked to fill the featherweight vacancy caused by the retirement of Kid Kaplan.

At the same time Rickard definitely committed himself to a heavyweight programme in which Jack Dempsey will meet the winner of the promoter's elimination tournament to determine Gene Tunney's next opponent.

"Dempsey will return east this end of January and by July his opponents should have been established," Rickard wrote. "By fighting the best of the challenger he will be able to prove whether he has any chance against his conqueror."

NEXT SUMMER.

LEWISTON, Maine, December 29. Canadian Press. — Gene Tunney, en route to New York from a week's vacation at the Tomhegan camps at Moosehead Lake, late yesterday, denied a report that he had accepted terms to defend the world's heavyweight championship against Jack Delaney, in a match at the Polo Grounds next summer.

Tunney admitted talking with Humbert Fugazy, the boxing promoter, about meeting an opponent next summer, but said that no names were mentioned, and said that he would wait for figures from other promoters.

Fugazy Announces Bout With Delaney Next Summer in New York.

STORY DOUBTED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. Canadian Press. — The New York Telegram to-day quotes Humbert Fugazy, boxing promoter, as saying that Gene Tunney has accepted terms to defend his world's heavyweigh. champion-ship against Jack Delaney, 175 pound title holder, in a match at the polo grounds next summer.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, professed entire ignorance of such steps on the champion's part.

COLLEGE PAYS RUGBY PLAYERS

Receive $500 a Year Per Man at West Virginia, Wesleyan.

IS COMMERCIALIZED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (United Press).—The announcement by Dr. Homer Wark, president of West Virginia Wesleyan, that football players of his institution have been receiving, indirectly, about $500 a year per man for work on the gridiron, probably will be discussed by football officials meeting here this week.

"It is well known that football has been commercialized," Dr. Wark said in a letter to Wesleyan's Alumni. A new policy opposing the giving of valuable scholarships and positions to football players has been adopted at the college.

Charges similar to those by Dr. Wark have been made by other educators during the year, and a recommendation by football coaches and athletic directors against "employment" of gridiron stars was believed likely, to prevent a scandal in amateur athletics.

EXPECT TRADE INCREASE WITH

rival. Another product from the West African coast that may well enter the Canadian market is maize, from Lome, Daromly. During last summer a quantity of this cereal was imported from the Argentine, and it is thought that by introducing the West African product into Canada for cattle fodder it might help to stimulate trade in other commodities. It is also expected that there will be some movement of ginger, palm oil and palm kernels to the Dominion from West Africa.

With regard to shipments from Canada, Mr. Tyrer was told that the consignment of apples sent to the Gold Coast was satisfactorily received. Other produce that was taken out in six sailings from this port included flour, sardines, rolled oats, biscuits, 235,000 superficial feet of white pine lumber, pulpwood, and refrigerators.

Owing to the treaty between Great Britain and France, which has been in force since 1898 preferential treatment cannot be given to empire products, it being stipulated that British subjects and British protected persons should receive the same treatment as French subjects and French protected persons. Discussing this treaty with a number of people in England, Mr. Tyrer pointed out that it was their opinion that Chambers of Commerce and other commercial bodies should take up the question with a view to preventing any extension of the treaty after its expiration so as to give favorable treatment to empire products.

With regard to South Africa, Mr. Tyrer explained that there is a large market for Canadian products in the Union but said that the service of his company is not to be increased next year unless there is a much greater demand for cargo space.

Cornet Used By Timekeeper To Signal End Of Period

The blare of a cornet served to warn Referee Fair of the end of the second and third periods of last night's game at Port Hope, thus setting a new style for O.H.A. games. The Port Hope rink has been remodelled, and only one bell was found after the shuffle. The referee had not brought one with him, so he took the only one available. Some little dispute arose about whether the third goal scored by Port Hope had been secured during the legal time, and the Petes insisted that the timekeeper have some noisemaker available. Nohing else being obtainable, a member of the band, which played before the game and between periods, was told off to stand with the timers and signal the end of the period. The "Last Post" would probably have been most appropriate, but a single note proved sufficient.

PETERBOROUGH GIRL MARRIED IN BUFFALO

Miss Doris G. Pilling Wed To Ex-Weather Bureau Chief.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 29.—W. L. Moore, retired chief of the United States weather bureau who served in that capacity for twenty years and was assistant Secretary of Agriculture for more than sixteen years, arrived in Buffalo on Saturday to celebrate Christmas by planning his marriage to Miss Doris G. Pilling of Peterborough, Ont. The wedding was solemnized in this city on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the First Congregational Church here at No. 298 Byrant street, with the Rev. George E. Merriam, pastor of that church, officiating.

Mr. Moore, who has been a familiar figure at the capital since the Cleveland administration, is professor of meterology at George Washington University and is the author of several textbooks. For the last three years he has made his home in Pasadena, Calif, and he will journey there with his bride after the ceremony Tuesday, stopping for a few days at Niagara Falls to view the winter beauty.

Miss Pilling is an English born Canadian girl, 29 years old, daughter of Allan Pilling of Peterboro, Ont. She will arrive in Buffalo on Monday, accompanied by her father, brother, and other relatives.

Recalling old days and old times in the capital and dwelling intimately on the great people who have come and gone during his regime as weather chief, Mr. Moore told one of those unwritten stories of Grover Cleveland.

"I had no influences and no friends and was just a junior professor in the weather bureau when I was appointed," he said. "I had won my professorship, however, in a competitive examination and this, no doubt, attracted the President's attention. One day I got a telegram at Chicago, where I was in charge of the station, signed by the secretary of state and requesting my immediate presence in Washington.

"When I got there the secretary told me President Cleveland was considering making me chief of the bureau, but that he was commissioned to ask my politics, before definitely deciding.

"'Mr. Secretary,' I said, 'you have wasted your time in bringing me here from Chicago. I voted against the President and shall probably remain a Republican.'

"The secretary nodded and excused himself for about ten minutes. When he came back he said, 'So you're a Republican, are you?' 'Yes, sir,' I said. 'Well,' he said, 'the President left for Buzzard's Bay yesterday taking your unsigned commission with him. I just wired him to tell him that you stood firm. Before he left he told me he thought you had the technical knowledge needed for the job, but that if you hedged or wobbled or lied about your politics, which he knew, you were not the man for the job."

Mr. Moore later was appointed assistant secretary of agriculture by President Cleveland, in addition to his duties as chief of the weather bureau. He also was president of the National Geographic Society five terms succeeding Alexander Graham Bell at the latter's request and he founded the Society Magazine and wrote its prospectus when launched. Mr. Moore also had the honor of presenting the society medal to Admiral Peary and making the presentation speech after Peary had made the North Pole.

Mr. Moore praised the administration of the local weather bureau during his regime and expressed his admiration for "dear old Davie Cuthbertson." Mr. Cuthbertson for years was weather forecaster in Buffalo having retired from the service about a year ago.

THE FOUNDING OF OTTAWA AND THE RIDEAU CANAL.

Ques.—When was Ottawa founded?

Ans.—A tablet commemorating the hundredth anniversary of the beginning of the Rideau Canal, in September, 1826, under the direction of Col. John By, R.E., was unveiled in August, 1926, in Ottawa. This memorial has been placed on the central pillar on the north side of the bridge spanning the Canal in the heart of Ottawa. The construction of the Rideau Canal was undertaken with a view to obtaining an interior water route between Montreal and Lake Ontario, by way of the Ottawa River, and it has played a leading part in the upbuilding of the city of Ottawa, and in the development of south-eastern Ontario.

Fans Advised To Be Good And Throw Somersaults

The cards, signed by President Adams of the Bruins, said:

"Hockey players in the heat of the game may be excused for occasional loss of control, but a fan is not so readily forgiven. If you must throw anything, throw somersaults."

TWO NEW YORK TEAMS BEATEN

Americans Lose at Boston and Rangers Lose at Home.

WIN FOR OTTAWA.

BOSTON, Mass., December 29. — Boston's more savage attack enable l the Bruins to defeat the New York Americans 2 to 1 last night in one of the fastest and cleanest National Hockey League contests seen here this season. Mickey Roach at the visitors out in front in the first period, but Keats evened the count in the second period and Herberts followed a few minutes later with what proved to be the winning tally after a lone dash down the ice. Only three penalties, all minors, were handed out. The teams:

Boston — Goal, Stewart; defence, Hitchman and Cleghorn; centre, Herberts; wings, Cooper and Galbraith; subs., Briden, Keats, Stuart, Oliver, Couto and Shore.

Americans —Goal, Forbes; defence, Simpson and Conacher; centre, Burch wings, R. Green and Himes; subs, W. Green, Roach, McKinnon, Scott, Reise and Bouchard.

Referees—Dr. W. J. Laflamme, Toronto; George Mallison, Montreal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Ottawa took the ice against the New York Rangers here last night and aided and abetted by three valuable substitutes, came off with a 3 to 2 overtime victory, despite the fact that they had been completely outplayed practically throughout the game. The Rangers played finished hockey throughout, their combination and fast skating featuring. They twice held one goal leads, but twice an Ottawa substitute came through with the tying goal, first it was Kilrea and then Alex. Smith, both on individual efforts. Finally in the overtime session Finnegan, another spare, took a pot shot from the blue line, following a face-off and took Winkler completely by surprise. Stan Brown and Bill Cook scored for the Rangers.

Rangers: Goal, Winkler; defence, Abel and Brown; centre, F. Boucher, wings, Bill Cook and Bun Cook; subs., Thompson, Murodck, Rocco, Boyd and Mackey.

Mr. McIntyre said that what Peterborough needed more than anything was efficient servants dealing promptly with the questions as they came up and he remarked that if that were done all needs would be solved as they concerned the managing of municipal affairs.

J. M. Greene

J. M. Greene has had long experience in municipal affairs, having been on the Board of Education for seven years, being its chairman two years ago. He has also been on the City Council for the past two years holding the office of chairman of the Railways and Parks Committee.

When asked concerning Peterborough's needs for the coming year, Mr. Green replied "Peterborough needs a lot of things. There is no doubt about that." Then he explained that primarily the city needs a greater appreciation, on the part of the public of the facilities that the city now has in taking care of their general requirements. Peterborough has good stores that supply all the necessaries and most of the luxuries of life and local citizens should buy in them and not out of town. Mr. Greene emphasized this when he said the store owners and tradesmen paid sixty per cent of the taxes in Peterborough.

On the educational question Mr. Greene said "There should be a greater co-operation on the part of our city to take care of our students living outside the city and in that way make Peterborough a real centre of education for the whole district."

Peterborough needs to build for the future, he continued and he gave as an example of past negligence on this score that of the sewage pipes laid down twenty-five years ago. In the north part of the city the pipes are already taxed to capacity and with continued growth all the pipes will have to be enlarged. This would not be necessary if the people at that time had not been so short sighted, said Mr. Greene. He also favours further development of James Stevenson Park as the parks should be the recreation and pleasure centre of the life of the citizens.

S. A. Lowe

S. A. Lowe is a young business man of the city and this is his first time in the field for public office. He is in favor of more manufacturing plants for the city, and believes they can be secured by wide advertising of the city's natural facilities and cheap power. He also stressed strongly the necessity of the citizens buying at home and home products. He said that the city should take its place as the recreation centre for the surrounding communities.

Roland Denne

Roland Denne, for many years prominent in affairs of the city and a candidate for the present council, said, "I have nothing to say. I shall stand on my merits."

H. C. Huffman

Harry Huffman of 311 Elias Avenue, has not held any position of public service, but he has lived in the city all his life. When interviewed, he emphasized strongly that if elected, he was not going to begin his duties with a bigoted head or with any idea of running the Council, but he was resolved to do his full share of the duties that might fall his way. At first, Mr. Huffman was loath to speak concerning his ideas for the needs of Peterborough out of deference to the last Council, but later he said that in his opinion James Stevenson Park should be opened up for more activities in sport. On the paving question, Mr. Huffman said he favored from the view of economy and service "the plan of the city doing its own paving, since it has the apparatus necessary and also capable engineers. As to the bathing beaches, he prophesied that the Lake Street beach would soon be condemned and he would suggest a plan of opening a beach on the point at the end of Riverside Park, where there is plenty of shallow water for bathing.

J. E. Patte

Jack Patte, a resident for a good many years, but in his first campaign for alderman, said that Peterborough's needs were manifold. He believes that if every question brought up in the Council were weighed carefully and decided on its merits, keeping in mind always the best interests of the city and the taxpayers, local conditions would soon take a rapid turn for the better.

E. A. Stinson.

E. A. Stinson of 197 Brock street, is a new comer in the field, but he has long lived in the city. He believes Peterboro's greatest need is more factories and more work, and in order to overcome the present low ebb of employment he advocates an advertising campaign whereby the people of the neighboring communities will hear and learn more about Peterborough, and its products, and thus raise a desire to live here. He maintains that the council missed at least one opportunity to get a good manufacturing concern to locate here, and it was this that inspired him to throw his hat in the ring. He would suggest soliciting the support of the factories and ratepayers to help defray the expenses of this necessary advertising.

He stands for progressive economy, and a lowering of the tax rate whenever possible.

J. O. Fife has four years of public service behind him. He has been successively chairman of the Fuel, Relief and Unemployment committee, chairman of the Property committee, and during the past two years held the important post of chairman of the Board of Works.

Mr. Fife explained to the reporter constructive plans for the continuation of the improvements so necessary along property lines in the city. He said that the drainage system which has been completed in the western part of the city should be continued in the east, north and south. He advocates economy in road building and to do this stated that the city should secure better equipment for road building whereby we can do our own paving and save a good deal of money. He continued by saying that the programme whereby all the homes in the city should have sanitary conveniences should be continued.

He also said that the streets ought to have boulevards built on them and good macadamized roads on all residential streets. As to the lighting system Mr. Fife maintained that the city needs the continuation of a more advanced lighting system. He explained that this would save the city thousands of dollars, while at the same time giving the better light so necessary on the streets.

He finished by emphasizing that the city should spend a dollar when necessary but see carefully that a full dollar's worth of value was secured.

Walter Stocker.

Walter Stocker has had three and a half years' experience on the council. He was chairman of the Board of Works committee and later chairman of the Fire, Light and Water committee, Mr. Stocker in a short interview declared that the greatest need for the city during the coming year was economy and then more economy.

W. Boulton.

W. Boulton is running for the first time as an alderman. He was out of the city on business and therefore could not be interviewed.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.— (Canadian Press.)—Trading on the Toronto stock exchange was somewhat quieter to-day with the general trend of the market on the downward scale. Atlantic Sugar and Dominion Stores each advanced three points to 93 and 68 respectively, while C.P.R. declined three to 166. British Columbia Fishing and City Dairy sold one point lower at 81 and 79 respectively. Seagram was fractionally lower at 15 7-8 and G. and W. advanced fractionally to 43. Canadian Canners Preferred at 76 and Brompton at 35 1-8 showed fractional gains.

Wheat Breaks Sharply On Selling Of Contracts

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Sharp new breaks in the price of wheat resulted early today from continued selling out on the part of holders of December contracts. Relative firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool had only a transient effect here. Opening at 1-4 off to 1-2 up, the Chicago wheat wheat market soon underwent a decided general set-back. Corn, oats, and provisions were easy, corn starting at 1-4 decline to 3-8 gain and subsequently tending to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 136 7-8, May 138 1-8. Corn, December 69 3-4, May 79 7-8. Oats, December unquoted, May 49.

Several Large Declines In Heavy Mine Trading

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Fairly substantial declines were shown in heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today. The market was not without firm features, however, Lake Shore gaining 10 at 14.60, and Kirkland Lake firming 3 at 73, being two of these, Teck Hughes declined 12 cents at 5.28, Amulet 10 at 257, and Mining Corporation 15 at 3.10. Castle Tretheway, Area, and Keeley all eased slightly.

Downward Move Breaks On Wall Street Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press) — The reactionary price movement in the stock market, which has been under way since Monday afternon, showed signs of petering out late to-day when a brisk demand developed for United States Steel common, General Motors, Marland Oil, and sevral specialties. Trade developments were largely bearish in character.

Heavy buying of Marland and Union Oil of California was associated with merger rumors. The strong buying support developing in Steel and General Motors led to active covering in other sections of the list. Many of the early losses of one to five points were reduced or wiped out before the end of the fourth hour.

CHILDREN GUESTS AT THEATRE PARTY

About Seven Hundred Attend Special Programme at Capitol.

Mr. J. Douglas Fletcher, manager of the Capitol Theatre, was host this morning at a theatre party in keeping with the Yuletide season, when between seven and eight hundred people attended a performance, as his guests, of this week's full programme of pictures, at the Capitol Theatre. In each basket of Christmas cheer sent out this year by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Salvation Army, Mr. Fletcher included an invitation, covering the entire family, to this theatre party, and the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs provided cars this morning for the transportation of the guests, who also included the residents at the House of Providence, and the Protestant Home, and the children of the Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage. It was a very happy assemblage of people, young and old, who enjoyed the fine programme provided for their entertainment this morning.

To prove that he was as good as he used to be, an Ohio farmer, recently on his 90th birthday, had his photograph taken 'skinning the cat' from the branch of a tree.

DIRECTOR OF "TAKE IT FROM ME" PROPS REGGIE WITH BEST COMEDY TALENT

A real star can be a star in any picture or any cast.

That's the theory of William Seiter, Universal director, and he is convinced that Reginald Denny is such a star. Consequently, Denny is surrounded not by obscure players who cannot dim his own personality. His casts are chosen from among the most capable and popular players in the film industry, and Denny has yet to be shadowed by a performer in a lesser role.

"Take It From Me," Denny's latest starring production, which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow, is no exception. An unusually large cast, bristling with well-known names appears in the picture.

Blanche Mehaffey, who made such a hit in "His People," "A Woman of the World," and "The Runaway Express,' plays the feminine lead.

Jean Tolley, star of "The Uninvited Guest," and other productions, has a prominent role.

Lee Moran, former two-reel comedy star of the "Lyons and Moran" team, and Ben Hendricks, Jr., popular leading man, have roles almost as important as that of the star.

Ethel Wales, prominent character actress, Lucien Littlefield, featured in many big productions, Tom O'Brien of "Big Parade" fame, Vera Lewis, Frances Dale, Bertram Johns and others, are also in the cast.

A fashion show with twenty of the most beautiful extra girls and models in Hollywood as the mannequins, is a spectacular feature of "Take It From Me."

"Take It From Me" is a screen version of the New York musical comedy success of the same name, written by Will B. Johnstone and Will R. Anderson. Harvey Thew wrote the screen adapation.

AT THE REGENT

"THE DEVIL HORSE."

Rex is perhaps the only star in the film world who has never been in a picture that was less than a masterpiece—that was unworthy of his talents. And the greatest of these is said to be "The Devil Horse," commencing to-morrow at the Regent Theatre, where audience may thrill anew to the intelligence and personality of Hal Roach's marvelous wild horse actor and to the story, which has been produced by Mr. Roach on a lavish and spectacular scale.

"The Devil Horse" is the name given by the Indians to a huge black stallion that lives in the hills and makes war on the redman. The many tales told of his deeds have endowed him with a supernatural power, and Medicine Men pray to their Gods for deliverance from the slaying steed!

The story is of the early day West—of the building of a great empire—of furious clashes between blue-clad cavalrymen and painted Indian warriors fighting bitterly against the inroads of the whites—of the love of an army scout for his commander's daughter—and of the demon-like wild horse and the important part he played in the great drama built up from these elements

There is an epic sweep about "The Devil Horse" that promises to make it far more than a vehicle for a horse actor. Mr. Roach, the author of the story, has used as his background the boundless expanses of towering mountains and endless plains. He has given it the lurid coloring of the late '70's and early '80's, when this part of the world was new, and, consequently, wild, uncompromising and cruel. The picturesque characters that placed Frederic Remington's canvases of the period and locale among the greatest of modern paintings seem to come to life on the screen. "The Devil Horse" may be likened in its pictorial qualities to a Remington masterpiece in films.

Fred Jackman, the genius who directed "The King of Wild Horses" and "Black Cyclone," is said to surpass his own best efforts in "The Devil Horse." With the equine case and the human cast, the herds of wild horses, the troops of cavalry and the bands of warring Indians he had a gigantic task to perform.

TWO REASONS ARE OBVIOUS WHY WE KNOW LITTLE ABOUT EARLY SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS IN CHINA. THE FIRST IS THAT THE RECORDS WERE NOT SAVED IN STONE AND CLAY AS IN EGYPT AND BABYLONIA. THE SECOND IS THE BURNING OF THE BOOKS.

SHIH HUANG TI, EMPEROR OF CHINA ABOUT 220 B. C., IS KNOWN AS THE BUILDER OF THE GREAT WALL OF CHINA. HUANG, HOWEVER, DOES NOT DESERVE THE TITLE, FOR HE ONLY STRENGTHENED A WALL ALREADY STRETCHING 1,500 MILES.

HUANG WAS GUILTY OF A SERIOUS ATTACK ON CIVILIZATION. FOR SOME REASON WHICH WE DO NOT UNDERSTAND HE ORDERED THAT ALL BOOKS BE BURNED.

MOST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE OF EARLY CHINESE SCIENCE AND INVENTION HAS COME FROM A FEW BOOKS WHICH WERE HIDDEN WHEN HUANG ISSUED HIS DESTRUCTIVE ORDER.

TRENT WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT STRESSES BENEFITS DERIVED FROM TOURIST TRAFFIC

W. F. Fowlds Speaks of Necessity of Treating Visitors Fairly.

LEADING INDUSTRY

Revenue from Tourist Trade Comes Next to Farming and Mining.

Tourist traffic of Ontario; how to attract tourists and how to care for them when you get them here, were the main points on which W. F. Fowlds, president of the Trent Waterway Development Association dwelt in his address to the members of the Chamber of Commerce last night.

"The Trent Waterway Association is the parent body of this kind in this province. This body for the past five years has spent on an average of $1,000 a year in advertising, and to-day results are being seen in the increased amount of tourist traffic. Over 40,000 pamphlets have been printed and distributed, and over 100,000 have been printed by the railroads. The association sent representatives to the New York Motor Show, and here the Trent Waterway was advertised and its wonderful scenic and sporting advantages explained," said Mr. Fowlds.

"The province in the last few years has spent $110,000 in developing tourist traffic in Ontario, for to-day it is a well-known fact that the tourist traffic ranks next to agriculture and mining, and is one of the main resources of this province. Millions of dollars are spent annually in Ontario by tourists, and with the new Government legislation which we expect, the traffic is bound to increase," said the speaker. "In this district last year nearly half a million American dollars passed through the bank exchange."

The Government has seen fit to improve the highways, and with this Mr. Fowlds thought the county speed limit should be raised to 35 miles per hour, as cars were being more carefully built, and the condition of the highways made them more safe to travel on. He bespoke the aid of the members of the Chamber of Commerce in having the proposed Peterboro-Belleville highway pass through Hastings, Campbellford and Stirling, as these towns will send a large amount of

Prisoner Warns Judge Not To Get "Too Fresh"

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(United Press.)—Mrs. Stephania Koslowski was arraigned in Queen's Magistrate Court charged with pulling a neighbor's hair.

Magistrate Giorgio said: "I am going to find you guilty and put you on probation for one year."

'Don't get too fresh with me," said Mrs. Koslowski.

"What," gasped the court.

"I said 'don't get too fresh with me'," Mrs. Koslowski repeated, obligingly.

I hold you in $500 bail for the Court of Special Sessions" was the magistrate's next contribution.

Mrs. Koslowski went, pouting, to the county jail.

MANY HOMELESS DUE TO RISING OF CUMBERLAND

Estimated 250 City Blocks Were Affected By Backwaters.

THREE DROWNED.

Expected Water Will Rise To 56 Feet on Saturday.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press). — The Cumberland River, sweeping through Nashville in the most devastating flood in the city's history, spread over a wide territory yesterday, forcing additional hundreds to join the several thousand homeless who had fled from the surging waters.

The river, rising one-tenth of a foot an hour, had reached 55 feet late yesterday, within three-tenths of a foot of the record stage of 55.3 feet in 1882. A stage of between 55.5 and 56 feet has been forecast by the weather bureau here, and is expected to be reached to-morrow or Saturday.

Three hundred families were moved from their homes yesterday.

The police department estimated 250 city blocks were affected by the backwaters. Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons have been driven from their homes, principally in North and East Nashville.

Simultaneously with the removal of the flood sufferers from their water sogged homes, relief agencies began functioning. The county charities commission swamped with applications for food and clothing, yesterday appealed for $10,000 additional relief funds.

No estimate has been made of the probable property damage in the city and none can be closely approximated until the waters have receded.

Improvement in the southern flood situation was noted last night after yesterday's respite from rain, except in Tennessee and certain localities in Mississippi.

Condtions in the Chattanooga vicinity became more acute last night as inhabitants awaited the flood crest.

In Western Kentucky also the rise in the Cumberland had brought flood waters down upon Eddyville and Kuttawa. Lowlands between Monticello and Burnside in Southern Kentucky were 20 feet under water.

Overflow waters of the Tombigbee River in Mississippi, near Columbus and Aberdeen, were withdrawing last night. A Columbus report said that damage to highways, railroads and other properties would total hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Three unidentified persons drowned near Bentonia yesterday when their car overturned in the flood waters.

MY NEIGHBOR

I want a neighbor that needs
a friend;
I want a neighbor to borrow
or lend.
Not sympathy dried—formality bound—
But sharing the joys and sorrows he's found.

I want a neighbor that knows
when I'm ill,
That brings in his warmth to cover my chill—
I want a neighbor that sings
when I'm glad,
Just as I sorrow whenever he's sad.

I want a neighbor to sit by the glow
Of the fire on my hearth,
when the embers burn low;
And there, of the things that brighten his soul,
I want a neighbor thats glad to extol.

I want a neighbor that lets me come in
When happiness comes, that victories win;
When days that are evil will not begone,
I want a neighbor that walks not alone.

Catching Jackrabbits Speedy Cat's Pastime

MERCED, Calif., Dec. 30.—A high-speed super tomcat, capable of running down and slaying the fastest and largest jackrabbits, has been discovered by E. G. Adams, of Livingston. The cat is the property of his mother-in-law, who lives near here. According to Adams, the cat stalks jackrabbits as a pastime—"the bigger the better"—grabs them by the back of the neck and hauls them into the ranch house for a leisurely meal.

LOCAL PLANT HOLDS RECORD SAYS PRESIDENT

At Annual Banquet of Canadian Packing Company's Sales Staff.

SHORT SPEECHES

Carl McLean Gets First Prize for Bowling Tournament.

That the Peterborough plant again held the record for being the most efficient and the lowest in cost of production of any of the plants under the control of the Canadian Packing Company, was the declaration made by T. F. Matthews, President of the company. Mr. Matthews was speaking at the annual banquet of the sales staff, held at the Empress Hotel last night.

The banquet proved to be one of the most, if indeed not the most successful, ever held in the history of the local plant, the general feeling displayed by those present auguring well for the future.

R. S. Hall, Sales Manager of the local plant, officiated as chairman. He congratulated those present on the splendid efforts that they had made during the year and expressed his appreciation for the co-operation that had existed at all times.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to progressive euchre and a musical programme contributed by the members of the staff. George Logan's Merrymakers rendered a number of selections in a manner that earned repeated encores.

The programme consisted of songs from N. Staples and F. Hall; an exhibition of the Charleston by J. Matthews, and several readings from H. Bell.

The results of the bowling tournament were announced, the first prize going to the team captained by Carl McLean. The members were M. Shaw, W. McWilliams, H. S. Bell, M. J. Shea, H. B. Willoughby and C. McLean. M. Rosenburgh's team consisting of A. Dryland, N. Staples, T. W. Quinn, A. Heckman, and G. B. Cunningham, carried off the booby prize.

T. F. Matthews

"I appreciate the hearty manner in which you have received me tonight," declared Mr. Matthews. "I still feel part and parcel of the Peterborough plant, although I am not with you all the time.

"I am glad to be able to tell you that the Peterborough plant again holds the record of being the best plant we have and also the lowest in the cost of production.

"We directors are proud of the Peterborough plant; proud of the co-operation that is displayed here, and while we have one hundred per cent loyalty everywhere, I still point to Peterborough as an example for all—I hope you keep it up," declared the speaker.

"Take stock of yourselves and be even more considerate of each other for the common purpose of winning out and selling a better product.

"I am glad to be here, more glad than you are, and I take this opportunity of wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year," he said in conclusion.

M. Rosenburgh proposed a vote of thanks to G. S. Matthews, the manager of the local plant, those present responding with a regular uproar of cheers.

The following salesmen were present:

J. McAdam, Cochrane; J. H. Charbonneau, La Sarre, Que; M. Shaw, Timmins; J. A. Bryson, Cobalt; F. B. Pidgeon, North Bay; M. J. Shea, Sudbury; G. B. Cunningham, Sault

MONTREAL DRUG RING SUPPLIED HALF CONTINENT, SAYS REPORT OF MEN WHO UNCOVERED GANG

Canadian and U. S. Offcials Cause Arrest of Five Men.

WIDESPREAD SYSTEM.

Ramifcations of Montreal Organization Astonish Investigators.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The biggest drug ring in North America, which has been responsible for half the illicit narcotic trade on the Continent for many years, has been uncovered through co-operation of the Canadian and United States Governments, it was stated here today by F. W. Cowan, head of the narcotic branch of the Department of Health of the Canadian Government.

Three or four months' work were brought to a head today by the arrest of five men, and these will be arraigned in court later in the day.

Hundreds of ounces of narcotic drugs were being shipped daily into the States through the ring, Cowan said. The United States Government had made several protests to the Canadian Government, and finally Dr. J. S. King, taking over the Health Department, sent Cowan to Montreal to investigate. A Detroit man had been loaned by the United States Government to aid in the probe.

The investigators, representing themselves as big buyers from the States, were astonished at the ramifications of the ring, Cowan said. Drugs came largely into the country from the Atlantic seaboard, and the State of Maine, rum runners playing a considerable part. They were shipped in loads of lath and other materials and distributed at Montreal all over the country. Recent seizures in Detroit, Chicago and Windsor were all drugs emanating from Montreal.

"There is no bigger ring on the North American continent," the investigator said. "It has been the base of half the trade of the continent for many years."

The rink management did not allow skating last night, so that in case the weather was not cold enough to flood, the ice, in any event, would be good.

However, it has been possible to build up the ice and make it fine for to-night, which should result in a first class game.

Prussia's Premier Shuns Palace For His Cottage

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (Associated Press).—Otto Braun, Socialist Premier of Prussia, believes in the simple life. Though the state owns a beautifully appointed Premier's palace in the historic Wilhelmstrasse, opposite the Chancellor's palace, in which Herr Braun can live free of charge, he and Frau Braun prefer to live in their own little cottage in the suburb of Dahlem, a colony of workers' and officials' homes.

Only when there is a state function like a cabinet dinner or a "beer evening" to members of the diet, do the Brauns make use of the palatial residence in the heart of the city. Both are fond of dancing, especially the old-fashioned waltz, though for the week-end the Premier goes off on a hunting trip. He is a crack shot and enjoys roughing it outdoors.

SCHOOL LEADS ALL AGENCIES FOR DEMOCRACY

R. F. Downey, School Inspector, Brings Ideals To Kiwanis Club.

SCORES PRESS.

Declares Newspapers Print Too Much About Murders and Scandals.

The schools of Canada were lauded as the ideal agents for democracy by R. F. Downey, B.A., B. Paed., school inspector for Peterborough West and Victoria East, in an address at Kiwanis Club today, and the press was scored for its attention to "murders and scandal." Mr. Downey spoke to a crowded gathering, many guests being present, with the full attendance of Kiwanians.

The address, which was on "Democracy for Canada," was of an inspirational nature befitting the season of the year, and the information on which Mr. Downey based his remarks was drawn from a wide experience in educational work. "Everyone is sorry for his mistakes in 1926," the speaker said in opening, "and is wondering what he will do about it." He should forget the failures of the past, cherish the successes, and make the failures stepping-stones to greater success.

In painting his ideal, Mr. Downey said he would aim high. Democracy is not a geographical area or a form of government or a political plan. Democracy means a sharing of common interests among all forms of association. It is marked by two essentials: How numerous and how varied are the interests we consciously share with one another, and how full and free are these interests? There are other ways of gaining preferment than by help from those in high places, though it is nice at times to have the helping hand from above. The ambitious man, however, will make circumstances bend to his wish, he will rise to higher ground by his own efforts. Many men fail because of the lack of the stiff backbone to surmount difficulties and rise to places of eminence.

Too many people, in Mr. Downey's opinion, are not willing enough to make sacrifices for the other fellow. If every man and every woman would find in this world the thing for which he and she is fitted, and had the opportunity to carry that thing through, then this would be a happy world in which to live.

In the teaching profession many young men and young women have won success just because of a helping word of encouragement, and Mr. Downey urged his audience to give assistance of this kind whenever the opportunity offered.

Crash Dislodges Bone In Throat, Child Saved

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 30 (Associated Press).—A child's life was saved yesterday by an automobile accident.

As a frantic father raced his automobile toward a hospital, 3-year-old Betty Coughanour, with a bone from a Christmas turkey sticking in her throat, was gasping for breath in her mother's arms. Coughanour's machine crashed into another. Betty was flung to the floor. The turkey bone was found beside her.

Had there been no collision she would have died before the hospital was reached, physicians said.

PARTY LEADERS ADVISE UNITY IN MARITIMES

Forget Party Politics For Common Good, They Urge at St. John.

DISCUSS REPORT.

Hon. J. B. Baxter and Hon. P. J. Veniot Speak of Maritime Needs.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Sinking of party politics for the common good and the advancement of the Maritime Provinces, was advocated both by Premier J. B. Baxter of New Brunswick and Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General of Canada, in addresses here last night. "Commercialize the idea of greater unity throughout the Maritimes," the Postmaster-General urged. "If the recommendations of the Duncan report are adopted, they will do much to keep the Maritimes on an even keel," Premier Baxter said.

Hon. Mr. Veniot further stated that while it was previously impossible to say what action the Government would take in regard to the Duncan report, owing to Premier King's absence at the Imperial Conference, it could be safely said today that every effort would be made to bring into effect the recommendations of the report.

The Postmaster-General said legislation was in the making to nationalize the Ports of St. John and Halifax, and concluded by a strong appeal for a united front for the benefit of the Maritimes.

Premier Baxter advocated high production and greater use of the Port of St. John in shipping goods to world markets. He claimed there was an awakening to the needs of the Maritime Provinces.

CANADA TO STRICTLY ENFORCE ANTI-LIQUOR TREATY BETWEEN DOMINION AND UNITED STATES

Proposed Drastic Action Would Save Both Countries From Smuggling.

TO MAKE ACCOUNT.

Promise To Remedy Issuing Clearance Papers For Southern Ports.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 30.—W. D. Euler, Minister of Customs, announced yesterday that he intended to give full effect to the provisions of the anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States, particularly in reference to the illegal export of liquor from Canada into the United States.

The Customs Commission at Vancouver, Mr. Euler said, had discovered the steamer Chris Hoeller with a cargo of 17,000 cases of liquor asking for a clearance to Mexico. It was apparent to the officials that this was a subterfuge to cover the discharge of its liquor cargo into the United States. The boat and cargo were seized, as asking for a false clearance is a direct violation of the customs regulations.

It is now asserted by the customs authorities that clearances are no longer issued to Great Lake craft with liquor cargoes for Nassau, Havana and similar Southern ports. The treaty imposes on Canada the obligation to refuse clearance to such craft unseaworthy for such a voyage. Navigation is completely suspended on the Great Lakes and will be until April.

It is admitted that the old conditions still prevail in the Maritime Provinces and that clearances are being issued to rum vessels ostensibly carrying cargoes to Nassau, Havana and Vera Cruz, but it is promised that immediate action will be taken to remedy this condition.

OTTAWA, Ont. Dec. 30 (A.P.). —It is proposed by the Canadian Customs Department that a vessel which clears from a Canadian port for a foreign port with liquor on board shall be compelled on returning to Canada, and before the double excise duty held by the department it is released, to prove that the liquor actually was landed in the foreign country to which it was destined. The regulation would apply not only on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, but also along the Great Lakes.

It is contended that if the regulation were rigidly enforced it would not only hamper smuggling of liquor into the United States, but also militate against shipping liquor back to Canada.

Nevertheless Rogers' outfit defeated the Midwick aggregation 7 to 5.

BRITAIN WANTS ONE LABOR YEAR WITHOUT STRIKE

Campaign For Peace in Industrial Field Is Opened By Leaders.

UNANIMITY SHOWN.

Co-operation Between Employed Substituted For Bickering.

LONDON, Dec. 30. — The most powerful drive of its kind ever inaugurated in the Mother Country will be begun the first day of the new year, the object being to lay foundations for the elimination of industrial disturbances, and see if it is not possible for Britain to pass a whole year without a single strike or lockout.

Labor leaders of the right wing, and men of vision in executive positions in the great industries of the country, are unanimous in expressing the view that co-operation between employers and employed must be substituted for the present bickerings during the coming year.

The newspapers are doing their share by publishing opinions on all sides which reveal a remarkable unanimity in spirit. The general stike, even more than the coal stoppage, seems to have taught the country a salutary lesson, and while "Emperor" Cook is in Moscow, promising revolutionary changes in the whole industrial organization of Britain, his credit with the labor movement has sunk to so low a level that his utetrances are regarded as mere vaporings in the salubrious Soviet atmosphere.

The factor that is most aiding the peace movement is the flow of orders now coming in following settlement of the coal dispute. The heavy iron and steel trades have more orders on hand to-day than they have had at any time since the boom period of 1920, and blast furnaces which had not been operated for several years will shortly be relighted.

Re-absorb Jobless

Fifteen out of thirty thousand unemployed iron and steel workers in the Newcastle area have already been re-absorbed, and the Northeastern Steel Works on the Tees, which has been shut down for three years, has once more resumed operations. The steel industry of Sheffield is rapidly recovering from the inconvenience and loss due to the coal stoppage, and even shipbuilding, which has been the hardest hit of all industries since the war, is wavering.

All these signs of latent posperity are fostering the movement for industrial peace to which labor has been converted in spite of the intrigues of Communist extremists.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Speaking at the annual meeting of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation here yesterday, W. D. NO TOBOGGANING ON CITY STREETS

Chief Warns Parents About Dangers of This Practice.

NARROW ESCAPES.

"Tobagganing on Stewart Street across McDonnel, also on Smith, Elm and Murray Streets and in Victoria Park has got to cease," Chief of Police Samuel Newhall told The Examiner this morning.

A party of children proceeding down Stewart Streeta hill struck a Hydro bus and were fortunate enough to escape without injury. Another party came from Victoria Park hill, and swung into Murray Street, just missing an automobile by about four feet. Incidents such as these are a nightly occurrence and as a result the police have taken a number of names and confiscated several toboggans.

Chief Newhall declared that in spite of repeated warnings a great number of the parents "seemed absolutely indifferent to the safety of their children, as they paid no attention when warned that they are coasting on dangerous streets."

There is a city by-law prohibiting coasting on the streets and the Chief said that it was his intention to enforce it to the limit in order that no fatalities may result.

Fresh Bass and Trout For Bethany Christmas

BETHANY, Dec. 30.—Christmas goose and turkey are usually the kinds of meat found upon the household table at this time of year but the residents of this district have had bass, speckled trout, and other kinds of fish as entrees to their Christmas meals.

The dam at McKinnon's mill pond broke away on Monday and the residents were able to pick up the fish which were left stranded when the waters receded.

WILSON GAVE LIFE TO LEAGUE

Senator Says Late President's Battles Caused His Death.

PRAISES LEAGUE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 30.—(United Press).—His fight for the League of Nations brought about the death of Woodrow Wilson, Senator Walsh, of Montana, said here Tuesday night at a gathering in honor of the seventieth birthday of the late President. The speaker praised the part of Wilson in the League fight and characterized the League as a powerful agency for peace, "going along nicely without the aid of the United States."

SCHOOL LEADS

The kernel of democracy comes out of Christian service—go into all the world and be a brother to every man who needs a brother, and give him a helping hand. Democracy means socialization and education—it means improving upon man's natural endowments and helping him to do better the things he would do anyhow. That is th great business of the school, to take the children from the homes of the country and help them to do better what they would do anyhow. School teachers are the great benefactors of the country, having the task of molding the children through twenty years of their lives. The example of the school room challenges the young man to be and become something. "Where," demanded Mr. Downey, "can you find 15,000 people doing more and saying less about it than you find in the teaching staffs of the schools?"

This democracy wants a chance for people to get on. It would help the weak, it would have an eye to the fallen, it would enfranchise all adults, it would give a chance to individual ability, each in his calling. It would look for a free intercourse between all peoples. It would see in the individual the hope of the nation, and it looks for self-realization and self-suppression. It enables the young man to realize the germ of success he has in him.

This democracy realizes that advancement of the state must come through the man in his private capacity. Every man should lift his share of the load.

There is a challenge in the new year to be real men, to give youth the chance. The leaders of the country come from the private citizens; the boy now in school is soon to be Premier of Ontario, Prime Minister of Canada. Upon the school depends what the boys and girls of today will become. Youth must be safeguarded and given the chance to develop, for in the youth of Canada is the leadership of tomorrow.

Danger Seen

Tha a danger lurks in this democracy of the people, by the people, for the people was pointed out by Mr. Downey. It might become a license, when the people would blindly follow some mob.

"Canada needs today a better Press," the speaker declared.

"In my judgment the Press would be a better Press if it gave us less of the murders and fewer of the scandals. Some classes of the Press are out for the stuff we would be better without reading."

Among other things needed, the speaker mentioned tolerance in religion, better understanding and better means of inter-communication. The home is not shouldering enough of its responsibility, he said.

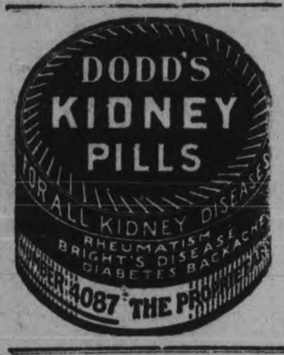
The school is the real agency, and real education is needed rather than training. Waste in education should be eliminated—"There's too much in rural education," Mr. Downey asserted. A diversified kind of education is needed in a diversified kind of schools. Every child can handle something if he is normal, and he should be given the chance. More equipment and better facilities are needed; medical and mental and dental inspectors are required.

Musical Entertainment.

Miss Senior, soloist at the Capitol Theatre, favored the gathering with two solos, and Arnold Spencer presented two violin numbers, both accompanied by Martin B. Chenhall.

The boosters of the day were Dr. F. C. Neal, of the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic, who spoke of the underprivileged child work, and Hugh M. Niven, of the Canadian Sealright Company, Ltd., who told of the making of liquid-tight paper containers. Those winning prizes were Charles Saunders, W. B. Merrell, Jack Heron, Claire McDonald, Carl Brown and Arthur Blade.

Vice-President Isaac P. McNabb, who is president-elect for 1927, conveyed the thanks of the club to Miss Senior and Mrs. Fletcher, and Carl Browne expressed appreciation of the address given by Mr. Downey and of the violin entertainment by Mr. Spencer.



MONTREAL DRUG

Men Appear in Court

Five men appeared before Judge Monet in Arraignment Court today in connection with what Canadian and United States investigators believe the uncovering of the biggest drug smuggling ring on the Continent. They were charged with conspiracy to smuggle and sell drugs as well as actual sale of them.

Fred Monaghan was held for inquiry on bail, as was George Edwards, colored, a porter on the Chicago-Montreal train of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Charles Galley, trainman on the Montreal-Toronto express of the Canadian Pacific Railway; Joseph H. Farley, of Montreal, and Sam Reed, colored a porter on the Chicago-Montreal express, were given verbal remands at the request of the Crown Prosecutor for further questioning.

POISON IN ALCOHOL ATTACKED BY WETS

Senate Leader Says Government Allied With Undertaker.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.) — Senator Edwards of New Jersey, the wet leader, charges the government with forming an "unholy alliance with the undertaker," in placing poison in its denaturing formulas for industrial alcohol. Wayne Wheeler, of the Anti-Saloon League, however, says those breaking the law to obtain liquor are committting suicide.

Thirty-four deaths have occurred in New York from poison liquor since Christmas, and the total will reach eight hundred for the year. Chicago for the year has 328, Philadelphia 150, Boston 145, St. Louis 56, Detroit 21, Baltimore 71, Pittsburgh 130 and Cincinnati 43.

5,000 PEOPLE FLOODED OUT

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Two hundred and fifty city blocks, where five thousand persons have been housed, were deserted to-day as a result of the swirling torrents of the Cumberland River which swept through the streets of Nashville's lowlands.

Without reported loss of life, the flood-stricken populace of the city had withdrawn to whatever homes they could find. Churches and private homes have been thrown open to the sufferers, while horse and motor drays carry salvaged furniture to makeshift places of storage.

The Cumberland continues to rise after breaking the high water mark record of 55.3 feet and early to-day additional families were hurriedly preparing to abandon their homes.

ANNUAL MEETING AT ALL SAINTS'

Bowling Club Reports Show Progress—Officers Re-elected.

The anual meeting of All Saints' Men's Bowling Club was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 28th, in the Parish Hall. Reports of the various committees were read and the treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on hand.

The officers of the past year, C. W. Wiggins, president, Jas. Runnett, vice-president, H. Detcher, treasurer and Charles Cheverill, secretary, were unanimously re-elected to office for the ensuing year.

During the evening President Wiggins, on behalf of the club, presented the secretary with an engraved set of cuff links in recognition of his services during the past year.

The club has a membership of about forty men who, during the summer, enjoy the good old game of bowls on the church lawn, and during the winter months carry on with carpet bowling in the basement of the Parish Hall. They also hold social evenings once a week when they join with the members of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club, which has a membership of over thirty.

During the last summer the men's club erected, by community effort, on the church lawn, a very substantial and comfortable club house and they intend during the coming summer to make other improvements on the lawn and church grounds. They will at all times welcome any bowlers.

During the winter months Tuesday and Thursday evenings are devoted to the carpet bowling. The intention is to run off a very interesting tournament between Jan. 1st and Easter.

SPONSOR OF BILL EXPECTS PASSAGE

Senator Lenroot Believes Milk and Cream Bill Will Pass.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, sponsor for the Lenroot Tabor Milk and Cream Bill in the Senate, said he expected passage of this bill early in January without serious opposition.

The bill has been the subject of much apprehension among Canadian dairy interests because of the fear that under it sanitary restrictions would be imposed by this country intended to bar Canadian milk and cream.

SHOCK BELIEVED CAUSED BY 'QUAKE

Sydney Residents Awakened By Shaking Buildings This Morning.

SYDNEY, N. S., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Many residents of Sydney and North Sydney were awakened by a fairly heavy shock of some kind which shook the buildings and rattled the windows and doors at about 12.30 o'clock this morning. No damage was caused by what later comparison of notes has convinced many people must have been a slight earthquake shock.

Strict business principles combined with economy should convert the Utilities into a revenue producing asset, creating a surplus after attending to the necessary improvements and extensions; the surplus used to reduce the burden of taxes, which would have a tendency to lowering the rents and making Grand Old Peterborough a better Peterborough to live in. Two Commissioners are already on the job; only one to be elected.

SHOULD BE CARRIED.

The ratepayers of North Monaghan are expected to give a friendly reception to the bylaw fixing the assessment of the Brinton Carpet Company at $15,000 for a term of five years.

This industry has given employment to many residents of the township, and with the addition completed this year and the new building that is rapidly being finished, will provide work for a much larger staff, many of whom will undoubtedly be North Monaghan taxpayers.

The new building, which is to house a new equipment of looms, is 60 feet by 215, while the addition to the main building is 75 feet by 150, the two thus representing a very substantial increase in the size of the plant.

The concession asked for is for a comparatively short period, and in view of the expansion of the plant and the consequent increased employment possibilities for North Monaghan residents, the people of the township are likely to regard the request as entirely reasonable and see to it that the bylaw is carried by a substantial majority.

SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED.

The Examiner referred editorially yesterday to the presence of mind of the Bell Telephone operator whose alertness led to the discovery of a bad fire in the business section, the article mentioning that this was not the first case of this kind.

It now transpires that it was the same operator in both instances, and The Examiner is of the opinion that some civic recognition might well be made of the splendid conduct of Miss Katherine Martin, the operator in question.

Had either of these fires—both in the heart of the business section—been given a longer start the result might easily have been a blaze sweeping over a considerable area.

Both were of a nature not easily detected by a passer-by, as there was no outward evidence of a fire.

It took the combination of a glowing light on the telephone switchboard and the quick thinking of a girl to sense out these two fires and to bring the Fire Department on the scene in time to subdue the flames before they got beyond control.

Miss Martin has thus twice averted a disastrous conflagration.

Her presence of mind should not go unrecognized.

MUST VOTE FOR FOUR.

It should not be necessary to remind local electors of the regulations in regard to the election of Aldermen on Saturday, inasmuch as the present system has been in force for a number of years and the people should be thoroughly familiar with its details.

However, for the benefit of those who are voting for the first time and of other electors who have a habit of forgetting such things, it may be mentioned that it is necessary in order to make one's ballot valid to vote for at least four candidates for the Council.

Five Aldermen are to be elected and the voter, if he sees fit, may vote for that number; he must in any case mark his ballot for four candidates.

Electors are being notified by mail as to where they vote, the schools being again used as polling places, but in the event of no notice being sent to a citizen who is qualified to vote, he should make some inquiries before concluding that he has been left off the list.

Efficient as is the City Clerk's Department and the postal service, there is always room for mistakes, and electors who have not received a notice should make sure by looking into the matter on their own account.

COMPLETING THE CANAL.

The Trent Waterway Development Association, which has done excellent service for the whole district through which the waterway runs, is to devote its energies during the coming year not only towards advertising the charms of this section of Ontario as a tourists' paradise, but also towards urging upon the Dominion Government the desirability of completing the canal.

In these much-to-be-desired objects the association should have the enthusiastic backing of the people of the Trent Waterway district.

During the war and the period of re-adjustment that followed the struggle it was perhaps a wise policy not to press too eagerly for the completion of the canal, but the time has come when this work can be justifiably asked for as necessary and desirable.

The advantages that would follow the carrying out of the comparatively small construction work left to be done are evident to everyone in this part of the Province, and no difficulty should be found in presenting a very strong case for the consideration of the Government.

In this mission there should be no politics; leaders of both parties in the section affected should throw themselves into the movement and determinedly press for the necessary appropriations for this work.

The Trent Waterway Association should have little trouble in securing such an expression of public opinion from the people of the municipalities along the canal that the Federal Government will have to pay attention to their request.

ON INDUSTRIAL PEACE.

Great Britain has suffered to a considerable extent since the close of the European war from depression and unemployment in certain branches of industry. The country has sustained severe losses during the present year as a result of the dispute between the coal mine owners and their employers. The coal industry alone did not bear the consequences of the miners' strike of seven months' duration. Other industries were hampered by the scarcity and high price of coal; internal and external trade were affected; unemployment was increased and public expenditures were augmented.

It is not surprising, therefore, that many people in the United Kingdom should be looking about for a basis upon which a lasting industrial peace could be established in the land. Their quest was the subject of discussion at a luncheon recently given in London by the Westminster Gazette. Two questions were enunciated at that gathering: "Do you consider some expert organization embodying the spirit of the League of Nations desirable for British industry?" and "Do you consider the Government should take the initiative in bringing the parties in industry together?" With these two questions the speakers of the occasion dealt. Those speakers were Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, the Minister of Labor in the Baldwin Government; Sir Hugh Bell, an iron and steel manufacturer; Mr. Ben Turner, President of the National Union of Textile Workers; Mr. C. T. Cramp, Secretary of the railwaymen's national organization; Sir John Simon and Viscount Grey of Falloden. The speakers, it may be said, were not prepared to reply to the two questions submitted to them, unanimously and without qualification, in the affirmative. It was noticeable, on the other hand, that Mr. Ben Turner and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland were both reported as reaching the same conclusion. That conclusion was that neither strikes nor lock-outs should take place without a submission of the questions in dispute to some conciliation court for investigation and report. "While there is a Conciliation Act there should never be a strike or a lock-out," said Mr. Turner, "without an industrial court being formed and a public enquiry being held. Why cannot the Federation of British Industries and the Trade Union Congress sit down together and see these things through?" Sir John Simon seized upon these observations to direct attention to the operation of the Industrial Disputes' Investigation Act in Canada and suggested that the principle and procedure of that statute might be worthy of consideration in Great Britain. Following the meeting it was reported that a group of prominent Labor men had been formed to explore the possibilities of the industrial peace movement from the trade unionists' point of view.

The formation of such a group would be encouraging to those who are hoping for constructive efforts to establish industrial peace. After all, as Mr. Cramp and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland pointed out at the London meeting, though disputes arise in industry, employers and employees have certain interests in common. As Mr. Cramp and the Minister of Labor indicated, both employers and employees have reason to desire to increase the productivity of British industries. If those industries are productive, able to sell in their home market and able to compete for business in other countries, they can employ workers and pay wages sufficient to maintain or improve the standards of living of those workers.—Mail and Empire.

A RURAL TRAGEDY.

(From The Guelph Mercury)

Many years ago little villages dotted the country and formed meeting places for large and prosperous rural communities.

For some years they have been quietly but surely passing out. Where they stood, there remains the skeleton of what once was a thriving business centre of many stores, the indispensable blacksmith shop, two or three churches and a collection of happy and prosperous homes, filled with contented families.

Mimosa, in the environs of Guelph, situated about 15 miles away, is the latest of these little places to sing its swan song of dissolution. In the report of the correspondent last week is the account of the auction sale of the last store in the place, along with its contents, the business all having flown elsewhere. Once there were three stores in the little hamlet.

Hundreds of little villages in Ontario have passed out the same way. The farmers of the district are quite as numerous as before, more prosperous and ambitious, but the mail order store and the automobile enticed them away from their own little village merchant until that worthy might have died of starvation had he depended entirely on the trade of his neighbors.

The insatiable maw of the cities has swallowed up many of these small places. Those who labored on the farms and dwelt in the village lost their employment because of the general adoption of labor-saving agricultural machinery. The business of the stores went elsewhere, and when the farmer took to buying ready-made horseshoes and fitting them to his own horse, and the motor car so largely displaced the horse, the village smithy, that used to be the centre of attraction for the small boy, was forced to close up, just as the stores did.

Mimosa may now be said to be non-existent. It will not even have a post-office, mail being delivered from a large centre by rural carrier. The passing of these villages is a real tragedy for rural folks. They furnished the meeting place for hundreds of people. Today they are deserted. The general store in which was located the post-office, was the centre of attraction and gossip. Today it is but a memory.

Notwithstanding this, country life is more desirable than ever before, with the telephone, automobile, radio, rural mail and in growing degree Hydro-electric power and light

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO, Dec. 30—The cattle market remains inactive. This is accounted for, to a large extent, by the heavy consumpion of poultry as is usual a this time of year and the fact that the retailers, who usually stock up with large quantities of beef, much of it being used for display purposes during the holiday season, still have some of this to sell.

With hold-over of over 300 head of cattle from Tuesday and additional receipts of 540 yesterday packers are not readily absorbing the offerings and indications are that there will be a considerable surplus next week with the arrival of the usual heavy Monday receipts.

A few sales were made in butcher cattle, although the trade was slow Cows were steady at $4.50 to $5.25 a cattle, although the trade was slow. hundred for best. Odd lots of heavy steers sold to exporters at $6.75 to $7.50 a hundred.

With receipts numbering 123 for the day, calves were stronger at $13 to $14 a hundred for choice stock.

Owing to light receipts there is a favorable market for calves at present.

There were 1,385 hogs received yesterday, being 25c stronger in price than Tuesday; $11.65 off the cars was paid for thick smooths, with selects at $12.77.

Good lambs sold at a steady price of $11 a hundred, culls and bucks selling at $8. A top of $6.50 a hundred was paid for the few sheep offering.

Commission men are advising their shippers to hold back shipments until the middle of January.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.85 5-16.
Sterling cables—$4.85 15-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press) — Wheat prices averaged lower yesterday, influenced largely by persistent selling on the part of traders who sought to avoid financing wheat deliverable on December contracts. Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at 5-8c net decline to 1-4c advance; with corn 3-8c off to 1 1-4c gain; oats 1-4 to 3-8c and 3-4c up, and provisions varying from 10 cents drop to a rise of equal exetent.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. Cash demand here was better, sales being the largest in some time. A little buying proved sufficient to rally oats.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press)—Cattle 11,000; best long yearlings $11.25; closely sorted 1,335 pound bullocks $10.75; kinds scaling 1,372 to 1,438 pounds $10.50; bulls strong to 15 cents higher; vealers steady. $12.25 to $13.50, mostly to packers; outsiders upward to $14.00.

Hogs 21,000; slow; bulk late sales desirable hogs $11.55 to $11.65; most packing sows $10.40 to $10.75; few desirable slaughter pigs $11.50 to $11.65.

Sheep 16,000; bulk wool lambs $12.25 to $13.00; most heavies around $11.50; fat ewes $5.00 to $6.50; top $6.75.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press) — There was an improvement in the demand from United Kingdom importers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday, but as the prices bid were in most cases below working basis the volume of business accomplished was small. There was some further demand from New York exporters for ocean grain room to the continent and engagements were made to Rotterdam and Hamburg at seventeen cents per hundred pounds for January loading.

In the domestic cash grain market the only business of importance reported was the sale of a few loads of No. 3 Canadian western barley at two cents per bushel over the Winnipeg December option. The local and country trade in oats was quiet, but prices were steady.

On account of the further weakness in the cash wheat situation at Winnipeg to-day an easier feeling prevailed in the local market for spring wheat grades of flour, but there was no actual change in prices announced. The local and export trade was quiet.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for winter wheat grades of flour and prices were reduced ten to fifteen cents per barrel. This was attributed to the small demand and the increased offerings from Ontario millers.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and steady.

Considerable business was transacted in fresh and storage eggs and price were steady. The receipts were 1,461 cases.

A steadier feeling prevailed in the market or potatoes which was attributed to the improved demand and the fact that track stocks were small. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag of ninety pounds. New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.55 per bag; and Quebec white stock at $1.40 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The demand for butter continued good and prices were firm. The receipts were 16 packages.

The cheese market was without any new feature to note, the demand being quiet and the undertone steady. The receipts were 27 boxes.

A Thought For To-day

THEN AND NOW

Vice-President Dawes said to a Philadelphia reporter: "I have not yet seen the exposition, but I certainly shall be glad to visit it. Fifty years ago I went to see the Centennial, but I had to shovel coal for 25 cents a day to earn admission fee and then I got sick." Only one of the many experiences boys in the seventies had to undergo to get spending money. It's different now, with boys given money six nights a week by their parents to go to picture shows. But it may well be doubted if the present indulgences given youth result in making first-rate men of them. There's something in work from boyhood on that gives quality to men.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

VACCINATION

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Isaac L. Peebles M.D., writes: —

Where vaccination has been made compulsory the death rate from small pox, has gone from 10, 14 and 18 per cent., to 65 and 85 per cent.

The most rigidly vaccinated countries, without regard to sanitation, have the most small pox; but those countries that have given proper attention to sanitation and less attention to vaccination, have had fewer deaths from smallpox.

Hence Dr. C. K. Millard, health officer of Leicester, England, could wisely declare that small pox lessened or declined in proportion to the neglect of vaccination and in proportion to proper attention given to isolation and sanitation.

Doctors do not know the origin of eight different skin diseases, much less the character of smallpox, vaccine, cancer, etc.

The undersigned claims it is unwise to carelessly put our lives into hands to carry out ignorant experiments.

FROM MR. MERRELL.

To the Editor:

Dear sir:

I understand that I have been severely criticized by some of the Fergusonites for backing up J. J. Duffus for Senator, owing to the fact that he was a Roman Catholic. The appointment has been made and has gone to W. H. McGuire, a Toronto lawyer, of the same faith, and Toronto gets something that Peterboro should have. It was another song when a vast number of the Roman Catholic faith left their party and supported the Ferguson Government control policy. In all my letters to the Voice of the People I have always tried to stand behind the highest ideals, regardless of church or state, and it is only as we as citizens back up the best interests of our city can we expect our city to take the place in the Dominion that it should take. Thanking you, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. H. MERRELL.

THE UTILITIES COMMISSION.

Mr. Editor:

Just a few lines of our paper will suffice to bring to a point of view in connection with the municipal elections, which is overlooked by the electors.

The Utilities Commission is apparently looked upon as a sort of post graduate school for ex-aldermen, who no doubt did good service in that capacity, but it should be considered from a different angle altogether.

The Commission dispenses services to the public for which they pay pro rata, their bills being in a class by themselves on account of being so involved with power factor and maximum demand. It is therefore in the very best interests of the electors to have one member of the commission who does understand the technical details.

We have in the sitting members a politician and a business man, and it seems to me that with the election of the electrical engineer, Mr. Shirley, we would be represented by a strong combination, hard to beat.

Yours sincerely,
P. MANNING.

STEER MEAT THE BEST

Cows are the mother beef animal, and are raised for either reproduction purposes or for milk. Profitable reproduction ends when the cow is about six years old, after that she is quickly fattened and sold for beef. This speedy fattening puts the fat on the outside, and does no distribute it properly through the tissues.

Cow beef contains only 75% of nourishing tissue and 25% bone, while the steer beef animal is composed of 85% nourishing tissue and only 15% bone.

Steers are raised just for one purpose, and that is to develop good beef meat; whereas the cow meat is sold after fattening cows when they are no longer reproducing or giving a sufficient amount of milk.

Tuberculosis with cows is quite common and the meat is sold for food unless the tuberculosis is very pronounced. We have learned to make the cow produce offspring and milk for commercial purposes, and it s life is thereby shortened and its system weakened by this. The meat from such an animal is, of course, not as good for food as when the animal is raised perely for the purpose of furnishing the best kind of meet.

Steer meat is not only more desirable from the standpoint of being more wholesome, but it is also in the end the cheapest meat as its food value in proportion to its weight is so much higher than cow meat. The cow meat is insipid in taste and contains too much water. The steer meat is more solid and there is less waste because of the larger amount of nourishing protein, and the firmness of the flesh.

Steer beef contains more than 21% of greater food value than cow beef.

After you have purchased a good steak of steer meat do not spoil it by frying, but learn to broil it either under the broiler, or by the process known as "Pan Broiling."

Cut all the fat from the steak and have a dry pan ready without any grease on the fire. Pick up the steak with a fork and place it in the pan turning it immediately; pick up again and turn over. Continue doing this until the steak is cooked as much as you desire. The outside will be, of course, singed by the hot pan, but a delicious flavor will be imparted to the steak which is similiar to the flavor secured from barbecued meat.

If you will cook your steak by broiling or by this pan broiling process you will get a great deal more good from it than if it is coated by the fat from frying.

Do not be misled into buying cheap meat as there are so many grades of meat on the market, and many of an inferior quality. Always ask for the "Class-A" meat, and when using beef insist on steer meat, paying whatever price is necessary to pay to get the best meat possible.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

YOUR AMBITION
By Dr. Frank Crane.

In Abraham Lincoln's first political speech, he said to the voters of Sangamon County:

"Every man is said to have his particular ambition. Whether this be true or not, I can say, for one, that I have no other so great as that of being truly esteemed by my fellowmen, by rendering myself worthy of their esteem."

That was Lincoln's early ambition and one which subsequent events indicate he kept throughout his life.

Contrast with that Napoleon's professed life ambition:

"I propose to make the Mediterranean a French lake!"

In the two the whole life story of each is contained—their achievements and their places in the mind of posterity.

What is your ambition?

If you didn't have to tell anyone, but just by wishing after you have gone to be could make it come true, what one thing would you like to do most?

Would it be to make one hundred thousand dollars, put it into safe bonds, and have an income assured that would enable you to be protected from want the rest of your life?

Would it be to visit some strange or faraway country?

Would it be to be elected to a high office, to write a "best seller," or get in the movies, or what?

Would it be something that would come right away, or would it take time to achieve?

Would it be to have something, to do something, or to be something?

Just what is your particular ambition?

There are two things to remember about ambition.

Ambition of the right sort is one of the most valuable characteristics of a worthwhile man. It is nothing to be ashamed of.

"Ambition is a spirit of the world
That causes all the ebbs and flows of nations.
Keeps mankind sweet by action: without that
The world would be a filthy, settled mud."

The second idea was put into words by one of the true gentlemen of the world, Sir Philip Sidney, who, in an age of hypocrisy wore the ideals of chivalry in his heart.

"To be ambitious of true honor, of the true glory and perfection of our natures, is the very principle and incentive of virtue; but to be ambitious of titles, place, of ceremonial respects and civil pageantry, is as vain and little as the things are which we court."

CANADIAN INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL COMPANY LIMITED
Montreal Toronto Corbyville Winnipeg Vancouver

ADD PERCENTAGE WOOD ALCOHOL

Chemists Say It Is Not Responsible For Numerous Deaths.

TOO MUCH DRINKING.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Too rapid drinking of present day liquor and too much of it at one time is the principal cause of the large number of holiday alcoholic fatalities, in the opinion of government chemists, who are busy devising new adulterants to put in industrial alcohol that may get into bootleg channels.

James M. Doran, chief of the prohibition units chemists, yesterday scouted the possibility that the wood alcohol which is used to denature the industrial product had caused any of the numerous recent deaths among drinkers.

While only two per cent of wood alcohol is now used in most of the government formulae for denaturing, a new formula which goes into effect January 1 calls for the addition of four per cent of wood alcohol. However, pyrodins and other chemicals now used will be eliminated in this formula.

"The effect of this change," Mr. Doran said, will be to make it almost impossible for bootleggers to distil the methyl or wood alcohol out of the industrial alcohol they are to use. Tests have shown that a very bad taste will remain in the product even after it is distilled, if four per cent of wood alcohol is used.

"It is impossible that such a small quantity of wood alcohol, even if drunk, would cause serious injuries; while large quantities of wood alcohol cause blindness, there are no records to show that the small quantities, even if steadily taken, would have a cumulative effect later."

The Treasury Department and Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, are anxious to denature alcohol by the use of as little poison as possible, but they insist that the internal revenue require the use of strong denaturant.

At the suggestion of General Andrews, prohibition chemists are seeking to make the denaturant result in more distasteful products rather than more poisonous, and Mr. Doran said the new formula, while containing double the amount of wood alcohol, was not more poisonous because of the elimination of the pyrodines and other chemicals.

CHANGED CLOTHES IN DRESSING ROOM

Admission Made By Janitor in Winnipeg Theatre Fire Investigation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec 30 (Canadian Press).—Admission was obtained yesterday from Claude H. Leigh, night watchman of the Winnipeg theatre, that he changed his clothes in one of the basement dressing rooms on the morning of the fire which destroyed the building with the loss of four lives and nine injured. Leigh was one of the six men held in custody since the official probe of the fire started. He was released on bail yesterday. The others are still being held.

Reports were in circulation that the police were searching for a mysterious man, who, according to employees in a plant near the theatre, entered the building a few hours before the fire was noticed.

According to the police, Leigh admitted that a "beer party" was held in one of the theatre dressing-rooms on the night before the outbreak. Six men are alleged to have been at the party.

The official inquiry will start on Tuesday night.

CRITICIZES USE OF U. S. MARINES IN NICARAGUA

Senator Norris Comments on American Difficulties In Central America.

AIDS IN SECRET.

Revolutions Were Usually Inspired By New York Financial Interests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Criticizing the use of American marines by the State Department in the Nicaraguan revolution, Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Nebraska, asserted yesterday that if the United States attempted the same thing against Great Britain "the warships would already be booming."

In an interview with the United Press, Norris condemned what he called the effort of State Department to conceal the true state of affairs in the Ceneral American conflict and declared Nicaraguan revolutions were usually inspired by New York financial interests.

Suggesting a solution for some of the mysteries of the Nicaraguan situation, Norris said:

"These eruptions in Nicaragua are usually at the instance of Wall Street. They want to collect some money or want to lend some more money to collect. The United States then selects a president there, and keeps him in office 'for the sake of peace.'

"I haven't any doubt that is just what happened in the recent situation.

"If the State Department even is doing what it admits, it is an improper thing, but if it is doing what is described in despatches from Nicaragua, it is violating international law.

"If it were Great Britain or any of the major powers we were dealing with, instead of Nicaragua, the warships already would be booming on both sides, and our people would be in another war without knowing what it was all about.

"Another deplorable fact about our actions in this situation is that they are being carried out in secret. There should be no secrecy about such affairs. Our actions should be open and above board. The people should know what their government is doing.

"Who were the Americans who requested protection of property and lives in Nicaragua? What are their names? When were the requests made? I understand that Secretary of State Kellogg has refused to tell. Why?

"There are doubts being expressed in some quarters that any such requests were made by Americans. Certainly the last thing the Sacasa (Liberal) forces would do is to violate the neutrality of American property and lives when they know such a violation would bring ruin to their cause.

"Certainly the Senate will do something about this situation when it reconvenes."

Arms Embargo.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 30. — Proclamation of what would amount to an embargo against the importation of arms into Nicaragua, thereby bringing major military operations there to an early end, may soon be urged upon Admiral Julian Latimer, U.S.N., the United Press learned yesterday, by President Adolfo Diaz, leader of the Conservative party, whose government here is recognized by the United States.

Diaz, it was understood, hoped to counter the menace of superior arms in possession of the Liberal faction, recognized by Mexico, with a request that Latimer impose neutralization upon the entire west coast of Nicaragua as well as upon the east coast ports already neutralized by the landing of armed American forces. Neutralization would prevent replenishment of Liberal arms and ammunition, which Diaz said were being supplied almost wholly by Mexican gun-runners.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF

Once again I appeal for your support and influence on my behalf as Councillor.

CHICAGO CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

Suburban Resort Owner Shoots Down Enemy As He Enters.

SLAYER DREW FIRST.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Dec. 30.—(Associated Press).—A flare-up of Chicago gangland warfare hit a notorious resort, the Bon Ton, near East Dubuque, Ills., early yesterday, and brought death to John Shea, of Chicago. "Sailor" Laverne Johns, a rival resort keeper, was probably fatally wounded.

Mike Allegretto, owner of the Bon Ton and who recently came from Chicago, was arrested.

Testimony at the inquest indicated that Shea appeared at the Bon Ton carrying two guns, ready to "get" the resort owner. When Allegretto responded to his request for admittance, Shea was said to have attempted to shoot, but before he could do so, Allegretto had drawn and fired.

Johns was shot while attempting to force his way into the Bon Ton after Marshal Frank Werner had begun an investigation. The testimony indicated that Allegretto reached over the marshal's shoulder and fired as the officer was attempting to keep Johns from entering.

ASTORIA SINKS IN BLACK SEA

Bucharest Despatch Reports Loss of 22 Passengers and Crew.

ONE SAVED.

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The sinking of the steamship Astoria—nationality not given—off Kavarna, Rumania, in the Black Sea, with the loss of 22 passengers and crew, is reported in a Bucharest despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger.

The only passenger to reach shore was a teacher from Constantinople, but when he learned that his wife, three children and mother were drowned, he shot and killed himself.

The Bucharest dispatch makes no mention of the nationality of the passengers.

Previous dispatches which came to The Paris Midi by way of Berlin, reported that the Astoria was a United States steamer. Only two United States boats named Astoria are listed in the shipping register, and only one of these is in European waters. This vessel arrived at Liverpool, December 3, and under charter of a Boston firm, is now loading at an English port.

Lloyds, of London, reports having received no word of the sinking of the Astoria or any other steamer in the Black Sea.

Birger Will Probably Be Charged With Murder of Mayor.

WILL SURRENDER.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30 (United Press).—Charley Birger, the machine gun gang leader of Southern Illinois, yesterday was expected to be formally arrested on a charge of killing Mayor Joe Adams, of West City.

Adams was shot down recently at the door of his home by several men who left in an automobile. His assassination was attributed to the war between the rival Birger and Shelton gangs for control of the beer traffic of the district.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Peristent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited,

Laxatives bring on laxative habit said most physicians

WE asked leading doctors everywhere why they recommended the Nujol type of treatment to their patients. They gave us 16 reasons, the chief one being: "Because it is non-habit forming."

One doctor said the big trouble with ordinary laxatives is you have to keep on using them. They are violent in their action, straining vital organs, forcing the intestines to act abnormally. Eventually the bowels refuse to act without them.

Doctors Advise Nujol

Nine doctors out of every ten told us they were advising the Nujol type of treatment for their patients in place of laxatives—and for these reasons: 1. Nujol is not habit-forming; 2. A more natural method; 3. A lubricant is better than a laxative; 4. Does not gripe; 5. Is not irritating; and 6. Nujol gives lasting relief.

Unlike Laxatives

Laxatives and cathartics act by irritating the intestinal tract. They cause the bowels to frantically expel the contents of the intestines and thus rid the system of the drugs that pills and potions contain.

Nujol acts entirely differently. It contains no drugs, no medicine. Its action is mechanical. It merely softens the dried waste matter in the intestines and lubricates the passage so that the muscles of the bowels can expel the waste matter regularly, naturally and thoroughly.

Nature-given Remedy

Nujol appeals to the medical man because it is a simple, scientific and safe remedy for constipation, no matter how severe the case may be. It is gentle in its action and pleasant to take. Children love it.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today. Doctors advise it for constipation, whether chronic or temporary. Avoid substitutes.

SAINT and SINNER

Cherry slept until ten o'clock Monday morning. She had delegated to Faith the delicate mission of informing her parents that Mr. Cluny thought it best for her to work for him no longer, since she would so soon become his bride.

Faith told the news matter-of-factly at the breakfast table.

"Mr. Cluny has opened charge accounts for Cherry in all the principal shops, and he wants her to spend the weeks before Thanksgiving getting ready for the wedding," she concluded, in a casual voice, but with an anxious eye on her father, who, with set, stern face, was making a pretense of reading the paper.

"Well, now I think that's real nice of him," Mrs. Lane hastened to comment in a pleased voice, but Faith saw that she too was watching Jim Lane anxiously. "Of course he don't want his bride to come to him in the kind of clothes her pa can afford to buy her, and it wouldn't look just right for her to go on working for him, now would it, Jim?"

"I ain't got any say in this matter at all," Jim Lane spoke gruffly from behind his paper. "You've never let me have any say-so in the control of our children, and it's too late for me to begin now. Let her do as she pleases."

"I really think it's all right—his buying her trousseau, I mean, Dad." Faith drew a chair up beside his and laid her hand caressingly on his knee. "They are formally engaged now, and I don't believe anyone would think the less of Cherry for letting him get the proper things for her new station in life. Please don't feel too badly, Dad. Cherry will be nineteen in December, and she feels as if she's grown up enough to plan her life for herself. I'm pretty miserable about it myself, but there's no use in crossing Cherry in this or anything else she makes up her mind to do."

At eleven o'clock, after Mrs. Lane had gone back to bed for her morning nap, prescribed by the doctor in an effort to keep her damaged heart functioning as long as possible, Cherry strolled into the dining room, where Faith was seated at the sewing machine, her capable hands busy with a school dress for Joy.

"Hello!" Cherry stretched her arms above her head in a luxurious yawn. "How about breakfast, darling?"

"I'm busy," Faith said shortly. "There are some stewed prunes and cream in the ice box, the coffee just needs warming up, and you can have some of that new breakfast food you like so well."

"I'm not hungry anyway," Cherry yawned again. "Don't make that old machine whirr so loud. I want to talk to you." She wound her kimono more closely about her tiny body and drew a chair up beside the machine, resting her lovely, childish little face on her arms, crossed upon the drop leaf table of the machine. "Aren't you just wild to hear what the dear old duck said about the Marlboro Country Club affair?"

Faith stopped the machine and faced Cherry with an expression of resignation, but she could not pretend indifference. "He was eager to believe Bob's explanation, I suppose?"

"Just lapped it up," Cherry laughed delightedly, her topaz eyes gleaming with untroubled merriment. "Just as I expected, that precious high-hat daughter of his, Mrs. Allbright, hotfooted it right to his house, and poured out the scandal. Can't you just hear him saying sternly, 'Enough! I refuse to believe anything—ah—detrimental to the—ah—good name of the young woman whom I—ah—intend to make my wife.' Honest, that's what he said he told her! Wouldn't that curl your eyebrows?

"Well, she babbled right on, and then he forced her to tell him what Bob had said, and, would you believe it, he told her that what Bob had said was the exact truth, because that was really the scene that had taken place between us when we became engaged." She choked with laughter.

"Well, was it?" Faith asked curiously, wondering for the millionth time if she would ever really understand the girl who was her own sister, in whose veins ran exactly the same blood as in hers, and yet who was as different from her as if she had been born on another planet.

"To tell you the truth, it was—pretty nearly," Cherry laughed. "Though the old darling would believe black was white if I said so. Well, Mrs. Allbright—my dear future stepdaughter—" she choked again—"showed her hand then. She was so mad she was frothing at the mouth. She told him he was an old fool, that he had softening of the brain, and that if he didn't give me up and be a well-behaved old gentleman, his children would have him examined for insanity. Can you beat it?"

Faith stared at her with widening eyes, in which fear and horror dawned slowly. "You know, Cherry, I believe they would! George said yesterday the Allbrights and the younger Clunys would stop at nothing, that it would be war to the death." She leaned forward and seized Cherry's hand. "Please call it off, darling! It's all so horrible and messy and—"

"Give it up nothing!" Cherry exploded, snatching her hands from Faith's. "I'll fight 'em to the last ditch! I was desperate Saturday—would have taken any way out. But now that the old boy has been so decent and loyal to me, I'm going to marry him and thumb my nose in their stuck-up faces—!

"Think I'm not good enough to be a Cluny! I'll show 'em! And I'll make 'em pay for this! I'll see that he leaves every penny the law allows to me. He's already said he would, and I'm going to see that he sticks to it. 'Belle of Myrtle Street'—'humble home'?" She sprang to her feet and walked rapidly up and down the room for a minute, then laughed again, roughly. "Come on, Faith. Get your things on. Ralph wants you to collect a bunch of swell duds too. I hinted a little, of course, but he wants my sister to do credit to the family at the wedding and afterwards.

"We'll spend a nice big chunk of the precious Cluny money today. Make it snappy, old dear."

"I wouldn't wear a thing his money bought if I had to go naked," Faith said with dangerous quietness.

"Well, say!" Cherry began in naive astonishment. "Oh, there's the doorbell! Don't bother. I'll go."

She returned in a very short time, her face wiped clear of all expression except that of blank astonishment. In her hand was a letter, which she held gingerly, as if it were contaminated.

"Can you beat this?" she asked slowly. "An anonymous letter! Delivered by a Western Union messenger! Here, read it!"

SEVEN NOMINATED POLICE COMMISSION

1926 Members Again Take Field as Candidates at Warkworth.

U. S. FORCES SENT TO SAVE AMERICANS

Government Awaits Further News of Troubles in Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Content to rest the administration's position on the announcement that the landing on Nicaraguan soil by United States naval forces was merely for the protection of American lives and property, officials of the Government yesterday awaited with interest accounts of the latest happenings in the Embroglio in the little Central American country. Officials support the White House assertion that the American landing was not to support Premier Diaz' Conservative Government troops, who are recognized by the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. McDermott left on the afternoon train to attend the funeral. Mrs. McDermott's many Norwood friends will extend to her their heart felt sympathy in her sad bereavement.

REV. DR. A. B. CHAMBERS.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Dr. Andrew Busteed Chambers, former school teacher, Methodist clergyman, and one time Governor of Toronto Jail, died yesterday, aged 86. He was born in Fermanagh, Ireland and came to Canada with his parents in 1847. On completion of his education, he taught school for five years, then entered the ministry and served as pastor in various churches for 43 years. He was appointed Jail Governor in 1907 and retained that office for ten years.

MRS. HENRY MULLIGAN.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30.—The death of Mrs. Henry Mulligan, which sad event took place on the afternoon of Thursday, December 26 following an extended illness, marks the passing of another resident whose entire life has been spent in the community, or its near vicinity

Deceased, who was a daughter of pioneer settlers in the township, the late Mr. and Mrs. James D. Armstrong was born on the family homestead, Fourth Line, Cavan, now occupied by the only remaining son, Mr. J. D. Armstrong, in a family of eleven children, six boys and five girls.

After the family removed to Millbrook to reside their home was on Bank street, in the large and comfortable residence now owned and occupied by Mr. J. L. Byam.

In her girlhood years, and while living on the farm, the late Mrs. Muligan was organist of the Presbyterian church at Centreville, this being the denomination to which her parents belonged and in which their family was brought up. After their removal to Milbrook she sang in the choir of the old Presbyterian church, and afterwards in the choir of Grace church, which replaced te former building when it was burned down.

Deceased was twice married, her first husband, Mr. J. B. Smith, being a druggist here, his store being located in the block on the south side of King street next door to the present post office. Their home was on Anne street, in what is now the Grandy homestead.

Previous to her marriage to the late Mr. Henry Mulligan, which took place about fifteen years ago, Mr. Smith lived in the family home on Bank street; Mr. Mulligan predeceased his wife by about five years.

Confirmed in the Anglican church, after her marriage to Mr. Smith, deceased as faithful in attendance at its services, and took an active, and very helpful interest in its organizations, particularly the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of which she was vice-president at the time of her death. The hospitality of her home was frequently extended for the regular monthly meetings of the missionary society.

The immediate surviving relatives, besides the brother already mentioned, are two sisters, Mrs. George Hetherington and Mrs. R. J. Doak, both of Millbrook. The members of the family who predeceased their sister were: five brothers, Mr. W. D. Armstrong, of Ottawa; Robert of Melita, Manitoba; John, of Owen Sound; David and A. T. of Millbrook; and two sisters, Mrs. James Kerr, of Toronto, and Mrs. Douglas, of Ogdensburg, New York.

Usually in good health, Mrs. Mulligan had never fully recovered from the effects of a severe attack of pneumonia which occurred about two years ago, and within recent months an operation had been necessary for the removal of her right foot above the ankle. Though convalescence was apparently progressing favorably, heart weakness ensued causing her death, with startling suddenness, just before Christmas. The cosy, new home which she was building on the corner of Tupper and Bank streets, is not yet fully completed.

The funeral took place from the residence of her sister, Mrs. R. J. Doak, Anne street, on Monday, December 27, the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, Rev. P. C. Howard, and Rev. John Riddle having charge of the service at the house, and Mr. Allen at the grave side as well.

The choir of St. Thomas' church was present and the hymns used were "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say", and "Jesus Lover of My Soul", both favorites of the deceased.

The pall-bearers were six nephews: Messrs. H. J. Armstrong, H. R. Armstrong, Henry Armstrong (Ottawa), H. B. Price (Orillia), W. W. Kennedy, and S. J. Hunter (Toronto).

Among the many beautiful floral tributes laid in loving memory upon the casket was a cross of pure white lillies from the W.A. of St. Thomas' church.

Interment was in the family burial plot in the cemetery at Centreville.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Bolton H. Price, of Orillia, Mrs. R. Doak of Windsor, Mrs. William Eakins and Miss Ada Mulligan of Port Hope, Mrs. J. Savigny, Mrs. Hunter, and Miss Edyth Tully of Peterboro, Mr. Armstrong of Ottawa, Miss Eleanor Kerr, and Mr. Armstrong of Ottawa.

MRS. ROBERT BURGESS

NORWOOD, Dec. 30.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Burgess, one of Norwood's oldest native born citizens, who passed into the Great Beyond on Wednesday afternoon last, took place from the family residence, Peterboro street, on Friday afternoon.

The deceased, who was 90 years of age, was the last of her generation and one of the few remaining native born children of the first pioneers who settled in this district.

The late Mrs. Burgess was born in Dummer township on the 12th of July 1836, on the farm now occupied by her son, Mr. John Burgess. She was the youngest daughter of the late Kenenth Kempt and was married in 1859 to Mr. Robert Burgess, who predeceased her six years ago. In 1909 she and her husband and their youngest daughter, Edith, retired from the farm in Belmont and came to live in Norwood, where she made friends of all who were priviliged to meet her.

Three sons and one daughter are left to mourn her loss, namely: Kenneth of Norwood, John of Dummer, and Williamson of the homestead in Belmont, and Miss Edith of Norwood; also eight grandchildren and four great granchildren.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of Norwood United church, of which the deceased was an honored and faithful member. Rev. T. M. Wesley of Lakefield, a former pastor of the the departed one, assisted. The pall-bearers were six nephews, namely: Messrs. Kenneth and Alex Kempt, Wellington and David Burgess, J. W. Rork, and W. J. Sanderson.

MRS. RICHARD NICOL.

NORWOOD, Dec. 30.—Another of Norwood's oldest citizens in the person of Mrs. Richard Nicol, passed away at her home on Queen street on Christmas day. The deceased was eighty-two years of age and had spent all of her life in this district having been born in Dummer township. The deceased, whose maiden name was Charlotte Wilson, was the last of her generation. Her husband predeceased her about four years ago. She was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and on the consummation of union was among those who entered the United church. The funeral was held from her late residence on Monday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. R. F. Stillman.

Six nephews were pall-bearers, namely: Messrs. Kenneth Kempt, Alex Kempt, J. Alf. Finlay, Frank Parker, John Parker, and George Taylor.

Miss Mahoney will be missed by a large circle of friends.

MRS. FRED ANSON.

The death occurred on Wednesday morning, Dec[illegible], at her home on River Road, Mary, beloved wife of Fred Atkinson. Deceased was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols, and was born in West Seymour about seventy-four years ago. The late Mrs. Atkinson was a woman of untiring zeal, and it could be well written of her, "She gave her life to others," for she was everyone's friend. Deceased was a member of Christ church.

For several years she resided at Healy Falls, later moving to her home on River [illegible]. Deceased had been ill for about three months.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Charles of Seymour, and Roland of Seymour, three daughters, Mrs. Robert Johnston and Mrs. Richardson of Toronto, Mrs. J. Richardson and Mrs. B. THOMAS MORRISSEY

DOWNIE, Dec. 29.—The funeral of the Thomas Morrissey who died Sunday was held here Monday to St. Luke's Cemetery. The deceased formally lived in this parish but moved out ten years ago when he sold his farm and moved to Lindsay, at home, and his death was expected. He leaves to mourn his loss his only daughter, who resided with her father in Lindsay; one brother, James in Rapids, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. P. Y. Crowley of Ennismore.

MICHAEL KENNEDY.

DOURO, Dec. 30.—The death occurred at the Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary, Alta., on December 21 of Michael Kennedy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kennedy, of Douro. Deceased was thirty-eight years of age, and has been a resident of Western Canada for many years. Death resulted from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Trains arrived in Peterboro on Friday morning, and were brought to the home of his brother, Will[illegible], from whence the funeral took place on Tuesday morning to St. John's Church and Cemetery. Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. J. [illegible] Fire.

Bearers were five brothers: Dan, Francis and Wilfred of Douro, and Leonard and Vincent of Peterboro, and a cousin, Victor Kennedy of Douro. Left to mourn his loss are the five brothers mentioned above, another brother John of Douro, and a sister, Helena, R.N., of Detroit.

Much sympathy is felt for the family who have had a good deal of sickness and trouble in recent years.

Northern Russia, natives are said to have learned to hibernate, stretching sleep over many months of the dark, long winter.

TRENA WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

trade to this city.

"When we get the tourist here we must find something for him to do," said Mr. Fowlds. He advocated stocking the waters with fish. The speaker drew the attention of the members to the advantages which are not at present being utilized of the Cobourg car ferry. A tourist may breakfast in Rochester and dine at some Stoney Lake resort. This year the Tourist Association placed a man in Cleveland, and as a result of this it has been estimated that the Ohio tourists left $400,000 in this province.

In closing, the speaker's advice to the members was to use the tourist well, give him fair, honest treatment as if he were one of our own, for they are business people and know when they are being charged too much for that which they buy.

At the business meeting, the president, G. A. Gillespie, was appointed to represent the local body at the Cockshutt banquet in Toronto.

Resolutions were adopted re snow fences on the highway, and the proposed Provincial highway route to Lindsay through Smith township.

Information will be sought regarding an oil-electric train on the Port Hope-Lakefield run, and the railroad officials will have their attention drawn to the need for Sunday railway service to Port Hope, especially in the tourist season.

NOTED PASTOR TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Oswald J. Smith to Speak at Tabernacle on Sunday.

HERE MONDAY, TOO

For some months there has been a persistent effort made to give the Christian people of Peterboro an opportunity to hear the gifted author and preacher, Rev. Oswald J. Smith, who up to a year ago was the pastor of the well-known Christie Street Tabernacle in Toronto. Mr. Smith has been secured and will preach at Bethany Tabernacle, morning and evening, Sunday, January 2nd, and also Monday evening.

REV. OSWALD J. SMITH.

Rev. Oswald J. Smith is Superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance for Central and Eastern Canada. For 5 1-2 years he was pastor of the Alliance work, Toronto, where in the great Tabernacle seating 2,300, built under his leadership and twice enlarged, he preached to thousands of people, the vast audiences at times overflowing into the annex. His earlier work after five years of theology and ordination, was in Dale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, where for 3 1-2 years he ministered to large congregations. He has labored among the Indians near Alaska, the lumbermen of the Pacific Coast, the mountaineers of Kentucky, and the Russians of Central Europe. He has travelled extensively in evangelistic work through Canada, Europe and the United States, holding meetings in many of the leading cities and proclaiming the gospel to multitudes of hungry souls. He is an accomplished author, editor and writer of hymns. His books breathe a spirit of revival and contain a wholesome exposition of the fundamental teachings of Scripture. Each one has a distinctive, vital message. Thus far 53,000 copies have been issued.

The Lord has used the ministry of this man wherever he has gone.

This will be the last time Peterboro will be privileged to hear this noted preacher, as he is leaving the first of February for an extended ministry in Los Angeles and the West.

Mr. Smith has signified that his subjects will be as follows:

Sunday a.m., 11.00, "The Victorious Life"; Sunday evening, at 7.00, "The Most Important Truth in the Bible," and on Monday evening he will give an illustrated message on his trip to Central Europe and Russian mission fields.

These will be great meetings and no one should miss them.

BRINTON PLANT HAS INCREASED

Two Additions Started in Past Year—New Agreement Asked.

FIXED ASSESSMENT

On New Year's day the ratepayers of North Monaghan are going to be asked to say whether they will grant a fixed assessment of $15,000 for a period of five years to the Brinton Carpet Company which is situated just outside the south city limits.

The old assessment agreement has expired and this is the new agreemnt which was approved by the 1926 township council and has been submitted to the ratepayers of that township.

In the past year the Brinton Carpet Company built a new addition to the main building and at present is constructing a new building which will be occupied some time early in the new year. The addition which was built this summer was a one storey brick building, 150 feet by 75 feet, and the new building is one storey brick and is 60 feet by 215 feet.

This new building will house an entire new plant which is being brought from the United States. The working staff will be increased 50 per cent. That section of Monaghan near the factory now supplies 90 per cent of the workmen.

The Brinton Carpet Company is an old established firm in this city and in the last few years it has made rapid progress and has carried out quite a building plan. It is the only factory in that district of Monaghan and the fine residences which are in that section are an example of the way the company and its employees have progressed.

BELLEVILLE LAD CUTS TOES OFF

James Scott, 7, Was Trying To Use Father's Axe.

RESTING EASILY.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 30.—James Scott, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott, of Carmel, met with a painful accident yesterday in the woods near his parents' home. Three toes of his foot were cut off by a sharpe axe while he was playing. The wound was attended to quickly, and the patient is resting at home as comfortably as possible under the distressing circumstances.

This morning the young lad wished to go to the bush with father, who for some days has been getting out the summer's wood, and he was taken along. The yong boy, wanting to be a woodsman like his father, took along his little play axe to chop twigs and otherwise have a good time. The father, working away, dropped his axe to attend to some other work, and as he was occupied for some time did not notice his boy.

Looking up he was horrified to see blood oozing from one of the child's boots, and seeking the cause, found that Jamie had secured his axe, which was very sharp, and in trying to wield it had struck the foot, severing the three toes completely. The father rushed the boy to the house and secured medical attention.

VISITS TO FRIENDS MOST DESIRABLE

Premier Bruce Says Statesmen Should Go Abroad.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30:—(Canadian Press).—Premier S. M. Bruce, now in New York, told newspapermen it was most desirable that the responsible statesmen of the British Dominions should take every opportunity of visiting their friends abroad, because the Dominions will inevitably play a greater part, not only in affairs of the Empire, but also in relation to international questions. "It is also essential that other countries, particularly America," he said, "should get a true review of the Empire as it is today. No one can better authoritatively state the great changes which have been brought about in the attitude of Britain to the overseas Empire in the last century that can the Premiers of the self-governing democracies which compose the Empire."

He expressd the belief that the Empire was never stronger than at present. The fate of mankind depends upon the attitudes of the United States to Great Britain, Premier Bruce yesterday told members of the English-Speaking Union of the United States, at a luncheon in his honor. "If Britain and America will work together," he said, "there is hope for mankind. If they do not, nothing mankind can devise will possibly succeed."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)
FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1926.

This should be a fairly fortunate day, since the Sun in benefic aspect dominates in its influence on the planet Earth.

It is a day most auspicious for big ambitions and for the first steps in realizing them.

While this rule prevails there is good luck in association with prosperous men and with all who possess power in any form.

Promoters and those who have far-reaching visions are subject to the best direction of the stars today, which enables those who have dreams to face the new year hopefully and even enthusiastically.

There is to be culmination of many far-reaching plans for the good of the nation in the year 1927.

Unity of purpose that cements the interests of the states will be more apparent than in previous years.

One of the prophesies for the new year predicts for women a new adjustment in which they will stabilize their public interests and settle into the right channels of activity.

Wives and daughters are to become financiers who are able to administer large amounts of money, but they are to stress the importance of home life.

After a period in which there has been much reckless lovemaking, romance is to have a renewed reign, the seers prophesy.

Although there will be violent convulsions of nature in 1927 and disasters more appalling than have marked this closing year, the next twelve months will bring many marvelous benefits to the people of the United States, astrologers predict.

Inventions which will affect transportation, motion pictures and the preparation of food are foretold.

Dress is to take on a peculiar significance, owing to some sort of a manufacturing crisis, if the stars are read aright.

Persons whose birthdate it is are to write "finis" to many interests and to face life with changed ideals and high ambitions. There may be many money troubles, but they will be solved most satisfactorily.

Children born on this day will lead active, restless lives. Many will find happiness in travel and invention.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By MILDRED MARSHALL.

Amber is the talismanic gem assigned to this day. To it is accredited the power to drive away contagious diseases. It is especially potent for singers and public speakers.

The carnelian is to-day's natal gem and is believed to protect its wearer from all evil and bring good hope and cheer. It is especially lucky for singers.

Red is the color assigned for use to-day. It is said to bring courage.

The pansy is to-day's flower. Symbolic of thoughtfulness, it brings good judgment to those who wear it.

SEEDLESS APPLE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—A seedless apple tree is said to be bearing fruit this year at Abbotsford, near this city. No one knows how the apple originated. It is shaped like a sheep's nose, and has a fine flavor. The apple has neither core nor seeds. Canadian fruit growers expect to profit by the secret of its growth.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new chin collar gives a distinctive note to this coat of black broadtail trimmed with bands of gray fur.

Furriers are doing their bit toward creating new fashions in collars, sleeves and cuffs. We may look for some extremely interesting developments from that quater—interesting because the designer of fur garments has never before been a trail blazer. He has found it more profitable to take his cue from the dressmakers.

It is really imperative for the furriers to make this season's garments different from those of last season. If he did not women would not buy new fur coats nor bother to have old coats remodeled. Last season's coat providing it did not show signs of wear would be quite as good as this season's. So when there was talk of flaring skirt lines last season the furriers hit upon the idea of launching a fashion for flaring fur coats. Some women bought them—and paid somewhat more for them because more fur was needed in making them. But from the start most women held back. The flare was all very well for the picturesque evening frock or for the day-time frock when made of soft pliant material. But even the most pliant new fur was too substantial for the flare. The flared fur coat detracted from the slim youthful line to which women had committed themselves. So the flaring fur coat made little progress. If you bought one last season the chances are that you have taken it back to the furrier to have the flare removed.

That being that, the furriers have had to devise some other ways of "dating" their fur coats. They have made new cuffs, new sleeve, and, best of all, new collars. While many of the new coats do still show the shawl collar a newer outline is gained by the new straight standing collar or the chin collar that flares like the cup of a calla lily.

The straight standing collar is sometimes no higher than the neck and actually goes under the chin. Sometimes it widens ever so slightly toward the top and extends well up to the ears and covers the tip of the chin. It is then a sort of straight chin collar. More generally becoming is the lily-shaped chin collar which is illustrated in the sketch. Some of the new fur coats are provided with collars of this description which when folded back give the effect of one of the new shaw collars.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

MARK STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL

The annual Christmas entertainment under the auspices of Mark Street Sunday School was held on Monday evening, December 27. The church was well filled, showing the appreciation of the parents and others for the work done by the children The superintendent of the school, A. W. Gamble, called the meeting to order, and the school and audience joined together in singing, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." This was followed by the repetition of The Lord's Prayer. Mr. Gamble, after a few fitting words of welcome, called upon Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister of the church, to act as chairman. The programme followed in the following order:

A Chorus—White Stars of Christmas Shine, by the Primary Classes.
Recitation by Jean Hendry.
Hush-a-Bye, a doll song, by ten little girls from the Primary.

Also the customary candies and nuts, the treat of the school were distributed among the boys and girls. The successful pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Murray Street Sunday School

On Tuesday, December 28th, the members of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School with their parents and friends spent a pleasant evening together Tea was served at 6:30 and everyone present showed appreciation of the good things provdided by the ladies of the church, the boys and girls particularly distinguishing themselves in this part of the program.

The entertainment started at 7.30 with several reels of moving pictures operated by Fred McNealy of the Y.M.C.A. The pictures were exceptionally good and for over an hour kept the children, and adults as well, interested and amused while the ladies who had prepared the tea were taking care of the latecomers and clearing away the remnants of the meal. The musical program which followed the moving pictures was put on by members of the school and reflected great credit on the program committee and on all who took part. The audience which filled the Sunday school showed their appreciation in the usual way, applauding the efforts of the children to do their part in the entertainment. The program inc harge A. J. Madill, the superintendent, was as follows: Hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing"; devotional exercise by Dr. Rose; White Gifts, the Primary Department; chorus, Merry Christmas, the Junior Department; song, The Wasted Crust, Betty Myers; dialogue, "Christmas Doings," Miss Doughty's class; song, Dear Little Stranger, Primary department; selection, "Bethlehem Holy Night," Mrs. W. Prizes for regular attendance during the year 1926 were awarded to Genevieve Foster, Hazel Foster, Helen Wilson, Alice Schweir, Elsie Lemmon, Dorothy Lemmon and Bobby Hamlin, these scholars having attended 51 or 52 Sundays during the year. The "White Gifts" presentation by the difeirent classes to be used in helping the boys and girls on the Mission fields in India and Bolivia was also a part of the program, the total amount presented being $52.83. A Christmas tree with Santa Claus followed, every child receiving a bag of candy and an orange. The Benediction by Dr. Rose brought a very happy and en-

Old Pittsburg Club To Claim Place In New Major League

THREE SECONDS DELAY FAVORED

Huddle System Attacked and Rule Asked Limiting Its Use.

GIVE MORE POWER

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Eastern football officials agree that something should be done about the shift and huddle.

Meeting in annual session until early yesterday morning, the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials devoted much of its time to criticism of the huddle as slowing up play and of the shift as making it difficult for officials to determine legality. As a result a suggestion will be made to the Rules Committee that on all shift and huddle plans, after the players have become set, they shall remain in their rearranged positions for three seconds before the ball is snapped.

The eastern officials went the Western Conference one second better in their suggestion, the westerners having decreed a two-second halt.

If the Rules Committee agrees with the officials in another suggestion, referees and umpires will be given wider latitude in imposing penalties for unfair play not otherwise provided for in the rules. Rule 21, Section 9, now provides a five-yard penalty and the officials would see it amended to provide a "proper penalty."

Limitations placed on the forward pass during the 1926 season, including a five-yard penalty for a second incompleted pass during one series of four downs, were not effective, in the opinion of the officials. A suggestion will go forward to the rules makers that the existing limitation be changed or abolished. The suggestion will not include a proposed remedy for the deficiencies.

A provision previously in effect but not now in the rules providing that an offside player touching a punted ball should be penalized five yards and a touchback declared if the offense be committed within the ten-yard line, the officials thought should be restored.

ECONOMY NOT SPEED FOR FRENCH MOTORS

New Event Starts Automotive Engineers Working on Motors.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(Associated Press).—French automotive engineers are working on cars to be entered in the "consumption test," a new event which the racing committee of the French Automobile Club has added to the grand prize meeting programme to be run at the Linas-Montlhery Speedway next July 2 and 3.

The race, at 32 laps or about 250 miles, is open to all machines irrespective of size or form, the sole condition being that the consumption of gasoline and oil, including the oil in the gear box, must not exceed 44 kilograms (97 pounds). Prizes amounting to 100,000 francs will be awarded.

As in 1926, the grand prize proper is limited to cars with an engine capacity not exceeding 1,500 cubic centimeters, with forced feed if desired, maximum weight being 1,540 pounds. Single seaters are permitted. The distance 48 laps, or about 372 miles.

Spinsters live longer than either married women or bachelors, according to one medical authority.

NOMADS DEFEAT WILLING WORKERS

Large Host of Rooters See Close Game at Warsaw.

WARSAW, Dec. 30.—On Tuesday afternoon on the village rink, a very exciting game of hockey took place, between the No-Mads and the Willing Workers. Time after time the enthusiastic host of rooters were brought to their feet during breathless moments of the struggle.

During the first period the No-Mads showed great brilliancy of attack and kept McCauley, the eagle-eyed goalie of the Workers, on the alert. A combined effort on the part of the No-Mad men's forwards, however, caught him unawares in the last few minutes and tallied one. The Workers were by no means overcome and showed their metal by scoring almost directly after.

The second period opened with an intensive bombardment of both goals and during the excitement Munro, as referee, had much trouble in keeping control of the game and Clements drew the only penalty of the afternoon. The period ended: No-Mads, 3; Willing Workers 3.

If the second session was fast the third was furious and it became apparent that only the best team could last out the period. Payne, as pace setter for the No-Mads, was very outstanding but not more so than H Mc.Cauley of the Willing Workers and until the last few minutes of the game it looked as though the big fight would end at 5-5 but Watts dashed through in the closing seconds and scored for the No-Mads, giving them the game at 6-5.

It would be unfair to distinguish any of the players. Everyone played well, and showed a great deal of ability. The boys had the rink in beautiful shape, and the teams played on a glassy sheet of ice.

The line up was as follows:

Willing Workers—H. McCauley, S. McCauley, Clements, Bell, Drain, Jackson.

No-Mads—C. Payne, I. Payne, Moore, Rose, Miles, Watts.

Here's a candidate for the stay-at-home would-be championship. Jack Jones who keeps a grocery store in the residential section of High Point, N.C., has not been downtown in 17 years.

Only the players on this list will be eligible to play during the ensuing season. The $6 entry fee must be in before the first game. Of this $6 entry fee $1 is used as working expenses; the remaining $5 is returned if the team does not default more than one game.

CLOSE GAME OPENS HASTINGS CURLING

Stevenson Defeats Wellman By One Shot.

HASTINGS, Dec. 30. — The first curling game of the season Monday afternoon developed into a real battle between George B. Stevenson and Bill Wellman, the former winning by one shot on the last end.

The rinks were W. Wellman, skip, L. E. Kelley, R. Johnston and H. Wilson; and W. B. Stevenson, skip, M. J. Baker, J. F. McCarthy and K. Kennedy.

The game was arranged as a scratch work out, but it broadened out into a keen fight after the first few ends, when the players got the "weight" on the good ice, and made shots with all the finesse of mid-season form.

George Stevenson, president of the club, is looking forward to an active winter on the two sheets. Bill Wellman is making the ice and at the outset produced an excellent surface. The membership may reach thirty-or forty.

PRESTON WINS OPENING GAME

Riversides Beat Parkdale 5-1 on Toronto Arena.

GOALKEEPER STARS.

TORONTO, Dec. 30. — Preston inflicted a 5 to 1 defeat on Parkdale Canoe Club at the Arena last night in the opening hockey game of the O.H.A. Senior Group No. 1. The Riversides do not look the same without "Dad" Ashley on the defence, but there is nothing wrong with the kind of hockey they play. The Paddlers held them down to a 2 to 1 score for two periods, but the visitors lost no time in putting the game safely away in the final session.

Parkdale was outplayed, but not to the extent the score would indicate. The Paddlers kept Schmalz, the visiting net-minder, attending strictly to business, and the difference in the teams might, on this particular occasions, be summed up in the showing of the respective goal guardians. Humphries did not play as good a game as he showed in the S.P.A. series, although he made plenty of fine stops. The Parkdale defence was not as effective as could be desired, and after Preston got wise to this fact, Gunner Arnott and company were walking right up to Mr. Humphries' front door and giving the goalie little chance to keep the score down.

On the other hand, Talbot and Skelly were a tough pair for the Parkdale forward line to penetrate, and the Toronto team's attacking division seldom got in close enough to have a clear shot on Schmalz. The Paddlers did not combine any too well, and there was too much tendency to hog the puck. The locals showed a much better game in the first period, when they held the visitors even than they did in the last part of the game.

SMALL BOY HURT WHILE COASTING

HAS LEG BROKEN.

KEENE, Dec. 30.—While sleighriding down the hill in front of G. S. Taylor's store at Keene, little Billy Campbell, son of Mrs. R. H. Campbell, fell off of the sleigh and broke his leg. The hill is all ice from one end to the other, and both young and old have been having a wonderful time on the bobsleighs. The sleighs go down this hill at terrific speed. Billy was on the rear end of a bob-sleigh, and in making a curve in the road, the sleigh swerved, throwing him against a fence post.

Up until now the boys and girls have been very careful to avoid meeting sleighs, etc., not attempting to go down until they were sure that all was clear, and it was very unfortunate that this should happen.

SCORE 5-4.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 30. — The Chicago Black Hawks came from behind last night and defeated the Montreal Maroons by 5 to 4 in an overtime game before the biggest crowd of the season.

"Rabbit" McVeigh tied the score for the locals, with only ten seconds to go, in the third period, and the crowd went wild.

Bill Phillips was the outstanding player for Montreal and made a one-sided game of it in the first period, scoring two unassisted goals in less than three minutes of play.

HOW TO SKI

The Outfit.

Many believe that it is dangerous to have the skiis harnessed to the feet. This is erroneous. To attempt to ski without having proper harness (proper harness being one that gives control of the skiis) is about the same as trying to skate without lacing up the boots, or at least with boots too large for one. There are several good harnesses on the market, the Hagen type being about the best. A harness of this type gives perfect control of the skiis. It has a tightening clamp which permits the harness to be adjusted to the size of the boot and left there, only the tightening clamp being used when putting on and taking off, which makes for convenience. This clamp also acts as a safety device since, in the event of a bad fall where there is an unduly heavy strain brought to bear on the skiis, harness, or one's limbs, the clamp will let go and so release the foot.

Footgear should be warm, heavy and comfortable; the rest of the clothing should be as light as possible, but comfortably warm. Skiing is a vigorous exercise and it is easy to become overheated.

The skiis should be good ones, made from good straight-grained hardwood. It does not pay to buy a cheap outfit. Skiing requires considgrable effort to master, and one should not be handicapped by a poor outfit. Stand straight up, reach up one arm. If the skiis come about to your finger tips, they are the right length.

Ski-Running.

The idea is to move along just as though you were walking, except that you do not lift the feet. Hold the skiis as close together as possible and parallel. Best progress is made by long gliding steps on the level. Lean well forward, advance one foot with the knee bent and push the ski as far forward as possible; while this ski is still gliding forward, advance the other foot in the same manner. One should first learn to glide along smoothly and rapidly without the use of poles.

TOMORROW—Skiing down hill, and the "kick turn."

BOY MEMBERS GIVEN BANQUET

Guests of Ontario Boys' Work Board on Tuesday Evening.

FORMAL OPENING

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—The members of the sixth Older Boys' Parliament were guests of the Ontario Boys' Work Board at a banquet in Central Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening. Singing followed the delicious bill-of-fare. Rev. Lloyd Houlding of the Baptist Board of Religious Education spoke after Charles F. Plewman had explained the purpose of the gathering.

Short addresses were given by Rev. Kilgour, Church of Christ Disciples; Magistrate Jones, of the Toronto Police Court; Dr. Robertson, of the United Church; Rev. Kannaivin, of the Presbyterian Church; Mr. Lovering, for the Young Men's Christian Association; Russel Carling, of the National Boys' Work Board; Jack Carling, of Kitchener; Mayor Kenneth Stubbing, of Toronto Boys' City Council. Mr. Ronald Fredenburg was presented with a framed copy of the oath of allegiance.

The sixth Older Boys' Parliament was opened officially on Tuesday evening, when Mr. George Wilson, acting as His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, granted the Premier, Earl Lautenschlager, Kitchener, and his Cabinet the right to elect a Speaker. A. W. Tucker, member from Manitoulin Island, was chosen. The Lieutenant-Governor had retired during this period and reentered and read the Speech from the Throne.

It was a review of the work of the last year's Parliament. The sum of $12,800 was raised to carry on the work for the boys. This money was spent for salaries of the General Secretary, office help and supplies. Only about $500 was used for the operating or carrying on the last year's Parliament. The expenses of Mr. Gordon Lapp, who spoke at Peterboro at the large Eastern Ontario Sunday School convention held in November, after being at Helsingfors, were paid from funds raised from the selling of bonds. This expenditure came out of the budget. Mr. Lapp addressed at least 65 audiences before going to the present position he holds in Alberta as Secretary of the Provincial Board there.

Regret was expressed that some of the Tuxis Groups were not reregistered for a new year's work.

Several bills were mentioned which will be brought up during the sittings.

It was moved, seconded and carried, that the rules of procedure be suspended in order that the Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of the Department of Public Works and Highways in the Provincial Government, might be allowed to give an official address of welcome.

He was pleased that he again had the chance to speak at the Boys' Parliament. He stated that he was watching with interest how things were being carried out.

The methods being used were the same as those used in the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster in London.

Mr. Henry also spoke of these sittings or sessions as a great training ground for the men of the future, when they will get into real Parliament.

A vote of thanks was moved by David Tough, of Brantford, and seconded by the member from Hamilton East.

A debate on the Speech from the Throne was carried on. Different Ministers in the Cabinet and members of the Opposition spoke. Both the Premier and Leader of the Opposition, Hugh Scratch, gave eloquent speeches.

CHARTRAND FACED BY PROSECUTOR

Convicted Murderer Remembers Lawyer Who Acted Against Him in 1903.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Joseph Chartrand, escaped from Guelph Reformatory and facing charges of theft in Police Court after his recapture here yesterday, was confronted with the lawyer who successfully prosecuted him for murder before the late Justice Osler at North Bay, 23 years ago. The lawyer was L. V. McBrady, K.C. "I remember you," Chartrand smiled. "You don't look much older." Chartrand was remanded to await the arrival of officers from Guelph Reformatory.

NEW SERIAL AT REGENT

"Snowed In," Featuring Allene Ray and Walter Miller.

A Pathe Serial said to be even more replete with thrills, mystery and excitement than "The Green Archer," is their newest, "Snowed In," which against features Allene Ray and Walter Miller, who is co-starred in Pathe serials with Allene Ray, who is loved by thousands for her beauty, sweetness and daring.

"Snowed In," which will be shown every Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Regent Theatre for ten consecutive weeks, has an unusually striking background, which affords an ideal setting for the rapid-fire action and thrills which characterize this Pathe production. Practically all of the scenes have been shot high up in the snow-covered Sierras, with the centre of activities in a summer hotel, almost deserted by tourists but used as a rendezvous by a gang of crooks led by the arch-bandit owner. From this forest fastness, the daring lawbreakers are enabled to make warfare on the air mail pilots, using lights at night for landing decoys, and getting away with rich hauls in currency and bonds.

So carefully are their plans carried out that the guilt of the first robbery is placed on the U. S. Air Mail pilot who is found half unconscious alongside a wrecked plane in a mountain valley. His beautiful sister, a role played by Miss Ray, believing him innocent, takes up residence at the hotel in an effort to discover the guilty parties. Forest Ranger Dave Sheridan, a part enacted by Walter Miller, becomes involved in the case when he comes upon the wrecked plane, but hesitates to join in the hunt for the ruffians for fear that his mission will be misunderstood by the girl, with whom he is infatuated. However, when he gets notice from the government officials to solve the series of robberies at any cost, he forgets his personal feelings in the matter and many times risks his life as a fearless guardian of the law. The hotel becomes the scene of crime after crime, with the finger of suspicion pointing at one time or another to practically every guest, to the hotel clerk, to the guides, and to one Wallace Thayer, a role enacted by Tom London, who claims to be a United States Marshal.

A frozen river, snow-covered peaks, precipitous, mountainside, and lonely, snow-bound cabins figure in the unfolding of the plot, one with gripping suspense, holding interest and a surprise ending. For a time the entire party is shut off from the outside world by a great snowstorm, yet even then the warfare goes on, with mystery piling on mystery.

A strong supporting cast includes such well known players as Frank Austin, Tom London, John Dillion, Natalie Warfield, Charles H. West, Walter Oettel, Ben Walker, Bert Apling, and George Magrill.

The father has since found a residence that passed muster with Inspector Edgar and came in this morning for his children, taking them home with him.

FAST ICE FOR TO-NIGHT'S BATTLE

Toronto Canoe Club and the Petes Will Meet Under Ideal Conditions.

Fast ice conditions at the Brock street Rink for the Toronto Canoe Club-Peterboro Senior O. H. A. clash, will suit both teams, as they are at their best when the going is good.

The Petes, disgusted at their failure to pick up two points against Marlboros on Monday night, will be out there to-night battling to redeem themselves, and the Paddlers are likely to find them a different proposition. However, the same Canoe Club outfit are not to be overlooked. They have youth, speed and determination on their side, and the Petes will know they have been in a hockey game before it is over.

Several of the Canoeists have been seen in action here, Stone, the good goalie, and Jack Bond and Mollenhaeur among the number, while Joe Wright, the Paddler's stalwart defence player, is a well known athlete, who has won renown as an oarsman and footballer.

Mike Rodden has drawn the assignment of refereeing the battle.

There has been a brisk demand for seats and the biggest crowd of the season will be out, particularly as this is the Petes last home performance for nearly three weeks.

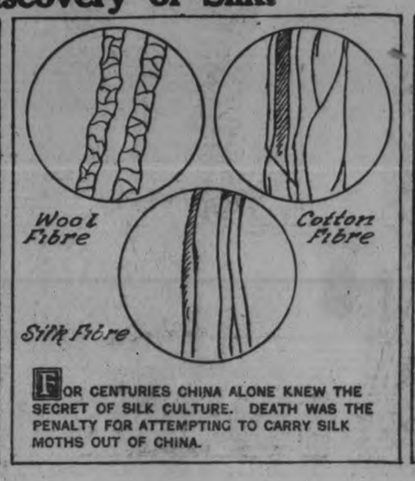
OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — LXIV—Discovery of Silk. — by MAX HAHN

THE MAMMOTH SILK INDUSTRY IS BELIEVED TO HAVE HAD ITS ORIGIN WHEN A CHINESE EMPRESS DISCOVERED SILK MOTHS SPINNING COCOONS IN A MULBERRY TREE. TRADITION SAYS THE DISCOVERY WAS MADE ABOUT 2,600 B. C.

WHILE THE MOTH IS IN ITS CATERPILLAR STAGE IT SPINS A COCOON OF SILK FIBER. THE COCOON IS SPUN IN FROM THREE TO SIX DAYS.



FOR CENTURIES CHINA ALONE KNEW THE SECRET OF SILK CULTURE. DEATH WAS THE PENALTY FOR ATTEMPTING TO CARRY SILK MOTHS OUT OF CHINA.

COMPLETION OF CANAL SOUGHT BY ASSOCIATION

Trent Waterways Directorate Will Send Deputation To Ottawa.

TAKE FILM ALONG.

Other Business Discussed at Meeting Held Here Yesterday.

The members of the directorate of the Trent Waterway Development Association were the guests of the Capitol Theatre yesterday when they witnessed the screening of the picture of the canal that was taken last summer.

Many favorable comments were heard, all of them being of one accord, that the picture was an unqualified success.

W. M. Fowlds declared that it was the finest piece of advertising he had ever seen.

At the business section held later in the afternoon the completion of the Severn division of the northern end of the waterway was stressed by J. B. Hanly, second vice-president of the Association. Mr. Hanly declared that a number of the boats penetrated as far as the marine railways, which although a decided boon to through traffic, very frequently appeared formidable enough to cause boats to turn back without going through to Trenton. The Severn division, he said, was adjacent to Detroit, which is the heart of the motor boat industry, and where a large percentage of the owners reside.

William McCallum, secretary of the Fenelon Falls Board of Trade, and Mayor W. T. Holloway, sponsored a resolution on the carrying out of the suggestion made by E. A. Peck, M.P., at the luncheon that the association arrange for a delegation to wait upon the Minister of Railways and Canals at Ottawa at an early date in the next session to discuss the building of the two locks required to complete the link-up of the waterway and so do away with the marine railways. The motion picture will be taken along by the delegation, as it is felt by several of the members that if it was shown to the Minister at Ottawa it would have the effect of creating a favorable impression of the project.

F. G. Stinson read over some correspondence dealing with the restocking of the waterway with fish. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., assured the members that he himself would make every effort to ensure that the Government would keep a good supply of spawn in the waterway.

A resolution was moved by G. K. Fraser and C. H. Ackerman urging the Federal government to govern the sudden lowering of the waters during the spawning season and that the Provincial government be asked to increase the quota of game wardens during this season as it was during this time that most of the poaching occurred.

Committees were appointed to deal with the matter of increased municipal representation to the directorate of the Association; also to wait upon the city, town and county councils throughout the waterway with reference to obtaining grants for publicity purposes.

J. Wells Fraser and J. Daniels moved that the usual exhibit be placed at the New York motor boat show to take place during January. It as felt that the new booklet being available and the screening of the new film "Kelly's Cruise" would boost the proposition with the American public.

No exhibit will be at New York this year from the Ontario Tourists Association which means that the Trent Waterway exhibit will be the only Canadian one at the show.

Resolutions of appreciation for services rendered the Association were tendered to the Department of Railways and Canals; to the motion picure bureau; also to the Capitol and Regent Theatres.

Corn and oats were also firmer, corn starting at 1-4 cent to 1-2 cent up and later climbing a little more.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 1.36 1-2, May 1.39 1-8; Corn December 70, May 80 3-8; Oats December unquoted, May 49 3-4.

Universal Pipe Common was bid up to a new high level for the year.

BOYS' PARLIAMENT DEBATE CONTINUES

Many Members Reply To Speech From the Throne.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—The second sitting of the Older Boys' Parliament, held yesterday afternoon in the East Hall of the University of Toronto, was opened by the repeating of the Lord's Prayer by Speaker A. W. Tucker, member from Manitoulin Island.

Communications were received from Roger Clark, Premier of the Older Boys' Parliament in British Columbia, who sent greetings and stated that that group was considering seriously the having of a National Parliament in the near future; also from the secretary, H. E. Sills, of the Kiwanis Club of Kitchener and Waterloo, who sent congratulations to the Premier from that body.

Taylor Franklin of Leeds County, Minister of Canadian Standard Efficiency Training and Canadian Girls-in-Training Relationships, and Donald Demille of Oshawa, Chairman of the Whole House, spoke briefly. A. Gibson struck a keynote when he paid tribute to the work of such men as Taylor Staten, Charles Plewman, and James Finlay of Western Ontario. J. Ferris Davis, Ingersoll, gave an inspiring speech on the press and how it could help, and said he was convinced that it would, if approached in a right manner.

H. Dinwoodie of Cookstown, Simcoe County, spoke concisely, showing how the boy in the rural districts might be helped by the Tuxis movement. Tuxis, a new word to some, means Training for (S) Service, (U) You and I with (X) Christ in the Centre.

It was then moved that the replies to the Speech from the Throne be laid over to another time.

The orders for the day were then continued. Four resolutions were carried. In the voting of one of these there were three members against.

The Bill to amend the Parliamentary Act was given a second reading. Some disagreement arose and the House went into a Committee of the Whole, with Donald Demille in the chair.

It finally passed with a few minor changes.

Morgan E. Shoveller, present Clerk of the House, is holding the honor for the sixth time. He is a Canadian Customs official on the border at Niagara Falls. The assistant Clerk is another chap from Niagara Falls, John B. Mears, student. The prompt efficient pages are boys from St. Paul's United Church, Avenue Road, Toronto.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—A new baseball inquiry may come out of the declarations of Charles Risberg, former White Sox shortstop, that he can give baseball's heads "Information that will implicate twenty big leaguers who never before have been mentioned in connection with crookedness."

Risberg is banned from baseball as a result of the 1919 World Series scandal.

Commissioner Landis declared today he would welcome hearing Risberg's story. He declined to comment on Risberg's statement that the Commissioner did not want to know facts.

Meanwhile counsel for Tris Speaker and Dutch Leonard are both skeptical of the statement by Fred West, baseball park attendant, that the money bet at the time of the September, 1919, Detroit-Cleveland game, was laid only on a horse, and not on the game.

The company said the British steamer's captain had refused offers of aid from steamers, because of the heavy expense involved in a tow.

POLISH NEWSPAPERS TO FIGHT SUPPRESSION BY GOVERNMENT CABINET CRISIS IS IMPENDING

Terms of New Decree Even More Severe For Offenders.

ARMY DISSATISFIED.

Clamor Gains as Pilsudski Fails To End Economic Stagnation.

WARSAW, December 31. — Representatives of all the Polish newspapers dropped their differences for the moment to hold a meeting calculated to forestall a new press decree even more severe thon the recent one which was effectually killed in the Sejm without any move on the part of Marshal Pilsudski to meet the widespread opposition.

According to the terms of the new decree now in preparation newspapers offending the government not only can be suspended but suppressed for ever more and their plants ordered dismantled. Further, they can not resume under a new name and any editor of a suppressed publication cannot again be the editor of any publication in the country.

The assembled editors representing all shades of opinion accused Marshal Pilsudski flatly of being the author of the bill, whereupon an emphatic denial appeared, saying the law was the collaborated product of various offices of the government which had been attacked by various section of the press. Moreover, it is said the decree is still in process of formation and has yet to go to the Supreme Legal Council which must pass on all measures going into effect in Poland, and then to the Cabinet.

In the meantime those who believe that Marshal Pilsudski is the sole sponsor of the universally opposed decree see hope of its defeat in the definite split within the dictator's own cabinet and want to keep their newspapers ready to record the stirring events which are predicted to arrive within a few weeks.

Politica Crisis Expected.

The first sgn of weakness on the Marshal's part, they declare, is the fact that he submitted the old press decree to the Sejm, knowing that it would be killed without support because of the growing fear that he can no longer force decrees upon the public without effective opposition.

In the second place former Premier Bartel, who in the latest overturn of the government was forced from his place as Premier to that of Deputy by Marshal Pilsudski himself, and was slated for oblivion in favor of General Sesenowski, the Marshal's old friend, who as commander of Varsaw attempted suicide rather than defend the city as commander of the garrison against Pilsudski, is just now recovering strength. The Marshal's personal friend, Minister of Justice Meystowich, promoted on the latest overturn,

J. J. F. Winslow, K.C., Fredericton, Goes to Washington as Counsel.

LEGAL BATTLE

FREDERICTON, N.B., Dec. 31—J. F. Winslow, K. C., left here yesterday afternoon en route to Washington, where he will be Canadian counsel for Hon. Arthur R. Gould when the United States senate committee investigate charges that the senator-elect from Maine paid $100,000 to J. K. Flemming, now M.P. for Carleton-Victoria, when the latter was premier of New Brunswick, in connection with securing the St. John Valley railway contract fifteen years ago.

En route to Washington, Mr. Winslow goes to Ottawa and he will reach the United States capital in time to engage in the final conferences which counsel for Senator Gould will doubtless hold before the case opens next Tuesday. Some of the most eminent legal experts in the United States will be engaged in the case. Already Senator Gould has a heavy legal battery lined up according to word received here from Aroostook county, where Mr. Gould spent Christmas.

So far, Peter J. Hughes, K.C., who may also be engaged as counsel in connection with the investigation at Washington, has not been retained by either side, but E. S. Carter, who was prominently identified with the original investigation of the transaction in this province, and was later secretary of the St. John and Quebec Railway company is leaving St. John for Washington in response to a request for his presence there from Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, who preferred the charges against Senator Gould.

Says Huge Strawberry Brings Beauty To Eater

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31 (Associated Press). — A giant strawberry, said to have marvellous beauty-giving powers, was among a collection of strange and exotic fruits, valued at $150,000, which arrived here on Wednesday on the Dollar liner President Taft in charge of Dr. Walter J. Swingle, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The strawberry is said by Dr. Swingle to have properties which will reduce weight and clear the complexion. It grows on a tree, is hardy, defies frost and probably could be grown in many parts of the United States. The native habitat is on the Chinese coast, south of the Yangtse River.

CHEMISTS SEEK DENATURANT WITHOUT POISON

Lessen Danger of Alcohol Going Into Bootleg Channels.

DISTASTEFUL.

Not Willing To Poison Liquors To Enforce Prohibition Laws.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press)—Prodded by Secretary Mellon, government chemists turned again to their test tubes yesterday in an effort to find some denaturant for industrial alcohol which is not poisonous.

Realizing that such alcohol is seeping into bootleg channels Mr. Mellon is not willing to poison drinkers to enforce the prohibition laws.

He wants the alcohol denatured so that it will be too distasteful to drink but at the same time not poisonous.

The chemists, however, are not so enthusiastic about finding a non-poisonous ingredient. If industrial is to be made nauseating they feel it must contain a small portion at least of wood alcohohl which they declare is the least injurious denaturing ingredient.

Mr. Mellon believes also that a quantity of two or four per cent of wood alcohol will not prove very injurious. He is not alarmed over the new formula which goes into effect on January 1 containing 4 per cent of wood alcohol instead of the customary two per cent because this formula will not contain the pyrodine used heretofore.

Complete enforcement of the prohibition law is an unreasonable expectation the treasury head declared yesterday, and some people are going to continue to drink whatever they can get. He wants the substitutes and industrial alcohol so treated that drinkers will be warned by the taste and smell that it is not good.

Mr. Mellon does not believe that the numerous holiday alcoholic deaths resulted from denatured alcohol but rather that probably too much drinking was responsible. Even before prohibition, he recalled, there were deaths from the use of poisoned alcohol which was resorted to by some dishonest dealers and drinkers.

James M. Doran, chief of prohibition chemists went yesterday to Philadelphia and New York, but officials would not say that he was investigating the numerous deaths from alcohol in these cities recently.

As to industrial alcohol, Secretary Mellon, is of the opinion that its leakage into bootleg channels has proved one of the main problems of enforcement, as a result of the shutting off of the sources of supplies from rum row and domestic distilleries.

INQUEST HELD

Dead Man Was on His Way to Belleville to Spend Christmas.

Acute hemmorrhagic pancreatitis caused the death of Vincent Brown on the Lindsay-Belleville train at the C.N.R. station here on Christmas morning, while he was on his way home to spend Christmas with his mother in Belleville. This was the finding of the coroner's jury which heard the evidence of the train crew and of the doctors who conducted the post mortem. The inquest was held last night at the police court, with Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young presiding and County Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton conducting the hearing.

The disease was described by the medical men who gave evidence as one rarely diagnosed before the death of the sufferer, and one which usually proves fatal even when an operation is performed. It was explained by Dr. J. M. O'Brien, who conducted the post mortem, as a haemmorrhage of the pancreas, caused by obstruction of the ducts of the gland and the consequent accumulation of the secretion In the case of the deceased the obstruction was probably caused by gall stones, of which eight were found.

John Saunders

The first witness was John Saunders of Lindsay, baggageman on the train in which Brown died. He had known the deceased for about ten years, and was with him in the train when he died. He recounted the sufferings of the man, who was riding in the baggage car. Brown was first seized with a pain when the train was near Reaboro. The trainman brought him some aspirin, which made him vomit, and then gave him some hot tea. He felt no better and took another aspirin, which also made him vomit. The sick man had said then that he thought he was going to die, and then had said he felt better.

The witness said that he and other trainmen had advised Brown to see a doctor, and that he had left the train in Peterborough for that purpose. When Brown came back he said the doctor had given him some medicine, producing a bottle, but it had not done him much good. Just then the train started to back up, and Saunders had gone to the door to look out. He heard Brown strangling, and had turned back to see what was the matter. He left him with a section hand and went outside to call for a doctor. Except for a few moment then, nobody had been alone with the dying man except the witness. He had last seen the body taken from the train to a baggage truck, which was

Duke Of Rutland's Return To Haddon Hall Recalls Story Of Dorothy Vernon's Romance

LONDON, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—The Duke of Rutland is taking up permanent residence at the famous Haddon Hall in Derbyshire which has not been used as a place of residence for over two centuries. Some parts of the mansion date back to Saxon times, but the chief claim of Haddon Hall to fame is its romantic association with Dorothy Vernon, the heroine of the story of the runaway match with John Manners of Haddon Hall, second son of Thomas, first Earl of Rutland, who was created a peer in 1525, in the reign of Henry VIII.

John Manners is said to have lived for some time in the woods around Haddon Hall, disguised as a game-keeper, until he persuaded Dorothy, daughter of Sir George Vernon, owner of Haddon Hall at that time, to elope with him. The Hall passed to Manners and Dorothy on the death of Sir George without male issue. Their grandson, John Manners, succeeded to the title of Earl of Rutland in 1641, and the present lord is the 9th Duke of Rutland.

18 MONTHS' SENTENCE GIVEN ARTHUR KING FOR ROBBERY

Found Guilty of Taking $18 From Matouche Ronco While Armed.

STOLE LIQUOR, TOO.

Accused Admits Taking Large Quantity of Liquor From Two Men.

Arthur King, 23, was sentenced to-day to eighteen months in the Ontario Reformatory for having on December 3, being armed with an offensive weapon, he did rob Matouche Ronco, a taxi driver, of the sum of $18.

The trial took place before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke at the court house, the prisoner having elected to be tried by a Judge. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., prosecuted on behalf of the Crown. The accused was not represented, conducting his own defence.

The accused vigorously denied that he had robbed the taxi driver, stating that he stole a case of liquor from him which he later hid under a culvert on the Chemong road. He removed it later to a field, and he said, hid eight bottles which someone else stole from him.

He declared that he had stolen a thousand dollars worth of liquor from D. Dolan and S. Siegel at different intervals during the season, giving as his reason "that they had no more right to it than he had."

His Honor declared that he could not accept the story of the accused, characterizing it as a "somewhat fantastic one."

Matouche Ronco.

Matouche Ronco, the first witness for the Crown, examined by Mr. Hatton, stated that at the time of the robbery he was working for Dalton Dolan as a licensed taxi-cab driver.

On December 3 he had taken a fare to Water street and on the way back the accused with two other fellows came up to his car. King pointed something at him that looked like a revolver and said, 'Come across with that.' "I said what," continued the witness and he said 'you know what.'

Did you see the instrument, asked Mr. Hatton.

Yes.

Did he point it at you?

Yes.

What else happened?

He took $18 from me,

How?

He and his two friends put me

Thomasso Alley-Catazzo Makes His Debut in Opera

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 31 (United Press).—Although such operatic stars as Jeritz and Lauri-Volpi appeared last night in "Turandot" at the Metropolitan, they were forced to share the stage with a newcomer—a bedraggled black cat. The cat appeared from nowhere, during the third act, sang a few meow arias upon the stage, to which so many voices have vainly aspired and then retired with plaudits.

"Turnadot" continued with the human singers shaky. Superstition surrounds the appearance of a black cat but there were no casualties.

One New York newspaper in chronicling the event to-day used the headline "Thomasso Alley-Catazzo cheered on Met stage as he makes opera catastrophic."

LEGION AWARDS CAUSE SCANDAL

French Official Charged With Stealing Decoration For 100,000 Francs.

BARES KNOWLEDGE.

PARIS, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press)—A scandal over some recent awards of the coveted Legion of Honor was threatened yesterday.

The newspapers announce that M. Ruotte, one of the secretaries in the ministry of commerce, arrested on a charge of demanding 100,000 francs for each Legion of Honor decoration, has decided to bare his knowledge of the matter.

M. Ruotte is understood, the papers say, to have transmitted to the ministry of justice a list of at least 20 new legionnaires who, he alleged, had not sufficient qualifications for the honor, but whose nominations were imposed by prominent parliamentarians.

THE WEATHER.

The weather at the present time is unusually mild for this particular season. This morning the thermometer stood at the freezing point, and it was but little lower during the night. Light snow or rain with sleet in some places are likely to prevail, but there is no decidedly cold weather in sight anywhere. As to-morrow will usher in another year, I take this opportunity of wishing the readers of these weather notes of mine, and all others, a sincere and cordial Happy New Year. May the reader have good health, happiness and prosperity (if it is good for him or her), and at the close may they be able to look back upon one of the best years of their lives. Reader, this means YOU.—W. P.

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION EXPLAIN THEIR QUALIFICATIONS FOR LOOKING AFTER UTILITIES

Efficient Operation of City Services Stressed By All.

IMPORTANT WORK.

Nominees Promise To Work in Best Interests of Ratepayers.

In order that the citizens may know more about the records and training of those seeking election to the Peterborough Utilities Commission The Examiner has interviewed the candidates and gives their qualifications and proposals for the management of this important department of the city.

George H. Duncan

George H. Duncan is the man who has served this city in the municipal field the longest of those who are candidates for the Utilities Commission. He was mayor for two years, Alderman for twelve, and chairman of the Board of Health for six years. Also when the late W. H. Moore died, while a member of the Utilities Commission, Mr. Duncan filled out his term for a period of some six months.

Mr. Duncan said to The Examiner he would do the same as he had always done in the past when a public servant of this city, work in the interests of the people and the ratepayers, and be independent. If elected he wants to go in with a free hand or not go in at all, for Mr. Duncan believes in treating all classes of men the same.

Frederick Hills

Fred Hills is coming before the people to seek election as a man of business who will look after the affairs of the Utilities Commission in a business like way.

"I consider the Utilities Commission the most important department in this city. There are several important matters which are sure to come before this body in the next few years. These will need the best attention the members of the Utilities Commission, whoever they may be, can give them," said Mr. Hills.

M. H. Quinlan

M. H. Quinlan has strict business principles combined with economy as the main plank in his election platform.

Mr. Quinlan believes that the Utilities Commission plant in this city should be a revenue producing asset which should create a surplus after attending to the necessary improvements and extensions. This surplus should be used to reduce the burden on the taxpayers; thus reducing the taxes in this city and along with this the amount of rent.

E. R. Shirley.

E. R. Shirley is an electrical engineer and has for some nine years been actively engaged with the Canadian General Electric Company of this city as an engineer on power houses, sub-stations, switching, distribution and transmission equipment.

When interviewed by The Examiner, Mr. Shirley said "The operation and maintenance of the public

Youthful Couple Spends $1,300 During Elopement

BROOKLYN, N.J., Dec. 31 United News).—"The woman tempted me," 15-year-old John Boros said to excuse himself to the police for running away with the girl next door and helping spend about $1,300 of her mother's savings buying radios and lollipops in Atlantic City and Asbury Park.

John, a canny lad, took $10 of his own savings on the adventure with Mildred Senter, 18, which lasted a month. When police found the youngsters living in high style in an Asbury N.J. apartment, John still had the $10. Mildred, however, had but 50 cents left after their dizzy round on phonograph records and picture shows.

It was her letter to the bank asking for more money that revealed their retreat.

BRITAIN MUST MAINTAIN NAVY

Premier Bruce's Address To Naval Officers of United States.

IS DOMINANT FACTOR.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 31.—(Canadian Press). — As long as naval power is a dominant factor in world peace, Great Britain will maintain an adequate navy, and the British Navy will never go into action except to protect civilization, Premier Stanley M. Bruce of Australia told one hundred naval officers of the United States forces yesterday. He was convinced, he said, that a conflict which brought the British fleets into action would find the United States navy fighting by their side.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, who arrived here from New York yesterday morning, were overwhelmed in a hectic round of formalities all day.

Mr. Bruce was the guest of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and the United States naval forces at luncheon. The officers present were among those who were entertained by the Premier and Mrs. Bruce when the United States fleet visited Australia two years ago. Secretary Wilbur, Admiral Coontz, and Vice-Admiral Wiley expressed appreciation of the hearty reception Australia had accorded the fleet.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Bruce were guests at an unofficial reception at the British Embassy. No official entertainment had been planned because of the death in England of Ambassador Howard's son.

Sir Esme and Lady Howard called at the White House yesterday to pay their respects to President Coolidge and it was arranged that Mr. and Mrs. Bruce should be White House luncheon guests to-day.

Sir Hugh Denison, Australian High Commissioner, entertained the distinguished visitors last night at a dinner at which were present Secretary of State Kellogg and other Cabinet officials.

To the Many

As it is impossible for us to have personal contact with all our customers at this time of year, we wish to take this opportunity of thanking the many purchasers of our cars for their expressions of pleasure, satisfaction, and recommendation that they have passed on from friend to friend, and enabled us to build up a year's business—one of the best we have ever had. It has ever been our desire to make every customer a friend as we believe that in this way one gets much out of their business relations that cannot be figured in dollars and cents.

For the pleasure and satisfaction we have got out of the year 1926 we are thankful, and we assure you that we shall carry on the New Year in a way that will merit your further confidence.

That the year 1927 may mean one of prosperity and much pleasure, is our ardent wish for one and all.

WET WELCOME FOR NEW YEAR

Many Violations of Volstead Act Expected in U. S. To-night.

PRICES GO UP.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Reports from East and West coasts point to a rather "wet welcome" to the year 1927. Forbidden alcohol beverages are expected to play a large part in the annual celebrations and incidentally add much to the cost of the night's fun.

Prohibition officials here had stated that none other than the usual precautions will be made against the illicit buying and drinking of booze. Old Broadway is taking on a gala appearance and proprietors of all sorts of amusement enterprises, especially night club owners, are expected to reap harvest. Prices have doubled and tripled in many cases but notwithstanding, it is confidently expected that record crowds will take part in the celebration.

As a guide to the high prices, ginger ale in night clubs will cost three dollars a bottle.

Washington and Oregon advices state that no good liquor is available there, and the prohibition officials have failed to announce any plan for an offensive against merry-makers.

On the other hand citizens of Chicago today were invited to a happy but innocent welcome of the New Year. Even waiters in cabarets and hotels are pledged to aid the prohibition officials in their efforts "to make the night happy, but dry." Regular dry agents will make their appearance among the celebrants.

Whereas no curfew law will be in order in New York tonight, Boston's hotels and clubs will have to suspend operations at 2 a.m. Hub celebrants have stocked up with plenty of stimulants, according to an unofficial report, and prohibition enforcement officials have declared they will not molest flask toters.

Philadelphia's New Year's Eve celebration will not be wet if Federal and City authorities can prevent it.

Meanwhile, thousands of churches throughout the nation will be open for Watchnight Services, and the more seriously and religiously inclined will partake of spiritual rather than liquid celebration.

UNIVERSITY TRAINING NECESSARY FOR LAW

Entrants To Law School Must Have Two Years at College.

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press). — What is considered to be the first step toward making a university degree requisite of entrants for the Ontario Law School, who aspire to become lawyers is the new regulation of the law school which comes into force next September. At that time entrance to the Law School will be available only to those with two years' university training. In this way the standard of the province's legal profession will be gradually raised.

CARTOON FOLLIES OF 1926 — By RUBE GOLDBERG

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

BY THE time these musings shall have left the hands of the printer we shall have reached the closing hours of the year 1926. And, as I sit here and think, there are three windows out of which I am looking to-day. There is the manse window, with its view of the Present: the window called Memory, out of which I look back across the days and weeks and months of the year now drawing to a close: and the window called Imagination, through which I look out upon the unreached Future. As I think my way back through the past year, there is an element of sadness in the fact that it is about to close and hold within its grasp all that I have experienced of sadness or gladness, of victory or defeat. What it holds it will hold forever. It will soon have gone beyond recall. If I could begin again it might be different: but that cannot be. The Past is passed and done with until the day of judgment.

TWO WONDERFUL WINDOWS

These two windows, Memory and Imagination, are so placed that I never need to move my position to see through either the one or the other. Indeed, most of the time, I seem to be looking through them both at once. And as I look I am compelled to think what seems to be a veritable conglomeration of thoughts. Some of these I shall try and sort out in the hope that they may be of some value to others who sit with me week by week at the manse window.

May we never do anything to injure either of these two wonderful windows. Let us keep them clean. Kill every spider hanging around with any intention of draping them with a web. See to it that the sunlight of God's smile has freeness of access at all times through both of these windows. Then, whether your gaze is back over the Past, or forward into the unreached Future, you will be able to look either way without any discomfort.

SEASONS OF CONTEMPLATION

One of my regrets as I look out through memory's window is that I have not given more time to meditation. It is too bad when the hurry and bustle of life robs us of the time which ought to be spent in quiet thought. There is a crying need in most lives for more and longer seasons of contemplation. No life can be strong without such moments! As you look out over the past year are you sure that you have given meditation the place in your life that it deserves? Is it not just possible that one of the reasons for regret, because of weakness and failure, has been the fact that seasons of contemplation have been crowded out of your life? Can you imagine what it might have been if you had not been so foolish as to allow yourself to think that you could not afford the time? The truth is that we cannot afford to use the time for anything else however important it may seem to be.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

It is well, on such an occasion as this, to look far down into our hearts and put the question to ourselves, 'Am I really satisfied with the way in which I have lived and labored during the past year?' As we analyse the motives which have moved us to speak and act as we have done have these motives been to our credit? If not, why not? If the motives have been unworthy, is the reason not to be found in the fact that our spiritual life has been neglected. Neglected, because we have not taken time, out of our restless lives, for contemplation!

Comparisons are often helpful. Compare your life with that of Jesus when He was here in the days of His flesh, and see how you measure up. The examination may not be pleasant, but by God's grace it may be profitable. Study His life as it is set forth in the New Testament. See how much time He gave to being alone with the Father and His own thoughts. And think you that if He felt the need for times of contemplation we can afford to do without them. There never was a busier life than His; and if anyone could have got along without quiet times He surely could—but He wouldn't!

POINTS OF DEPARTURE

In one place we read, "From that time began Jesus to preach." These words indicate a change in His career. He is now leaving the subdued light of the carpenter's shop for the glare of His public ministry. And that leads me to say that there are fresh points of departure in every growing life. Such experiences are like milestones along life's highway. Like mile-stones these experiences and events mark an ending and a beginning. Behind us lies the Past entirely out of our reach. Whatever it holds it holds forever. Its holdings may be assets or they may be liabilities, but in any case they all lie behind us. We have come to another milestone. And as we look back from this point memory recalls what we have met and how we have met it. In any case—even if the past be largely made up of failures and disappointments—let us profit in the future by the experiences of the past. Let us make the milestone of these closing hours of the present year an altar beside which we shall solemnly covenant with God to set apart definite times and seasons for meditation.

LIFE'S TESTINGS

If your life and mine is to mean all that God would have it mean in the New Year it must have in it some of the things which had a place in the life and experience of Jesus. It will be sure to have its testings. If Jesus could not escape these no more can we escape them. Jesus 'began' after being tested! On the other side of that milestone was the wilderness, with its loneliness, its hunger, and its Satanic suggestions. But along with these there was the triumph of the carpenter as another proof that the carpenter was also the Christ.

And lying back of that again were those silent years spent at Nazareth as a very necessary preparation for His public ministry. There, He was studying man. He was a close observer of the life of the people about Him. Nothing escaped His notice. Children playing in the street arrested His gaze and held His attention. The unreality of much that passed for religion made Him sad as He saw that it was due to the sin in man's heart, the shallowness of man's soul, and the superficiality of man's thinking. It must have been difficult not to declare His Deity during those silent years. But, so far as the record shows, He refrained from saying anything before the time appointed, and held Himself in restraint till He would reach the milestone which would mark the ending of one period and the beginning of another.

HOW WILL YOU MEET THEM?

Times of testing are inevitable for all of us. The question is, 'How are you going to meet them?' If your life is made up mostly of din and dust, you will fail to hear the still small voice of the Eternal when you most need to hear it; and you will lose sight of the face of Jesus when the vision of it is what you need more than anything else. Therefore you must make a place in your life for quiet times of contemplation. Think of the Past! Think of the Present! And think of the Future! The Past has gone and you will not come into touch with it again until the day of judgment. The Present is with you for weal or woe. What it will mean in your case depends largely upon yourself. It is yours to make or mar. If you have taken time to behold Him Who is your Lord and Master there will be little to regret when the present has become the past. The Future holds within its grasp all the mystery and challenge of the unknown. To meet it and make the most of it is no light task. If your contact with it is to mean success and not failure you will need all the strength that comes from moments of quiet thought and contemplation.

YOUR EQUIPMENT

That was a strange scene enacted in the Jordan valley, when Jesus entered upon His public ministry by submitting to John's baptism, which some good folks still fail to see was not Christian baptism. He was being anointed for what lay ahead. And it is well to note that He was tested after He was anointed. We sometimes ask why it is that times of great temptation come so closely on the heels of times of great spiritual uplift. It would be better if we thanked God for the fact that times of testing—without which no life will ever amount to anything—are always preceded by times of ecstasy. The one prepares us to meet and come safely through the other. The anointing is more pleasant to our taste than the temptation; and it may be that we welcome the one and try to escape the other. But when we seek to avoid testing we are asking for the impossible. If the Son of God could only reach the glory of the Redeemer's place through the test of humiliation, it is useless for us to try and reach it in any other way.

A GOOD NEW YEAR

If you really want to have a year with the least possible number of regrets in it you must let the voice of God be heard speaking in your soul. The heavens must often be open to your view, and the Spirit of God have right-of-way in your life with all its plans and problems. For this it is absolutely necessary that you step aside to some quiet place and get alone with yourself and God. Each time you do this will make it easier to do it again. Practice the Presence of God. Cultivate the acquaintance of the Sprit of God. And in fellowship with the Son of God march steadily forward toward the next milestone in your life.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Old And The New

AS WE look back over the past year what do we see? Failure, no doubt! But, surely, we have had success as well! Don't let these failures discourage us, as they might very easily do. Neither should we use success for a couch on which to rest from further effort, but rather as a stepping-stone to still higher things. The best that has been need not necessarily be the best that can be. Let us enter the New Year with our faces toward the Light and all the shadows will fall behind us. Only in this way can we have a Happy New Year.

Churches and Churchmen

I. SEEWELL.

Salvation Army.

THE WAR CRY, in announcing the advent of a new Territorial Leader, Lieut.-Commissioner William Maxwell, a native of Dundee, Scotland, writes as follows: "The Salvation Army in Canada has always been fortunate in its directorate. Those who have been appointed by the General to occupy the exalted position of Territorial Commander, have been officers of distinction; leaders tested and proven equal to the heavy demands associated with so eminent an office.

"Following in the line of this great tradition of leadership, we now have with us Lieut.-Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell. Some of us know them. We have seen them busily engaged in Kingdom service in the glare of the public platform, and we have seen them behind the scenes. We have watched them climb from comparative obscurity to the position into which they have now stepped—a position of rare prominence in the Army world—and we are not surprised!"

The new Commissioner is tremendously alive. Those who know him say that his talk, his walk, and his work all bear evidence that in every part of his being he is fit! True to the best traditions of the land to which he belongs, there is to be found in him a happy blending of caution and enterprise. As a soul-winner he is known throughout the British Isles, for he has travelled with Mrs. General Booth and with the Chief of the Staff as prayer meeting pilot, and as a singer of Salvation songs he has few equals and no superiors.

Churches Without Children.

JUDGE CRAIN, of the Supreme Court of New York, has been saying some things which ought to make us pause and ponder. He is no alarmist! But what he has been saying should alarm us if we have the highest interests of the church and our children at heart. No doubt, if some preacher had asserted that the absence of young life in the regular services for worship is an indication of a dying church, his words would have been passed along as the voice of a pessimist who had grown discouraged and depressed. But it should be different when a man who occupies the important judicial position which is occupied by Justice Crain speaks. He states quite bluntly that the church that is not alarmed by the absence of her children is not worthy of perpetuation. She deserves to die the slow death which is her sure fate.

Important as the Sunday school is it can never take the place of the regular services of the sanctuary.

Radio and Liberals.

REV. DR. FREDERICK N. McMillin, minister of the First Presbyterian church, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, addressed the Men's Community Club of 500 members in Forth Thomas, Kentucky, on December 7, and will address the annual meeting and banquet of the men of the Central Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Indianapolis, Indiana; and the noon-day luncheon meeting of the Knights Templar, of Dayton, Ohio. In each case, the invitation came from radio listeners who hear the services of the Walnut Hills church through station WLW. In a single week, 570 letters were received from radio listeners in all sections of the country, and each letter had an answer.

Many letters are being received from members of churches which are afflicted by having so-called 'liberal' ministers expressing gratitude that they can hear the Word of God and the Gospel of a blood-bought redemption proclaimed in their homes by means of the radio.

What Think Ye of Christ?

THE inspired writers give Him all the titles of the Most High God. They call Him over and over by the uncommunicable name Jehovah, never given to any creature. They ascribe to Him all the attributes and all the works of God. So that we need not scruple to pronounce Him God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God; in glory equal with the Father, in majesty co-eternal.

PATHOS IN THE PERSONALS.

There is pathos written all over the personal columns these days in spite of their dominant note of the happiness of family reunions. The persistent little minor tone recurs in the interlinear spaces weaving its elusive sombre effect into the festal harmonies.

These Christmas and New Year's home-comings suggest not only the joy they bring to so many households, but also the regret and sorrow of parting after a few brief days back in the old nest.

This holiday season and its visitings emphasize the strength of home ties; remind us also of the many wholesome happy families upon which the normal life of the community is supported.

Separations must come inevitably, but, after all, they tend to re-inforce the bonds of home and to make its influence more vital and enduring. And the partings with their sharpened pains, present glimpses of backgrounds of domestic felicity, of homes in which understanding and love and unselfishness make of them veritable havens of peace.

TOMORROW'S DUTY.

Peterboro citizens can make no better start in the New Year than by making use of their franchise tomorrow.

While there is no mayoralty contest, there is the duty of electing five members of the Council and a member of the Utilities Commission, and this task is of sufficient importance to warrant a large vote being polled.

Next year's Council is likely to have a number of important problems to deal with; we should send into it the five best Aldermen that can be picked from the eleven aspirants in the running.

The activities of the Utilities Commission concern practically every citizen; it is, therefore, of much importance which of the five candidates is given a three years' mandate tomorrow.

Whatever your plans for the celebration of New Year's Day, maybe you should include in them a visit to the polling booth.

It only means a few minutes devoted to a very necessary task that is the common duty of all citizens who are qualified to vote.

Make use of your franchise and begin the New Year as good citizens.

TALK PETERBORO.

The outlook for Canada as the New Year comes hourly nearer is bright.

Railway presidents, heads of banks, business executives, financial experts all seem agreed that this country can expect an era of great prosperity.

In this expansion and progress Peterboro should play its part, and its citizens might well make a New Year's resolution that in the coming year they will do their share in bringing about this worth-while result.

Perhaps such a resolution could be best carried out by a general decision to be more ready to talk about Peterboro.

We have a fine city here, with an abundance of advantages to offer, and right now is a good time to recognize that fact and to tell the world about it.

During the next twelve months suppose we take a new task.

Suppose we try boosting Peterboro everywhere we go and to whomsoever we may be talking.

Forgetting the few things about the city we don't like and remembering the scores of things that make us love Peterboro, let us convert ourselves into thousands of advertising agencies and help to put our home city more prominently on the map.

Talk Peterboro in 1927; the result may surprise you by the end of the year.

SHEER NONSENSE.

"There is still throughout rural Ontario a repugnance toward any form of militarism being introduced into the schools and colleges whether it be under the guise of cadet training or military disciplining. The people of Canada have not forgotten that in the last war the poor man went forward to fight, while the rich man remained at home to heap up a fortune."—Milverton Sun.

This last sentence is the sort of tommyrot that is expected from an irresponsible soap-box talker, but surely not from a Canadian newspaper.

If there was any feature of Canada's participation in the Great War that stood out over all others, it was the manner in which all classes in the country's population answered the call to arms.

From the homes of the well-to-do as freely as from the homes of poorer Canadians men went forth to fight.

The terse tragic messages from the casualty office reached into the families of rich and poor alike.

There was no class distinction when the yellow telegraph forms were being distributed, and the newspaper that attempts at this date to make it appear that one class shirked its duty while another carried the whole burden is insulting Canada's glorious war record and the whole-hearted response of the Canadian people when the test came.

It is true that some rich men got richer as a result of the war, as was the case in all countries, but neither patriotism nor profiteering was confined to any particular class.

The Milverton Sun should read over its files.

The casualty lists would refresh its memory as to the answer of Canadians of all classes to the call for service.

DON'T LET IT GET YOU!

"Age is only important," some one has said, "if you let it get you."

I have watched Thorndyke with interest since I was a boy, writes Thomas A. Clark, Dean of Men, University of Illinois, in The Chicago Daily News. He was middle-aged when I first met him with a wife and family and responsibilities which would have aged many a man. He never let his responsibilities weigh him down, however. I used to run in and out of his house to see his nephew, who was about my own age. Busy as he was, he could always find time to play with the children or to talk with us boys about the things which interested us. He had his own particular forms of play, too—driving or riding horseback—he kept a very beautiful horse—or working in the garden at the back of his house. He always seemed fit and ready to work and years younger than his actual age.

That was a long time ago, but Thorndyke is still going strong. Other men of his time and age have given up work long ago and grown old and died from inaction. I don't know how much past 80 he is by the calendar, but whatever the calendar says is false. The doctor who has thumped him and taken his blood pressure and X-rayed him and analyzed whatever is subject to analysis says he is not over 60 and that he is good for years yet. Thorndyke hasn't let age get him. He drives an automobile—a good one, too—and he is as likely to be arrested for speeding as his young grandson. His step is like a boy's, his mind is as clear as it ever was, and his voice rings out as strong as when I first knew him.

Grandfather Hall quit work at 40 and began to get ready to die. There was really nothing the matter with him. His digestion was excellent, his carriage was upright, he had no physical defects. He was just admittedly old and he demanded the care and the attention which are shown to the aged. It is true that he lived to be 85 and died a natural, easy death, as men of that age usually do, but he had been an old man for more than half his life. Being an old man, there were naturally many things which he could not do. Work was one of these. He slept like a log, he ate at least three hearty meals a day, but for work he had no enthusiasm. Labor tired him. If things were to be kept up about the place, that was grandmother's business. Grandmother was as old as her husband and little more than half his weight, but she did not let old age get her. She kept a young heart and a light step, and a youthful interest in everything that her gay grandchildren were doing. Age is pretty largely determined by the way one feels, and our feelings we can control.

"SILVER SPOON" SOCIALISM.

(From The New York Times)

Smethwick is an industrial borough. It was sure to elect a Labor successor to the Labor member who had resigned on account of his health. That Mr. Oswald Mosley, son of a plutocratic father who views him with alarm, should be elected by a majority of nearly 4,000 over the Conservative and Liberal candidates, a majority greater than 2,700 votes than his predecessor obtained, is gall and wormwood to the Die-Hards and Live-Hards. The Liberal nominee didn't even get votes enough to save his legal "ante." The demoralization of the Liberal party and Mr. Lloyd George's fat campaign fund as the paramount politico-moral issue of its larger faction sufficiently account for the thinning of the Liberal vote. The divergence of both sides of the opposition from reasonable argument into a personal campaign, founded on a false assumption, may be thought to explain, in large degree, the result, even allowing for dissatisfaction and resentment left over from the strike.

It was a queer canvass, almost eighteenth century in roughness, joviality and strong language. Political divisions in eminent households; Lady Cynthia Mosley, sprung from American persons and the "most superior person"; the splendor of her limousine, as contrasted with the shabby two-seater of the Premier's daughter working against the side supported by her Socialist brother; Lady Cynthia rocking Labor babies to sleep and leading Socialist choirs in song; these events have not escaped the notice of diligent sociologists. Add, though it come from a suspect source, The Morning Post, the delightful touch that Mr. Mosley referred to his partner as "the Missus" and crowned himself with "a battered hat." This last is credible enough. The correctest "topper" is bound to suffer from election pleasantries.

But what was all the row about? The theory that a rich man, born to the purple, has no place in the Labor party; can't be a true Socialist. That is nonsense. England has seldom been without patrician republicans, "rebel," come-outers. The one Shavian Socialist, G. B. S., must be a millionaire. "The wild men from the Clyde" may not be too happy, if aristocrats and plutocrats are going to break into a party already almost uncomfortably crowded with "intellectuals"; but what can they do about it? Lady Warwick came out of Burke's Peerage into the Socialist list long ago. Oswald Mosley was a Conservative M.P. only a few years ago. His conversion was gradual. We know no reason to believe that it was not sincere. But suppose it wasn't. All the worse for the people who have been so bitter against him at Smethwick. Does a young and ambitious politician find his best opportunity in the Labor party?

There is the sting. The Labor party needs a better-stuffed campaign chest. Recruits that can help to fill it are sure to be accepted. If the process goes on, the Labor party must become more conservative, the stern and unbending Tories be stripped of their main argument or passion. But this is hanging too much one one by-election. It is enough to say that Smethwick was amusing. The Dutch took Holland and found an unexpected number of Dutchmen therein.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

May 1927 be a happy year for every reader of The Examiner.

Get a good start by going out early tomorrow and marking your ballot.

Make your New Year's resolutions anyway. If you are not successful in keeping them all, you will at least have had the benefit of making them.

1927 is to be Canada's year. Help Peterboro take advantage of the general prosperity by making sure that the city's government is strong.

There is just a little wonder as to whether Toronto's Mayor is elected by the people or by the newspapers.

Premier Ferguson is to be given a complimentary banquet by his Kemptville fellow-citizens. All prophets are not without honour in their own country.

THE UTILITIES CONTEST

The Editor, Examiner:
Dear sir:

It is a self evident truth that our public Utilities must be expertly administered if we expect to obtain maximum service at mininmum cost. A position on the Commission should therefore be awarded to the candidate likely to render the most expert service. The position should not be sought as a reward for services rendered elsewhere—unless those other services are of a nature to particularly fit one for the work of the Commission.

The problems coming before the Commission are largely of an engineering nature so that it is reasonable to suppose that a qualified engineer would be in a position to give the most expert service—and therefore be the best possible investment for Peterboro.

I sincerely hope that a majority of the citizens of Peterboro will consider their vote from this standpoint and take advantage of the opportunity offered through Mr. Shirley's candidature.

Youts truly,
G. R. LANGLEY.

ABOUT E. M. TURNER.

Editor Examiner:
Dear sir:

I have on various occasions expressed my personal opinion of Mel Turner's ability as an enterprising alderman and just the kind of man we need to further the interests of our good city. He has served faithfully and well on that hard working institution, "our City Council". I am sure if elected to the Utilities Commission he will prove himself an able and efficient member. Let all of us who desire to see our city grow in efficiency give him their undivided support of election day. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Your sincerely,
TOM. HENDRY.

December 28, 1926.

Dear Mr. Editor,—As it is on the eve of the muncipal elections, should like to take up a little of your valuable space, as I would like to make a comment on the would-be aspirants for office for the vacancy for the Utilities. I was pleased to note the name of Major Fred Hills. We should be proud of such men of this calibre offering themselves for election, having known him around Peterboro since 1915, and consider him a man not seeking popularity but desirous of being of service to the community.

He is well-known as a thorough business man, reliable and just in all his dealings and well versed in any undertaking calling for keen financial abilities.

And it is especially up to all returned soldiers to rally behind him on the 1st of January, 1927.

As being a returned man with five years' service to his credit in the Canadian forces, held a commission and served in France and was a capable officer endowed with good judgment, and has a good overseas record.—Yours sincerely,

A Returned Soldier.

GOOD MENTAL MOVIES

We are so apt to consider disease as a definite thing which attacks us unawares, and to whose attacks we are always subject.

Some of the words most common in our language are ailment, attack, seizure, infection, contagion, sickness, complaint, disorder and such words calling up word pictures of certain unpleasant conditions, which we identify by these words describing disease.

Our directed thinking is done by a series of pictures in the mind brought out by words with which we are familiar. Speech is a series of emotional or imitative sounds which express pain, fear, anger, love, etc.

Another kind of thinking is that which we do in our dreams, whether during sleep or in what can be called day-dreaming. Therefore, when we think of disease when we are talking or writing, our mind jumps from one word picture to another. When we sit and meditate, we imagine certain conditions with which we have been familiar. Such imaginative and emotional thinking makes us live over again experiences of either pleasure or pain.

The memory aspect of the mind can only think with whatever material it has been given through conscious thinking. Thus we learn to think of disease as a certain thing we remember under the name of apoplexy, fever, tonsilitis, tuberculosis, etc. In this way, we form the habit of classifying diseased states, and the more we talk and write about "attacks," "strokes" and the like, the clearer our mental pictures of these unpleasant conditions become, which grow into vicious monsters always waiting just around the corner.

As the sum total of our mental powers depends so largely upon our thinking in word pictures, is it not logical then to be careful in our selection of good words with which to direct the process of the mind into wholesome mental "movies?"

The physician has the most difficulty with the patient who uses the largest vocabulary in describing his symptoms. If this kind of patient can be taught to avoid words and thoughts of sickness and be just as loquacious in the use of such words as vigorous, well, hardy, strong, etc., he is already on the road to health, and the same mental power he used in describing and looking for disease is then used in an earnest search for good health.

The lesson in this article is this: Learn to think in good word pictures and be diligent in your quest for all knowledge which will lead to living a healthful life. You will then have no time or inclination to think in terms of disease, and such an expression as "I feel ill" will soon give way to "I'm feeling fine today."

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

EDDIES AND CURRENTS

By Dr. Frank Crane.

The difference between a current and an eddy is that the current says "Come," the eddy, "Stay."

The current sweeps along. It is getting somewhere.

The eddy whirls in quiet bays, among the rushes, around the roots of old trees.

The popular idea is that happiness in life lies with the current rather than with the eddy. In going, rather than staying.

Yet, every once in a while we begin to suspect that the Thoreaus and Wordsworths and David Graysons have the best time after all.

They spend their time among the eddies, among quiet and humble things.

They find joy in the song of a bird at twilight, in the high piled cloud mountains against the blue bowl of the summer sky. They are diverted by the flavor of an apple, the tints of a wild flower, or the story of a wandering peddler.

We all, even while reading a story of achievement, feel an instinctive pleasure when things of the eddy appear, when the joys of touch and taste and smell are sounded.

Samuel Pepys was a pushing man in his day. He rose by his own efforts to a high government position. His diary might honestly have been a "success" story, the chronicle of a "go-getter." As such it would have few readers today.

The charm of Pepys' Diary, that adds to the list of readers as the years go by is that it singularly ignored the current and treated at length the eddies.

It is a compendium of little homely, universal joys. It is full of talk of food and clothes and foibles and human gossip.

Abelard was the great scholar of medieval Europe. His works on profound subjects that carried on learning have been forgotten. His few human love letters to Heloise are remembered.

The fascination of Dickens lies in his insatiable interest in life, his joy in good food and the hearty, homely, humble pleasures of common folk. His books have a perennial charm by reason of their appeal to the senses, their depicting of life in the eddies.

For, after all, achievements are merely milestones to help locate the more valuable booty of life.

Said Thoreau: "The true harvest of my daily life is somewhat as intangible and indescribable as the tints of morning or evening. It is a little star dust caught, a segment of the rainbow which I have clutched. . . ."

MEXICO REFUSES TIME EXTENSION TO OPERATORS

Oil Companies Have But Short Time To Comply With Laws.

CALLS ACT FAIR

Feel Present Status of Uncertainity Might Remain Indefinitely.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Dec. 31 (Canadian Press) — The Mexican Government theoretically will become one of the biggest owners of oil lands in the world on January 1, unless there is a last-minute alteration in the situation brought about by promulgation of the new petroleum and land laws and the failure of the oil companies thus far to accept the laws.

Under the terms of the new regulations all oil lands under foreign title, the holders of which have not applied for confirmatory concessions before January 1, wil lautomatically revert to the Mexican government. President Calles has refused to grant an extension of time for making these regulations effective.

Neither government officials or representatives of the oil companies here have accurate statistics, regarding all the property involved, but unofficial estimates are that many thousands of acres with a potential value of perhaps billions of dollars are affected.

Fundamentally, the deadlock between the Mexican Government and the most important foreign oil companies continues apparently unchanged, with much uncertainty as to the specific developments after the new year. There is a feeling among some that although the law provides that the titles shall revert to the Mexican Government, the government may not actually take over the lands at once, thereby affording no grounds for direct complaints from foreign interests of confiscation Thus the present status of uncertainty might remain indefinitely.

Senor Morones, secretary of commerce and industry, has announced that the government will not turn over to third parties the leases on the oil lands reverting to the government because of failure of the present titleholders to apply for new confirmatory concessions. The oil interests were fearful that concessions to their properties might be granted to other individuals or companies which would accept the new laws and make formal application.

Both government officials and oil men in Mexico City are eagerly awaiting word from New York as to whether the headquarters of the

WATERS RISING ON CUMBERLAND

Weather Bureau Predicts Water Will Recede Early Next Week.

RAISES RELIEF.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 31 (Canadian Press) — The Cumberland River, in record flood stage at Nashville, continued a very slow rise yesterday in its majestic, expansive trail through Nashville as the current glistened against a clear sky.

The official reading at 2 p.m. yesterday was 55.7 feet, a rise of only one-tenth of a foot in esven hours. The weather bureau's latest prediction was a crest for Nashville of above 56 feet by Saturday or Sunday with receding waters next week.

Revised official estimates of 4,000 persons homeless in Nashville lowlands, 200 city blocks inundated and 1500 persons out of work were not added to materially yesterday.

The Cumberland was a mile wide from Fifth Avenue west of the river into East Nashville and its back waters extended for three miles over the North Nashville and Edgefield sections, submerging hundreds of homes and inundating industrial plants and business blocks.

Sandbags used to dyke the waters from Woodland St., at First St., East Nashville, so far have saved the only approach to the eastern section of the city over Woodland Street bridge. The water, however, last night was approaching the street car rails on Woodland at that point.

Eight thousand dollars has been raised in relief funds for the needy, and appeals continued for $7,000 additional.

Practically every city agency able to furnish assistance is called upon to aid the police and city employes from other departments in rescue and relief work.

The NaNshville property damage is expected to exceed $2,000,000.

TRY TO TRACE SON OF BARON

Third Strange Disappearance Puzzles England—Banished From London Office.

CARRIED MONEY.

LONDON, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—A third disappearance case has arisen to occupy the British police, just recovering from their searches for the novelist, Agatha Clarissa Christie, who turned up at a Yorkshire spa, and Miss Una Crowe, who drowned herself in the sea off the Dorset coast.

This time it is Hon. Lawrence Erward Broomfield Palk, son and heir of the third Baron Haldon. His father told the police that Palk left his office, in the city, Tuesday afternoon, intending to take a train for Croydon, near London, where he had an appointment.

He did not appear for the appointment and has not been heard from since. He carried an unspecified sum of money.

WILL RECEIVE IN SENATE CHAMBERS

Governor-General's New Year's Day Levee Takes New Formality.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 31 (Canadian Press)—His Excellency, the Governor General's annual New Year's day levee will take on new formality this year. Accompanied by his personal staff and his honorary aides de camps, His Excellency will receive gentlemen who wish to pay their respects in the Senate chamer between noon and one p.m.

It is the first time that the Senate chamber has been used for this purpose and its crimson together with the dress uniforms of the staff should make a brilliant setting. Formerly the reception was held in the east block of the parliament buildings where the Governor General's offices were used.

The quarters there made it necessary for the visitors to wait in long lines in the corridors of the buildings before meeting his excellency. This year all the Senate accommodation will be available including the reception rooms of the Speaker of the Upper House. Ther will be a large escosrt of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OTONABEE

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Once again I appeal for your support and influence on my behalf as Councillor.

As it will be impossible for me to see you all in person, I hope you will deem this as good as a personal call. Will do all in my power for the benefit of the township as a whole.

Thanking you for your support two years ago and wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

ORMISTON TELLS HIS OWN STORY

Radio Operator Gives Version of Events at Carmel Cottage.

"MISS X" RETRACTS

LOS ANGELES, California, Dec. 31 (UP) — Kenneth G. Ormiston, accused of having occupied a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea with Aimee Semple Mcpherson, last summer while the evangelist was missing, finally went before a grand jury yesterday to tell his story.

Ormiston, who disappeared after Mrs. McPherson turned up with a story of having been kidnapped and held for ransom, never has told his side of the story officially. He was found in Harrisburg, Pa., recently, after a long search, and returned here on a fugitive warrant.

Ormiston was called yesterday in connection with perjury charges against Mrs. Lorraine C. Wiseman, star state's witness in the case against Mrs. McPherson, accused with her mother and Ormiston of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Mrs. Wiseman testified at a preliminary hearing that she was a mysterious "Miss X" seen with Ormiston at the cottage. Wednesday she retracted her statement, and said it was a plot to clear Mrs. McPherson.

Ormiston was expected to deny to the jury that the woman in question was Mrs. McPherson.

It was said by District Attorney Keyes, prosecutor, that the charges against Ormiston, the evangelist and her mother might be dropped because of the difficulty in establishing the facts in the case.

LIBERALS ADVANCE NICARAGUA CAPITAL

Diaz Forces Dealt Severe Blow Despite United States' Aid.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Juan Sacasa's Liberal army having defeated the Diaz forces on the east coast of Nicaragua, is, according to Pedro J. Zepeda, Sacasa's chief representative in Mexico City, preparing to march upon Managua with absolute confidence of capturing the capital. Zepeda is receiving news from Nicaragua by special couriers; this necessary, he explained, because of United States censorship.

The Liberal envoy declared that Dr. Sacasa's two army corps of 2,000 men each, have inflicted a vital blow on Adolfo Diaz, who thus would be unable to oppose the march of the Liberal armies on Managua.

Hernan Robleto, Under Secretary of Education in Dr. Sacasa's Cabinet, who recently arrived in Mexico City after commanding a fighting unit on the Nicaraguan front, said yesterday:

"The Liberals have defeated Diaz, even although Diaz had the assistance of the United States. The landing of United States marines in Nicaragua to assist Diaz only made the Liberals fight harder.

"Our victories are withheld, or diminished in importance, by the United States authorities, who have established a strict censorship

NATURAL CAUSES BROUGHT DEATH

Thomas Griffin

Thomas Griffin, conductor of the train, gave evidence that corroborated that of Saunders. He had first seen the deceased that morning in the yardhouse at Lindsay, and he had seemed all right. He had seen him on the train several times, and he had been complaining. Brown had said that he thought he had a touch of indigestion, and the conductor had advised him to see a doctor in Omemee. He hadn't done so but had gone to see one in Peterborough. He had said no more to him until he saw him dying.

The witness said that Brown had told him he had an orange before leaving home and two bananas afterwards. He had never heard him complain before and he had seemed to be in fair health. The deceased was not addicted to liquor.

Samuel Scott.

Samuel Scott, trainman, gave evidence similar to that of the previous witnesses. He had talked to Brown, who said he was sick, and after the train left Reaboro he had looked for a doctor or a nurse. He also asked a man named Smith to look, and Smith had given him the aspirin tablets which he took to Brown. He had also offered offered Brown tea from his thermos bottle.

Alfred Metters.

The next witness was Alfred Metters, the sectionman who was with Brown while Saunders went for a doctor. He said he had not been acquainted with the deceased, and had first seen him just before he died.

William Comstock.

William Comstock, of the firm of A. Comstock, undertakers, had not known the deceased. His brothers had gone to the station in answer to a call and he had first seen the body when they brought it back. He started to remove the clothing, but Dr. Moir had advised him not to until the coroner arrived. When Dr. Young arrived he had helped undress the dead man and searched his pockets. There had been about $1.25 in silver and a shinplaster, a savings bank book, a Knights of Columbus membership card, a Mass card, some beads, and a small image. When a brother of the dead man arrived, he had thought there should be a pass, and they had searched again.

The conductor, recalled to the stand, said that Brown had had no pass, but had travelled in the baggage car, a common practice.

Samuel Perry.

Samuel Perry, an employee of the C. N. Express Co. at Peterborough, had known the dead man and had wished him a "Merry Christmas" when he had met him on the platform that morning. He had next seen him just as he died, having gone into the baggage car with some express parcels. He had helped lift the body on to a truck and had procured the tarpaulin to cover it.

Dr. Bertram Waite.

Dr. Waite was the physician visited by the dying man when he arrived in Peterboro. The doctor said that Brown had called at his home about eight o'clock, before he was dressed. He had remained upstairs, and Mrs. Waite had come to tell him that the man was groaning and rapping on the office door. The doctor said that he went down immediately and found that Brown had gone outside to vomit during his wait. He questioned him, suspecting a ruptured ulcer, but his patient had said he had no trouble before. He had had a chicken supper the night before and laid his trouble to that and the bananas eaten that morning.

Dr. Waite said he had given the patient some aromatic spirits of ammonia, and had tried to persuade him not to continue his journey. He thought as the man left that it would be a good job if he miss his train and watched him walk briskly away.

The witness said that Brown had paid him, and had seemed to have about eight or ten dollar left in a small roll. There had been no smell of alcohol.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien, assisted by Dr. Herbert Young, conducted the post mortem examination, and in his evidence said that he believed death due to acute haemorrhagic pancreatitis. All the other organs had been normal except one lung which had been full of pus. The gall bladder had contained eight gallstones, which evidently were the cause of the inflammation of the pancreas.

Dr. Herbert Young corroborated the evidence given by Dr. O'Brien regarding the post mortem examination.

Edward Brown, a brother of the deceased, said that his brother had seemed in good health and had never been troubled in any way, and his sudden death had come as a shock. He said that his brother's landlady had told him that he had about ninety dollars when he left Lindsay, and no explanation had been made regarding the whereabouts of this sum.

The jury consisted of Bruce Gillespie, foreman, and Robert Smith, John Primeau, J. Fowler, T. McCauley, J. Lewis, W. Merrill, D. Grant, A. M. Cowling, R. McGarrell, J. Guiry anid Harry Kingdon.

FEEL UNCERTAINTY MEXICAN LAND LAWS

As To What Foreign Corporations Will Do Before Coming Effective.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—With the date when the new petroleum and land laws come into effect almost at hand, January 1, there is still an uncertainty as to what the foreign corporations intend to do. Only two more days remain for compliance with the Government regulations.

Foreign owned properties coming under the terms of the new laws may be taken over by the Mexican Government if, prior to January 1, the owners have not filed proper applications for confirmation of their titles and given notification of acceptance of the laws.

It is possible that the Mexican Government will grant an extension of time in which the applications may be filed.

There are persistent rumors that this may be done, but there is no official indication that this is the Government's intention.

There is another possibility—that the foremost foreign oil companies may announce a last minute acceptance. Those well informed, however, consider this improbable.

Finally, there may be no definite clearing up of the situation for the present, no specific agreement being announced, but merely a marking of time. In such case the laws would be effective in theory, but the Government would not actually confiscate the lands. Some authorities are inclined to think that this is the most probable alternative of all.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Dec. 30.—There was a large attendance at the special Christmas service at Zion church on Sunday evening. The message was in keeping with occasion and special Christmas music was given by the junior choir.

A large number of Petherick's Corners people attended the annual Christmas concert at Stanwood United church and spent a most enjoyable evening. The programme was directed by Miss Daisy Sparks, and she is to be congratulated on the excellence of the performance. The various numbers were well presented, as well as being quite novel in form. Rev. Mr. Gardiner filled the office of chairman in a most capable manner.

Among those who are back home for the holiday season is Morley Petherick of Hamilton. Morley was always prominent in the social and church work of the community and has been greatly missed since he moved to Hamilton early this year. His many friends welcome him on his return for the Christmas season

According to the story Wilhelm's friends have urged him to employ greater discretion in his love affairs.

SOME CRITICISMS

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31.—Mr. President, Town Hockey League:

I been making my reg'lar trips up to the arena lookin' over the talent you have lined up for your league, and I think the cash costumers are going to see some pretty fair samples of the great winter game. Some of those boys are sure steppin' out.

They tell me the Mill and Menie are kinda givin' the Hydro and Clerks the laugh over the stars they drew outa the grab bag. Both of which, have departed for other pastures leavin' both clubs to worry over the outcome of Monday night's game. I ain't making no predictions as to the probable winner, and I ain't heard no one else doing likewise, so I guess they'll all be there to see for theirselves, and I sure hope they fill Boss Covert's Arena to the rafters. You and those other fellas what run the league sure are deserving of the support of all the fans.

I think that kid stuff you're goin 'to pull before the big game oughter be the berries. There's nothin' like startin' 'em young.

I was sorry to hear you couldn't persuade the Arena Boss that "Doc" Stewart and "Lottie" Fox needed a new set of posts to rest on, when they weren't restin' on their knees. I'd just coax the Boss along a little it, you might get 'em yet.

That's about all I can think of tell after the big games next week. I'll see you there Monday and Wednesday.

Playfully yours,

Egotists Are Mentally Alert Says Psychologist In Advice

PHIALDELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 30.—(United News).— Science has punctured the pride of those who claim to be good judges of human nature.

"Be an egotist", advises Dr. Henry S. Adams, University of Michigan phychologist attending the National Science convention here.

"Egotists are usually mentally alert, socially inclined and moderately popular."

But the person who is a good judge of other personalities, Dr. Adams has discovered, is neither nimble witted or profound.

"In fact", said the Savant, "he is emotionally unstable and has no physical or mental courage."

VICKS VAPORUB

Over 21 Million Jars Used Yearly

1926 A MOMENTOUS YEAR 1926

MUCH history has been written in the year now fast drawing to a close. The great upheaval of the general strike in England was followed by the long drawn out and costly coal strike. There were a series of political crises in France and financial distress caused by the fall of the franc to its record low point. Canada shows increasing prosperity with a bountiful harvest and rapidly growing trade. The year in Canada closes with rumors of strikes in several branches of railway service which it is hoped will be happily averted. Canada's status as a nation within the Empire is re-affirmed and a representative at Washington appointed.

SIXTY YEARS WITHIN THE BRITISH EMPIRE

The year just closing saw the beginning of the sixtieth year of Canada's nationhood and the coming year will see elaborate ceremonies in connection with the Diamond Jubilee of the Dominion in which it is expected the Prince of Wales will take part. The imposing figures quoted on this page show something of the progress made in the years since Viscount Monk was the first Governor-General and Sir John Macdonald the first Prime Minister. Today Canada has a railway system of more than 40,000 miles, the largest part of which is State owned. The total railway capital today is $3,250,000,000 or more than half the capitalization of the railways of Great Britain.

Sixty years ago the value of the external trade of Canada was about $100,000,000 while today it is $2,255,000,000. In export trade per capita of the population, Canada has moved in less than twenty years from seventh to second place among the nations of the world. No less than 44 per cent of her export trade is with countries within the Empire. In 1868 Canadian bank deposits were $30,000,000. Today they exceed $2,000,000,000. The average wealth of every Canadian (man, woman and child) is estimated today at $2,525.

Canada won her place among the great nations of the world at the Treaty of Versailles. Premier Mackenzie King during his recent visit to London to attend the Imperial Conference said, Canada can have no greater destiny than as one of the free self governing countries of the British Empire. That is our highest destiny. The greatest service to mankind can be rendered by having two nations in North America. Canada is in the happy position of being able to contribute to the peace of the world, both by example and by her position as an interpreter of the United States to Great Britain and of Great Britain to the United States."

The status of Canada as an independent nation within the British Empire was re-affirmed and stated again at the Imperial Conference and although nothing new was added and nothing changed the findings of that Conference were historically important as making more clear than ever before the independence of Canada. The document was hailed as the new Magna Carta of the Dominions. It was also explicitly set forth that the Governor-General was the direct and personal representative of the Sovereign and not of Downing Street. The year saw also an important change in our relations with the United States by the appointment of Hon. Vincent Massey as the first representative of Canada at Washington.

GENERAL ELECTION

For the second consecutive year a general election was held throughout the Dominion on Sept. 4, with the result that the Conservatives received a set-back with a loss of 25 seats, the Progressives losing slightly and the Liberals gaining 16 seats.

The standing of the parties in the last Parliament, prior to the resignation of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen upon accepting the task of forming a new Government, was as follows:

Conservatives	116
Liberals	102
Progressives	23
Labor	2
Independents	2
Total	245

The result of the polling was as follows:

	Lib.	Con.	Prog.	Lib-Prog.	Labor.	U. F. A.	Ind.
Prince Edward Island	3	1	0	0	0	0	0

MARINE FACTS

Shipbuilding in Canada for 1925 showed a good increase over the preceding year, but is still far behind the halcyon days of the period of Canada's greatest activity between 1870 and 1880.

Navigation on the other hand continues to show an increase in tonnage both in ocean-going and coastwise vessels, the former setting a new mark in Canadian Marine history, while the latter has only once been exceeded, in 1914.

In 1868 the tonnage of vessels built was 87,230. This figure gradually increased, with the single exception of 1870, until 1875, the banner year of Canadian shipbuilding, when a tonnage of 188,098 was recorded. Thereafter there was a general decline. In the first year after the Armistice the tonnage rose to 104,444. This was increased in 1920 to 164,074. The figures for the last four years are:

1922	78,400
1923	14,868
1924	20,336
1925	36,147

In navigation both of ocean-going and coast-wise, the record is brighter, with very few exceptions there has been an almost constant increase since 1876, when the ocean-going tonnage was 9,911,199 and the coast-wise tonnage 10,300,939, until 1920, when the figures were:—

Sea-going	49,493,533
Coast-wise	60,552,658

Since that date the figures have been as follows:

	Ocean-going	Coastwise
1921	54,648,630	56,225,509
1922	56,665,253	61,827,089
1923	72,403,183	70,970,079
1924	74,947,373	77,365,128
1925	77,939,051	80,619,819

Altogether in 1925, a total of 20,436 vessels entered Canadian ports from the sea, of which 11,716 were of British registry, and 8,720 of foreign.

On inward waters 18,149 Canadian vessels, with a tonnage of 9,113,793 and crews totalling 299,482 entered Canadian ports; and 33,263 U. S. vessels, of 8,502,312 tonnage and crews totalling 262,213.

MAKING HISTORY IN 1926

FRANCE

The year 1926 was the most critical year through which France has passed since the Great War suddenly burst upon her. It was a year of grave financial difficulties which had their reflection on a series of political upheavals which on more than one occasion threatened the most serious consequences. The non-settlement of inter-Allied debts was the main cause of her financial troubles bringing about an alarming fall in her national currency. Added to this France was forced in the early months of the year to carry on two expensive and unpopular wars in Morocco and Syria.

The first of these wars was brought to a satisfactory ending with the capture of the Riffian leader Abdel Krim on May 27. The man who had defied Spain and France so successfully was at last cornered and forced to surrender and was later banished into exile where he could no longer harass the French forces in the country so peculiarly well adapted to his style of fighting.

The franc on February 19, stood at 136 to the pound sterling. It fell continuously thereafter with few recoveries until by the middle of July it was quoted at 245 to the pound. Thereafter it had some slight recessions, but gained strength continuously standing at 170 to the pound by October 6. On December 10 against the normal exchange rate of 19.3 cents it was quoted at 5.88 cents.

France had five Cabinet crises in 1926. Three times M. Briand was Premier, once M. Herriot was in office and lastly M. Poincare formed his National Ministry. This was at the most serious crisis of the year.

The year opened under what looked like auspicious circumstances for the Treaties of Locarno seemed to have infused a new spirit into the nations of the world. France and the whole world was shocked when M. Doumer the Finance Minister announced on January 12 that the credit of the country was severely shaken and warned his countrymen that not a moment should be lost in dealing with the financial problems. Yet for two months the Chamber debated the question and made the grave situation the reason for political jockeying, cutting the budget proposals of M. Briand to about one-third of his original proposals. M. Briand's government was overthrown just before he started for Geneva, but he reconstituted his Cabinet and agreed to carry on. M. Raoul Peret was the new Finance Minister. In June, M. Peret resigned and M. Caillaux was appointed Finance Minister. He asked for stronger and wider powers to deal with the situation and after a visit to London to discuss settlement with the Chancellor of the Exchequer he was forced to resign and another Briand Ministry fell. M. Herriot was next called upon to form a government and his acceptance caused a financial panic in France. There was a run on the banks and M. Herriot's Ministry lasted only twenty-four hours when the President called upon M. Poincare to form a National Ministry which included no less than five ex-Premiers. His first act was to impose heavy taxation and this the Chamber now thoroughly frightened, agreed to by a large majority. Thereafter there was some Communist and Socialist opposition but M. Poincare weathered the storm and was in power until the Chamber adjourned for the Christmas holidays.

GREAT BRITAIN

THE BRITISH STRIKE.

On May first the General Council of the Trades Union Congress held a joint session with the delegates of the Miners Federation who were threatening to strike, and by an overwhelming majority decided to support the miners and call a general strike on May 3rd. This included workers on railroads, sea, road and air transports, printing, building, iron and steel trades, electrical workers and gas works employes. Food trains would be permitted to run under certain specified conditions and the Council itself volunteered to organize milk and food distribution.

A state of Emergency was immediately declared to exist by the issue of a Royal proclamation and although Premier Baldwin made a last hour effort to prevent the strike being called the machinery which had long been perfected to meet such an emergency was at once got ready to be put in motion. Matters were brought to a head on the following day when union printers demanded that certain changes be made in an editorial which was to appear on the day following in The Daily Mail entitled "For King and Country." The editor declined to alter a single word of his article and the printers refused to set it up with the result that no issue of the paper appeared on May 3rd.

THE STRIKE IS ON.

The issue was directly joined the next day. There is abundant evidence that the strike was planned by communists who took their instructions from Moscow and received funds from Soviet Russia. The moderate leaders of Labor, including Ramsay Macdonald and J. H. Thomas seemed powerless to act although both of these leaders and several others declared afterwards that they had counselled against the strike being called from the first.

Premier Baldwin acted firmly but without recrimination. He declared in the House of Commons that the only terms on which a settlement with the miners could be effected was the unconditional withdrawal of the general strike order. He realized that the strike was a challenge to Constitutional government and he took every legal means to meet it. Practically all the newspapers were unable to issue anything more than tabloid editions of their regular issues and the Government retaliated by printing a State publication giving news of the progress of the strike which was called the "British Gazette."

THE NATION RALLIES.

On the day after the stoppage of work thousands of volunteers rallied to the side of the Government; 98,000 special constables on the first day of the strike were increased two days later to 226,000 and altogether 488,155 volunteers were enrolled. Over 3,000 drove trains underground and on the main systems. There was remarkably little violence and thousands of examples of characteristic British humor were recorded every day.

Five days after the strike was started the milk post in Hyde Park was working admirably and over 2,400 trains were being operated, convoys of food, some of them over two miles long, and guarded by armed men, conveyed food from the docks and railway stations to Hyde Park.

THE COURTS DECIDE.

In an historic judgment on May 11, Mr. Justice Ashbury declared the strike illegal and those inciting others to take part in it could not therefore claim protection under the Trades Disputes Act.

On May 12, at noon the Trades Union Council sought an interview with Premier Baldwin and said: "We are here today, sir, to say that the general strike is to be terminated forthwith."

"I thank you for your decision," replied the Premier with emotion.

THE STRIKE ENDED.

There was some delay in the resumption of industry but in a very short time the short-lived challenge, accepted by the nation in so wholehearted a manner had ended in the complete discomfiture of the strikers. It had proved a colossal blunder and it is unlikely that a similar attempt will ever be made in England again.

THE COAL DISPUTE.

The strike of the coal miners in sympathy with which the Trades Union Congress called the General strike was less spectacular but was far more disastrous to the industry of the country. In July, 1925, in order to stave off a threatened strike a Royal Comission was appointed to enquire into the industry as a whole and a subsidy was granted to the mines amounting to $120,000,000 which came to an end on April 30, 1926.

Meanwhile the commission had brought down its report which was accepted by the Government on March 24.

Mr. Cook who openly accepted funds for the strike from Moscow and went to that capital to report immediately after the final collapse of the strike nearly seven months later, adopted as his slogan "Not an hour on the day not a penny off the pay." After various attempts had been made by leading men, by the churches and incessantly by the Government to reach a settlement, the Eight hour (Permissive) Bill was passed by Parliament. The dispute became largely one of acceptance of the principle of district settlements in place of a national settlement and the working of longer hours.

MEN DRIFT BACK.

The drift back to work began early in August and by the end of that month 35,000 men had returned, the movement being especially noticeable in the Nottinghamshire pits. Mr. Cook maintained that the men were being "starved" into surrender and sent appeals for aid broadcast all over the world. Except from Russia the response was not encouraging.

By the middle of October it was reported that over 225,000 men had returned to work and a month later the strike died of sheer inanition.

NOTHING GAINED.

The men had gained nothing by their long idleness. Their funds were depleted and the terms they might have secured on the basis of the Royal Commission's report on May 12 when the general strike collapsed were no longer available for acceptance. Although many estimates have been prepared final figures of the direct cost of the strike are not yet known. The direct loss to industry ran into a staggering sum. Coal was rationed during the last few weeks of the strike and literally thousands of factories were idle. It is a remarkable tribute to Britain that never once was the bank rate—the delicate barometer of a country's trade—increased during the seven months of the strike and the partial paralysis of the nation's industry which it caused. An immediate boom in industry followed the end of the strike and by December 15, England was already taking giant strides to make up for her stupendous losses.

GERMANY

GERMANY ENTERS THE LEAGUE.

The entry of Germany into the Council of the League of Nations on September 8, of this year was the most notable date in German history since the signing of the armistice on November 11, 1918. It was the logical sequence to the signing of the Treaty of Locarno a year previously for that pact guaranteed the inviolability of the frontiers between France and Germany and Belgium and Germany. Under British guarantee these three countries bound themselves not to make war on each other and the treaty was generally accepted as bringing a new spirit into international relations and removing the greatest menace to another world war. The treaty was not to come into force until Germany was admitted to full partnership on equal terms with the other great powers into the League.

Early in January President Hindenburg asked Herr Luther to form a Cabinet in order to carry out the Locarno policy.

TREATY WITH RUSSIA.

On April 24, Germany signed a treaty with Russia after a year's negotiations. Special significance was lent to the event by the fact that in spite of the efforts of the Great Powers the unanimous consent necessary for the admision of Germany was not obtained and the League Council adjourned without the coveted invitation being extended although Germany's delegates were waiting at a nearby hotel for the summons. Spain objected strenuously.

During the summer efforts were made by Lord Cecil and Sir Austen Chamberlain to smooth over the differences and on September 8, by the unanimous vote of 48 nations Germany was admitted to full membership on the Council. On September 10, Dr. Stresemann, Herr Gans and Herr von Schubert the German delegates took their places in the assembly amid loud applause and Dr. Stresemann speaking for his brother delegates assured the assembled nations that Germany desired to work in the closest co-operation and harmony with the other nations of the world.

GERMANY PROTESTS.

The next meeting of the Council assembled on December 5 and although Germany had some grievances about the army occupation and on certain other matters regarding which she argued she had not been treated on a basis of mutual confidence these differences seem in a fair way of satisfactory adjustment.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES

NORWOOD UNITED CHURCH.

NORWOOD, Dec. 31.—The services in the United church on Sunday last were in keeping with the Christmas season. Special music under the leadership of Prof. Edwards, F.T.S.C., was rendered by the choir.

At the morning service the musical numbers were:

Anthem, "And there were Shepherds"; solo parts were taken by Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, Mrs. E. C. Squire and Mr. Roger McMillan.

Solo, "Ave Maria" (by Bach and Gounod)—Prof. Edwards.

Male quartette, "Antioch" (by G. F. Handel)—Messrs. J. A. Finlay, G. M. Wright, E. C. Squire and K. G. Thomson.

Evening music:

Anthem, "Shout the Glad Tidings" (by G. W. Marston); anthem solos taken by Miss B. E. Pearce, Miss Lillian Hugill, and Mr. J. A. Finlay.

Solo—Mr. J. Edwards of Buffalo, N.Y.

Solo—Mr. G. M. Wright.

Male quartette, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" (by Howard M. Dow)—Messrs. Finlay, Wright, Squire and Thomson.

MILLBROOK CHURCHES.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31.—Services in all three of the local churches on Sunday were of a Christmas character, with decorations appropriate to the season.

In St. Thomas church at the evening worship Christmas carols were sung, the organist and choir leader, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, having been training for some weeks past for the service.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, preached at the service on Christmas day, and his assistant, Rev. P. C. Howard, at both services on Sunday. There was a large congregation at night, and the choir was augumented to about thirty voices, including twelve choir boys. The soloists were Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard and Mrs. W. McKee Bingham.

Rev. Mr. Howard chose for his text, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews?" (Matthew 2:2), pointing out that this is the first question in the New Testament. The first question in he Old Testament is "Where art thou?" God's query to the first Adam, and it was of the whereabouts of the Second Adam that the Wise Men's questioning was made.

The theme was developed by emphasizing the supreme importance of having the dwelling-place of the Christ in the individual heart.

The order of the service was:

Processional hymn, "Good Christian Men, Rejoice."

Proper Psalm 110 (choral rendering).

After the offertory:

Carol, "All My Heart This Night Rejoices".

Solo and chorus, "The Shepherd's Vision" (L. H. Meredith), by Mrs. Howard and choir.

Carol, "Like Silver Lamps in Distant Shrine".

"The Holy Night" (L. H. Meredith), by Mrs. McKee Bingham and the choir.

Carol, "See Amid the Winter's Snow."

"Glory" (I. W. Lerman), by Mrs. Howard and the choir.

Carol, "The Holy Night."

"There Were Shepherds" (from "Salvator" by Roberta G. Harvey), by Mrs. Bingham and the choir.

Recessional hymn, "Once in Royal Davids City."

During the singing of the recessional hymn a very effective arrangement permitted the choir to come down the centre aisle, parting at the base and returning up each side aisle to the sanctuary, uniting again in couples at the chancel steps and so passing into the vestry.

Grace Church.

Grace Presbyterian church now holds its public worship service on Sunday afternoons, instead of the evening, at 3 o'clock immediately following the Sunday school session.

The pastor, Rev. John Riddle, preached a Christmas sermon from the text, "Then Herod, when he had privily called the Wise Men, inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared", (Matthew 2:7), relating his topic to the need of an open allegiance to the Savior, and to the economic conditions of the time.

The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Chas. Thorndyke, sang two anthems, "There Were Shepherds", and "Angels of Light."

Miss Myrtle Russell presided at the organ.

United Church.

The Sunday School anniversary services were continued in the evening at the United Church, Mr. W. W. Staples, of Lindsay, the special speaker for the day, delivering his discourse from the verse: "His Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:6).

"Jesus Christ, the Peerless Personality of the Ages" was the theme developed the majesty of service "which is really a royal word, though at times it has the guise of unattractiveness", and the fact that "God made life majestic" being given special emphasis.

"Every day we are painting our picture of life to hang in the art gallery of heaven forever, and the product is the estimate we put upon life. Grasp the truth of Him who said, "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly, and we will put in the picture all that is truest and best."

The choir rendered a song service, which was much enjoyed, after the regular worship, the numbers including:

Anthem, "Glory to God in the Highest", with obligato by Mr. E. W. Johnston.

Anthem, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night".

Hymn, "My Jesus I Love Thee."

Organ solo, by Miss Estelle Hetherington.

Trio, "God Be Merciful To Us", by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and Mr. Errol Hansman.

The processional hymn used for the service was, "Hail to the Prince of Peace", and the choir selection before the sermon was a sextette, "Praise Ye the Lord, Ye Daughters of Zion", by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Miss Marjorie Sayles, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Messrs. M. McDowell and V. C. Lambert.

The ushers for the day were Messrs. Jack Byam, Ernest Burnham, Kenneth Skitch, Clarence Ball, George Elson, and Arnold Fallis.

At this part of the programme Mr. Kingston called upon Rev. Mr. Elliott for a few words. Mr. Elliott, however, had more than a few words to say, and, greatly to Mr. and Mrs. Kingston's surprise, presented them each with a tangible gift from the officers of the school as a slight token of the school towards Mr. and Mrs. Kingston. They are both ardent workers in the school, always ready to lend a helping hand. Mr. and Mrs. Kingston were both taken completely by surprise, and each gave fitting replies to Mr. Elliott, and expressed their pleasure to be able to help in such a good cause, adding that without the capable assistance of the staff of the school, this duty would not be so easy for them.

The last item on the programme was a chorus by the school, after which all joined in the National Anthem.

Santa Claus then arrived and distributed candies to all the children.

Mr. Kingston made a motion of a vote of thanks to Mr. Hazell, the organist, who so cheerfully trained the large choir of young voices. Mr. Hazel supplied the music for the evening, ably assisted by the following orchestra: Mr. Stanley Taylor, saxaphone; Mr. Ronald Hazell, violin: Ronald and Billy Richardson, violins.

AT MOUNT PLEASANT.

NORHAM SUNDAY SCHOOL.

NORHAM, Dec. 30.—Christmas eve was a red letter time for the boys and girls of Trinity United Church Sunday School. While the roads were icy the crowd that gathered for the entertainment in the League Hall filled it to capacity. People were present from Warkworth, Codrington, Morganston and Campbellford. Two Christmas trees, one at either corner of the hall, were loaded with presents, many were piled upon the floor at the foot of the trees and Santa appeared at 10.15 dressed in red trimmed with white, and wearing a white toque. On his back he carried a bag full of candy and nuts from which he treated the boys and girls.

The proceeds from the entertainment amounted to 33.00, notwithstanding the fact that all children under twelve years of age were admitted free. The programme, which was a lengthy one and well rendered, was in charge of the pastor and included: An opening chorus, "Good-night Ladies" by the school. This was followed by hymn 308 and prayer, Recitation, "Christmas Time," Dean Massey; recitation, "The Mousie," George Smith; recitation, Lenore Isaac! ukelele trio, Edith Brenton, Lucile Palmateer and Amey Meneilley; recitation, Lloyd Brenton; recitation, "If I were a Grown Up," Lorne Mitchell; recitation, Saint Nick, Cecil Gummer; reading, Irene Tweed; recitation, Claire Curtis; Goodnight Drill by seven little girls; recitation, "To Santa Claus," Kenneth Gummer; song, Austin Huycke; reading, "Going Home for Christmas," Mildred Curtis; duet, Mrs. Bert West and Miss Lulu Mitchell; recitation, Ruby Brenton; recitation, Jossie Barrett; recitation, "Kris Kringle's Surprise," Amey Meneilley; march by twelve girls; readings, "First Settlers' Story" and "An Old Soldier," by Rev. AT BURNBRAE.

BURNBRAE, Dec. 29. — With Chrismas past the season of concerts is practically over. The annual Christmas entertainment of the St. Andrew's Sabbath school on Thursday evening last drew a large attendance and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed the numbers presented by the children.

The combined Christmas concert and box social at the Tabernacle church, English Line, was also held on Thursday evening. Miss Floyd, elocutionist, of Belleville, delighted the audience with her art, while Mr. Elliott, comic entertainer, of Campbellford, also made a decided hit. Possibly due to the approaching Christmas festivities, the boxes were not in as great demand as is usual at these affairs and some of the prices realized were not up to expectations.

AT WOOLER.

WOOLER, Dec. 30. — At Mount Zion church on Wednesday evening a large audience was entertained by the members of the Sunday school, in presenting a varied programme, with a "Mozart Minuet" for the closing number. Not only the splendid drill, but the appropriate costumes were much enjoyed.

The Stone School House closing was much enjoyed by the school children, and the members of the school official board. The Christmas tree, so beautifully decorated and laden with gifts from pupil to pupil, and Miss Julia Spencer, caretaker of the school, presented each pupil with a gift. Mr. Dudley, teacher, remembered his pupils, and made special remembrances to the four pupils who made the highest honors in their work during the term.

According to the standards, the first honor was awarded to Mabel Forbes; second honor, Bertram Gillings; third, Elsie Irvine; fourth, Laura Vosburg; and lastly, the pupils presented Mr. Dudley with a set of military brushes and comb in a leather case, accompanied by an address, showing their appreciation of his untiring patience and training.

Bethel School. — The closing was in the form of a concert, showing the interest and Christmas spirit of the teacher, Margaret Teal.

Wooler High School—A large number of the village people gathered to the school house to enjoy a two hour entertainment, which was an educational and literary programme under the direction of the teacher, Miss Mary Teal.

On Christmas eve the Town Hall was packed to the doors by people of the surrounding community to enjoy one of the finest entertainments by the Sunday school, under the management of the Assistant Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Hugh Gainsforth, and his committees.

The opening number, of over 20 people in costume, representing a Christmas Revel," was most excellent, closing with a color tableau.

Following this was the chairman's (Rev. H. B. Neal's) address. The next numbers were as follows:

Recitations, Douglas Steinburg, Arthur Putnam, Jean McColl, Lucille Waite, Jean Stacey, Lulu McColl and a monologue by Eva Masters.

Solos, Edith Austin and Doris McCall.

Duet, Frances Terrill, Loretta McColl.

Dialogues, "Suspended," "Uncle Hiram's Cold," "Christmas Adv. in the Paper."

Drills, Ribbon Drill, Swinging Clubs.

Then Santa Claus came and distributed the presents. Among them were a number of presents for the teachers, given by the class, showing love and co-operation in the Sunday school wrk.

AT STIRLING.

STIRLING, Dec. 31.—St. Paul's United church Sunday school held their annual Christmas tree and entertainment in the school room on December 23. The program consisted of choruses, instrumental and vocal duets, readings, and etc., ably assisted by the Sunday school orchestra.

An interesting feature of the evening was the coming of Santa Claus laden with gifts. Everybody was delighted and all decided it was a most enjoyable evening of good fellowship and Christmas cheer.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Keep this Resolution and leave the rest to the "little daily dose"

Hand on heart, please. Now pipe up—

"Resolved that every morning of the new year I will tip into my first cup of coffee or tea just as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a ten-cent piece."

No sooner resolved than forgotten is a pretty general rule; so in with you at the very next druggist's you see for a bottle of Kruschen Salts before you've chance to forget it. Start the "little daily dimeful" to-morrow. Never miss a day.

Each tiny pinch of Kruschen, tasteless in your coffee or tea, is a full day's supply of those six vital mineral salts which nature prescribes for the well-being of your inside. With Kruschen's gentle aid your organs of elimination work as regularly and smoothly as if you were leading an ideal life in the open air with exercise in abundance, a simple, balanced diet and no rush or worry to upset you.

Every scrap of poisonous waste-matter is surely expelled from your system. Clear, refreshed blood is sent coursing to your very fingertips. And every little fibre of you is set tingling all over with "that Kruschen feeling."

The chances are just now, with the Christmas jollifications so lately ended, that your liver is reminding you more forcibly than this advertisement about your need of Kruschen Salts. All the better for you, if you make that reminder strengthen your resolve to prove for yourself that—

It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The dose of a dimeful taken every morning is found in practice just the right amount for a most invigorating daily tonic. The medicinal dose for persons suffering from pains of rheumatism, gout, lumbago, or sciatica, or habitual constipation, with inactive liver, etc., is half to one teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water before breakfast. Every druggist sells Kruschen. A 25c. bottle lasts nearly six months. This works out at half a cent a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day and start to-morrow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

SAINT and SINNER

The letter which Cherry dropped upon the sewing machine was on plain white, unmarked commercial bond paper, and its three paragraphs had been neatly written, without typographical error, upon a typewriter.

There was no date, no address or name of the writer. It began, without salutation, other than the words:

"Miss Cherry Lane: You are young and beautiful. Life holds many good things in store for you, if you will reconsider your recent decision to mate with a man who has one foot in the grave. A friend who must remain anonymous urges you to publish at once a denial of yesterday's printed report of your engagement to Mr. Ralph Cluny. No good can come to you or to him if you persist in your determination to wed old age and millions.

"If you act quickly and with dignity, to end your unfortunate engagement, you will not be sorry, will not go unrewarded in a material way.

"If you do not, certain facts about your past will undoubtedly be called to Mr. Cluny's attention. Have you told him of your little romance, culminating so suddenly at Darrow, with a certain Mr. Albert Ettleson? Perhaps you have not yet had time to tell him all the interesting details of your very interesting past, details of which are fully known to many, including the unknown friend who is giving this kindly advice."

Timeful, insinuating bit of blackmailing there, abruptly, without signature. Faith stared for a long time at the neatly blocked paragraphs, but her eyes, rigid with horror, did not separate one letter from another after that first reading which turned her blood cold.

"Blackmailers! The nerve of 'em—thinking they can scare me off with such tricks like this!" Cherry snatched the letter, but Faith laid a hand down, upon it. "No, don't tear it up!" she roused herself from a trance of horror. "Let me keep it. I can't believe that any of Mr. Cluny's relatives would have stooped so low as to send you an anonymous, blackmail letter."

"Some shyster lawyer did it!" Cherry's voice was venomous with anger. "A shyster—a darned good stenographer that—wrote that letter. See how it's blocked out, in the latest style business correspondence? And not a mistake or erasure. I'll bet a dollar that helicat, Alice Allbright, got to see a lawyer yesterday and gave him a free hand in frightening me out."

"But how did a lawyer know about—about Albert Ettleson?" Faith's distress and bewilderment were painful to see.

"Gord, I don't know! These shysters have tie-ups with rotten private detectives, who root around and find out things you'd never dream of. A dozen people saw us in Darrow. Ettleson himself might have blabbed. Oh, well, I'm not going to worry about it. That's exactly what the cad want me to do. If they fool me, I'll marry the old boy today, then they can howl their heads off for all I care."

"Do that!" Faith begged, between tears and terror.

"Think I don't dare show the letter to Mr. Cluny!" Cherry raged. "But how 'em! I'll take this letter to him, tell him the whole story of Albert Ettleson! Nothing really happened. They can back me up on that—you, Bob Hathaway. I didn't intend for a minute to have anything to do with Ettleson, and I can make Ralph believe me. Why, it will convince him of my innocence if I show him a letter—something they never dreamed of!—and he'll be all the crazier to protect me, marry me."

Faith put her arms around her trembling sister. "I believe that the best thing to do, honey—if you can call it off. And Cherry, honey, tell him everything else that—that may come up to cause you trouble—about all your foolish little affairs—Lester Hart, Bill Warren, Bob Hathaway, Albert Ettleson, Chris Wiley."

Crimsoned Cherry's face. "I can't tell him about Chris, Faith. I can't tell myself away sure, if I talked to him about Chris. I—I'm afraid of Chris. He can wrap me around his finger. He's the only person in the world I'm afraid of. If I don't marry Mr. Cluny, Chris will get me. For if I marry Chris, he'll break me up to little bits and fling me out in the gutter. I'm afraid of Chris, Faith."

It was a beautiful tenderness and sympathy in Faith's face as she bent to kiss the quivering mouth of her little sister. "I'll do anything I can to help you, Cherry. And I won't nag you any more about Mr. Cluny. Are you going to have a big wedding?"

"I didn't intend to," Cherry flung back her head and her eyes glittered with anger and pride. "But I will now! Trying to blackmail me! I'll throw the swellest wedding this town ever saw! Mr. Cluny's a member of St. Peter's—all the swells are Episcopalians, it seems—and I'll have a church ceremony, with bridesmaids and flower girls and a reception at the Randolph Hotel. You'd be maid of honor, Faith, and we'll knock their eyes out!" She was gay again, skipped like a light-hearted child, as she ran away to dress for the shopping expedition.

Before dressing, Faith telephoned to Aunt Hattie, to ask her to stay with Mrs. Lane.

"Guess I better move my trunk over, if I've got to be at your beck and call," Aunt Hattie retorted spiritedly. "Well, long's as it's you, I don't mind. I'll bring my sewin,' and if you'll write me out what you're goin' to have for supper, I'll get things started for you."

"Thank you, Aunt Hattie. You're an angel," Faith's voice was caressing in its gratitude.

Cherry heard Faith's end of the conversation through her opened bedroom door. "You certainly can manage Aunt Hattie," she laughed. "Oh, by the way, I'm going to get Muggy a perfectly gorgeous dress for the wedding. Is she awake now? I want to tell her all about it and cheer her up, the poor sick old darling. You don't think she's awfully unhappy about—about me, do you, Faith? I'm really doing it largely for her sake. It would kill her if I married Chris."

Faith was not surprised to see tears blur the golden glory of Cherry's odd eyes. The sweetest thing about mercurial, selfish, gay, conscienceless little Cherry was her love for her mother.

NEW INSTRUMENT ENABLES DEAF TO 'SEE' SOUNDS

Development in Portable Form of Machine Used in Mines.

BEING PERFECTED.

Translates Sound Vibrations Into Visible Rays.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (United Press).—Teaching the deaf to "hear" with their eyes is now a practicable possibility, according to J. W. Legg, research engineer of the Westinghouse laboratories, and inventor of a new device known as the "osiso."

The instrument translates sound vibrations into visible waves which are reproduced on a tiny mirror. Although the principle of the device is old, this is the first time it has ever been applied to a portable instrument.

Extensive experiments now being made by Dr. Robert Gault, of the National Research Council in Washington, are expected to lead to the development of a device to be carried in the pocket by deaf persons. By watching the mirror it will be possible for them to understand ordinary conversation and even plays and music. The instrument now being used weighs only six and a half pounds, whereas previous instruments have weighed as much as a ton. They have been widely used by mining companies in searching for deposits of oil.

Again the Turkish Government has undertaken to dictate to the fair sex in the matter of dress. FOOD AND HEALTH

FOOD AND HOME ECONOMY DAY

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs,
Food Specialist.

A few weeks ago I spoke briefly about food and its relation to Thrift Week. As the week draws nearer I have had other thoughts in connection with this plan for a systematic saving and its relation to home and health.

Benjamin R. Andrews of Teachers' College is chairman of a division of the National Thrift Week Committee and Katherine A. Fisher, associate Chairman.

During the seven days of National Thrift Week, these special points will be stressed from day to day. Monday, National Thrift Day; Tuesday, Budget or Home Economy Day; Wednesday, Life Insurance Day; Thursday, Own Your Own Home Day; Friday, Safe Investment Day; Saturday, Pay Bills Promptly Day and Sunday, Share with Others Day.

My readers will undoubtedly be especially interested in Tuesday's program, that is, Home Budget or Home Economy Day. Its purpose is to call to the attention of all citizens the need of a systematic plan in regard to the saving and spending of money. Budgeting is the basis of this appeal.

When I spoke of this a few weeks ago, I tried to show that there is something more to food budgeting than the mere dealing with figures, important as these may be. So today, I should like to take time to write more on the mathematical side of this question.

By discussing the best ways to foster the idea the committee says, "Get the 'parents and teachers associations' to hold a meeting with a strong speaker for the discussion of home economy problems; encourage the banks to distribute budget books on this day."

Will not any readers of FOOD AND HEALTH who would like to help in this national project think then of this very suggestion? If you and your children attend such a meeting as that indicated, for example, think of ways in which you can interest the children in this home budgeting scheme. The more mathematical among the youngsters will like the fun of juggling the figures in their own little budget accounts. Those who are not blessed with a mathematical sense must have a little help.

Of course, the matter finally resolves itself into the very questions which I talked about in an earlier paper. True thrift is not meagerly stinting, but rather sensible spending and saving. But the youngsters and some of us grown-ups will undoubtedly need special prodding to get them in line for the mathematical grind involved in getting the budget started. Once started, the children's personal expense accounts and budgets will serve excellently as talking points for lessons in health and efficiency.

Coming to the general household budget, I know of no better guide to the proper planning of the family dietary. With a well worked out expense account before her, the housewife can tell at a glance whether Johnny is getting enough milk, whether his father is getting too much beefsteak and, in short, whether the family as a whole is receiving its proper share of body-building and body-regulating material.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS WREATH

One day, between Christmas and New Year's, Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow, looking out of the window, when he saw, skiddering along on the snow in front, the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman, rubbing his pink twinkling nose to make sure he was seeing straight.

"What's the matter?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"There's the Lady Mouse Teacher," answered the bunny gentleman. "She must have come after some of our forty 'leven little bunnies. They have forgotten to go to school and the teacher has come after them!"

"Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. "There is no school Christmas week!"

Uncle Wiggily rode on the back of the Fox.

"Oh, that's so—I forgot!" said Uncle Wiggily, and when the Lady Mouse crept in she laughed when told what Mr. Longears had said.

"I didn't come for any of the children," she squeaked. "I came for you, Uncle Wiggily!"

"For me? Have I been bad? Didn't I know my lesson," asked the bunny gentleman, pretending to be frightened.

"I want you to come calling with me on poor old Lady Mouse who used to be the teacher in the Hollow Stump School before I came there," said Miss Mouse. "The old mouse lady is lonely. All her former pupils have forgotten her, and I am afraid she did not have a very jolly Christmas. I am taking her some presents. When she taught school she always hung wreaths of green holly and its red berries in the windows to remind the children of Christmas. But now she has no wreaths."

"She is going to have one wreath at least!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, as he looked at a large one over his mantel. "I will go with you, Miss Mouse, and we will take this poor old teacher some Christmas joy."

"I thought you would," said the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School.

Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears put up a basket of good things to eat for the old Lady Mouse Teacher and Uncle Wiggily took down the big Christmas wreath. Then he and the new Lady Mouse went over the fields and through the woods.

"How kind and good you are!" murmured the old Lady Mouse when she smelled the good things. "And how lovely it is to see a Christmas wreath again," and she was happy, thinking of the time when she was young. Uncle Wiggily and young Miss Mouse remained as long as they could, and then they went home, different ways. Miss Mouse to her little flat and Uncle Wiggily to his bungalow.

But the rabbit gentleman had not hopped far before, all of a sudden he felt such a rheumatism pain in his hind legs that he couldn't take another hop. He just had to sit down on a flat stump.

"And what I am going to do I don't know," said the rabbit gentleman to himself. "I didn't bring my red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch. I haven't even a candy cane and how I am to limp along I don't see! Oh, dear!"

While he was sitting there, along came hopping the Fuzzy Fox. The bad chap knew at once that something was wrong with Uncle Wiggily, and when the bunny groaned the Fox snickered and said:

"Ha! You have rheumatism, haven't you? You can't run! Now I can nibble your ears!"

Uncle Wiggily had to think very quickly, and he made up a trick to fool the bad chap.

"Oh, Mr. Fox," said the bunny, "I forgot to wash my ears this morning. Now you wouldn't want to nibble any ears that aren't washed. I am sure. Let me go home and wash my ears, please. I can't walk, but I can sit on your fuzzy back and ride. Do that for me—ride me home."

"All right," growled the Fox. "As you say, I don't want to nibble dirty ears. I'll wait until you wash yours." So Uncle Wiggily sat on the back of the Fox and rode safely to the bungalow.

"Wait here for me!" said the bunny, leaping off the back of the Fox and hopping inside where he closed and locked the door. "Wait here," and if that Fox hadn't gotten tired and gone away he would be waiting yet! Ha! Ha! For do you think Uncle Wiggily washed his ears and went out so the Fox could nibble them? Indeed he didn't! Once in his bungalow, the bunny stayed there until the Fox grew tired of waiting and scurried away.

So this teaches us that it is a good thing to be clever. And if the milk bottle doesn't moo like a cow and make the loaf of bread laugh, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the stickery balls.

CO. DOWN MAN BELIEVED TO BE 125 YEARS OLD

And Still Hale and Hearty—Walks Half Mile For Pension.

Mr William Smith, who lives at Dromara, Co. Down, declares that he is 125 years of age and the oldest man in the kingdom, if not the world. His birthday is given in official papers as 2nd January, 1801.

Mr. Smith, who is still hale and hearty, talks in an animated and familiar way of events that happened a century ago. He fought in the Crimean War

His longevity is attributed to the simple, open-air life he has led. He was a hawker for many years and plied his wares through the country.

Mr. Smith was born in the Smithfield area of Belfast, and came to the Dromara district about 68 years ago.

He lives in a house of Mr. M. O'Reilly, post office, Dromara, who takes a deep and practical interest in the old man.

Every Friday the veteran walks half-a-mile for his pension. He lives alone, and had his first motor-car ride a few months ago.

Brinton Carpet Co. By-law Should Be Carried

Ratepayers of North Monaghan Take This View.

The only by-law for the consideration of the ratepayers in the city and district is the by-law to be voted on in the Townsnip of North Monaghan, fixing the assessment of the Brinton Carpet plant at $15,000 for a period of five years.

This industry has given employment to many residents of the township, and with the addition completed this year and the new building that is rapidly being finished, will provide work for a much larger staff, many of whom will undoubtedly be North Monaghan taxpayers.

The concession asked for is for a comparatively short period, and in view of the expansion of the plant and the consequent increased employment possibilities for North Monaghan residents, the people of the township are likely to regard the request as entirely reasonable and see to it that the by-law is carried by a substantial majority.

The result of the by-law will be looked forward to with interest by many residents of the city who are also property owners in the township.

Jon's Cradle-Bed

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

IT is not only that, if we let sentiment rule and rock the baby to sleep, we will be slaves to his dominance but we will be indulging in a practice which is positively harmful to the child. Have you ever imagined yourself going to sleep while enduring a proportionate motion to that of a baby being rocked or jounced to sleep? I'm sure I couldn't endure it. If a child is tired he only becomes more so by being moved or handled. If he's excited handling only augments the tension. If he's ill he needs absolute quiet and absence of stimuli so that he's better off left alone. In fact, there is no time when a baby is benefited by anything but the quietest handling and the more he is left untouched except for feeding and necessary care the healthier he will be.

WEE Jon goes to sleep in great-grandmother's cradle
But, of course, it's a bed-cradle now.
Where there used to be rockers are casters instead,
So great-grandmother's cradle's been turned to a bed.
But I wish it had rockers somehow.

I think, when the Dusky Man throws out the shadows,
Jon would like it to go rock-a-bye,
While the sun goes to bed and the little stars peep
It wouldn't take long just to rock him to sleep
If I'd sing him a wee lullaby.

But mother says Jon's not a rock-a-bye baby,
And we wouldn't want him that sort.
We turn off the light and he goes to sleep so
And that's how we help him to be strong and grow,
'Cause we want him to be a good sport.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

SOUP

When folks come in all cold and wet,
The way in winter that you get,
There never was a dainty yet
Like soup, just soup.
When folks come in all red and blue,
The way in winter that you do,
Then one thing kindly lead us to—
Some soup, hot soup.

Now, soup's a humble theme to sing;
But, when the wintry zephyrs sting,
There really isn't anything
Like soup, just soup.
Although the highbrows all will smile,
And say that soup is out of style,
What beats their baby-broth a mile?—
Why, soup, plain soup.

And I mean soup, not consomme.
There's nothing on a winter's day
To drive the touch of frost away
Like soup, good soup.
I don't mean bouillon, pale and thin;
For that will never warm your skin.
But something that has something in,
Like soup, thick soup.

And so I hope that heaven sends
Me not the boiullon sort of friends,
Whose consomme affection ends,
But friends like soup.
When life has made me cold and blue,
Then consomme will never do—
I want a friend to warm me through,
Like soup, good soup!

REPAIRS.—During the holidays extensive repairs have been made in the nature of new heating system, repairs in the gymnasium and club room, new floor in the basement and extensive painting and decorating, so that the building is now in readiness for a busy winter season.

CLASSES.—All classes and regular activities of the Association will be resumed starting January 3. The basket ball committee have arranged the schedule of games and the first game of the season will be held Friday, Jan. 7. A meeting of the basket ball coaches will be held Monday, Jan. 3 at 7 o'clock to make final arrangements of the referees.

The New Year will see the launching of a big Gymnasium Campaign for new members. All classes are already working for their team in an effort to bring in 100 new members. Ladders representing the various classes will have cupid dolls mount the rungs of the ladders as each new member joins. Keen competition is expected as each class strives to get its doll to the top rung first. All prospective members will be most welcome at any class during the first week, and all interested may come in and watch any class during the month.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT good roads and better roads are becoming the first necessity for a growing community.

THAT cities approachable by good highways get the business.

THAT good roads show progress.

THAT good roads lead to prosperity.

THAT good roads bring the farmer nearer to the city and the city nearer to the farmer.

THAT it has made the farmer's marketing more sure and has opened new fields for the progressive business men.

THAT today the motor car and motor truck have become an essential part of the business of the city business firms and the business farmers.

STYLES SHOW WOMEN ARE NOT STANDING STILL SARTORIALLY

Here are three striking impor tations of Bendel's. They are of th e sophisticated modern type, beau tiful and extremely logical.

By HENRI BENDEL

For NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Every step upward or backward in woman's progress is bound to be registered in her attire.

It was not by accident that the women of the Victorian age wore bustles, hoopskirts, false curls and stupid little gewgaws, while the women of ancient Greece went about in classic draperies and the women of the French court demanded silks and satins of the richest hues and textures.

Women were merely expressing themselves then as they always have and always will. And their most honest expressions will always be their unconscious, effortless ones.

The Victorian woman did not realize what she was shouting to the world with her attire. And in fact, it didn't shout until after that era had passed.

So today it is not an accident that woman registers in her clothes her independence of thought and action, her wit and her ability to think in a straight line.

Feminine Touch.

After all, designers, costumers, fabric makers and milliners only create in answer to woman's designs, not from their own instinct or inspiration. The unseen hand that shapes the mode is a feminine hand that knows what it wants.

And the most popular French couturiers are those who most subtly understand women's subtle intellect. Take, for instance, Vionnet, Chanel and Lanvin—all women, who have introduced into today's styles the intelligence without which there can be no real beauty.

What Vionnet and Chanel have contributed to beauty of line is inestimable. They have cleared up women's viewpoint sartorially. And Lanvin particularly has revealed how line and ornamentation are not contradictory.

Illustrated today are three evening gowns of the sophisticated modern type, that are intelligent, beautiful and exceedingly logical. They pre-suppose a good figure, and a natural one. They make no attempt to disguise the natural lines or direct the emphasis. They are frank as well as charming. They are sure of themselves and quite unafraid.

They belong only on women who have these qualities themselves.

The model which you view from the back is one of the new colored velvet evening frocks which comes in green panne velvet. Down the back are long drapes which fall in straight uncomplicated lines from shoulder to ankle. On the right shoulder strap are green poppies in many shades.

Shadow lace in that deep rich Chanel red forms the model with the butterfly wings. The pattern is outlined in gold sequins which gives it the delightfully gold-flecked quality of a butterfly and makes the draperies quite logical and appropriate. Here is a decided challenge to the obvious and ordinary, and an overture of friendliness to the individual type of woman.

Chanel is also the creator of the third model which has a sheath of brocaded chiffon shirred into fan shapes at the side to form a cascade skirt of even length. The scalloped shawl of the material, with its deep silk fringe is the striking note of the costume.

The three represent the modern woman's triumph over sentimentality and the mere externals of clothes. Claiming their complete disregard of all tricks and obvious vanities, they proclaim their independence and their conformity to true art in dress.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

(By L. H. G.)

Einar Lindstrom sat dejectedly beside the none-too-cheerful fire. The chill November wind whistled about the eaves of the shack and was not conducive to cheerful thoughts. And Einar was not in a cheerful mood. Year after year ill luck had dogged his footsteps.

Ten years ago he had "filed on" a half section of virgin Saskatchewan prairie and had toiled hard to "break" the prairie sod, to cultivate it and sow it to wheat. The soil was fertile but just when the crop was growing well, disaster always came..

First, for three seasons frost came when the wheat was in the "milk" or "dough" stage and the shrivelled kernels that came to maturity had very little resemblance to grains of wheat. It was utterly useless except for cattle or hog feed and not worth the expense of threshing.

The fourth year when the waving, golden wheat field was full of promise, one of those terrible visitations, a hail storm, struck it, and nothing remained but a scene of desolation. The field looked like one newly-ploughed. And now for six seasons, that worst enemy of the prairie farmer—drought—had withered the wheat fields and withered his hopes.

No wonder he felt so disconsolate, for had he not planned a trip to his homeland, dear far-away Norway! How he longed for a sight of that dear mother especially this year, when sorrow had come to her!

Early in the year tidings had come to Einar of the death of his father and later of his younger and only brother, whom the dreaded "white plague" had taken to an early grave. Two of Einar's sisters had gone to home of their own and only flaxen-haired Thelma ,his youngest sister, remained with his mother.

How his heart ached and how bitter was the disappointment, for one cannot journey to far-away Norway without money.

In the midst of his dejection, he heard sounds of an approaching vehicle and presently the cheery hail of Dugald McIntosh, his friend and neighbor.

"Put up the horses and come in," welcomed Einar. But Dugald for once was in a hurry. "Been over to the office for the mail, this is for you," he said, drawing a long yellow envelope from his pocket, and handing it to Einar. After a few more cheery words he drove on and Einar re-entering the shack, slowly tore open the letter. To his surprise it was from the Militia Department and contained a copy of the last will and testament of Jimmy Duke. Reading slowly, Einar at length grasped the purport The care-free generous-hearted youth, who had homesteaded near to Einar and had spent hours of almost every day with him, and who a few months before had been listed among the Canadians "killed in action," had left all his early possesions to Einar—his homestead and cash in bank realized from the sale of his horses and machinery when he enlisted! Tears filled Einar's eyes. Laughing, care-free Jimmie, "gone west," and showing his regard by willing all to his friend. Einar thought of the time when he nursed the stricken Jimmie through a serious illness which episode had cemented their friendship for life!

And then, all at once, it flashed to Einar's mind—the money of his friend would take him home to his loved ones for Christmas, for the jolly festivities of that hospitable land, where holidays and good cheer last for two weeks after Christmas.

And a blush came to his cheek as he thought of Helga Oleson, who as a girl of fifteen had been a jolly pal before he emigrated nearly eleven years ago, for had not Thelma written: "Helga is a beautiful girl and she always inquires for you!"

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Today's talismanic stone is the sar d, which is most fortunate for women. Set in a design in which the grape and ivy vines are interwoven it is sure to exercise its powers for good, according to an ancient belief.

The natal stone for today is the opal. Far from being unlucky, it brings those who were born on some anniversary of this date good fortune attendant an artistic temperament, and endows them with unusual creative gifts, either in music, painting, sculpture or literary pursuits. It is said to make its wearer changeable as well.

Silver is today's lucky color and is said to bring riches to its wearer. .

The pansy, symbol of thoughtfulness is today's flower, and by the constancy for which it stands, drives away treachery and suspicion.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

LIFE'S LITTLE BLESSINGS

By Alma Whitaker.

"It is no use, I can't possibly get to sleep without my hotwater bottle," wailed the lady guest at our beach cottage. She had forgotten to bring her rubber hot-water bottle along, we hadn't one on the premises, and she looked utterly wretched.

The nearest drug store was five miles away, and it was not a cold night either. But her husband obviously felt that his most imperative duty was to get a hot-water bottle for his wife. It caused a good deal of trouble, and, while hubby had gone on his errand, the wife began to feel apologetic.

"I am really ashamed to be so much trouble," she murmured, "but I suffered so from incomnia for years, until I discovered that cuddling up to a hot-water bottle sent me off to sleep. I have come to depend upon it. "You know," she whispered shyly, "I often think God for the man who invented rubber hot-water bottles. Oh, they are a precious blessing."

So, after that we began to talk about our pet blessings, the little ones, that we so soon take as a matter of course.

"Mine," laughed Miriam, "is a patent can-opener. It's a gem. Before I found it, I used to be such a dub at opening cans that I always cut myself and got hot and cross and took it out on the family. In fact, with all the wonderful food that comes in cans, I was afraid to buy any. Then one day Jack brought home my precious patent can-opener and I have been a happy woman ever since."

"Mine," giggled Ethyl, "is those jolly little contraptions for keeping my shoulder straps on my shoulders. For years I was kept in a constant state of irritation by the straps sliding down over my arms, which not only made me very uncomfortable and kept me fidgeting with them, but usually ruined the effect of my costume as well. Then one day a girl friend told me about this little contraption —and it has improved my social savoir faire amazingly."

"I think the long extension cord for the electric lights is my pet blessing," declared Claire. "The lights in my house were all in the wrong places and it used to drive me crazy. Then I had the bright idea about getting those jolly cheap cords and sockets—and believe me they have brightened up my house more than anything I know."

"Me for these patent studs," laughed John. "Since I discovered this kind of stud I can dress in half the time, keep my temper amiable, and never soil my shirts and collars fingering the button holes."

"Well, the new strong buttons they fix on small boy's overalls have made life happier for me," a fond mamma told us. She reckons they have saved her about a couple of weeks of sewing on buttons out of every year.

"Bobbed hair for mine," gurgled Florence, who used to be quite famous for a head of hair all the hair-tonic people wanted to hire and photograph. "Shampooing my hair used to be an all-day task. Travelling was wretched. Now, oh, joy, I can even wash it out in the hand-basin on the train."

"I am strong for a jolly little apple-corer I found in a store," Myrtle confided. "It not only cores the apples economically and quickly, but has a device which peels them thin and evenly as well."

So we had soon forgiven the lady who could not live without her cosy hot-water bottle.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The fashionable white velvet e...ning coat. This example is lavishly trimmed with white fox.

Some women who can afford several evening wraps a season follow the fashion of wearing white ermine wraps over white evening frocks. As a matter of fact the wrap may not be of ermine. Rabbit may be made to look so much like ermine nowadays that none but an expert can tell the difference. There is something very brilliant about this all white evening costume—all white save for the glint of pearls or silver embroidery on the frock or the myriad colored reflection of diamante.

So lovely are these new white evening wraps that some women who must make a single evening wrap do for all occasions have chosen them. A celebrated French actress has been wearing a real white ermine wrap trimmed with white fox collars and cuffs and more than one woman who has seen this with admiration has had an exact replica made from white Chinese rabbit which answers the purpose quite as well. A less usual white ermine evening wrap worn by a fashionable woman in this country has a beige satin lining and an enormous collar of mink. Mink in this case proved to be much more becoming near the face than white fox, which is the usual selection.

Instead of ermine many women choose white velvet for the all white evening wrap and those wraps may be collared in white fox, in ermine or white rabbit. In order to make the ermine even more supple than usual it is sometimes shorn, until it is scarcely thicker than velvet and is then combined with unshorn ermine for collar and cuffs.

A much talked about evening wrap of ermine has a black velvet lining and the collar of white ermine is trimmed with the black-tipped tails—tails which used to be worked up with the fur and were considered the hall mark of real ermine.

OLD MASTERS

Tell me now in what hidden way is Lady Flora, the lovely Roman?
Where's Hipparchia, and where is Thais,
Neither of them the fairer woman?
Where is Echo, beheld of no man,
Only heard on river and mere—
She whose beauty was more than human? . . . .
But where are the snows of yesterJaar?

Where's Heloise, the learned nun,
For whose sake Abelard, I ween,
Lost manhood and put priesthood on?
(From Love he won such dule and teen!)
And where, I pray you, is the Queen
Who will'd that Buridan should steer
Sew'd in a sack's mouth down the Seine? . . .
But where are the snows of yesteryear?

White Queen Blanche, like a queen of lilies
With a voice like any mer-maiden—
Bertha Broadfoot, Beatrice, Alice,
And Ermengarde, the lady of Maine—
And that good Joan whom English men
At Rouen doom'd and burn'd her there—
Mother of God, where are they then?
But where are the snows of yesteryear?

Nay, never ask this week, fair lord,
Where they are gone, nor yet this year,
Save with thus much for an overword—
But where are the snows of yester-year?

BEGINNING OF YEAR OBSERVED IN MANY WAYS

Watchnight Services Will Be Held in Some Churches of City.

OTHER CELEBRATIONS.

Midnight Show and Dances Being Held at Different Places.

The close of the year brings along with it mingled feelings of gladness and melancholy—of gladness in appreciation of brighter days to come with the advent of the New Year and of melancholy, in reflection on the fleeting nature of time, and the gradual approach to the inevitable goal in the race of life. That such an interesting occasion should be distinguished by some observance or ceremony appears but natural, and various customs prevail, some sportive, others serious, and others in which both mirthful and pensive moods are intermingled.

Tonight the grand old chimes of St. John's Church will ring out the Old and ring in the New. A special service will be held at 11.30, at which Dr. Blagrave will be the speaker.

The Salvation Army is also holding a Watchnight Service, commencing at 10.30 ,when appropriate music will be given and Adjutant Ham will deliver an address, "The Challenge of the New Year."

At All Saints' Church a service will also be held commencing at 11.15.

At the Capitol Theatre the event of the season will be the Midnight Show commencing at 11.00 o'clock, at which souvenirs will be given out and special pictures shown.

A number of dances will be held this evening, while some people will skate the Old Year old and the New Year in.

RECORDS BURNED IN FIRE AT ROUEN

Many Valuable Papers Destroyed When Town Hall Burns.

ROUEN, France, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—Books and papers of priceless historical value were lost to-day when fire destroyed a portion of the famous old Hotel De Ville, or Town Hall of Rouen. The structure, considered one of the finest specimens of renaissance architecture remaining in France, was formerly part of the Monastery of St. Ouen. It contains statues of Joan of Arc, Louis Fifteenth, and Corneille.

The greatest loss was in the destruction of a great part of the archives stored away for hundreds of years.

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION GIVEN

utilities and the successful dispensing of electric power and water to the consumers are of vital importance to this city.

"The pumping and filtration plants, the water distributing system, the Aylmer street sub-station, and the extensive power and lighting distribution systems, are engineering undertakings with which only the trained engineer is conversant.

"The handling, metering and sale of electric power involve technicalities such as power factor, maximum demand, and diversity factor. These terms are very familiar to the engineer but a nightmare to the layman.

"In coming forward as a candidate for the Utilities Commission I am not seeking the position for any personal consideration. I am simply offering what I consider to be the highest qualifications, that is years of intensive engineering, training and experience, which of course, go hand in hand with business."

The following is Mr. Shirley's record in the transmission, dispensing, and use of electric power, air, water and steam: Assistant Superintendent of the British Columbia Power Company, and of the Northern Ontario Light and Power Company, of Cobalt; Electrical Superintendent of the Canadian Exploration Company, and Superintendent of the Laurentian Power Company, Quebec.

E. Mel. Turner.

E. Mel. Turner was born and brought up in this city and received his early education at the Peterborough Public Schools and Collegiate Institute.

He is associated with his father, W. R. Turner, in business, and has always taken a keen interest in all the affairs of the city.

He seeks election to the Utilities Commission after five consecutive years as a member of the City Council, during which time he has been a member of all the various committees, and chairman of one or more of them each year. During all five years he has been a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and chairman of that body during the year 1926. As a consequence, he is well acquainted with the plant and works of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, and is also well versed and experienced in the theory and practice of the electric and waterworks departments of same.

During the last year as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Mr. Turner has been largely instrumental in the improved street lighting systems, either installed during the year, or to be installed during 1927 in the East Ward, West Ward, South Ward, North Ward and the business district. He has improved the equipment and efficiency of the Fire Department, and saved approximately $1,800.00 from his appropriations for the year.

If elected, Mr. Turner told The Examiner, he will do all in his power to further the interests of the citizens, and of the city generally, and to encourage the expansion of the present factories and to induce other factories to locate in Peterborough so as to have the "progressive city of which we, on account of our favorable location, are well deserving.

GANGLAND TRUCE BELIEVED ENDED

Body of Missing Beer Runner Found in Chicago House.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—(Canadian Press.) — Belief that gangland's truce has come to an end was expressed to-day by the police, following the finding of the body of Hillary Clements, former beer runner, two weeks after members of his family had pleaded for the gangsters to deliver up his body by Christmas time.

Frozen and with three bullets in his skull, the body was discovered by two boys seeking adventure in an abandoned house on the south side, bringing true the premonition of John L. Clements that his brother had been murdered.

18 NONTH'S SENTENCE GIVEN

down in the car and took it from me.

Who held you?

King.

Who took the money?

King.

What else did he do?

He shut off my engine, jumped in his own car and went down George street.

Would you know the instrument if you saw it?

I'm not sure—it looked like a revolver.

Mr. Hatton showed the accused a five inch spanner and asked, "Did it look like that?"

It did.

When did you next see him?

About a week later he took Seigel's car from in front of my house.

How do you know?

I saw him when he came back.

Did you say anything to him about the hold up?

No. I didn't.

When did you next see him?

At the police station.

What took place?

The Chief had King and me in his room. King said he stole a case of whiskey from me.

What night was he talking about?

The night he held me up and stole the money.

Did you hear the Chief warn him?

I did. He said anything he said would be used at the trial, or something like that.

Were Siegel and Dolan there at the time?

Yes.

Did he warn them, too?

Yes.

Did King make any other statements?

Yes. He said he stole a case of liquor from me at the corner of Harvey and Smith Street.

What did you say?

I told him that was a lie; that he never took liquor from my car.

Cross-examined by the prisoner, the following dialogue ensued:

Why did you not make out a warrant until eight days after?

Dolan phoned.

You never told Rutherford to say nothing about my stealing your whiskey?

No.

Do you remember telling someone I hit you with a crank?

I never did.

Dalton Dolan

Mr. Dolan stated that he was the owner of a taxi business and that Ronco at the time of the robbery was in his employ.

He stated that he had paid Ronco $15 for wages on the afternoon of Dec. 3 and had also given him $3 for change.

Do you know the accused?

Yes.

Were you at the station when King was there?

Yes.

What happened?

King told Ronco that he held him up at the corner of Hilliard Street and took a case of liquor from him. Ronco said it was a lie, that he never did—that it was money he took.

Cross examination by prisoner.

On December 3 when Ronco reported to you, you didn't do anything?

I reported to the police.

Have you ever been convicted under the O.T.A.?

Not that I know of.

S. Siegel.

Do you know the accused?

Yes.

Do you remember being in the Chief's office when he was there?

Yes, on December 10.

Was he warned by the Chief?

We were all warned.

What did King say?

King told Ronco that he had taken a case of liquor from his car at the corner of Water and Hilliard Streets but Ronco maintained that it was money he took, and that it happened at the corner of Hilliard and George. King told me that he had held me up several times and had stolen about a thousand dollars of liquor from me at different times during the season, but he was lying.

Chief S. Newhall.

Do you remember December 10?

I do.

What took place?

On December 3 Dolan reported to me about the hold-up and I told my men to bring King in on a charge of theft. On December 10 he was arrested by Provincial Constable N. Maker and brought in. We searched him and found a monkey wrench in his coat pocket. He requested that Dolan, Siegel, and Connors be brought in. I got them and he stated in front of them that it was whiskey and not money he took. I warned them in the customary manner. King told Ronco that the hold-up was at the corner of Smith and Hilliard, and that he had taken a case of liquor from his auto. Ronco said it was a lie, that it was not whiskey but money, and that the hold-up was at Harvey and George. He said there were seventeen cases of whiskey stored at Connor's house. At that time I had Connors in custody but the accused did not know it. We searched the house but found no whiskey. King told Siegel he had stolen whiskey valued at $1,000 from him and others during the season.

What condition was King in?

He was very excited. He picked up one of the heavy chairs and tried to beat off the officers. We found morphine on his person.

This concluded the case for the Crown.

Take 4 18 months pai

W. Rutherford.

W. Rutherford, the first witness for the defence, examined by the prisoner, said he saw him on George street.

I got you into your car?

Yes.

We were watching Ronco?

Yes.

He carried something from the house?

Yes.

What like?

A square box.

Did Ronco tell you what took place?

He said you never took a cent from him or laid a hand on him.

That was since I was arrested?

Yes. Since I was subpoenaed here.

What did Ronco say?

He said the Chief said to say nothing about it.

Cross examination by Mr. Hatton.

When did you see King?

I can't remember the date, but I think it was four weeks ago today.

When next?

The following week.

What did he say?

He told me Ronco was telling around that he had hit him on the head and he asked me if Ronco had said anything to me. I saw Ronco later and he told me King never laid a hand on him or took his money.

What did you tell Ronco?

I told him to tell the truth. I asked him why he said King stole $18 if he didn't.

A. E. Gorman.

Did you hear about me holding up Ronco? asked the prisoner.

Yes.

Were you with Rutherford and Ronco when they were talking about me?

Yes. Ronco came into the garage and Rutherford said, "You know very well Ronco that King didn't hit you on the head." Ronco replied, "I know I do."

The Prisoner.

The prisoner while in the box on his own behalf stated that on December 3 he was on George Street. He saw Ronco with Dolan's car going north. "I knew he was carrying boxes which I thought was whiskey. I then got a lift and went to Hilliard Street, as I thought I knew the house where he was going. I saw Ronco coming out of the house carrying a box. I started to walk south on George, and as Ronco went by I whistled on him. He said, 'Hurry up and get in.' I saw the box in the back seat. It was covered with a rug. I said, 'What is in that box—it looks like a case of liquor.' He told me to keep my hands off it, and told me a story about a big load that was coming in next week, and that we could get that. I said, 'A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush—I had better take this case.' He said, 'Leave it alone, it's not yours.' I said, 'I didn't care whose whiskey it was, and took the box.

"I got a lift as far as Barnardo," he continued, and left the box in a culvert on the Chemong Road, later removing it to a field as I saw some kids skating and thought they might come near the culvert.

I went to the country and when I came back I heard that Ronco had said that I hit him with a crank.

At the station I was told that I had stolen a car and then they accused me of having dope.

Cross examination by Mr. Hutton:

What did you do with the liquor?

I hit it under a culvert and then in a field.

Did you break the box?

Yes.

What did it contain?

Twenty-four pints.

Did you drink it?

I took eight bottles up the road and hid them, but someone stole them.

What did you do with the balance?

I drank them.

Then this story that Ronco tells us is a made-up story?

Yes, it's a frame-up.

The only thing you did was to take the whiskey?

Yes.

You expect us to believe that story?

Believe it or not, just as you please.

Mr. Hatton read out the previous criminal record of the accused which included burglary, B.O.T.A., and peddling drugs. That is your record?

Yes.

His Honor, in passing sentence, said "This is a painful case. A young man of more than ordinary ability that seems bent upon leading a criminal life."

"I need not enlarge upon the evidence—if I accept it he is undoubtedly guilty. His story is a somewhat fantastic one. I cannot agree with him that he had a right to the whiskey."

"He told the Chief he could produce the box and the empty bottles but failed to do so, and it is incredible that he could have drunk so much whiskey in such a short time. I cannot accept his story.

"The sentence of this court upon you will be that you will be confined to the Ontario Reformatory for eighteen months, nine month determinate and nine months indeterminate."

DEFENCE HEARD IN DAMAGE SUIT

Counsel For John Bouey Claims No Negligence Shown.

HOPCROFT CASE.

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press)—Argument for the defense was resumed at Osgoode Hall today in the action of Miss Marion Hopcroft, of Peterborough, to recover $20,000 damages from John Bouey, father of Cyril Bouey, the latter the driver of a motor car in which Miss Hopcroft was injured in June last and who was killed in the same accident.

George Wilkie, defense counsel, contended there was no suggestion of negligence nor even sufficient evidence to support a charge of negligence. He also contended there had been no evidence to show the car was in the middle of the road when the accident occurred, claiming the automobile went over to the middle only after the brakes were applied.

"Not only has the defendant, Mr. Bouey, done nothing for the girl since she was injured, but there has been deliberate attempt to blacken my client's character," declared T. C. Agar, K.C., Miss Hopcroft's counsel in his reply.

"In the record of the trial it is said on behalf the defendant, 'we are told there was drinking of liquor' and 'we are told they were even out in their bathing suits.' These allegations the evidence does not bear out."

SPARE FIREMEN DISAPPOINTED

Had No Calls During Time They Relieved Regular Men.

With only one fire call received at the fire hall and that to a chimney fire, since the big fire on Tuesday morning, the firemen have had a rather quiet few days. This good fortune has not caused any alarm to them for at one time eight men were off and it was necessary to get in six new men. The new men were rather disappointed that they did not get a run, but everything worked out right as far as Fire Chief Gimblett was concerned.

This morning there was a call at 9.54 to a chimney fire at 460 Sherbrooke street.

THE GIFT OF GOD

REV. A. H. McCONNACHIE

At Christmas time, the Gift of God is proclaimed throughout the civilized world and even on continents not yet civilized as we are. Everywhere it is heralded as the greatest of all gifts. Beyond question, the Jesus of the Gospels is more valued among men today than ever before. He is the 'unutterable' gift, fairer than the sons of men. In the religious world He is without rival today.

It is true that men esteem Him differently and we do not all obtain the same advantage of God's Supreme Gift. Some receive it outright, joyfully, and they live to say, "thank you" to God for ever after

Some pay homage from afar and miss the thrill of the personal acceptance.

It is to be noted that God made His supreme gift to a needy people, to such as sat in "darkness and the shadow of death" Over against our state of sin and condemnation Jesus came. The bane of life is sin; Jesus is the antidote. The name is great in a hundred ways: in poetry, in literature, in art, in music, but greatest of all because of the promise involved in the name. "He shall save His people from their sins". Man's greatest need is forgiveness. Jesus meets that need.

In this respect, God's Christmas Gift differs from ours. We seldom give to the needy. We give to our equals—to those who have a sufficiency, if not abundance. We obtain as much in return usually. It is merely an exchange of gifts. So far as the custom expresses goodwill and affection it is not to be condemned; and yet there is a more excellent way.

After all, we seldom give of our best, as God did. Gave gave love in Jesus. He gave Himself. The greatest hunger in the world today is not for bread, but for love and kindness. There are lonely souls, suffering from "world-strangeness", longing for love and the spirit of reconciliation. We could minister to such in the Christmas spirit. It costs more than money. Virtue must go out from us if we would meet the world's deepest need. To be peace-makers, to offer the glad hand of reconciliation, to speak the word of genuine forgiveness requires a great spirit.

God gave His best, over against the world's terrible need. It is a gift, to be received devoutly, thankfully. To refuse is ungracious, churlish. We treat no other friend like that. Why not accept God's gift outside as meeting the deepest need of our life.

In a recent issue of the British Weekly the editor wrote welcome words about "obtaining" and "attaining". The great Gospel word is "obtain." We obtain mercy, forgiveness, peace. We cannot achieve them. In order to attain, we must first obtain. The gift of God, freely received lies at the foundation of all Christian experience. The Gift of God is Eternal Life "in Christ", and Eternal Life means a full and satisfying experience of the Grace of God here and now. We are "Captains of our Souls" and "Masters of our Fate", only as we submit ourselves humbly like the Wise Men at the manger-bed, and worship the King. The best gift we can offer Jesus is the heart's devotion. All else are but symbols of that. This Christmas would be different from all others for many if they would come down from the perch of their human pride and as beggars accept God's alms, even the unsearchable riches of Christ.

Happy we if we can say from the heart and out of deep personal experience, "Thanks be unto God for His Unspeakable Gift."

NEW LICENSE PLATES ISSUED

Jack Bertram, Director Motor League, Gets First Locally.

NO DAYS OF GRACE.

The new 1927 license plates bear a close resemblance to those of the Ohio cars seen here during the summer. The base of the plate is a deep cream color, with raised figures painted black, the combination making a very distinct marker.

Some 24 have already been issued, the first going to Jack Bertram, director of the local motor League.

The numbers alloted to Peterboro commence at 311,001 for passenger cars; at 40,201 for commercial vehicles; and at 3346 for motor cycles.

Owners of passenger cars are receiving the $5 cut in the price of this year's license. All other vehicles are assessed as before.

The police car is already equipped with the new markers, Chief Newhall told The Examiner this morning, and as no grace period will be allowed this year he advised the motorists to obtain their new license plates before January 1.

LONDON, Dec. 30. Canadian Press. — 'When you talk across the Atlantic, don't shout," the Post office advises.

The post office is already drilling girls similar to the training being put in force at New York, these preparations indicating the nearness of actual telephone conversation across the Atlantic.

Much time and care are being devoted to details in order that the service shall get a good send off. Ordinary telephone girls are being selected for low steady voices. The proposed cost (about $75 for the first three minutes, will not be a bar to talks between big business men and newspapermen, and large business is expected.

is said to be slated for official decapitation because of the inability of the Marshal to get along without the Left majority in Parliament, which was offended when he demanded that the Minister take his seat in Cabinet whether his party approved or not. It is reported that M. Bartel will get a post in the Cabinet for the sake of appearance, as Minister of Education. Other sweeping changes are also predicted soon.

In anticipation of a crisis Foreign Minister Zaleski and many members of the official colony returned today and intimate friends of the officials believe that the country is on the eve of the greatest struggle since the war, largely because the efforts of Marshal Pilsudski since the revolution, though sincere, have not been effective in restoring the economic situation.

Even Military is Dissatisfied.

Public clamor has been heard during the holiday season, even among the somewhat pampered military class, and has brought the situation to an acute point which may even overwhelm the present military dominance of the country, according to conservative merchants, who kept their optimism until holiday stagnation practically paralyzed Poland.

Adding to its gloom of the situation Russia is declared to be in a belligerent mood over the execution of four Communists at Kovno, on Monday, as enemies of the new Lithuanian government. The Soviet is blaming Poland for "the wave of white terror."

The Jewish minorities are also dissatisfied with the failure of the Polish government to make official protest to Roumania against the Jewish oppression, which they insist, is still going on.

have decided to reverse their position and accept the new laws or still remain firm in their refusal to apply for new concessions.

Secretary Morones also gave out yesterday a long list of individuals and companies which have applied for confirmatory concessions. This, however, has not clarified the situation because it is not known which applications have reference to rights acquired before 1917, which is the only international issue involved. So far as is known here none of the large foreign oil companies has applied for new concessions for properties acquired before 1917. With respect to such properties the United States government has pronounced the new law retroactive and confiscatory.

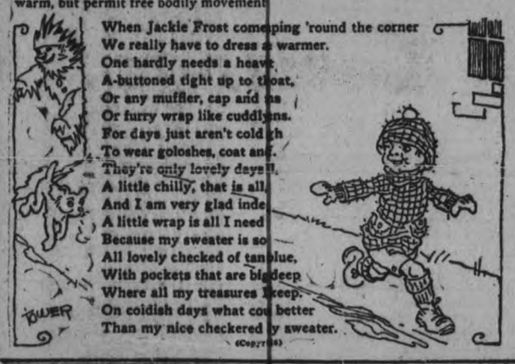
Sweater Days

By SHIRLEY RON WILLIAMS

FALL days are sweater days. It isn't for heavy wraps, but still the days are chilly and require a little extra ing. I say "heavy wraps"—I should say warm wraps, for we should never n a child with heavy clothing. Children are so active that in order not to urdensome the clothing should be light but of warm materials. Heavy, ha, too long thick sleeves and burdensome flapping coats are irritating and rsome in play. More than that, children generate more heat and are ther warmer than grown-ups, so that there is more danger of overdressing them th clothing them too lightly. So in fall let them wear sweaters which serve th ple purpose of being cuddly and warm, but permit free bodily movement



When Jackie Frost comeping 'round the corner
We really have to dress warmer.
One hardly needs a heave
A-buttoned tight up to throat,
Or any muffler, cap and
Or furry wrap like cuddlyns.
For days just aren't cold h
To wear goloshes, coat an
They're only lovely days
A little chilly, that is all
And I am very glad inde
A little wrap is all I need
Because my sweater is so
All lovely checked of tan blue,
With pockets that are big deep
Where all my treasures keep.
On coldish days what co better
Than my nice checkered y sweater.

(By F. D. C.)

The Peterboro seniors figured in their second shut out game of the week last night, but this time on the right side of the ledger, when they defeated Toronto Canoe Club 3 goal to 0 in a group game at Brock Street Rink.

It was a hard fought, close checking and decidedly vigorous battle in which neither team asked for nor gave quarter and many a jolt and sly jab was handed out that will be reflected in the form of bruises and sore spots if they are not indicated in the penalty column.

The Paddlers trotted out a fast skating and hard checking aggregation with plenty of weight and determination, one of those teams with little system on the attack and therefore not very dangerous on their own account, but with the ability to make themselves an awkward proposition to score against.

They back checked all the way and their checking, while not always orthodox, was effective, with the result that the Petes found it impossible to get going in anything like the style they showed against North Toronto, although they had the edge all the way so far as dangerous attacking was concerned, making persistent efforts to work in close while the Paddlers followed a hit and run policy that was futile against Dwyer's steady goal keeping.

The visitors succeeded in holding Eddie Wright's boys scoreless in the first period and were only one goal down at the close of the second but at no stage did the Petes look to be in any particular danger of defeat and in the last twenty minutes, playing their best hockey of the night, the blue and white made victory sure by running in two more goals.

Whatever combination was played was shown by the Petes and their passing was at its best in the last period despite the fact that the ice had become sticky, and accurate combination was difficult. With Toronto Canoe Club it was a case of every man for himself and the puck-carrier usually let drive as he reached the defence and rushed in for the rebound. Dwyer made that method of attack look soft by playing every shot carefully, and though there was accuracy and steam to most of the Paddlers drives, they were handled perfectly by the Peterboro captain.

The Petes were as much the better team as the score indicates, although the close checking of the visitors kept them from flashing as brilliantly as usual.

The blue and white had much more system in their attack and it told in the long run, although early in the game it looked as if the bad luck of the Marlboro game was still dodging their footsteps, as goals were missed by inches.

The Petes broke together and made persistent attempts at combination, working to closer quarters much more successfully than the Paddlers.

Dwyer's brilliant work is indicated by his perfect average for the night. The Petes goalie has been beaten only twice in three group games and he took no chance on anything that was tossed at him last night. In front of him McLeod and Rose checked effectively and staged many attacks that came close. Probably the most effective forward was Babe Bogardis, whose heady moves were always a menace to the Paddlers. Ranger's stickhandling carried him into the scoring zone repeatedly and he gave Baker plenty to do, while Collins' fast skating and unselfish passing helped materially. Both Kane and Williams gave a good account of themselves.

Baker, the Canoe Club goalie, gave a smart performance, making a lot of nice saves. Big Joe Wright, awkward but willing, was a tough defence man to beat, his long reach helping him to repeatedly break up Peterboro attacks. Up in front Jack Bond, and Goldsmith, the K. and S. Industrial League star, showed plenty of speed, and Mollenhaeur, the veteran of the visitors, unlimbered a shot that gave Dwyer plenty to do.

The Details of the Play.

There was no score in the first period which was marked by hard, but far from brilliant hockey. The checking was close and the puck-carrier always found somebody hooking at him before he got far. The Paddlers early commenced their long range shooting and Mollenhaeur tested Dwyer with several accurate drives from the right boards that were turned aside. The Petes on the other hand tried to work in close, and came close several times. Ranger rocked Baker after taking a pass from Rose and a few minutes after hit the post after another combination rush. Bogardis also failed on a close in charge.

The checking was inclined to be strenuous but there wasn't a penalty until well on in the period when Bond hooked Collins and got the gate. Eddie Williams drew the next sentence for shunting Smith into the end of the rink, but nothing happened while the penalties were being served. When Bond came back he had the best chance of the night, so far as the Paddlers were concerned, to score. He picked up a loose puck and waltzed right in, only to be robbed by a great stop by Dwyer.

The first goal of the game came early in the second period. Baker saved after a combination rush had carried the Petes close in, but the rubber drifted out to Ranger, who drilled a beauty into the net.

The Petes staged several dangerous raids immediately after. Grant was chased for bodying Rose in mid-ice and while he was off Baker saved a goal by falling on the rubber in a scrimmage and there was a pileup with three or four players in a heap. Bogardis drew a penalty for tripping but Paddlers were not dangerous while he was off. Kane did some nice work at this stage and was robbed of a goal when Baker went to his knees and smothered a rebound.

The Petes passing became more effective in the last period and they drove home an attack that was ound to have results. Baker held them off for a while, making one particularly fine save on a quick side shot from Ranger and then diving to nail Bogardis' drive through the defence. Collins and Kane combined and when Kane passed out from the corner Collins was tackled by the Paddlers' defence. He had his revenge, however, as on the face off that followed he scooped the rubber into the net for the Petes' second goal, a lightning play that gave Baker no chance.

Almost immediately after Collins nearly hung up another when he pulled Baker out after a combined rush and tried to stickhandle round him, only to lose the rubber.

The blue and white kept up the pressure and, although Williams drew a penalty, the Petes scored their last goal with a man short. Bogardis secured the puck at centre, went down left wing and beat Baker with a beautiful shot from the boards. The T.C.C. goalie partially blocked the drive but the rubber dropped into the net, putting the Petes three goals in front, and they easily maintained their lead for the balance of the game.

Both Tilden and Hornsby Saw Six-Year Reign Ended

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—After reigning absolutely supreme in their respective sports for six years in succession, two of the most prominent figures in the world of sport were dethroned during the past year. One of these was William T. Tilden, former national tennis champion, and the other Rogers Hornsby, former batting champion of the National League, who is now a member of the Giants. Tilden won his title for the first time in 1920 by defeating William Johnston in the final round of the title tourney and he retained it until this year, whe he was succeeded by Rene Lacoste of France. Hornsby took the National League batting title in 1920 for the first time by finishing with an average of .370. He then won it for five more years, but he was finally forced to hand the crown to Bubbles Hargrave of the Reds this year.

Football existed in American colleges as early as 1800. Harvard had its class contests by 1845. The first intercollegiate game of the world was played Nov. 6, 1869, at New Brunswick, N.J., between Princeton and Rutgers. Rutgers had 26 men on the field to Princeton's 21, and won the contest by a score of 6 to 4.

Pigeon racing is comparatively a recent sport, though the homing instinct of the bird was recognized and used for message carrying as long ago as the days of Solomon. Long-distance racing began in Belgium in 1818, and five years later Belgian birds were released in London for a race home.

WHAT THE FANS THINK OF BASEBALL SCANDAL

TY. COBB

TRIS SPEAKER

(Copyright, 1926, by NEA Service)

And here is what fandom thinks.

In the most extensive survey of its kind ever made The Examiner and NEA Service present here the reaction of baseball followers from coast to coast to the publication by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of the charges against Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb.

In getting this expression of popular sentiment, NEA Service questioned fans of the average, everyday, "garden" variety rather than high baseball officials or persons prominent in other walks of life.

A large majority of the responses are sympathetic toward the two ousted managers—Speaker of the Cleveland Indians and Cobb of the Detroit Tigers.

One oft-repeated thought is that the action of the baseball powers was sadly belated.

There are many flat assertions of belief that Cobb and Speaker are innocent.

Many fans evidently feel the best interests of baseball would have been served by burying the charges in forgetfulness.

But there is a fairly widespread heaven of support for Judge Landis. Weight is given in these pro-Landis opinions to the fact that Cobb and Speaker "quit under fire."

From many cities, comment of the fans is quoted verbatim. From others, newspaper summaries based on interviews are given.

The Examiner believes this cross-section of fan opinion the most deeply interesting sport news enterprise on record.

Atlanta, Ga.

The Atlanta Journal: "Interviews with fans indicate a feeling the records of Cob and Speaker should have protected them from attacks by Landis or anyone else."

Detroit, Mich.

A. E. Dingeman, member city council: "I doubt the story. If any facts were known two or three years ago, they should have been made known then."

Ernest A. Lajoie, lawyer: "The action of Judge Landis was very ill-advised. Nothing that looks like real proof has been given out."

Buffalo, N.Y.

Henry A. Jones, salesman: "The expose is fair. The facts show Cobb and Speaker implicated. This case of 'throwing merits full revelation."

Lewis Eibl, city fireman: "The expose is unfair. The higher-ups are to blame. The charges are not proved."

Columbus, O.

D. M. McGuire, Optician: "The word of one man is ruining the reputations of two wonderful ball players.

William Schwartz, printer: "I'd as soon suspect Judge Landis as I would Cobb or Speaker."

Cincinnati, O.

W. R. Divers, hotel official: "It is a shame if these men, who mean so much to the sport in which they acquired fame, have besmirched it."

Raymond Devereaux, salesman: "That particular game meant nothing to fandom. The scandal meant the razing of the temple of public faith."

El Paso, Texas

The El Paso Post: "The consensus of El Paso opinion is that the incident occurred too far back and was too trivial for the fuss that is being made."

Evansville, Ind.

G. A. Beard, prominent sportsman: "There isn't enough evidence. The charges should be dropped."

Elmer L. Budke, printer: "There's not enough to the charges to warrant an investigation.

Knoxville, Tenn.

Howard Ritter, cigar merchant: "Baker and Cobb may have known the betting, but I don't believe either put any money on the game. Lot of players bet on their own teams."

Little Rock, Ark.

Ben. F. Sommers, cigar store manager: "Speaker and Cobb weren't treated fairly. Besides, if they keep bringing similar charges, baseball will be killed."

Herman Bennett, detective: "Speaker and Cobb are victims of jealousy. I believe their resignations were forced. They should be immediately reinstated."

Des Moines, Iowa

George Yates, photographer: "It's the bunk. There should be a statute of limitations on baseball exposes."

D. D. Johns, radio man: "It's a farce to bring the thing up after seven years."

J. S. Russell, farm writer: "The fact they resigned under fire is more incriminating than any evidence that has been published."

Memphis, Tenn.

I. L. Rosen, restaurant owner: "The expose came before any facts were known, it seems. They haven't anything but Dutch Leonard's word."

Harry Fanduward, cigar store owner: "It was rotten to publish the thing, and an injustice to baseball. Why did Landis wait until Cobb and Speaker resigned?"

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

The Petes has only had 2 goals scored again them in 3 O.H.A. fixtures, so they oughta to be outa in front, but they ain't, owing to the fact that they run into 1 battle where a single marker was enough to beat them.

Thurs. night Mister Wright's talent again delighted the customers by pulling off their 2nd win of the group on home ice. The Toronto Canoe Club was the victims. The Paddlers ain't no great shucks as a hockey team—that is, they ain't got no chance of winning a championship—but they're 1 of them pesky teams what make a good club look bad at times. They can skate and check and they ain't particular much how they do that last thing, evidently having the same slogan as the Royal Mounties, "Get your man." They figger that nobody ain't going to shoot many goals when he is lassoed around the arms with a hockey stick, or is being stood up on one ear.

They has been better games than the Thurs. affair, but I ain't never yet seen a pretty exhibition of hockey against a team with the tactics of them Paddlers. The main thing is the home lads' win, and the crowd was satisfied that the bacon was brung home.

The game against the Marlboros Mon., Mac, was just the kind of thing you'd expect to see after eating too much roast goose and fixins and an extra round or 2 of plum puddin'. Our lads had more chances to score than a flapper has to get married in a mining camp, but every time the goal umpire got ready to switch on the red light the play got balled up somewhere. And the Marlboros was missing plenty, too. In fact, there wasn't hardly a minute when some guy with the puck right in his stick wasn't looking into the white of the goalie's eye, and Mister Stark and Mister Dwyer oughta been beaten ½ dozen times each. The Marlboros win because they batted .012 on their chances against the Petes' .000 average, but it ain't likely to happen again. The Toronto lads has to come here for 2 games, and playing any kind of hockey, the home talent oughta cop them both.

Our intermediates went out the next night and scored as many goals against Port Hope as the seniors did Mon. in Toronto. But the boys, chaperoned by Mister Perks and Mister Batten, didn't make a bad showing for a bunch that was together for the 1st time. They was very short on practice, and it was a tough spot to break in against an experienced gang of ice battlers, but the lads had more of the play than the score shows. They stack up against Oshawa here next Wed. night, and with a couple workouts in the meantime should be in better shape when they bump into the Motor Town hornets.

Mister Wright's seniors has the hardest game of the season staring them in the face next week when they tackle Mister Connie Smythe's Varsity Grads in the new Varsity Arena. The Petes is given the honour of playing the first senior O.h.A. game in the students' ice palace, and the lads should show their appreciation by going out there and walloping the Grads. It's up to Mister Wright's boys to stick to their knitting all week, get in all the practice they can, and step out in the new arena and show the fans something. They can't do it less they're in shape, for you can depend on it them students will be raring to go. And they can't do it neither if they let their cheeks run round loose like the Marlboros did Mon. Take it from me, if Mister Hudson and Mister Plaxton and Mister Trottier ever was given as many chances as the Marlboros had for a clear shot on Mister Dwyer, the Petes' captain would need to be twice as good he is, and they don't grow them no better—to hold the score down to respectable size.

Well, Mac, how I ramble on! It's about time to say by-by, and this being my last offence for 1926, I'll wish any of the customers what has had patience enough to read this far a happy New Year, and ask you to take a slice for yourself as I sign myself, per usual,

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

RENE'S VICTORY IS BIG SURPRISE

Tilden Toppled From Tennis Throne After Six Straight Years.

WIN DAVIS CUP

As was the case virtually throughout the field of sports, new champions were crowned in tennis during the 1926 campaign.

Bill Tilden—the great Tilden—went down with the rest of the long list of titleholders. Tilden was routed out of his throne after having squatted thereon for six straight seasons. What is more, the lean and lanky Quaker didn't even reach the semi-finals in the national classic. Who would have dared to venture such a prediction last winter?

With Tilden's debacle a foreigner leaped to the festive heights. He was Rene Lacoste, France's youthful pastimer. Lacoste skipped through a classy field to reach the top, even such stars as Johnston, Richards and Williams being unable to stop him.

In Davis cup play America once again battered down the invading force. As in 1925, the opposition was furnished by France. The "Big Four," Tilden, Johnston, Richards and Williams, carried the colors of Uncle Sam. Is was the seventh straight success for the American team.

In the women's sector the campaign witnessed the passing of the popular and talented Helen Wills (for the current year, at least). The winsome girl from the golden west was forced to withdraw from the national championships following an operation for appendicitis last June while in France.

Hence, the women's crown went to Molla Mallory, one-time famous Norse star, and winner of the title on seven previous occasions. Molla, much to the surprise of the experts, whipped the redoubtable Elizabeth Ryan in the finals. It was Mrs. Mallory's first crown since she was dethroned by Helen Wills in 1923.

One of the outstanding clashes of the year, of course, was that between the famed Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills over in France. Acknowledged the two greatest players in the fair sex field the match caused world-wide interest.

The French lass won, but Helen was far from outclassed; in fact, the American rather surprised the Lenglen coterie by her performance against the temperamental Suzanne. Miss Wills illness, probably prevented another Lenglen-Wills clash at Wimbledon in June.

Deposing Of Eight Major League Managers This Year Sets a New Record In Baseball

NEW YORK, Dec. 31. — So far as the managers are concerned, baseball saw its greatest upheaval during the past year. Since the close of the two major league pannant races, eight team leaders, just half the number in the two circuits, have been deposed. As a result, the coming year will see fewer playing managers than there were during the past campaigns. The latest managerial change was brought about by the sensational trade which brought Rogers Hornsby to the Giants in exchange for Frank Frisch and Jimmy Ring. The trading of a manager who only a few months previously had led his team to the world's championship is something new.

The first of the major league managers to be deposed since the close of the past season was Bill McKechnie, who had led the Pirates to the world's championship last year. The new leader is Donie Bush, who previously had managed the Senators. The next manager to lose his post was Arthur Fletcher of the Phillies. He was succeeded by Stuffy McInnis, famous first baseman.

The first new manager to be appointed in the American League this year was Dan Howley, who led the Toronto club to the International League pennant last season. He signed to pilot the Browns, succeeding George Sisler. Then came the startling announcement that Ty Cobb had resigned as manager of the Tigers and George Moriarty, the umpire, was signed to succeed the Georgia Peach.

In addition to the Browns and Tigers, three other American League clubs will have new managers during the coming season. Ray Schalk has succeeded Eddie Collins as leader of the White Sox, Jack McCallister has replaced Tris Speaker as pilot of the Indians, and Bill Carrigan has followed Lee Fohl as manager of the Red Sox.

MANY CHANGES IN FISTIC TITLES

Dempsey's Defeat by Tunney One of Year's Greatest Upsets.

LACKED OLD FORM

The year 1926 will go down in ring annals as the toughest twelve months ever experienced by fistic champions. It was just one thing after another, with the element of surprise always predominating.

Outstanding among the upsets was the defeat of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, by Gene Tunney. It looked like a soft spot for Dempsey; he was a prohibitive favorite. But Tunney, after the first few rounds, won as he pleased.

Dempsey looked to be in great condition, had shown flashes of his old-time form in training, but dropped into the ring, he proved a shell of his former self.

Perhaps next in importance to the passing of Dempsey was the defeat of Paul Berlenbach by Jack Delaney. Since winning the light-heavy title, Delaney has spent much time in the woods, attempting to put on enough weight to qualify for a Tunney bout, which he anxiously seeks.

Harry Greb failed in his effort to regain the middleweight title, and shortly afterwards died as the result of an operation on his nose. Greb was one of the ring's greatest fighters and his colorful presence will be much missed.

Tiger Flowers, who kept off Greb's attempt to win back the middleweight title, was later forced to relinquish it to Mickey Walker. Walker, former welter champ, received a Chicago decision over Flowers.

Mickey Walker had the unique experience of losing the welter title on a close decision to Pete Latzo, later to be knocked out by Joe Dundee, and then to surprise by capturing the honors in the next division, defeating Tiger Flowers.

Sammy Mandell, after knocking at the lightweight door for several years, got his big chance against Rocky Kansas, who won the lightweight title from Jimmy Goodrich. Mandell didn't win very far over the fast fading veteran and many of the experts figure his tenure as champion will be rather short.

Charley "Phil" Rosenberg had a very inactive year. With Charley signed to meet Bud Taylor, the bout was called off at the last minute and the title unofficially given to Taylor, which was more or less of a joke.

All in all, 1926 has been more than tough on the ring champions.

Conquering of Channel by Women Heads Record List.

CHAMPIONS TOPPLED

Cardinals Give Baseball Big- gest Thrill by Capturing World's Series.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

A few hours more and the sports season of 1926 will be only a golden memory, but behind it there will stand at least one monument — a record of human achievement in athletics that has never been equalled.

The English Channel was conquered for the first time by a woman. Mere man ran 100 yards in nine and a half seconds, the fastest that mortal feet ever travelled. A German ran the half-mile more swiftly than Mercury himself; a Swede smashed a two-mile record which had mocked good men for twenty-two years.

A Frenchman came to the United States and won a tennis title that only one other foreigner had won in forty-five years. Two Americans stormed the sacred citadel of British golf and brought back both main titles, for the first time in history. Five swimmers crossed the English Channel.

Invincible champions were hauled gleefully from their pedestals, to prove once more that no record was ever made which couldn't be broken, nor any champion crowned who couldn't be beaten.

The fever of idol-smashing and record-breaking spread to the spectators, and the season saw the largest boxing crowd and the largest football crowd of all time.

Take your place in the grandstand and watch the parade pass by — headed this time by a woman, or rather by a girl Miss Gertrude Ederle, 19-year-old New Yorker- the first of her sex to swim the English Channel, who won the greatest sporting contest of the year, from Cape Gris-Nez to Dover, in 14 hours and 31 minutes, two hours faster than a man's previous record.

Dempsey Passes Out.

Next comes Gene Tunney, an American marine, who battered Jack Dempsey to a pulp and won the heavyweight title in Philadelphia's Sesquicentennial Stadium before 118,736 paying guests — boxing's largest crowd.

Third in line is Bobby Jones, first American amateur to win the British open golf championship, the only golfer ever to hold both the United States and British open titles at one time, who missed immortality when George Von Elm beat him by a hair in the American amateur tournament and kept the Atlantan from his third title in a year.

The next man is Jess Sweetser, first native American to bring back the British amateur golf championship, who fought sickness, a bad start and a good field to win out.

The fifth champion is Rene Lacoste, a French youth who now holds both the national outdoor and indoor tennis titles of the United States; successor to William T. Tilden and one of four French stars who swept America's Big Four off the courts in our national championships.

Sixth is Rogers Hornsby, who steered the Cardinals to the first major league pennant ever won by a St. Louis team and later to a world's championship in the series with the Yankees.

In the big parade you may also see Eric Hagenlacher, German billiardist who wrested from Jake Schaefer the world's 18.2 balkline title; Charley Paddock, who ran the 100 yards in 0.09 5-10; Dr. Otto Peltzer, a blond-haired German sensation, who eclipsed Ted Meredith's long-standing half-mile record; Edwin Wide, from Sweden, who broke the two-mile mark set by Alf Scrubb in 1904; and, last, but not least, Mrs. Clemington Corson, the first mother to beat the English Channel.

OUT FOR SEASON.

GALT, Dec. 31.—In the open- ing game for both teams in Group No. 1, senior O.H.A., the Kitchener Green Shirts last night defeated the Galt Terriers 4 to 2 before an audience of 2,000 wildly excited fans, including a couple of hundred from Kitchener. Better conditi- tions and more accurate shooting gave Kitchener their victory. It was the first time a Kitchener sen- ior team has won here, and they had to work hard to do the trick. It was an unusual game from the first, both teams playing as if a championship was at stake, and with the usual rivalry between the two places evident it was a hectic affair, in which a little bit of ev- erything was included. Players on both sides were running wild in the last couple of minutes, and the bell came timely.

Though the Terriers lost three of their stars of last winter to the pros, a surprisingly strong team was trotted out. As usual, back- checking featured their work, and they turned in some pretty combin- ation at times, but their shooting was away off. Kitchener had the advantage in the first and second periods, but the opening stanza went scoreless, principally due to the work of the Galt defence, Hines and Hoffman, and Murray in goal.

BAILEY OPENS SCORING WHEN TEAM TRIUMPHS

Local Star Adds To Points By Assist in Game With Boston.

SCORE 4-1.

Two Montreal Teams Score Shut-out Victories Over U. S. Clubs.

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—If all the other clubs in the National League were the same as the Boston Bruins the local entry in the Calder Derby, St. Patrick's, would be considerably higher in the group standing. Last night the locals scored their fourth win of the season and their second over the Ross clan, the scoring being 4 to 1, and on the play the locals deserved their margin and perhaps a greater one. The Irish counted twice in each of the first two periods and in the third Keeling beat Stewart on a shot from the wing after picking up a dropped pass, but it was disallowed. Boston's only counter came in the last second of play when Herberts took a pass from a mix-up and slammed it past Roach from close range. To many it looked as if Herberts was playing inside home at the time, and the great majority of the fans waited around until Referee Marsh an- nounced that a goal had been credit- ed.

The play was very similar to those allowed under the rules of the defunct Western League and did not make a hit with the fans, as it robbed the locals of a shutout vic- tory. At that Boston were turned aside a number of times by won- derful work on the part of Roach, who gave a marvellous display be- tween the sticks. Most of Boston's chances to score were from short range and from scrimmages, and when Roach made a save it was generally on a hard shot.

Bill Carson, Happy Day and Irvin Bailey turned in a great perform- ance. They have been playing good individual hockey, and last night showed signs of getting their com- bination going. That they didn't score more goals was due to some fine work by Stewart. The line-up:

St. Pat's—Roach, goal; Brydge and McCaffrey, defence; Carson, centre; Bailey, right; Day, left; Bourgeault, Keeling, Pudas, Den- nenay and Corbeau, substitutes.

Referee—Lou E. Marsh, Toronto.

The Summary.

Canadiens 1; Pittsburgh 0.

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.—Canad- iens scored their fourth consecutive National Hockey League triumph here last night, when they defeated the fast-skating Pittsburgh Pirates, 1 to 0. For well over two periods the teams battled in a scoreless deadlock, setting a dazzling pace in the second session. Just over half- way through the final session Billy Boucher finally batted the puck over the prostrate form of the brilliant Roy Worters to give Canadiens their winning margin.

Pittsburgh played speedy hockey but they were shaded by the French- Canadiens, who held a margin in the play, but found Worters a stumbling block.

Worters was never better. He was cut over the eye in the final period and had to take time out. It was just after the accident that Canadiens scored.

Canadiens — Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Gardiner and Leduc; centre, Morenz; wings, Joliat and Gagne; subs., Mantha, Lepine, Boucher, Larochelle, Hart.

Pittsburgh—Goal, Worters; de- fence, Langlois and McKinnon; centre, Milks; wings, Darragh and Arbour; subs., Smith, McCurry, McGuire, Drury, Cotton, White.

Referee—Cooper Smeaton.

Maroons 2; Detroit 0.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 31. — Montreal Maroons, quicker to start and sturdier in defence, defeated the Detroit Cougars 2 to 0 here last night in an N.H.L. game.

Nels Stewart, husky Maroon cen- tre, rushed from the penalty box into a Montreal play early in the first period, eluded the Cougar de- fence and carried the puck into the net. Dunc Munro scored the sec- ond Maroon goal late in the second period by slipping the puck between the feet of both the Detroit de- fence men and the goaler.

Seventeen penalties imposed by Referee Bobby Hewitson of Toronto failed to prevent the game from being one of the roughest in the Windsor arena this season.

Maroons—Goal Benedict; defence Noble and Munro; centre, Stewart; wings, Broadbent and Seibert; subs Phillips, Dinsmore, Carson, Donnel- ly, Rothschild and Dutton.

Detroit—Goal, Holmes; defence, Laughlin and Kitchen; centre, Shepherd; wings, Gordon and Oat- man; subs, Frederickson, Walker, Foyston, Arbour, Halderson and Duncan.

HOW TO SKI

The "Kick Turn"

From the straight running posi- tion, to execute a kick turn, or about face, raise one leg so that the back end of the ski touches the snow near the tip of the other. Then turn the point of the ski outward and backward describing a semi- circle around the body with the point of the ski, using the back end of the ski as a pivot. Let the ski then come down flat on the snow, parallel to the other one, but, of course, pointing in the opposite di- rection. Then raise the second ski and swing it around over the end of the other, bringing it down on the snow parallel to the other. That completes the move, and you are now at about-face.

Skiing Down Hill.

Hold the skis together and paral- lel so that they make as near as possible, one board track in the snow Keep one ski a little ahead of the other, having the advanced leg almost straight at the knee, while the other is bent. Carry most of the weight on the back foot. Carry the poles with the ends back of you, or just let them drag behind. Never have the poles in front of you when coasting down the hill, as, should a point of one of them dig into the snow, very serious injury might re- sult.

RETURN GAMES ORDER OF DAY ENGLISH LEAGUE

Spurs and Aston Only Teams Idle on New Year's.

FIRST DIVISION

Race for League Honors Settled Down in Real Earnest.

LONDON, Dec. 31 (Canadian Press).—With the exception of Tottenham Hotspurs and Aston Villa, all the teams in the First Division of the English Soccer League are engaged on New Year's Day, and since the first half of the season has now been put behind the clubs, return games are the order of the day. The race for the League honors has settled down in real earnest, and from now until the end of the season some strenu- ous and relentless struggles may be looked for.

Having played consistently well so far—with the exception of a brief period spent in the doldrums around the turn of the month of November—Burnley are leading the League, a remarkable recovery from their form of last season when they were in sore straits right up to the end. Not for five weeks have Burn- ley yielded the two points, although they came near to it on Monday when Liverpool played them to a two-all draw. On Saturday they are the guests of Everton.

The latter team are in position where they will have to put every ounce of energy into their games from now on. With West Bromwich Albion, Everton are in occupancy of the basement in the League standings, and in view of the fact that their immediate neighbors have several games in hand over them, they are in a bad fix. The last time they met Burnley, on December 18, they went down hard, dropping the points by five goals to one. This game was at Burnley. Saturday's fixture has a different locale, and that fact may serve to put another complexion on the game.

Newcastle United are in the happy position of runners-up to Burnley, one point in the rear, but with one game in hand. From indifferent beginnings, the Northumbrians have gradually forced their way up the ladder until they are Burnley's most serious challengers. They have already tasted the sweets of League leadership, but an unfortun- ate defeat at the hands of Sheffield Wednesday, deprived them of it. On Saturday they are at home to Leeds United, whom they defeated on Monday last by two goals to one. Monday's game was played at Leeds and it follows logically that if New- castle United could defeat Leeds away from home, they cannot do less on their own ground. Logic and football, however, do not always travel in the same company.

Sunderland's chances against Blackburn Rovers look rosy. On September 20 they blanked the Rov- ers at Blackburn by a couple of goals, while they were riding high on the crest of a victorious wave. Unfortunately a later check at the hands of Leicester City served to depress Sunderland's stock for at least a month and not until they had defeated Newcastle United on the Wearside the last Saturday in October, did Sunderland's luck re- turn. From that time, however, they had yielded only two games, one to Derby County and the other to Everton. The latter contest was a week ago, but it was avenged on Monday when Sunderland turned the tables at home.

The League champions, Hudders- field Town, have done nothing brilliant this season, and the least brilliant of their performance were the two defeats in a row they suffer- ed, first by Aston Villa and again by Blackburn Rovers. A quintette of goals on Monday, scored without response in the return game against Blackburn, helped them to retrieve their laurels, but Huddersfield have played below championship form and will have to try much harder in the second half of the season if they are to retain their crown. To- morrow they visit West Bromwich, the lowest team of the division. Their previous game against West Bromwich marked their first win of the year when they emerged at the big end of a four-one score.

Cardiff City (2) at Arsenal (1); Leicester City (5) at Birmingham (2); Liverpool (3) at Bolton (2); Sheffield United (2) at Manchester United (2); Bury (2) at The Wed- nesday (0); Derby County (3) at West Ham (0).

NO MORE POISON FOR DENATURING

Enforcement of Act Drives Drinkers To Industrial Alcohol.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—(Ca- nadian Press).—On theory that more effective prohibition enforce- ment is bound to drive drinkers to the use of industrial alcohol, An- drew Mellon, secretary of the treas- ury, announced determination to- day to eliminate the use of poisons as denaturents.

The secretary's attitude is that he does not conceive it as a duty of the government to permit poison- ing of citizens in order to enforce the day. He expects government chemists soon will be able to de- nature alcohol so that it will be too distasteful to drink rather than too poisonous.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL

DUEL WITH WHIPS UNUSUAL FEATURE OF IBANEZ STORY

A desperate battle with bull whips, in which two men, stripped to the waist, slashed at each other with their rawhide weapons, is one of the sensational spectacles, per- haps the first time ever shown on the screen, in the vivid Cosmopoli- tan filmization of Ibanez' "The Temptress," which comes Monday to the Capitol Theatre.

Cattlemen in the South American plains battle with bull whips to set- tle their differences, and it is one of these odd battles that is reproduced by Antonio Moreno and Roy D'- Arcy in the new production. The men, with their long whips, stand in a circle of spectators and slash at each other until one drops. Both suffer fearful punishment.

This is one of a number of thrills in the exotic romance of South America, in which Greta Garbo, the famous Swedish screen beauty, and Antonio Moreno play leading roles. It was directed by Fred Niblo, at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. A notable cast was assembled for the spectacle, including Lionel Barrymore, Marc McDermott, Vir- ginia Brown Faire, Roy D'Arcy, Armand Kaliz, Alys Murrell, Hec- tor V. Sarno, Roy Coulson, Inez Gomez and others of note.

The building and wrecking of a huge dam in the Andes, sensational rides over the South American plains in pursuit of the bandit, "Ma- nos Duros", played by Roy D'Arcy, and other thrills embelish a grip- ping romance of a charmer who victimizes all men but who herself suffers from a strange trick of fate.

The story was adapted and scena- rized from the original by Vicente Blasco Ibanez by Dorothy Farnum, who scenarized the recent Ibanez succes, "The Torrent." It was giv- en a lavish presentation, with gor- geous cafe scene, colorful South American revels and other specta- cular details.

REGINALD DENNY IN "TAKE IT FROM ME."

The likeable Reginald Denny is the star of a very entertaining pic- ture which forms the feature of the Capitol Treatre programme for the last half of this week. It is a com- edy with plenty of laughs from be- ginning to end and furnishes its audiences with much amusement. Denny, as Thomas Eggett, the be- wildered gentleman, who gets into all sorts of entanglements in his struggle with a legacy from his rich uncle, is even better in this type of picture than in his usual characteri- zations. He has a manner all his own that adds much to his portrayal of his role. And Blanche Mehaffey makes a fine foil, with her winsome ways and pretty face.

Thomas Eggett has the sum of $50,000 willed to him by his wealthy uncle, just in order to see how he gets through with it. He drops it all on the horse race which forms the opening scene in the picture, then receives the latter legacy, a depart- ment store in which he is compelled to show a profit within three months or hand over the works to the ras- cally manager, Crabb, who proceeds to cause him to loose money by put- ting on sales at below cost. The funny situations which ensue when Thomas essays to run the store form the comedy element of the picture. He equips his floor walkers with roller skates and dresses his sales- ladies in evening gowns. Then he tries to help out matters by acting as a spare clerk. He finally man- ages to show a profit of $2.38 by ex- traordinary measures and wins the store, incidentally getting a pretty bride and losing an acid-tempered lady-love.

AT THE REGENT

JULIA FAYE FEATURED IN BIG THRILLING REYNOLDS WAR FILM, "CORPORAL KATE."

Featured in support of Vera Rey- nolds in the latter's new star pic- ture, "Corporal Kate," Julia Faye, one of the best known screen play- ers in the country, has perhaps the most captivating role she has ever essayed on the silent sheet. She is seen as a dancer on the Am- erican fighting front in France dur- ing the Great War — one of three girl "buddies"—and she is the cen- tral figure of a most engaging love romance, with Miss Reynolds as the heroine, forming the triangle. The tragedy of a hopeless love is ad- mirably developed in this engaging and thrilling photoplay which pre- sents for the first time on the screen, the women's side of the World War. It will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day.

While Miss Faye, who scored de- cisively in "The Volga Boatman" and "Meet the Prince," has a role of singular dramatic power and ap- peal, that portrayed by Miss Rey- nolds of course, is by far the more sympathetic and satisfying. Miss Reynolds, as "Corporal Kate," the dancing partner of Becky, does her utmost to entertain the wearied troops along the fighting front and she meets Jackson Clark, a former polo player of wealth who is battling for democracy. His superior officer is his old valet, Williams, but the two never disagree on this account. Jackson falls in live with Kate, while Becky, to complicate matters, adores him. When the love affair reaches a crisis, comes a German air raid, and—but see the picture for details.

The supporting cast includes be- sides those named, Majel Coleman and Harry Allen. Both are screen artists of exceptional merit and they assist materially in making "Cor- poral Kate" one of the most drama- tic pictures produced this season. The story was written by Zelda Sears and Marion Orth. The adap- tation was the work of Albert Shel- by LeVino, while the director was Paul Sloane.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE LXV—Some Famous Inventions. by MAX HAHN

THE CHINESE ARE CREDITED WITH THE INVENTION OF SOME VERY USEFUL THINGS. THE UMBRELLA IS ONE OF THEM. ALTHOUGH WE USUALLY THINK OF IT AS RAIN PROTECTION ITS FIRST USE WAS FOR A SUN SHADE.

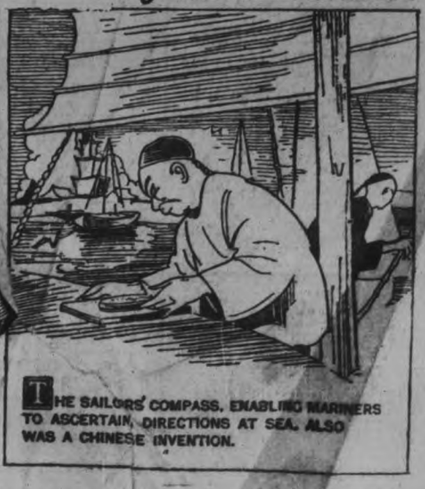
ANOTHER ORIENTAL INVENTION IS THE WHEEL BARROW. THOSE THAT WE ARE ACCUSTOMED TO SEE ARE MODIFICATIONS OF THE ANCIENT CHINESE VEHICLES.

BOYS MAY CONSIDER THEMSELVES CHIEFLY INDEBTED TO THE CHINESE FOR GUNPOWDER AND FIREWORKS. ALTHOUGH FIREWORKS WERE USED VERY EARLY IN ROME THEY DISAPPEARED AND DO NOT REAPPEAR UNTIL ABOUT 1360 A. D.



THE SAILORS' COMPASS, ENABLING MARINERS TO ASCERTAIN DIRECTIONS AT SEA, ALSO WAS A CHINESE INVENTION.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear father, Robert McCauley, who died Dec. 31, 1923:
Fresh in our hearts his memory clings,
Yet still our hearts are sore,
But each passing year will nearer bring
The day we shall meet once more.
In his grave he is calmly sleeping,
His spirit shines above,
Safe in the Saviour's keeping —
Waiting for those he loves.

INSPIRATIONAL NEW YEAR TALK

City Solicitor Wearing Addresses Y's Men's Club on Ambition.

SPLENDID MESSAGE.

Inspiration to press forward in the new year was given by Joseph Wearing, city solicitor, in an address last night to the 'Y's' Men's Club of Peterborough. Mr. Wearing's talk was heard with interest by the members of the club, and appreciation of its instructive and thought provoking nature was voiced by Bill Herrick and Trevor Miller in proposing a vote of thanks.

Mr. Wearing said that he did not know at what age a man lost ambition, but that he thought it was probably when he had one foot in the grave. Every man carries some ambition, which may not be known even to his own family, and when that disappears he is not far from passing into the next world. The past year may have brought advancement, or it may have been a poor year, but New Year's time is a good time to take a new grip and press forward.

Three things were stressed by the speaker as necessary in the struggle to obtain one's ambition. They are preparation, determination, and imagination. A man who has any goal in life can never forget the need of preparation to achieve that distinction. When he stops preparing himself for better things he closes the gate on the path that leads to his ambition. It is a difficult thing to keep up the preparation, and it often seems a constant drudgery. The necessity of doing other tasks to earn a living is forced upon men, and it is only by an extra effort that they can get ahead. This extra effort is easy to abandon.

Determination is needed to enable a man to forge ahead against all obstacles. The world's failures, said the speaker, are made up of men who had the brains and ability but lacked the backbone to conquer obstacles, financial, domestic, or physical. There is no goal worth reaching that can be attained without hard work, done with a determination that amounts almost to stubbornness.

Imagination to see the goal ahead in spite of the obstacles obscuring it was the third of the points stressed. This country, said Mr. Wearing, is filled, like all young countries, of men with imagination. Her farms have been cleared and developed by men who left their homes in the old lands because they had the picture in their minds of owning their own lands, which they could not do at home. Imagination colors the future and enables men to keep on working when all seems impossible of attainment.

The present Premier of Canada, the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, was held up by Mr. Wearing as one example of a man who combined all three qualities of preparation, determination and imagination, as he pressed forward to the goal he thought would please his famous grandfather.

It was announced that preparations were well advanced for the open house to be held at the Y.M.C.A. on New Year's Day. Members of the club are to assist the staff in carrying out the programme for the day, when all the facilities of the institution will be open to men and boys of the city.

POLLS OPEN FOR JEWISH VOTE

Toronto Gives Electors Until After Sundown on Sabbath.

TORONTO, December 31. Canadian Press. — To-morrow Toronto will do its annual chore of municipal elections. For many years this city has made balloting for Mayor, Board of Control, Alderman, Board of Education, and civic bylaws an integral feature of the New Year celebration.

Various organizations have combined with the candidates to secure a record vote to-morrow. "Vote as you like, but vote," is the general slogan. A new feature in this connection is the extension of closing time for polling from 5 p.m., to 7 p.m. The election comes on the 7th day of the week, and the Jewish vote is now some considerable factor in several of the city wards. The extension of time after sundown will enable the polling of that vote.

Voting will take place on by-laws to continue daylight saving in the summer months for another five years and to provide nearly $5,000 to dress up the eastern entrance to the Exhibition Grounds.

Mayor Thomas Foster, Controller Samuel McBride, and former Controller W. D. Robbins, are contesting the Mayoralty, and four Controllers and twenty four Aldermen, representing various wards are to be elected to the City Council. Six be elected to the city council.

Sixteen members including some acclamations, will be chosen for the Board of Education. There are no major issues in the municipal contest.

AROUND THE CITY.

Bank clearings for December were $3,945,231, and for the year $41,685,282.

ALL SAINTS' PARISH SET APART IN 1902

New Year's Day Is Anniversary of Foundation of Separate Body.

New Year's Day marks the 25th anniversary of the setting apart of All Saints' congregation as a separate parish, and all through the month of January special services will mark the semi-jubilee. PLANNING TRIP TO TORONTO

The Women's Music Club is planning a most enjoyable trip to Toronto on Friday, January 14, to hear Roland Hayes, the wonderful tenor, and one of the most eminent singers of the day, who sings in Massey Hall that evening.

Last year the Hall was sold out on the occasion of his recital, and the entire Press was enthusiastically and wholeheartedly eulogistic in their praise of this wonderful singer, who is acclaimed, wherever he appears, not only on this continent, but in all the great concert halls of Europe.

Over forty-five ladies and gentlemen have already given in their names as participating, and any music lovers are cordially invited to come. It is planned that all shall dine together at six thirty afterwards adjourning to Massey Hall where seats will be reserved for those from Peterboro. The total cost of the trip will be about seven dollars, which includes reduced railway fare, concert ticket ($2 and tax), and dinner $1. All names and money must be in by Monday night. For particulars see ad. on back page.

DRY OFFICIALS SEIZE OLD SHOP

Arrest Crew of Famous Schooner For Running "Speak-easy."

OFF FLORIDA COAST.

MIAMI, Flo., Dec. 31.—(United News.)—The good ship "Rose Mahoney"—largest wind jammer on the Pacific in the eighties — was raided to-day as a "speak easy." 'Twas an ill wind that swept that barnacled "five sticker" high and dry on the beach of Biscayne Bay during the hurricane of September 18, resulted in six "land lubbers" with government badges crashing in through the cabin skylight, arresting two old salts and confiscating 90 bottles of home brew and a brew master's outfit.

Albert Sorenzon, 60 year old skipper and Robert Slater, a grizzled seaman, were charged with having liquor in their possession. The two old sailors were released last night pending Federal action which may bring them ashore after forty years of sea faring.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR BEAUTY PARLOR

Madame Merriam Has Made Several Changes in Her Salon.

Several changes in the interior arrangement and additions to the equipment have been made recently in the Beauty Parlors conducted by Madame Merriam. An extra salon has been constructed, to provide for more accommodation for patrons, and a specially constructed chair of up-to-date pattern, has been added to the equipment, with attachments in the way of a "Sun Ray" hair drier, a facial lamp, and attachment for scalp treatment.

A very cheerful effect has been achieved in the new draping of the windows with gold silk, the same sunny hue being used in the curtains on the salons.

Five Former Aldermen Are Re-elected

Four of 1926 Council And One Ex-Alderman Selected by Electors

R. Denne, N. E. Phelan, J. M. Greene and J. O. Fife, of Last Year's Council, Head Polls—M. M. McIntyre, Out For Year, Fifth—W. Stocker Sixth.

E. R. SHIRLEY GETS MA JORITY OF 1 73 FOR COMMISSIONER

E. R. Shirley was elected a member of the Utilities Commission by a majority of 173 over his nearest opponent, G. H. Duncan, a former Mayor and Alderman.

R. Denne, N. E. Phalen, J. M. Greene, J. O. Fife, four of the retiring members of last year's Council were all re-elected.

Malcolm McIntyre, a former Alderman, was the fifth man elected.

The unsuccessful candidates were W. Stocker, also a former Alderman, followed by Stan. Lowe, H. Huffman, E. A. Stinson, J. Patte and W. Boulton.

This was the result of the Municipal Election held on New Year's Day.

The vote was surprisingly small, only about thirty per cent of the electors taking the trouble to cast their ballot.

There are roughly 9,950 names on the lists. Of these 372 are non-resident, leaving 9,578 living in the city. The number of ballots cast was 3,283.

E. R. Shirley, the new man on the Utilities Commission, is an electrical engineer by profession. He defeated two former Aldermen and two new men. The order of the result was E. R. Shirley, G. H. Duncan, F. Hills, E. M. Turner, and M. H. Quinlan.

E. Eakins First.

The first poll to be heard from was No. 2, E. Eakins the deputy returning officer, phoning in the Utilities results at 5.07, seven minutes after his poll closed.

The first poll to report the Aldermen was No. 6 at South Central School, the time being 5.20.

The last poll reported the results for aldermen at 6.50 p.m.

The board room at the City Hall was practically deserted for some 15 minutes after the polls closed. R. Denne was the first to enter, followed closely by Mel. Turner. By 5.30 there were about 25 present; Mayor W. T. Turner, Malcolmn McIntyre, J. O. Fife, H. Huffman, J. Patte, E. A. Stinson, and Nagle Phelan being among those noticed.

The Utilities results see sawed considerably, the first few results giving Mr. Duncan a small majority which would be offset by the next report. This continued for some time, and then Mr. Shirley gradually took the lead to keep it.

The Aldermanic results, right from the start, indicated that all the former members would be returned. The fifth, sixth and seventh places were in doubt, however, until more than half the polls were heard from. Mr. McIntyre took the lead and held it. Sixth place went to W. Stocker, followed closely by Stan. Lowe.

Exactly at 5:50 p.m., 50 minutes after the polls had closed, a slight commotion was heard in the outside office. It was a breathless woman who demanded "Where do I vote?" She was informed that she was too late; that the polls had been closed for some time.

That considerable interest was manifested in the results was evidenced by the fact that numerous calls came pouring in over S. R. Armstrong's telephone, enquiring the results, in most cases before anything definite was known.

With two or three polls still to hear from, the results were obvious. H. Huffman, one of the defeated candidates, in a few words, congratulated His Worship, the Mayor, on his new Aldermen.

"It was a good race," declared Mr. Huffman, 'and I don't want any of the Aldermen to think we new men were after their jobs. I am well satisfied with the results and wish the newly elected men every success."

Mayor W. T. Holloway, replying to Mr. Huffman, said that he, too, was pleased with the results. With all the old men back he felt that with an experienced council the city's business would be well cared for during the next year. He congratulated the losers on the sporting spirit that they had displayed.

Too Sunny For Politics Says David Lloyd-George

LONDON, Jan. 4.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — "It's been too sunny to think of politics," Lloyd George declared on his return to London last night from a month's holiday with his wife and daughter on the Riviera. This remarks was to interviewers who asked if he intended making any reply to the recent attack by Viscount Grey.

Reuter's correspondent says that while on holiday Lloyd George had a prolonged interview with Lord Beaver brook at Cannes.

LONDON, Jan. 3. United Press. — The Countess of Cathcart's first venture as a playwright, was as unsuccessful in this country as in the United States. Her "Ashes," which was unanimously "razzed" by the critics in Washington and New York, was voted the worst 'flop' of 1926 by the London critics.

Lewis Casson's 'Macbeth' was declared the most artistic production of the year.

WOMAN'S BURNS RESULT IN DEATH

First Reports, However, of Two Fatalities, Prove Incorrect.

NEAR MUSKOKA.

BRACEBRIDGE, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—First reports that two women lost their lives early on Saturday morning when a house was burned at Foote's Bay, Lake Joseph, Muskoka, were found to be incorrect when further communication was established with the village, and it is now learned that Hilda Walser, aged 20, of Germania, Draper Township, was the only occupant, and she died four hours after being taken from the burning building. Mrs. Bert Leonard, who was reported burned to death, was at a dance when the fire occurred.

Miss Walzer, an employee of the Queen's Hotel, Bracebridge, with Mrs. Leonard, left to spend the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Murphy at Foote's Bay. Late on Friday night, Mrs. Leonard and her host and hostess left for the dance, Miss Walser remaining alone.

The body of Miss Walser was taken to her home in Germania and the funeral was held to-day.

CAR SMASHES DOOR.

On Saturday afternoon the driver of a sedan car made the turn too short at the corner of Murray and George Street, and crashed into the door of the house on the north-east corner. The car appeared to suffer very little damage and the driver backed away from the door and went on with his journey, leaving the door and step broken.

THE WEATHER.

On New Year's night the temperature was down to 5 degrees below zero. December had ten days below zero. The coldest was the 18th was 14 below. The highest temperature was on the 14th with 40 degrees. The snowfall was 19½ inches. The rainfall was .24 of an inch. Sleighing was good from the 8th onward. The lowest temperature during 1926 was on Jan 29th, with 20 below, but the lowest last winter was on Dec. 27th, 1925, with 26 below. No excessive heat was experienced during the year, the thermometer on no occasion reaching 90 degrees. This should be a good point for tourist propaganda.—W. P.

WELL MADE STILL DISCOVERED HIDDEN IN BARN OF DOURO FARM

Owner Pays $200 and Costs To-day For Possession of Apparatus—Hand of Skilled Workman Seen in Excellence of Construction.

STILL FOUND IS OF UNUSUAL TYPE.

One of the most complete stills for the illegal manufacture of liquor ever discovered in Peterborough County was seized by W. H. Buller of the Department of Excise; License Inspector Joseph Stewart, and Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker as a result of a raid in Douro Township.

The still is what is termed a "Galacian" and is different to other stills in the fact that it distills whiskey without resorting to a worm.

While not a large one, its capacity being five gallons, it has every appearance of having been manufactured by an expert tinsmith, so complete is it in every detail.

It stands about three feet in height, the outside consisting of galvanized tin, with a copper lining. It is divided into two sections, one section serving as a receptacle for mash, and the other as a cooling space. The top portion is covered by a top that renders it airtight.

The top portion has a separate lining consisting of copper which is a conical shape working to a point directly over a small funnel into which the liquor drops as distilled. It runs through a small pipe attached to the funnel and the finished product drops into a pail.

A quantity of mash was also seized as were two full bottles of moonshine and a number of empties.

The mash was a mixture of raisins, wheat, and syrup, the whole giving off a powerful odor.

The officers had considerable trouble in locating the apparatus. The main part of the still was discovered in an old bag, buried under some straw in the barn. The funnel and pipe were sewn in a mattress in one of the bedrooms.

The owner appeared in front of Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning and paid $200 and costs for having possession of the still.

FEWER PERMITS ISSUED IN CITY BUT VALUE OF BUILDING GREATER

Buildings To Cost $342,757 Covered By 229 Permits.

331 DURING 1925.

Whole Dominion Shows a Gain of 75 Million Dollars Over Last Year.

The year 1926 was considerably ahead of the year 1925 in the amount of building permits issued in this city. Although the number of permits issued was less the buildings erected were more expensive. In 1926 there were 229 permits issued and the total amount of building which was done was $342,757.00. In 1925 331 permits were issued amounting to $272,637.00 giving a gain of $70,120 in 1926.

Dominion-wide Increase

According to MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., the estimated value of construction contracts actually started in Canada for the year just ended reached the large total of $372,947,900, an excess of 25.1 per cent over the total of 1925, which was $297,973,000. This is the largest total for construction in Canada since 1913.

An analysis of the construction contracts awarded figures for the past year shows that in the Province of Quebec the most construction was undertaken. The total for that Province was $151,933,000 or 40.7 per cent of all construction. This compares very favorably with the total for 1925 of $124,599,100. The Province of Ontario ranks next having accounted for 38 per cent or $141,929,400 as compared with $121,248,100 in the previous year. The Prairie Provinces of Western Canada recorded totals in all cases well ahead of 1925 or 11 per cent of the Dominion figures. Alberta shows an increase of 160 per cent; Saskatchewan 189 per cent and Manitoba 46.5 per cent over the totals of 1925. In British Columbia where 7.3 per cent or $27,175,800 worth of work was contracted for, an increase was shown over the 1925 figure, $21,458,300, of 26.6 per cent. Construction in the Maritime Provinces continues at a low level, only $8,412,300 worth of work having been started as compared with $8,871,700 in the pervious year, being a slight decrease. The decrease occurred in Nova Scotia as New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island showed increases of 5 per cent and and 7.9 per cent respectively.

Business Buildings Lead

Business buildings for the year of 1926 predominate the other classifications, having recorded a total of $112,408,900 worth of new construction or 30.1 per cent of all work started in Canada. The proportion for business buildings is 6 per cent higher than for 1925. Residential work, which takes second place, accounts for 29.4 per cent of all new work, the total being $109,562,400. While the proportion is not so great as in the previous year, a fair increase is shown in the estimated value of new residences and a large increase for apartments. The gain during the past year in industrial undertakings, which allows that classification to take care of 21.4 per cent of all construction, was assisted materially by the expansion of the pulp and paper industry in the province of Quebec and some large developments along the same line in Ontario as well. Engineering work was not undertaken to as great an extent during the past year as in 1925 by $17,000,000 and that classification only accounts for 10.1 per cent of all construction, having a total of $71,286,900.

So far as 1927 is concerned, the impulse gained from this year will carry forward numbers of contemplated projects which did not materialize before the year end. There is a hang-over of about $100,000,000 worth of work which is slated to proceed before the year advances far. Altogether the industry promises to be as active or more active than during 1926.

Popular Western Dances Unfit For Young Communists Commissar Of Health Bans Fox Trot, Etc., As Indecent

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press)—The Fox Trot, Shimmy, and Charleston were forbidden today by the Soviet Supreme Council for Physical Education as unfit for Soviet Russia's proletariat youth.

Dr. Semashko, Commissar of Health, denounced the dances as "Indecent products of the fat American bourgeoise."

All dances of the Imperial Court regime, involving "servile bowing, grimacing, and curtesying," also were banned. The Council declared that dancing in Russia must be spiritualized, united with physical culture, to replace those interdicted.

The Communist Club is evolving dance variations in which massed dancing is featured. The most revolutionary of these is called "The Dance of the Machines," which is designed to emphasized the Bolshevist idea of industrialization.

Ants Wreck Many Homes; Foundations Eaten Away

(By NEA Service.)

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 3.—The collapse of hundreds of wooden buildings in southern California is threatened as the result of the inroads of millions of white ants, called termites. In buildings recently torn down here, the ants were discovered to have destroyed many large foundation beams. One floor was so badly damaged that a piano crashed through it. Government aid will be asked in combating the insects.

FATALITY ENDS NEW YEAR PARTY

Train Crashes Into Car Carrying Merry Makers Home.

TWO KILLED.

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 3.— Two women are dead, another is on the verge of death and a man is suffering facial bruises as the result of a level crossing smash-up here. The four were travelling in an automobile which crashed with a passenger train at the Canadian National inter-city level crossing between Fort William and Port Arthur, at an early hour yesterday morning.

The dead are: Mrs. M. Mallon, aged 45, Port Arthur; Miss Carman Cotter, aged 23, Fort William.

The injured are: Miss May Ryan of Port Arthur, daughter of Mrs. Mallon, in a Fort William hospital, with a double fracture of the skull; O. J. Parker, of Fort William, minor cuts and bruises.

The fatal accident came as the tragic ending of a happy evening. Mrs. Mallon and her daughter, Miss Ryan had been spending New Year's night with friends in Fort William. Mr. Parker, a friend, offered to drive them home to Port Arthur, and the three were accompanied by Miss Cotter, who is said to have been Parker's fiancee.

At the inter-city crossing their car crashed with a passenger train backing from Port Arthur to Fort William. The steps of the rear coach struck the right side of the automobile, ripping it to fragments, and tearing the wheel out of Parker's hands. Miss Cotter's skull was battered in and she died within 20 minutes. Mrs. Mallon's skull was fractured and she passed away at 8.30 last night. Miss Ryan was rendered unconscious. She was rushed to the McKellar hospital, Fort William, and it was discovered that her skull was doubly fractured. No hope is held out for her recovery.

Parker escaped with facial cuts and bruises. He was questioned by Chief Taylor of the Port Arthur police, and then alloweod to return home.

According to the train crew the automobile was travelling slowly at the time of the crash and the crew expected that it would stop before the crossing. The trainmen claim their brakes were set, that the bell was being rung and the air whistle blown.

A preliminary inquest into the tragedy was held last night.

CARS DAMAGED BY COLLISION

One Car Dinted in Back and Other Has Broken Fender.

NEAR C.P.R. STATION.

Two cars were slightly damaged as a result of a crash at the bridge on Wolfe street, near the Canadian Pacific Railway station on New Year's Day.

One of the cars had a passenger for the 3:30 train and stopped to let him out at the bridge when a car coming from behind ran into it.

A dint in the back of the first car and a damaged fender to the other car was the total damage.

HUNTS AT 85.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 3—At the age of eighty-five, Dave Avery, former sheriff of Sullivan County, is preparing for another busy season of fox hunting. Dave calls it the best and most interesting sport in the world, saying he'd rather hear the sounds of a pack in full cry than any orchestra in the world.

BOYS AND MEN OF CITY ENJOY PRIVILEGES OF "Y" MEMBERS; INSTITUTION HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

Several Hundred Make Use of Gymnasium and Other Facilities.

MUSIC AND EATS.

Basketball and Bowling Among Attractions of New Year's Day.

On Saturday morning and evening the local Y.M.C.A. held "open house" to the men and boys of the city. Several hundred were welcomed and signed the New Year's visitors' list. An extensive and varied programme was put on so that something was doing all the time. The music of the orthophonic Victrola, lent to the Y.M.C.A. by E. V. Warne, welcomed the visitors as they entered the lobby. In the reading room was a radio set which was lent by J. W. Watson for the occasion.

All day long the swimming pool bowling alleys, pool tables, and gymnasium were open to the boys and men. In the morning a bowling tournament was held, V. R. Hen being the winner, with Jack Hall second and H. A. Graham third.

In the afternoon a basket ball game was played between the ex-juniors and the juniors, in which the youngsters won 52 to 38. The game was very fast but the younger quintette showed better form and more combination. Leish and Dormer subbing. and K. Goheen being hard to beat.

The line up was:

Ex-Juniors: J. Hardill, centre; McLean and Hopkins forwards, and Merill and Evans defence.

Juniors: Dundas, centre, Robichon and Sturgeon, forwards; J. Hardill and oheen defence, with McLeish nad Dorrer subbing.

A. McLeish and A. Adam handled the bell.

In the lobby were four ping-pong tables and four dart games, which the younger boys enjoyed.

The gymnasium was in charge of Doug. Loomis and Chare Crease.

Late in the afternoon coffee and sandwiches were served to all present sitting around two large grate fires.

In the evening the boys gathered in the [illegible] room and listened to the special radio programme which was broadcast from all over the country while othes played the various games.

The day proved the best New Year's day in the history of the local institution and it is hoed that it will be repeated in years to come.

17 Women Work Well In Crew Of Russian Ship

LEGHORN, Italy, Jan. 3 (United Press).—Men's clothing and brawny bodies do not make seamen, local dock workers learned today when the Russian steamer Karl Mark arrived from Hamburg with a mixed crew of men and women.

The seventeen strapping sea women aboard the vessel seemed to be on the best of terms with their male messmates and the dockers noticed that they did their fair share of work, too.

TORONTO ELECTS FOSTER MAYOR FOR THIRD TIME

Dean of City Council Given Majority of 4,169 Over McBride.

ROBBINS POOR THIRD.

W. S. Wemp and Three Retiring Controllers Secure Election.

TORONTO, Jan. 3. — Thomas Foster is still Mayor of Toronto.

On Saturday the electors, for the third consecutive time, accorded the dean of the City Council, now 75 years of age, the highest honor they can confer on any citizen. They recorded a total of 42,553 votes in his favor, or 4,169 more than they polled for his nearest opponent, Samuel J. McBride. In giving the Mayor-elect his third term the citizens at the same time denied Mr. McBride for the third time the Chief Magistrate's chair.

William D. Robbins, former Controller, the third Mayoralty aspirant, was never in the race. His total vote, 6,301, was smaller than that accorded Mayor Foster in two of the wards and was practically equalled by the Mayor in two other wards.

Probably the greatest surprise of the Mayoralty contest was the meagre vote polled for Mr. Robbins. Downtown gossip prior to the election had generally conceded Mr. Robbins from 10,000 to 12,000 votes, and from this surmise it was argued that Mayor Foster and Controller McBride would wage one of the closest fight for the Mayor's chair seen in years. In support of this contention, it was pointed out that Mr. Robbins had secured the Orange "slate," and that that in itself should furnish the greatest menace to the Mayor's chances of re-election.

Emulating Church's Record.

Mayor Foster is the first since the days of Thomas L. Church to hold office for more than two years, and is the third incumbent of the Mayor's chair since 1922. In that year and in 1923 C. Alfred Maguire, now Hydro Commissioner, was chief Magistrate. William W. Hiltz followed in 1924, but was denied a second term when the electors returned the present Mayor on Jan. 1, 1925.

As was expected, three of last year's Board of Control were re-elected: Controllers Joseph Gibbons, Albert E. Hacker and Donald C. MacGregor. Chief interest in this contest centred around the battle for fourth place, rendered vacant by Mr. McBride's retirement to contest the Mayoralty. No fewer than five were entered for this vacant seat: James Simpson, a former Controller and Labor nominee; Aldermen J. George Ramsden and Clifford F. Blackburn, and former Aldermen Bert S. Wemp and Frank G. I. Whetter, both of whom left the ranks of Council at the end of 1925 to seek promotion to the Board of Control.

The chief contenders, it was felt, were Mr. Ramsden and Mr. Wemp, and early returns indicated a close race between the two, with the figures slightly favoring the former. As the vote began to mount, however, Mr. Wemp gradually pulled out in front, and continued to increase his lead until the final figures showed him to be about eight thousand ahead of his chief opponent. Mr. Blackburn was returned in sixth place, some 3,500 votes behind Mr. Ramsden. Mr. Whetter was seventh and Mr. Simpson last.

Daylight Saving Endorsed.

The bylaw to furnish bonds to the extent of $415,000 for construction of a new eastern entrance to Exhibition Park and to improve the eastern section of the grounds was endorsed and the question as to whether daylight saving should be continued for the next five years was answered in the affirmative by a large majority.

Despite the fact that election day fell on a Saturday, which in itself is not conducive to a large vote, the largest number of electors in the history of the city registered their votes for the Mayoralty, and passed last year's record figure by 372. The totals for the three candidates were: Foster, 42,553; McBride, 38,384; Robbins, 6,301; or a total poll of 87,238. Last year's figure was 86,866. The Board of Control vote generally was much higher also than in the last election. This is interpreted as directly due to the "Vote as you like—but vote" campaign, inaugurated a year ago by the Board of Trade, and continued actively by all means of advertising during the campaign just finished.

THANKS IN NEW YEAR'S CELEBRATION

England Celebrates Passing of Old Year as in Years Past.

READ MESSAGES.

Leaders See Peace and Prosperity For Year of 1927.

LONDON, January 3 (Canadian Press) — Thankfulness at having survived an unfortunate year is the keynote of the New Year thoughts of the British public, but melancholy recollections of the coal strike, bad trade and financial losses were not permitted to intrude upon cheerful celebration of the passing of 1926.

Song, dance, and music was the order of the night, not only in hotels, restaurants and public resorts, but in private homes. The same brave, hopeful happy crowds as in years past gathered around St. Paul's Cathedral, and as the chimes announced the advent of another year, there were expressions of mutual hope for better things.

Long after midnight gay crowds paraded through the centre of London, awakening echoes in usually quiet streets with cheering and singing.

Premier Baldwin, former premier MacDonald, and the Lord Mayor of London, in New Year messages all expressed similar hopes.

Premier Baldwin's message was: "We have left behind us, a year of unhappy discord and industrial depression. Let our resolve for 1927 be to repair the damage and restore our material prosperity in a spirit of comradeship and good will."

Ramsay MacDonald said: "Most people will be glad to get rid of 1926. We all hope there will be more sanity and a little more business-like conduct of the nation's affairs in 1927."

The Lord Mayor's message read: "The omens are good everywhere at home, in the dominions and abroad. I can see a new spirit of unity and co-operation taking the place of intolerance and distrust. Let us seize the opportunities of play and make the most of them."

Financially and commercially, Great Britain has weathered the storm and stress of 1926 better than the most optimistic could have anticipated in view of the unprecedented coal tie-up.

The outlook for the New Year is considered bright, financiers say, but the pace at which Europe proceeds toward normality will depend on the co-operation of the United States and one of the great questions in 1927 will be consideration of the best method to effect this.

The second year of the operation of the Dawes Plan spread a beneficial effect in more than one direction. It enabled Belgium to stabilize her exchange and allowed Germany to continue her reparation payments to the allies, all of which had repercussions on financial London.

The principal feature of the year is felt to be the realization that the return to the gold standard was fully justified. This kept the United States exchange on a basis precluding the export of gold to the United States and helped to maintain the bank rate at 5 per cent throughout.

The handling of the financial situation in London has worked so satisfactorily that £229,000,000 fresh capital was raised in London and the government credit was so enhanced that it was able in the last week of the year to float a big conversion loan on a four per cent basis.

The big banking concerns experienced an excellent year, notwithstanding the coal strike and an excess in imports over exports of £413,000,000 in seven months. The coal strike left its mark most on the balance sheet of commercial enterprises where drastic re-construction schemes were carried out.

The influence of the Geneva disarmament conferences was felt by armament firms and capital re-organization was necessary, notably by Vickers, Limited, and the Armstrong-Whitworth Company.

On the other hand, the coal strike galvanized the freight market into activity and allowed the employment of thousands of tons of idle shipping to transport coal from overseas thereby sending freight to a high point and reouping ship owners for earlier losses.

Unique Celebrations

LONDON, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press)—The New Year was ushered in at York by a celebration unique and memorable in the annals of the English church. Thirteen hundred years ago the Saxon king, Edwin, built a wooden church upon the site where now stands glorious York Minster.

The opening celebrations of the founding of the great Cathedral took place on New Year's Eve. The dean, canons, choir, and all the officials of the Minster, assembled in the nave, where a temporary altar was erected. The procession went in silence to the Great West Door, and awaited the ushering in of the New Year by the pealing of the Minster bells.

Just before midnight the Archbishop of York, Most Rev. C. G. Lang, escorted by archbearers and choirmen, arrived at the west door. Here he knocked 13 times (betokening the number of centuries since the cathedral received its inception). The dean thereupon opened the door. A fanfare of trumpets and drums, with the organ assisting, preluded the singing of "All people that on earth do dwell." His Grace delivered a characteristically appropriate address, and then led the procession past the Holy Well—the font of King Edwin's baptism—and so out of the grand old Minster into the first night of the New Year.

French Theatres Ban "Plus Fours" For Evening

Full Dress Rule Is Stamped on the Tickets

PARIS, Jan. 3 (A.P.)—"Plus fours" and business suits are banned for evening performances in the theatre in France, and the evening dress rule suddenly is being strictly enforced in many theatres, particularly in the two Government - controlled institutions, the Opera and the Opera Comique.

American and English tourists in travelling costume long have been tolerated, but their dress has always annoyed French formalism. Now the "dollar squad" and "pound bearers" are being told at the box office that they must wear evening clothes, and the admonition is also stamped in red ink on the tickets.

One dramatic critic, giving vent to his feelings, said: "At last we French may feel at home. The Americans with their light business suits, their soft collars, are gone."

Such expressions are hardly general, but the French have always criticized the relaxation of dress restrictions at the two opera houses in favor of tourists, who have furnished the major part of the audiences in the Summer and early Fall.

This made it difficult to get good seats except far in advance, causing such French comment as "foreigners are crowding us out" and "foreigners are coming here to live cheaply."

MEXICAN BORDER BADLY SHAKEN BY SEVERE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

Mexicali Practically Levelled By Tremblors Ushering in New Year.

$2,500,000 LOSS.

Scores of Towns In Imperial Valley Heavily Damaged.

CALEXICO, Cal., Jan. 3. — Earthquakes and accompanying fires on Saturday heralded the arrival of the new year in the lower Imperial Valley of California and Northern Mexico, laying a destructive hand over a score of towns.

Buildings were tumbled and many destroyed in the flames that followed more than 50 tremblors that terrorized citizens celebrating the advent of 1927 and caused damage estimated at $2,500,000. No deaths were reported.

Shaking the towns and villages over an area extending 150 miles north of the Mexican border and 60 miles south, the earth vibrations centred in intensity here and at Mexicali, in Lower California. At Mexicali martial law was declared by Governor Rodriguez. He ordered all the saloons there to be closed.

Chief of Police Joe Hardwick of Calexico, where the damage was placed at between $500,000 and $750,000, prepared late on Saturday, to create a special patrol of men to guard business places against plundering. Orders were given to shoot to kill.

Members of the Calexico Chamber of Commerce called a meeting yesterday afternoon to plan immediate rehabilitation of the damaged parts of the city.

Dozens of persons were slightly cut or bruised by falling debris in the affected area.

Subterranean Rumblings.

Subterranean rumblings were heard almost constantly yesterday afternoon in Calexico, but the earth shocks were of diminishing intensity.

Fire added to the damage wrought by the tremors in Mexicali. The Aztec brewery was virtually destroyed with an estimated loss of $250,000. Dozens of houses crumbled to dust, with the initial shocks.

Breakage of Mexicali's water mains frustrated attempts of firemen and volunteers to halt the spread of fire.

The first shocks in Mexicali at 12:18 a.m., turned terrorized merry-makers out of brightly lighted cafes and casinos into the streets. The crash of falling walls and the underground rumblings silenced the gay music of the dance halls.

Reports that trickled into Imperial Valley centres over crippled wires told of successive tremors as far north as Analheim, Cal., and as far east as Yuma, Ariz.

El Centro, county seat of Imperial County, suffered little damage. Hundreds of windows were broken, but walls of buildings withstood the recurrent shocks. The Barbara Worth Hotel, El Centro's leading house, had only a few windows broken.

At Heber, a community of about 400 people, five buildings were cracked. Heber is midway between El Centro and Calexico.

The Farmer's Daughter Just Has To Dress Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (A P) — Living expenses of farm families average $1,598 a year, the Department of Agriculture has determined after a survey. The sons and daughters cost more to clothe than the farmer and his wife, and the daughters' clothes cost more than the sons'.

The average sized family sharing the expense was about 4 1-2 persons. Food accounted for two-fifths of the living costs; clothing 14.7 per cent; rent 12.3 per cent, operation goods 13.3 per cent.

Husbands and wives were credited with an annual expenditure of $59 each for clothing. The work day was found to be 11.3 hours for the farmer and 11.4 for the housewife.

INTRODUCE BILL PROVIDING FOR NATIONAL FLAG

South Africa To Exclude Union Jack in New Flag.

WANT UNION.

Considering the Adoption Into Design of Royal Standard.

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa, Jan. 4. (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters.) — The government's flag bill, to provide for a new national flag, excluding the Union Jack, will be proceeded with in the forthcoming session of the House of Assembly, Colonel F. H. P. Creswell, Minister of defence and labor, declared in an address at the annual congress of the South African labor party here yesterday. Premier J. B. Hertzog had authorized this statement, the minister said.

The government, the minister continued, in addition to the suggestion that the new flag should include the Imperial crown, would consider the adoption into the design of the royal standard. This would necessitate the consent of the opposition and a consequent cessation of party strife, he said, because only as a united people could the union of South Africa ask His Majesty King George to use the domestic symbol of the Royal House.

The flag bill was withdrawn at the last session after strenuous opposition, Premier Hertzog saying it would be re-introduced. He has since proposed a referendum on the question.

No one but royalty has the right to fly the royal standard and though it is often seen flying for purposes of decoration its use is irregular. There has however always been one exception, namely that of the lord high admiral, when in executive command of the fleet, has always been entitled to fly the royal standard from his flagship.

The labor party's congress to-day was attended by 87 delegates, and the chief public interest was centred on the flag question, which recently caused considerable dissension in the labor ranks. Whatever differences existed were sufficiently composed to enable the adoption with only 10 dissenting votes, of a resolution put forward by the national council of the party expressing deep appreciation of the great services rendered to South Africa by Premier J. B. Hertzog at the Imperial Conference; and welcoming the declaration emanating from the Imperial conference in regard to Dominion status.

The resolution also trusts that the government will endeavor to speedily settle the question of a national flag, which would help to promote national unity.

The debate on the resolution was extremely animated, but remarkably free from bitterness.

SIR JAMES CRAIG RECEIVES HONOR

Is Elevated To Peerage Under Title of "Viscount Craigaran."

KING'S HONOR LIST.

LONDON, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—The elevation of Sir James Craig, Prime Minister to Ulster, to the peerage, is one of the features of the King's New Year honors list. Sir James and Baron Sumner both become viscounts and Sir George Hayter Chubb, Colonel Fiennes Cornwallis, and Sir Charles Greenway become barons.

Sir James, who will now be entitled to sit in the House of Lords, has decided to take the title "Viscount Craigavon," after his old home on the outskirts of Belfast. This place was the centre of resistance to the Home Rule policy of the then Asquith Government. Premier Craig's new dignity will not affect his position as head of the Northern Government in Ireland. Among the new baronetcies the only notable name is that of Sir Joseph Duveen, noted art collector, who was knighted in 1921. His title will now become hereditary.

J. C. W. Reith, director of the British Broadcasting Company, is the only well-known person among the new knights. The honors list is remarkable for its almost complete disregard of the arts and science, public service of various kinds at home and abroad being chiefly recognized in the list.

Viscount Burnham, King Feisal of Irak, and Miles Lampson, British Minister at Peking, were honored among the chivalry awards.

To Lean and Fall Down; That's To Be Incapable

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Precisely what constitutes "drunk and incapable" has been placed on record by a methodical London policeman.

He arrested a man who in the West London Police Court denied he was incapable. The "bobby" pulled out his notebook and read the following entry:

"At 10:20 p.m. I found him leaning against a shop window, at 10:22 he tried to move, and at 10:23 he fell down."

"That comes under the heading of incapable," agreed the magistrate.

Wife Shortage Hits Polygamy In Turkestan

Brides Rule Men As Price Rises 900 Per Cent.

SAMARKAND, Russian Turkestan, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—With the men of Turkestan outnumbering the women three to one, polygamy is fast disappearing and men who once had as many as nine wives are now having a hard time getting one.

The Soviet census, just completed, shows the great disproportion of men to women in Turkestan. Indeed, there is a virtual scarcity of women, especially those of marriageable age, which the local officials believe can only be met by the importation of women from other sections of the Soviet Union.

Turkestan's 10,000,000 population decreased last year nearly 20 per cent because of a sharp decline in the number of marriages and in the birthrate. The consequence of this is that the price of women and girls of marriageable age has increased from 500 to 5,000 rubles, which is quite beyond the reach of the poor man.

Polygamy, which formerly was the rule throughout Turkestan, is fast disappearing. Before the Bolshevist revolution, rich land owners boasted up to nine consorts, while the deposed Emir of Bokhara had 300 wives. Now the native Mohammedan has difficulty in purchasing and maintaining one wife.

By reason of the great demand for them as wives, the women of Turkestan enjoy a privileged position unknown in any other country in the world. Their husands do all the housework, cooking, washing, ironing and marketing and generally show their spouses the utmost deference.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR WAR MEMORIAL

(By NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Plans have been completed for a memorial to the heroes of all wars. The piece has been designed by James Novelli, and will be placed on the new $4,000,000 Victory Bridge which crosses the Raritan River at Perth Amboy, N.J.

Four stalwart figures are represented on the monument, the doughboy of the World War, the minute man of the Revolution, the Civil War soldier and the soldier of the Spanish War.

On the face of the pillar is to be this quotation: "Let us raise high the standard to which the wise and honest shall repair, for the event is in the hands of God."

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—In a spirit of banter on Saturday, Julius Lubetkin, 26 years old, a sign painter, of 424 Monroe Street, offered Abraham Damm, 43, a tailor, of 401A Throop Avenue, 85 cents for some work for which Damm thought he should be paid $1. The tailor, who knew Lubetkin, could see nothing humorous in the situation, and a fight started in which he was stabbed to death. Lubetkin is a prisoner in the Gates Avenue Police Station, charged with murder.

LONG LOST BOX OF RELICS FOUND

Builder Finds It Among the Stone From Ruined Church.

QUEBEC BASILICA.

QUEBEC, Jan. 3—The relics of St. Victor and St. Modeste, missing from the Basilica since the disastrous fire which destroyed the temple three years ago, have been found. They were discovered in a pile of stones at the Villeneuve yards in Limoilou—well preserved, and in the same gold box to the keeping of which they were entrusted in 1804 by his Eminence the late Cardinal Begin.

For some time Antoine Villeneuve has been using for construction purposes stones and other debris from the old church. On Friday last as a load of this material was in transfer to his yards he observed a shining object among the rubble. Closer investigation led to the finding of the long-lost box and the relics.

The height of type is measured by points, a point being one seventy-second of an inch.

PLAN SHIPWAY FROM ATLANTIC TO GREAT LAKES

Presents Recommendation That Canada and States Build Gigantic Canal.

VIA ST. LAWRENCE.

Rejects Proposal For All-American Canal Through N. Y. State.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press) — Unqualified recommendation for the construction by Canada and the United States of a shipway from the Atlantic into the Great Lakes via the St. Lawrence river was presented Saturday to President Coolidge by Hon. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, as chairman of the United States commission on the subject.

The report definitely rejected the proposal for an All-American canal through New York state as uneconomic and impracticable for the present time, but declared that the opening of the Great Lakes to ocean navigation was "imperative both for the relief and for the future development of a vast area in the interior of the continent."

Secretary Hoover's report, incorporating cost estimate by engineering boards representing both countries, fixed the cost of the St. Lawrence Canal at "an effective net of $148,000,000, as contrasted with an estimated cost of $506,000,000 of a route from Lake Ontario to the Hudson River and with a cost of $631,000,000 for the All-American plan." Considering the tonnage that would move to and from the ocean to the Great Lakes should a way be opened, the report calculated that the toll cost per ton necessary to carry operating expenses of the St. Lawrence canal would be 43 cents. For the All-American route the cost per ton was figured to be $2.06, while if the St. Lawrence-Hudson canal were reconstructed, the cost would be $1.64.

The vastly lower figure for the St. Lawrence waterway, the report said, was arrived at in consideration of the great power development that would result from damming of the stream for navigation purposes, while no such prospect attached to the All-American route. Should the St. Lawrence power be developed, the report added, New York interest in its utilization should be largely considered.

Provided that agreement can be reached with Canada, and that proper agencies can be set up to control the incidental power creation, the Hoover commission advised the United States to proceed immediately with the project.

No Comment

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press)—No official comment was made here last night on the proposal submitted to the United States government for a Greater St. Lawrence waterway. Unofficially it was pointed out that when the report of the engineers was published recently further investigation was promised and subsequent reports, on some technical points, probably will be forthcoming. It was stated sometime ago that the Canadian government would make no decision until the whole matter had been more carefully studied and that no announcement would be made in Ottawa for some time to come.

SHARP DEBATING AT THIRD SITTING

Close Votes on Several Motions at Older Boys' Parliament.

TORONTO, Jan. 3. — The replies to the Speech from the Throne were not touched upon at this session, although it was not completed.

Two important motions were passed after much discussion, and in some cases merriment. Sometimes the voting was such that it seemed that a tie might arise. The members in the House followed their own convictions rather than what their leaders did.

The motion regarding publicity was brought in by Wilbur Cramp of Orillia and seconded by J. Ferris David, who had the gift of ready and witty speech and likely will be a candidate for Premier next year. At his home in Ingersoll, he is an energetic reporter of their local paper.

This motion dealt with the putting the work of the boys in a broader light.

The motion that the Sixth Older Boys' Parliament endorse world brotherhood was carried without any opposition. The debate on it and how boys could and can help lasted close to an hour. The talent displayed behooves well for this province. It was introduced by Howard Scharffe of Stormont, and seconded by Frank Perkin of Ottawa.

Several important bills were given their second and third readings, as the Vocational Guidance Act and the bill to further area camps in Ontario. Some minor changes had to be made before they were allowed to pass. The first reading of the two following bills were given:

A bill with respect to the relationships of C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T. organizations, introduced by Taylor K. Franklin, member for Leeds, and seconded by J. Holden, member for South Waterloo; the bill of finance was introduced by the Minister of Finance, Frank Perkin, Ottawa, and seconded by the member from Brant.

Owing to the lengthy speeches and arguments the late hour of 10.45 p.m. was reached when the House adjourned.

Many serious and helpful ideas were given.

The acting Sergeant-at-Arms is Arthur Patterson of Toronto, and during the absence of the Assistant Clerk, Mr. Sterling of St. Thomas filled the vacancy.

Previous to the evening sitting the boys had dinner at Hart House. It was a jolly good time. Jokes were cracked and one of the pages sang several Scotch songs which were well received.

Great eagerness was shown when the Boys' Parliament met on Thursday afternoon.

The members from the ridings of Peterborough and Northumberland East had the opportunity to make only short addresses.

As there was only one sitting on Thursday, the business of the day was despatched with a great deal more speed than at any of the previous ones. The boys who were sitting in the House for the first time had seen how they should act, and were, it seemed, anxious that their constituencies should not suffer at the hand or tongue of another member.

In the debate on the passing of the Finance Bill, the member from Grenville stated that at last year's Parliament, Sands, the member from Peterborough, had offered to raise more money than he (the member from Grenville) could in the city of Brockville. Graham the speaker said also that Peterborough had failed entirely to live up to the challenge and had raised only sixty dollars. The member from Peterborough and county, Mr. LeMay, a student whose home is in the Township of Smith on the Seventh Line, immediately arose and said he was sorry to admit that his riding had fallen behind but he wanted it understood that more than sixty dollars had been raised by bond selling. At least ninety dollars worth were sold.

It was due to the efforts of LeMay that in the next election, if each riding is able to raise its share of the budget, that the City of Peterborough will have its own member as other cities of its size have. Lakefield and Warsaw with other communities will have a member of their own in the County of Peterborough.

The voice of Stuart Carr was first heard on the debate concerning finance. His father had the pleasure of hearing him make his maiden Parliamentary speech. Mr. Carr dealt with the means he was going to use in raising the allotment assigned to East Northumberland of the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars, spread over the towns, villages and rural parts of Campbellford, Hastings, Wooler, Brighton, Warkworth, Castleton, Codrington, Stanwood, Meyersburg, Norham, Orland, Trent River, Colborne, Hilton, Mount Carmel, Carman and others.

In the election in all, six hundred and thirty-eight boys were qualified to vote, and these will all be able to help.

Mr. Carr further mentioned on the floor of the House that he intended to use father and son banquets in his constituency to bring the boys' work before the people and he felt sure that when they knew what the money was to be spent for, it would be forthcoming.

He issued a challenge to Lambton County to beat them by selling fifty dollars worth of bonds more. To do this the East Northumberland riding will have to raise two hundred and seventy-five dollars, or forty-five dollars more than last year, when the riding raised two hundred and thirty dollars. The manner in which the worthy member of East Northumberland spoke when making this challenge would lead one to believe that he was confident that it could be done.

At this session the motion to pass the Speech from the Throne was carried without a dissenting voice.

Several resolutions were put in the book of the Clerk after being approved of.

The finance bill or budget was passed after a long and snappy debate.

Many challenges were made and the results will be worth watching.

The assignments or allotments given each riding or constituency depends upon how many Trail Ranger camps and Tuxis Squares are operating in that part and also the interest taken in boys' work.

This work is extremely important since to-morrow the youth of to-day will be running stores, farms, schools and the other walks of life.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

TENNIS CLUB "AT HOME"

The second annual "At Home" of the Peterborough Tennis Club was held on New Year's Eve in the G.W.V.A. Hall, and was an extremely successful affair. The arrangements went through without a hitch and were calculated to afford the greatest amount of enjoyment to the throng of dancers who were present. Nearly six hundred people from the city and from out of town were in attendance at one of the jolliest dances of the season, and ushered in the New Year at twelve o'clock in royal fashion, with music and noise.

There were half a dozen favor dances, the colored paper novelties including dolls on sticks, tiny umbrellas, ostrich feathers in gay shades, fussy paper tassels, and caps for the ladies. Horns and whistles and tiny frying-pans, colored balloons and bells, added to the colorful note of the evening. The dainty frocks of the dancers under the moving spotlight which converted many of the dances into moonlight numbers made a kaleidoscope of lovely color.

Especially good music was supplied by the "Lucky Seven" Orchestra, with Jack McLaughlin of Oshawa at the piano. Decorations were in rose and blue, with an Oriental effect in the rows of Japanese lanterns strung across the hall, in the patterns on the electrolier shades and in the shades on the windows. The same combination of rose and blue was used in the arrangement of the orchestra stand, making an effective setting for the dance. Refreshments were served in the upstairs rooms, where green and red decorations carried out the Yuletide note.

In the small lounge room were wicker chairs and shaded corners for those sitting out; also a few tables, where cards were played, under supervision of Mrs. G. R. Langley. Prizes went to each table.

Patronesses for the event were: Mrs. C. D. Hewett, Mrs. G. R. Langley, Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mrs. W. A. Jackson, Mrs. H. A. Cranfield, Mrs. B. Moore, Mrs. J. Dewart, and Mrs. W. E. Jackson.

AGENTS HOLD CONVENTION

Representatives of Manufacturers' Life Co. Gather in City.

BANQUET HELD

Central Ontario branch of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company held the Fourth Annual Convention on Wednesday, December 28th, at the Empress Hotel.

The head office of the Company was represented by the Actuary, J. H. Lithgow, Foreign Agency Superintendent, L. A. Spaulding, Home Agency Superintendent. A. Kinch and Mr. Holmes of the Actuarial Department. Representatives of Central Ontario Field Force were present, including, G. B. Stevenson, Hastings; A. L. Riendeau, Campbellford; J. D. Larkin, Cobourg; W. G. Morrison, Lakefield; J. Healey, Indian River; D. Robertson, Bobcaygeon; A. J. Campbell and J. G. Terrill, Lindsay; W. E. Weldon, Oakwood; F. Brandon, Cannington; A. E. Miller, Uxbridge; H. A. Leask, Port Perry; G. A. Beggs, Pontypool, and T. Mark, M. Ketcheson, F. L. Driscoll and H. C. Tiffin of Peterboro. Regrets on account of not being able to attend were received from G. E. R. Wilson, Colborne; D. Lapp, Brighton; R. E. Darling, Whitby; C. H. Mathias, Oshawa; G. R. Yule, Beaverton; A. G. Troyer, Whitevale; and C. H. Calver of Campbellford. F. C. Marshall, one of the Company's representatives in the Saskatoon agency, who is holidaying in Peterboro, was one of the guests at the Convention.

The afternoon was spent in a Bowling Tournament which had been arranged by Manager E. T. Sackville and was enjoyed by all. The feature contest of the afternoon was played off in the form of a challenge by the Head Office officials to the Agency organization. The latter team, consisting of W. G. Morrison, H. A. Leask, A. D. Grayston and Manager Sackville, came out on top with a fair margin, winning all three games.

In the evening Mr. Sackville tendered a banquet to his guests at which Mr. Mann presided at the piano. Vocal selections were rendered in fine voice by W. E. Weldon and everyone joined in a sing song of old time favorites. The guests then adjourned to the parlor, where a programme was placed in the hands of G. B. Stevenson, who presided as chairman. Addresses were given by the Head Office officials, the manager, the cashier, A. D. Grayston, and various members of the organization. Then followed an open discussion on different field problems and valuable information was given by the Acutary.

Although 1926 has been a record year, not only for Central Ontario but for the Company as a whole, the members unanimously predicted a new record for 1927.

The meeting came to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and "For he's a jolly good fellow" for the benefit of Manager Sackville.

TWELVE HURT BY EXPLOSION

Gas Hurls House Off Foundation On To Nearby Buildings.

PASSERS-BY INJURED.

GARFIELD N.J., Jan. 3 (United Press).—Twelve persons were injured today when a gas explosion lifted a house from its foundation and dropped it upon neighboring buildings.

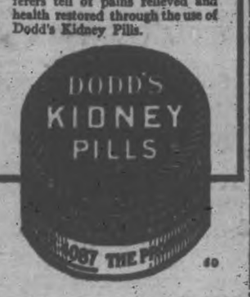
Policeman John Hoffman was severely cut on the legs and body and George Egler, a bystander, had both legs broken. Two others suffered cuts and bruises from falling debris. The occupants of the house, warned by the odor of gas, had vacated before the explosion.

Gas is believed to have seeped into the basement of the house from a service line in the street.

Bad Backache Relieved After Seven Years

John Hallahan Now Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I have been subject to a bad back for the last seven or eight years," states Mr. J. Hallahan, a well known resident of Princeton, Ont. "I have tried all kinds of medicines but have found them no good. My wife was reading your Almanac and found where lots of people were relieved of complaints like mine, so I got two boxes and now I am feeling much better. I recommend your Dodd's Kidney Pills to all who suffer with backache like I did." Other sufferers tell of pains relieved and health restored through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.



The new pointed fur collar is conspicuous upon the latest model winter coats, making one of the most graceful "back fashions" which women have had in many years. These pointed fur collars are especially popular in soft gray baby lamb or similar fur.

THE OLD PROBLEM.

The total vote polled on Saturday was not robust enough to earn commendation for the citizens generally.

Despite the fact that large fields were in the running, that a holiday gave everybody a chance to vote, that the electors had been notified where they should vote and that the weather conditions were propitious, a very large percentage of those on the lists did not use the franchise.

It is not a new condition, but every fresh indication of this apathy and indifference on the part of the people to municipal problems and the personnel of municipal government prompts a question as to how an improvement can be brought about.

Everything possible in the way of facilitating the taking of a vote has been done.

Using the schools so that the election is held at the same places every year and notifying the voters by mail are helpful steps, the press has done its part by stressing almost to the point of boredom the desirability of voting, but there is little improvement shown.

THE NEW COMMISSIONER.

While the electors in the case of the Council preferred to trust to municipal experience, it is plain that so far as the Utilities Commission was concerned the opportunity of securing the technical and professional knowledge of a competent electrical engineer was considered as too valuable to be missed.

Thus the municipal records of ex-Mayor George H. Duncan and ex-Ald. E. M. Turner were passed over in favour of the engineering ability of E. R. Shirley, who while not as well known personally as these former members of the City Council, had a reputation professionally that stood him in good stead.

Mr. Shirley's standing as an engineer is very high among members of his profession, and this fact impressed itself so firmly upon the electors that while there were predictions made that the fight would be between the ex-Mayor and ex-Alderman, the returns showed Mr. Shirley at the top with a safe lead, ex-Mayor Duncan second and ex-Alderman Turner back in fourth position, being beaten by Fred. Hills, who made a good run.

The new member of the Utilities Commission brings many assets with him to the deliberations of that body, and his term in office should be marked by good service on behalf of his fellow-citizens.

OUR DOCTORS AND HOSPITALS.

The fame of Peterboro's hospitals and of its most competent surgeons is extensively circulated throughout Central Ontario. This service to the sick and injured over a constantly broadening district seems to be the most helpful and outstanding social contribution this city is making.

Citizens going about their daily affairs little realize how many patients arrive here every week for expert medical and surgical treatment.

Rural doctors, and those in most of the small towns, lack the facilities for operations, the special accommodations which the hospitals here afford. Often they accompany their patients or recommend them to local doctors.

And the names of Peterboro physicians and surgeons that are most often mentioned at home with successful practice appear to be just as well known and esteemed in places fifty and seventy-five miles from here.

It is heartening to hear that Peterboro's finest service to its neighbours is so personal and evidently so successful in spite of the professional silence that shrouds it. Our mercantile and industrial institutions play a large part in the business of Central Ontario, and they may broadcast their wares and their prizes as conspicuously as they please; but an obdurate taboo closes around doctors and their skill and achievements.

If one were to mention the names of the several doctors he hears most frequently and laudatorily spoken of outside Peterboro he might involve them in a summons before a council of their peers.

And such splendid humanitarian work deserves more publicity than the praise of patients who were helped back to health and usefulness in hospital surroundings that are altogether a great credit to Peterboro.

THE ALDERMANIC RESULTS.

So far as the aldermanic election was concerned the people of Peterboro—or the proportion of them who considered their franchise worthy of being used—preferred to vote for men who had experience in municipal service rather than to experiment with new blood.

That conclusion may be fairly drawn from the fact that the four retiring members of last year's Council topped the poll, followed by two former Aldermen, while the five candidates without previous municipal service were strung out behind the leaders.

The big vote polled for Alderman R. Denne, who was at the top of the list, 236 votes ahead of Ald. Phelan, the second candidate, is a tribute to his fine record of public service on the Board of Education, as a member of the Council for the last two years, as President of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition and in other capacities.

Comparing the aldermanic vote with the total in the Utilities election, it is apparent that four out of every five voters who went to the polls voted for Alderman Denne, and the endorsation must be gratifying to that gentleman.

Ald. Phelan also deservedly polled a large vote. His six-year record as Finance Minister have been marked by ability, strict attention to aldermanic duty and a keen interest in Peterboro's affairs, and these things were remembered by the electors.

The record of Ald. Greene, seven years on the Board of Education and two on the Council, and that of Ald. Fife with four years an Alderman, were endorsed by their return to office, while the electors sent back to the Council ex-Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, a former member of the Council who had done good service in his previous terms as Alderman.

The list of the six unsuccessful candidates was headed by ex-Ald. Walter Stocker, while the first of the new aspirants for office was Stan. Lowe, who under the circumstance made a very creditable run.

The new candidates have nothing to be ashamed of—they were in the field against men who were helped by the public records, and they themselves suffered because they were not known in all parts of the city.

They deserve thanks for having offered their services to their fellow-citizens, and thereby proving themselves as conscious of the responsibility that citizenship brings to those who understand it.

All five Aldermen elected have been of good service in the past, and this year's Council should prove itself as one of the most efficient and enterprising boards in recent history.

NEW RURAL SCHOOL PLANS.

Premier Ferguson has modified his plan for Township School Boards to a point which should go far to win approval in rural Ontario. He has just issued a Second Letter "to those interested in rural education," in which he reviews the situation in the light of recent controversy and recommendations.

It will be recalled that a bill providing for the establishment of Township School Boards was introduced in the Legislature last session, but laid over after a brief discussion. Opinion in the House was largely against it. The Trustee Section of the Ontario Education Association in April had a lively discussion on the project, ending in a resolution rejecting the proposal. The Trustees were outspoken in their opposition, and intimated that city people were trying to "put something over" them. The cost of the proposed consolidated schools was particularly an object of attack.

The revised plan which Mr. Ferguson as Minister of Education now commends to the consideration of the Province is along simpler lines. He is at pains to explain the error of the general impression that his scheme would be "the thin edge of the wedge for the establishment of consolidated schools." "The decision as to consolidation will rest entirely with the people themselves," he adds. "Nothing is farther from my mind than that any scheme of school consolidation should be forced upon the people against their wishes." It will be recalled that experiments with consolidated schools in Ontario have not been happy, the buildings and upkeep being too costly for general adoption.

Local control over schools would continue as at present, the Premier explains, just as local control continues in urban centres where large buildings are erected. Another criticism of the previous bill was against the limitation of the Township Board to ten members, even when there were more than ten sections. This would deprive some sections of representation. The Premier now proposes to give representation to each and every section. This concession should dispose of a troublesome question wherein local jealousy, naturally, would arise.

Mr. Ferguson claims that the result of his plan would be to reduce, not increase, the cost of rural education, and he presents tables to show how the present system is unduly expensive, owing to the fact, for example, that 2,002 schools in Ontario have an attendance of fifteen or less. The question of cost, however, is one that it is not possible to be dogmatic upon as yet. The degree of education extension for rural schools will have to be considered in detail, and probably varying local conditions will prevent a definite estimate on this point.

The constructive side of the Premier's proposal is important. In his opening paragraphs he repeats the argument of last year that in education the rural residents of Ontario are at a disadvantage compared with those in towns and cities. Their schools have almost stood still, while the needs of the farmers for better instruction along certain lines were never so apparent. Their work steadily grows more complicated, and has developed strongly along scientific lines.

Consolidated schools being out of the question at present, the Minister of Education proposes the appointment of itinerant teachers, who would go from school to school and give part-time instruction in such subjects as manual training, household science and agriculture, in addition to the ordinary course by the regular teachers. To achieve this improvement, Mr. Ferguson contends, Township School Boards would provide the best organization, as they would permit co-operation on a broad basis. The Department of Education would pay 50 per cent. of the cost of equipment for vocational purposes, and a graded percentage, running to 75 per cent., of the salaries of the vocational teachers. It would also pay 50 per cent. of the cost of a building devoted exclusively to vocational work, or the same percentage of the cost of a high school used for the same purpose.

Ontario school teachers should give reconsideration to the proposal as amended. Rural Ontario has shown great enterprise in other directions in recent years, notably in spending money on power and on good roads. Is it too much to consider, probably on a local option basis, the needs of a more advanced policy in education?—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is fairly evident that voting was not included in everybody's programme for New Year's Day.

Many electors balked at going back to school, even for a day.

And now the Council will have to select an Alderman to complete ex-Alderman Turner's term. The appointment may be any one the Council favours for the position.

The Toronto municipal results gives The Telegram a great chance to rub it into The Star. But, of course, The Tely hates to do that sort of thing.

Anyway we are through with elections for some time, and nobody will object to that.

Some people may not be satisfied with the choice made on Saturday. But seeing they didn't take the trouble to vote, they should not say very much about it now.

SLIPPERY SIDEWALKS.

The Editor of The Examiner,
Peterboro, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—In reference to the recent epidemic of accidents, through falls on icy pavements and approaches to houses, perhaps the following simple procedure may be useful knowledge to many housekeepers, who, quite rurally, strongly object to ashes, sand, cork-dust, sawdust, etc., being carried into the interior of the house. What follows here is nothing more than using the forces of nature to counteract, what is, one of her evils, namely—slippery ice patches on our pavements.

Any slippery ice patches, small or large in area, can be generally corrected for walking over, by lightly sprinkling with water by means of the summer garden watering can, and then, at once, scattering a thin layer of powdered snow over the surface thus wetted, the whole freezing together almost immediately and forming a more or less roughened surface. This is a very simple and clean process, and which a few experiments will, I think, prove to be of value and, furthermore, is not scattered by the wind like sand, etc.

Yours very truly,
W. H. PRETTY.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

GLOOMY UPLIFT

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Alan Dale, the well-known theatrical critic, "said a mouthful" the other day when he wrote:

"I wonder why everything that is worthy is drear and drab and desolate and doleful and discouraging, and everything unworthy cheerful and amiable and amusing and entertaining, and, worse still, laughable."

This wonder has come to all of us.

The writer had three children who wanted to see Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Their grandmother, being a strict religionist, did not want them to attend. They were overheard discussing the matter and speculating as to why grandmother opposed their going. The boy said that it was because the riders were in danger of breaking their necks. One of the girls insisted that the reason was that the women wore short skirts. The other girl, however, insisted that the only reason was that it was fun, for, she said, "Whatever is fun is wrong and whatever is unpleasant is good for you."

Many another child mind and many a mind of those who are older have come about to the same conclusion. When we look over the sea of novels and plays that come to us from abroad and see how pessimistic they all are, when we look at plays that are put on for the uplift of the stage, and see how drear they are, most of them, and when we consider works that are supposed to be great, such as the works of Dreiser and O'Neill, and see how disgusting they are, and uniformly tragic, we are inclined to speculate as to why a thing has to be disagreeable to be real and why anything that is pleasant is supposed to be cheap and nasty.

For our own part we are convinced that life is not a humbug nor a tragedy. There is plenty of nobleness and good humor in the world, and literature that expresses this can be just as good as literature that expresses the contrary opinion.

Those who write encouragingly and induce people to go ahead with the hard battle of life and to keep their chin up and smile, may not be great, but they are doing more to help their fellows along than those who write discouragingly.

There is much to be said in favor of the happ ending. People go to the theatre or read a novel to escape from the actualities and to amuse themselves. There is enough disappointment and disillusionment in real life without reproducing them upon the stage.

The least that literary fellows can do is to cheer us up a bit.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mrs. H. W. Johnston Receives Cheque From United Church.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31.—On Christmas Eve, Rev. F. H. Howard and Dr. A Jemison, representing the Session of the United Church, called at the home of Mr. H. W. Johnston and presented to Mrs. Johnston a substantial cheque as a slight recognition of her services as choir leader in the church.

Shortly after the union was consummated, Mrs. Johnston, at the request of the church officials, accepted this position, and under her faithful and capable leadership the music each Sunday has been a very helpful feature of the public worship services.

The pastor, the organist and choir members, the church officials and the congregation have appreciated deeply the service which Mrs. Johnston has willingly rendered, often at considerable sacrifice to herself, and were glad that, by action of the Session, some tangible token of the high estimate in which her work is held should be offered with the greetings of the Christmas season.

TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press)—The trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited reads as follows:

St. John.—The wholesale trade for the last week has been just normal for this time of the year. Retail trade quiet although holiday shopping has been entirely satisfactory. Collections fairly satisfactory.

Montreal.—Good business is reported by the wholesale grocers with a slight improvement in volume of dry goods over pervious weeks. Very few orders of any quantity have been placed for immediate shipment in boots and shoes, gent's furnishings, clothing. Ladies' wear, however, is about normal. Hardware and metals show more stability than for some etime past. Montreal and other cities report a very satisfactory volume of holiday business according to reports received from city merchants with normal volume of business and considering the demand for ready money this season, they have been better than usual. Retail collections are somewhat slow in the city, but no great uneasiness is felt. Country collections retail reported as very fair.

Toronto.—Wholesalers and retailers generally report fairly satisfactory volume for this time of the year, with a favorable showing in collections.

Winnipeg.—A satisfactory volume of business is reported by the wholesale trade for this season of the year. Retailers experienced a very favorable holiday trade and business is now back to normal. Collections in all lines have dropped to some extent but may be still considered as satisfactory.

Regina.—All lines of wholesale trade report business as quiet after the holiday rush. Retail trade quiet but satisfactory. Wholesalers and country retailers report collections as slow. City retail good.

Saskatoon. — Wholesale grocers report good volume of business during the past week. Dry goods fairly satisfactory. Boots and shoes fair. Hardware, however, is inclined to be rather slow. Retail trade quiet, but normal for this time of the year. Retailers, however, are more than satisfied with holiday sales. Collections rather slow.

Calgary.—Seasonale retail lines not up to expectations and indications are that a larger Christmas stock than usual will have to be carried over. Wholesale business in all lines satisfactory. Collections slow.

Edmonton. — Business generally quiet and collections just fair.

Vancouver. — Reports received from manufacturers would indicate a fair volume of business during the last week. Wholesale trade fairly good. Retail trade generally is fairly good for this time of the year. Collections satisfactory.

POISONING FROM FOOD

The largest amount of food poisoning comes from wholesome food being used at a time when the body is enervated, when the body cannot properly take care of the digestion of this food. Lying undigested in the stomach or intestines, even the best food will rapidly putrify and toxins will be developed, which will be poisonous to the system.

If a meal is eaten when you are angry, poisoning is sure to develop. It is likewise true that similar poisons will be produced under any mental strain. If you are tired, you are inviting disaster if you go to the table and eat a hearty meal. The digestive juices cannot flow properly, and the food will, therefore, not be digested and assimilated. It is not possible for food to remain lying in the stomach or intestines in an inert condition; it must either nourish you or poison you.

Of course, bad combinations of food, which are antagonistic to each other, will not digest properly and often one kind of food is not digested at all and, therefore, it turns into a poisonous substance, which is harmful to the body.

With out modern systems of refrigeration it is not necessary to use foods which have spoiled or have become tainted. If one is really hungry, and the digestive juices are flowing freely, it is almost impossible to be poisoned by food which is only slightly tainted; but there are some insidious poisons, such as the poisoning produced by the bacillus Botilinus, which are very hard to detect, and whose action is very positive and dangerous. This poisoning is found mostly in canned goods, especially in canned string beans if the can has rusted and air has been let into an opening. This poisoning, however, occurs very rarely in canned string beans put up by canning companies, but is usually found with the "homemade" string beans canned in glass jars and not sealed properly.

Oysters and clams which seem to be perfectly healthy are often infected with the germs of typhoid fever, and, used in their raw state, this kind of shellfish is generally dangerous to use.

If any kind of proteid food is used where there is a slight taint to any part of the food, it is liable to cause ptomain poisoning if one is not in good health and is not really hungry for the meal.

If you are foolish enough to eat when the digestive juices are not flowing freely; the best thing to do, when you find you have been poisoned, is to vomit as soon as possible. This can be accomplished by drinking a glass of water in which a teaspoonful of baking soda has been dissolved, and tickling the throat with the finger. This will usually bring up the stomach contents, and, of course, the poison will come along with it.

After you have vomited all that it is possible for you to vomit, it is a good plan then to take a dose of castor oil, using about four ounces at a time. Copious enemas should be used every hour for several hours in order to get out all of the poisonous material which might lodge in the colon.

You should, of course, get rid of these acute poisonings as soon as possible. But beware of the slow poisoning which comes from using the wrong kind of food, and not digesting it, and having these poisons thrown into your system day after day in such a manner that these poisons produce the chronic state of toxemia which leads to so many diseases.

BRUCE GUEST OF PRESIDENT

Coolidge Gives Luncheon For Australian Premier and Mrs. Bruce.

CORDIAL WELCOMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—President Coolidge on Friday entertained Prime Minister Stanley M. Bruce of Australia and Mrs. Bruce at luncheon at White House.

Cordial welcomes greet Mr. Bruce everywhere in the capital and the Washington Post greets him in an editorial which states that "Americans recognize in him a sympathetic and understanding friend and they accord to him and his country every good wish. There is a bond of brotherhood between Australians and Americans which is composed of the most lasting materials and which makes unnecessary any elaborate speech of interpreting.

No little interest is being evinced here in view of the Premier's visit on the question of Australia apointing a minister to this country but is said the visit has no bearing on the matter and that the question will not arise for some time.

Magistrate Would Have Given Longer Term But For Detective's Request.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Douglas Kew, pleading guilty to a number of charges of safe breaking, was sentenced to eight years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Edmund Jones in police court Friday. "Under ordinary circumstances," the magistrate said, "I would have made it ten years, but at Detective Clark's request I am making it eight years." Detective Clark said that Kew gave valuable information to the police, in connection with his offences.

The Vision of Confederation Fulfilled

WE are entering a New Year—the year of Canada's Diamond Jubilee. Sixty years ago the Fathers of Confederation tried out their great experiment.

Just one year later a similar, if smaller, group of earnest men launched The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada.

The faith of the Fathers and the courage of the Founders have been abundantly justified.

In 1867 Canada's foreign trade was $130,000,000. Last year it amounted to $2,236,000,000, or nearly 18 times as much.

In 1870 The Mutual Life of Canada carried $100,000 of assurance in force. In 1926 assurances in this company totalled more than $330,000,000, or 700 times as much!

During the past year the Company has written in Canada the record amount of approximately fifty millions of new assurances, thus extending the benefits of Mutual protection and increasing the total amount of business in force to more than three hundred and fifty millions of dollars. Fully guaranteed.

POST OFFICE PLANS AIR MAIL ROUTES

Asks $75,000 in Estimates For Development of Service.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Air mail routes will be definitely established in Canada in 1927 if departmental estimates in the course of preparation are passed by parliament. It is understood on excellent authority that the post office department estimates contain a vote of $75,000 for the development of air mail routes and that the civil branch of the Royal Canadian Air Force will also request some thousands of dollars from parliament.

The post office department will, if the vote is passed, call for tenders from private flying corporations and preliminary work at least will be carried on on a contract basis. The civil branch of the air force will be mostly concerned with setting up of ground equipment and of course with examining, testing, and licensing of pilots and mechanics.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL.

At the morning service in the Gilmour Memorial Church yesterday Rev. W. S. Edgar took his text from Judges 13: 22, 23: "And Manoah said unto his wife, 'We shall surely die because we have seen God.' But his wife said unto him, 'If the Lord were pleased to kill us, He would not have received a burnt-offering and a meat offering at our hand, neither would He have showed us all these things, nor would He at this time have told us such things as these'."

"Manoah and his wife," said Mr. Edgar, "were the parents of Samson, and in the incident under review, they are in great trouble and fear, at least the husband is, and his wife comes to his help with good counsel and advice which drives away his fear and revives his faith. God has had very close and intimate dealings with them; in fact He had revealed Himself to them, in the person of an angelic messenger, which some take to have been Christ Himself. The ancient Jews believed that no man could see God and live, and this notion quite overwhelmed Manoah's faith for the time being, but his wife, as a real helpmeet, encouraged him. No one could argue better than Manoah's wife does here. She argues from the analogy of things that God means to deal graciously with them. She reasons from the known to the unknown, from the present to the future, from the circumference to the centre.

"In days of mystery and perplexity, we cannot do better than follow out this special line of reasoning, we cannot do better than resort to this argument as we enter upon a new year, with our future unknown. We are apt to be fearful, knowing not what the future holds in store for us. But we know what God has been to us, what He has done for us in the past and we can take that as a portent as to what He will be to us and do for us in the days that are still to come.

"We can apply this principle: (1) To our present life. How we torment ourselves about our earthly future. Life, we think, would be worth living, were it not for to-morrow; to-morrow poisons all the days of the calendar. But if the Lord were pleased to degrade us and destroy us, would He have shown us all these things of Nature's wealth and glory? Ruskin declares that there was beauty enough in a lily to decorate a cathedral; and our Lord found truth and grace enough in al lily to furnish a creed for that cathedral—a creed of absolute trust in our Heavenly Father.

(2) In the life beyond. Some tell us that death is annihilation, that in the grave we perish entirely and for ever, and that the idea of a future life in a more perfect state of society is only a beautiful dream, the product of man's fertile imagination, and that it has no more solid foundation than have those fairy tales read by children. But is it like His wisdom to destroy those whom He hath made in His own likeness and to whom He has granted such wondrous faculties? If God meant to annihilate us, would He have dealt with us after the wonderful fashion with which we are so familiar? What immense ages He took to prepare this earth for our habitation. How inexhaustible are the treasures of our earth. If God purposed to annihilate us, would He have shown us all these things? The theory of annihilation conflicts with the wisdom of God, as reflected in Nature. Does Nature implant instincts it does not mean to gratify? Does God create hopes in us, which He does not mean to fulfil? No. He does not mean to destroy us. We shall not die like dogs, the grass of the graveyard shall not cover our great being and hope. God designs our good and is fitting us worthily to take our place among the choice spirits of the ages who have been redeemed from among men.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien referred to several matters of interest to the parishioners. He exhorted his hearers to renewed devotion to their religion in the coming twelvemonth, and spoke of the few marriages, twenty-four, in a parish of seven hundred families, recorded at the Cathedral last year. There were sixty-one baptisms performed and twenty-five deaths registered, the deaths being sixteen less than in the previous year.

"The word 'home' is fast losing its meaning with the average person nowadays," said the Bishop. "Home has become just a place of bricks and mortar with a roof, where we get our meals and spend a few hours in sleep. Instead of a stopping-off place, home should be a place where the very soul of religion would breathe, where the father and mother would be the heads and where the children would find their happiness in the presence of their parents. It should be a sanctuary where God would love to dwell.

"A man should try to own his own home, and to have for this purpose, even if he has to forego some of the pleasures of the world. We hear so much about a 'good time' in these days. But you can search the New Testament from end to end, and you will find in it no promise made by our Lord of a 'good time' to any of His followers. He did not try to make converts by promising them a 'good time,' nor to His apostles did He promise anything of the sort. On the contrary He said: 'If any man come after Me, let him take up his cross and follow Me. He that will not do that is not worthy of Me.'

"To own our own home, we must save on worldly pleasures. Read the daily press and take note of the ridiculous prices charged for amusements. It is enough to insult the intelligence of a human being to see the amounts charged for shows and hockey matches, and recent revelations with regard to sport should make its devotees hesitate in their enthusiasm about it. A certain amount of recreation and distraction from business is necessary, but a man should not be a slave to pleasure."

Stole Food For Family Is Freed By Prosecutor

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 31 (United News) — There is a point when burglary becomes self preservation, it is not subject to prosecution here, Assistant Prosecutor James E. Chenot has decided. Royce Wright and his wife, Dorothy, were arrested while burglarizing a grocery store. They are the parents of two small hungry children. There was no denying the robbery. Their explanation turned justice into mercy despite the fact that Wright was found armed with a revolver.

The wife and I haven't had anything to eat for two days". Wright told the prosecuting attorney, "and the children have had nothing but bread since late Tuesday. I took the revolver along to give me courage."

Chenot dismissed them with the observation:

"No jury would convict of burglary in the face of these facts."

When Miss Victoria Drummond studied marine engineering in Glasgow and was the first of her sex to go to sea as a second engineer she was congratulated for her pluck, but few persons acquainted with the difficulties of her job fancied she would go through with it. But she has never flinched. She has taken duty at all hours and in all kinds of weather, and won the admiration of every man she has worked with. Now she is making her last trip at sea, and on her return she expects to pass her final examination and set up in business as a consulting marine engineer.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

The Midnight Frolic at the Capitol Theatre on New Year's Eve was a very successful event, and was attended by a large crowd of people. Favors of different types were handed out, with plenty of horns and whistles for the ushering in of the New Year at midnight, when the crowd let loose. The programme included six good short reels of a comedy nature, also a very interesting programme, which included several solos by Miss Blanche Senior, soprano soloist, of Toronto, and a Revue, forty minutes in length, which elicited much applause from the audience, and in which the following took part, in solo dances and songs: Messrs. Wesley and Quinlan (blackface comedians), Mrs. J. Dwyer, Miss Quinlan, Miss Jessie Hodgson, Mr. A. Everitt and Mr. J. Minicolo.

BIG CAST IN NEW LA ROCQUE FILM

Star Excellently Supported in "Bachelor Brides."

The excellent story of and cast in "Bachelor Brides," R. t La Rocque's new stirring picture, apparently presages for this rollicking comedy, the heartiest approval of the film going public.

Headed by Rod La Rocque, whose popularity with motion picture theatre patrons, is conceded, following his outstanding performances in "The Coming of Amos," "Braveheart," and "Red Dice," the galaxie of players gracing the cast of "Bachelor Brides," which will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day, is well balanced and unusualy brilliant.

Elinor Fair, to whom Cecil B. De Mille assigned the feminine lead in his personally directed production, "The Volga Boatman," is seen in the role of an American heiress, the prize sought by La Rocque, a Percy Ashfield, a young English Lord.

Julia Faye is the designing woman who seeks to throw a monkeywrench into the well laid plans of La Rocque while George Nichols play the portly Chicago "butter and egg" man, the father of Elinor Fair. Eulalie Jensen, George Nichols, Eddie Gribbon, Lucien Littlefield, and Sally Rand complete an excellent supporting cast.

"Bachelor Brides" is the adaptation of Garrett Fort and C. Gardner Sullivan of the stage play of the same name. It is chock full of melodramatic situations and fairly sparkles with rollicking comedy touches. An old castle in Scotland provides a colorful background for the story.

William K. Howard, whose work as the director of "Volcano," "The Thundering Herd," "Code of the West," "Red Dice," and many other big screen successes, directed the picture.

A Man of Rare Professional Attainment

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the late Ray V. Pierce, M.D. At first he practised medicine in Western Pennsylvania and his unusual ability and success were soon recognized there, then he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary where his famous home remedies have ever since been made.

Each succeeding year the sale of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been greatly increased. Evidently people appreciate the fact that it increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, helps to enrich the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young. It contains no harmful ingredient.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

PRESENTATION TO SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Maurice Dunkley Retires From Post at Park Street.

A very pleasant surprise was sprung at the Park Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday afternoon when, at the close of the afternoon session, Mr. Maurice Dunkley, who has been superintendent for the past two years, together with Mrs. Dunkley, were called to the platform, when the following address was read by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. O. Dear Mr. and Mrs. Dunkley,—It was with deep regret that we were called upon to accept your resignation as our honored superintendent for the past two years.

Your deep interest in all Sunday school matters has been appreciated by us all.

We are glad that you are continuing in this work as teacher of the young men's class, which we know will grow under your leadership, and we trust that Mrs. Dunkley may soon be able to return to our teaching staff.

We would ask you to accept these gifts, not for their intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our love and esteem.

Signed on behalf of the teachers and officers of the Park Street Baptist Sunday School,

E. W. Young, Superintendent.
B. H. Smith, Asst. Superintendent
O. S. Matchett, Sec.-Treasurer.
Norman R. McLeod, Pastor.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE LXVI—Chinese Ingenuity. by MAX HAHN

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

The Cherry that went her imperious way from shop to shop was a revelation to Faith. She moved with a new dignity, her head, brave in a close-fitting golden brown velour cloche, held high with the consciousness of unlimited money to spend, and the conviction that, as the affianced bride of one of the city's richest and most prominent men, she was the envy of the girls and women who served her almost humbly.

"Haven't you something a little better than this—more distinctive?" she amused Faith time after time by saying in her dignified, money-conscious new voice—a little bored and very nonchalant, for the benefit of the saleswomen, but as eager as a child's when she whispered to Faith.

No one would have dreamed that she came from a humble working man's cottage on Myrtle Street. She moved from department to department like a proud little queen, disdainful of what they had to show her, but royally gracious and determined to make the best of the town's poor shopping facilities. Little Cherry! Cherry, who had never had fifty dollars at one time in her life before!

Cherry took an immense satisfaction in trying on dress after dress that was too large for her, although she pretended to be annoyed with her miniature body.

"It's simply dreadful to be so tiny," she said, lapping the superfluous folds of a size sixteen evening dress about her childishly short and slim body. "Just look! This will nearly go around me twice! Haven't you a size fourteen? I suppose I'll have to have everything made to order, or go to New York to buy my trousseau!"

"It can be altered, Miss Lane," the saleswoman hovered over the little figure, her head tilted in an attitude of profound admiration. "My stars! There's not a girl in town that would not give ten years of her life to be built like you! Just like a fairy, isn't she?" she turned to Faith.

"Oh, Faith wouldn't change," Cherry laughed airily. "An artist once told her she was a modern Venus de Milo, and she's been acting up to the compliment ever since. Faith, darling, do try on some of these frocks! They aren't half bad, really. For a woman-sized person, I mean. My sister's a perfect thirty-six," she told the saleswoman.

"I have just the dress for you, Miss Lane," the saleswoman clasped her hands and beamed upon Faith. "Just a minute, dearie. I just know you won't be able to resist it." With a bright smile at the sisters over her shoulder, she vanished from the fitting room.

"You're certainly pulling a heavy Ritz line," Faith laughed, a little uneasily. "But I do wish you wouldn't spend so much—or rather, charge so much to Mr. Cluny. It makes me nervous to see you—you don't even bother to ask what some things cost."

"What difference does it make!" Cherry twirled gracefully on the shining toe of a smart brown oxford. "Oh, Faith, look! Isn't that gorgeous! Why, it's just the dress I've dreamed of for you! You lucky thing! I wish I could wear that shade of red, but it's the one color my hair simply can't get next to!"

Faith stood up, her hands fumbling at the fastenings of her shabby old navy blue silk crepe, her great brown eyes widening with delight and desire. The dress was of lipstick red chiffon—layers of it, cunningly draped over a gold metal cloth foundation, an enormous flower nestling at the low waistline, just where the bouffant skirt joined the basque-like bodice of metal cloth clouded in chiffon.

"These shoes will look awful with that dress," she deprecated nervously, but she extended her arms almost reverently to have the dress slipped over her shoulder.

"A perfect fit," the saleswoman stood off to survey the effect. "My!" I wouldn't have believed a dress could make so much difference! Clothes certainly make the woman, don't they?"

Faith stared at her mirrored image as if she had never seen herself before. Her tall, splendid body looked superb, regal. The brilliant red had worked magic on her skin, her hair, her eyes. As she turned slowly before the mirror she unconsciously assumed the airs of a woman who has come into her own.

"How much is it?" she turned from the mirror, a flush of shame at her own vanity staining her face and throat.

"Only a hundred and fifty," the woman beamed. "Isn't it a marvellous bargain? Straight from Paris! We just received it today."

Without a word, Faith began to unfasten the snaps. The door of the fitting booth was opened wide by another saleswoman, closely followed by Selma Pruitt.

"Oh, beg pardon! I thought this booth was not occupied."

"Why, Faith! Is that you? May I come in?" Selma Pruitt brushed past the apologizing woman and rushed up to Faith. "My dear, how marvellous you are in that dress! No wonder George is mad about you! For the wedding?"

"Yes," Cherry spoke up gaily. "She's going to be my maid of honor, and oh, Selma, I'd adore having you as one of the bridesmaids! Frances Warren will be the other. Only the three of you—Faith and Frances and you, if you'll do me the honor."

"Goodness!" Selma Pruitt laughed ruefully. "Could I possibly find a dress to stand comparison with Faith's? You gorgeous thing! May I let you know tomorrow, Cherry? It's to be Thanksgiving Day, isn't it?"

(To be continued.)

ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

The annual Christmas entertainment for the main department of St. John's Sunday school was held on Thursday evening in the Parish House. Nearly two hundred sat down to supper shortly after six o'clock which was provided in abundance under the leadership of Mrs. Deyman, Mrs. R. Ross. During the meal, which was joyous and festive, Mrs. M. B. Hoyland's string orchestra played selections, with Mrs. G. S. Evans at the piano. After this part of the evening was over, the Sunday school gathered in the auditorium upstairs to await the programme. This was decorated for the occasion, and a large tree stood on the platform, which had been secured by Mr. Bert Graham, and set in place by himself, and the male members of the staff.

The Vicar, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, expressed appreciation of the work done in connection with the S. S., and especially in preparation for the event. He also pointed to the steady increase in membership and the emphasis the school puts upon sound church teaching.

Major S. T. Medd, Vicar's Warden, then spoke a few words in praise of the work of the staff, and especially of Mr. E. Sorby, the superintendent, who afterwards occupied the chair for the evening, when the following programme was given:

"Who killed Cock Robin?" by 8 boys trained by Mr. F. G. Mann.

Solo, by Nelson Stanger.

Selection by Mrs. M. B. Hoyland's orchestra.

"A Christmas Sketch," being a short play by the girls of Mrs. G. S. Parlour's class and trained by her.

A duet, piano and banjo, by Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Clarke.

"God Rest ye Merry Gentlemen," by four choir boys.

AT OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Jan. 3.—On Wednesday evening, December 22nd, the Christmas concert of Christ church Sunday school was held in the basement. The room was tastefully decorated, the chief adornment being the Christmas tree. Its boughs were bending under the load of presents and colored electric lamps mingled harmoniously with its verdure. Many were the recitations given by the scholars, after which Santa appeared. Little hearts beat faster and big eyes grew bigger still as he entered the room.

He distributed the presents, relieving the tree of its burden and causing excited conversation among the little ones. Finally the very last present was given and Santa went away for another year.

A special service was held in Christ church on Christmas day. The evergreen decorations and beautiful mottoes served to enhance the spirit of the day. The Rev A. T. Weir spoke of the Christmas message as leaving behind all that is unworthy and looking forward to things that are better worth while.

Special Christmas messages were delivered in the churches accompanied by appropriate music.

In the Anglican church a Carol service was held at which some old time carols were sung.

The Rev. Mr. Donaghue, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening and delivered a Christmas message while the choir rendered music in keeping with the subject.

Rev. E. W. Rowland occupied the pulpit in the United church and the choir assisted with pretty carols at the evening service, and at the evening service Mr. Ernest Bushnell rendered a vocal solo entitled, "The New Born King", also two anthems were rendered, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "I Love to Tell the Story."

Omemee L.O.L.

A full house greeted the Burt Lloyd novelty entertainers of Toronto in Coronation Hall on Christmas night, where under the auspices of L.O.L. 114 they put on a lengthy entertainment which caused much laughter and drew forth rounds of applause. The proceeds amounted to about $168.00.

TORONTO HAS YEAR OF GREAT PROGRESS

Births Decline and Marriages and Deaths Show Increase.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Stock taking today reveals that 1926 was a year of steady progress and prosperity for Toronto. The birth rate declined, but an increase in marriages is reported. Deaths increased but still Toronto has one of the lowest death rates in the world, about 11 per thousand of population.

Briefly, the year end statistics reveal these features: Increase of seven thousand in population, increase of twenty-six million dollars in assessment, increase in marriages, increase in deaths, decrease in birth rate, increase in building permits, three thousand more school students, increase of sixty million dollars in customs returns, a new record, a trifle lower tax rate but total revenue higher, increase in city debt of ten millions, decrease in fire losses, and decrease in deaths from motor accidents.

T. B. GERMS POUR OVER EXPERIMENTER

Explosion of Laboratory Flask Subjects Him to Infection.

LONDON, Jan. 3. — (United News).— Millions of tuberculosis germs released from an exploding laboratory flask poured over Henri Spahlinger, famous bacteriologist, who claims to have discoverd a cure for the disease, in his laboratory at Geneva, says the Geneva correspondent of the Daily Express.

Enough bacteria was released to have infected every one in Switzerland and Spahlinger quickly stripped, bathed in strong disinfectant, and disinfected the room in which he had been working.

He refused to allow assistants to help him due to the danger.

Thus far he is suffering only from the shock and it will be some time before it will be known whether he has been infected.

In former days it was a common practice in many parts of England, at the burying of a shepherd, to place a tuft of sheep's wool in his coffin as a certificate of his occupation and an excuse to St. Peter on his arrival at the Gates of Heaven for his irregular attendance at church on the Sabbath, it being considered that the care of the lambs had the greater call upon his time.

A British inventor has completed a camera which takes photos at the amazing speed of 400 per second. It is to be used in an attempt to solve the riddle of Mars.

PLAY PRODUCED

St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. Members Display Great Deal of Talent.

MARMORA, Jan. 3—"Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Creek" was the title of a three act comedy produced by members of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening. While the audience were assembling, Sunday school scholars, assisted by friends, rendered Christmas carols from the gallery. Mr. R. E. Bonter, People's Warden, in the unavoidable absence of the rector, introduced the artists of the evening. The large audience present witnessed some excellent amateur acting. Percy Archer as Aaron Slick scored heavily with his droll manners and bashful way in making advances to the widow, Miss Rosy Berry. This character was cleverly impersonated by Miss Hilda McArthur. James Meehan had a difficult role as Mr. Wilbur Merridew the speculator, but handled it with great success. Miss Muriel Litt characterized the city girl, Gladys May Merridew, with fine acting. Dougald Sanderson did well as Clarence Green, poet, and later hotel keeper. Miss Edna Neal as "The Girl in Red" enlivened the third act with excellent acting. Last on the cast, but not least, was Little Sis Riggs (Ada Archer). As a boisterous country girl, ever full of mischief, she created her share of the laughter of the evening. Others appearing in the third act in minor parts were: Will Meehan, Harry Melvile, Clara Phillips, Dora Lawrence and Eileen Meehan. The play was produced under the direction of Miss Mildren Bedore. Between the acts, Mr. W. Litt played some pleasing pianoforte selections.

The Cavan and South Monaghan U.F.O. Club, No. 541, held a progressive euchre party and dance in their hall at Centreville on Wednesday evening.

Messrs. E. Karl and F. Perrin had to draw for the tie for the gent's first prize and E. Karl won the draw. The consolation prizes were won by Mrs. R. Morrison and Mr. Jno. Clarke.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to about forty-seven dollars.

SOMETHING WRONG ASSERTS BISHOP

Maritimes Should Not Import Farm Products For Own Use.

FREDERICTON, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—"Something must be wrong when we import for our own consumption eggs, butter and bacon, things which God and nature both designed this province to produce", declared His Lordship Bishop Richardson during the course of brief review of some of the main problems confronting the Maritime provinces, before the members of the Fredericton branch of the Commercial Travellers' Association on the occasion of their annual dinner.

His Lordship gave the problem of population first place in his review of the problems discussed and declared that the people of the Maritime provinces were overlooking possibilities and opportunities of increasing their production.

San Francisco enjoys the longest hockey season of any city in America. The sport begins there late in October and continues for some time after the northern leagues have closed their season in the spring.

Please buy a pencil, Miss

"OH BOTHER, there's that tiresome old woman again. Just because I sympathized with her once—"

Then like an arrow came a strange thought.

The office girl's gaze went past the shabby dress, the hopeless coat, and rested on the seamed face with the wistful eyes from which fear looked out—the fear that dwells with the aged poor.

The girl knew her story. Once young of course, and thoughtless, happy with a husband and a home. Then came hard times. Luckless speculations swept away what little they had. The husband died at the wrong time, and left her unprovided for. The widow drifted here and there ... finally to this ... selling pencils to people who didn't want them.

So, to the office girl came these drumming questions that would not down—"could this happen to me? Could it? Old, helpless forlorn ... no money ... unwanted. What can I do to make sure I will never come to this?"

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR TUESDAY JANUARY 4 1927.

Many kindly planetary influences are active today, according to astrology, who counsel extreme activity while this configuration prevails.

Women now come under the most energizing influences, which promise for them big achievements in many branches of public work.

Theatres should begin to feel the effects of a planetary direction which will make this season a memorable one in the history of the stage.

Motion pictures are to benefit despite a general revival of interest in the spoken drama and new inventions are to be of marvelous attainment.

This should be a favorable rule for seeking any sort of employment and women should be especially diligent in searching for the right place while these signs prevail.

This is read as a rarely lucky wedding day since it presages good fortune as well as lasting love.

Good profits may be expected from new plays presented today and from hotel-keeping, the sale of women's wear and many artistic pursuits.

Again the seers forecast the development of a woman financier who will gain worldwide fame.

Banks and banking come under a direction of the stars which forecasts extreme activity and great expansion.

Rigors will increase as this month advances, it is forecast, and there will be great suffering among the poor, especially in London.

Political murders are foreshadowed in many foreign countries where there are to be government upheavals and economic wars.

Outbreaks of violence, fires and robberies may mark the end of the month when lawlessness will reach a high level, especially in the west.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success in the coming year, which will bring many tokens of esteem from friends.

Children born on this day are likely to be well-balanced and extremely kindly and sympathetic by nature.

WHO WROTE THIS?

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

1.—"I have loved my friends as I do virtue, my soul, my God."

2.—"But far more numerous was the herd of such,
Who think too little, and who talk too much."

3.—"Only so much do I know, as I have lived."

An Effective New Frock

Charm and grace are admirably combined in this delightful frock. The two-piece skirt is shirred to the bodice having tucks at each shoulder. The original application of box or contrasting material is effectively used on the bodice, skirt, and cuffs finishing the long tight-fitting sleeves. A wide crushed girdle fastens with a buckle at the front, and buttons adorn the bodice front, thereby giving the modish vestee effect. NO. 1494 is for ladies and misses and is in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3½ yards 39-inch material, and 1½ yards 39-inch trimming. 20 cents.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

By Alma Whittaker.

Mrs. F. H. wants us to protest against the custom of mailing tickets for benefits and concerts to strangers with the request that they either return the tickets or the money for them.

She considers it an unwarranted impertinence to give all people that trouble, and wants to know what would happen if she just ignored them.

Yes, I find that tiresome, too, Mrs. H. And I am afraid I have ignored a great many of them—and nothing happened.

George M.M. says his young son, age 18, is demanding a tuxedo, because he is going to a State College at which frequent functions are designated as "formal." The boy says he is not allowed to attend these functions unless he wears a tuxedo. Father considers this an outrage in a democratic country and thinks it makes for "class distinction" and snobbery and that it certainly should be forbidden at State colleges anyway.

I don't think these "formal" affairs requiring tuxedos are regular college affairs, father. Aren't they perhaps fraternity affairs, or those given by small groups?

If you have allowed the boy to join a good fraternity, I think you should concede the tuxedo if you can possibly afford it. And after all, it is no use regarding college life as we think it ought to be; our youngsters have to live in it as it is. Perhaps our country ought to be strictly democratic—but it isn't; always. The best that can be said for us is that we are more nearly democratic than most countries, and our children do have a better chance to be as "good as the best."

Mrs. C. Z. has a righteous complaint. She says a social sport and swimming club was recently formed, for which they solicited memberships. She and her husband joined for the sake of their children. They have enjoyed it and comported themselves properly in every way. But now that the club is on a successful footing financially, it has decided to bar Jews, and their family has been asked to resign! They are mortified and heartbroken about it. Especially as they were importuned to join the thing in the first place.

Yes, that is an indefensible attitude for the club to take. You are entitled to the utmost sympathy. Of course, they cannot compel you to resign so long as your behaviour is above reproach, but who would wish to support such a club?

Ella E.E. wants me to suggest some new form of greeting for Christmas cards.

Oh, Ella, I wish I could. I go through it every year myself. So difficult to find something that will be suitable for all kinds of friends—not too formal, not too gushing. I try to write little letters to my nearest and dearest and reserve the formal ones for mere acquaintances.

Oscar L. is having a distressing time over his joint bank account with his young wife. She is always writing checks and forgetting to note the amount on the stub—but she cries when he admonishes her, and protests vociferously when he suggests putting her on a set allowance. What can the poor chap do?

If your bank has a woman's department, Oscar, there is sure to be a bright, tactful woman in charge who will help you solve your difficulty. Just arrange for a little confab between her and your wife.

CONSUELLA

A name that belongs almost outright to literature is Consuella. It is generally regarded as French, though in popular usage it has a distinctive English flavor. Very few etymologists list it among feminine names and it is not possible to trace its evolution.

Consuella first gained fame in the time of George Sands (Madame Budevant). In her novels "Consuella" and "La Comtesse de Rudolstadt," the heroine was a spanish singer whose noble purity was sustained amidst temptations and disallusions. Consuella was swept along on the wave of popularity which accompanied literary names in England.

In this country it achieved no great vogue until the time of the lovely Consuella Vanderbilt who married the Duke of Marlborough, and became chatelaine of one of the noblest houses of Great Britain. The widespread use of Consuella was apparent immediately throughout the country.

The pearl is Consuella's talismanic gem and is said to preserve her charm and bring her friends and admirers. Monday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER.

By Mildred Marshall

The sunstone is today's talismanic gem and also its natal stone. The ancients believed that to enjoy its full benefits, it should be set in gold and that so set, it would drive away useless tears and bring financial gain.

The color which brings luck to this day is pink, and is symbolic of good cheer.

The tea rose is today's lucky flower.

Red, and bois de rose, and the reddish purples are all well at the top in the fashion schedule.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

No one has ever invented windows that need no washing or that can be washed automatically and window washing is still one of the bits of undeniable drudgery in almost every household. If there are servants it is always a question as to whose place it is to wash the windows. A general housework usually considers it something of an imposition if her mistress asks her to wash windows. Plenty of cleaning women object to the task. As a matter of fact it is a difficult task to balance oneself on the window sill of an upper story, especially if one is of the build of most cleaning women.

In the large cities there are professional window washers who can easily be engaged to wash windows. If you can afford their rather high prices you can perhaps best solve your window problem by engaging one of them. However, you may object to the idea of having their none too cleanly cleaning cloths and brushes touch the inside of the windows of your living-rooms.

If you live in a college town there are usually impecunious students who will be glad enough to do the work for you. It is customary to pay by the window so that the student may make more at the rather difficult task than the usual fifty or sixty cents an hour paid for ordinary student labor. If you telephone the secretary's office or employment bureau of a nearby college, you can probably be put in touch with some student who will do the work for you.

As a last resort you may decide to wash the windows yourself, and if you do this then you ought to allow yourself the luxury of really good tools. There is a window-cleaning device now to be had that consists of a crooked handled cane with a washing pad at one end, and with this it really is possible to wash the outside of windows from the inside.

But just because the task is difficult and perhaps expensive don't neglect it during the winter months. Nothing does more to add to the appearance of gloom within a living-room on a gray day than grimy, dusty windows. A really spotless well-polished window-pane makes the light even on a dull day seem rather cheerful.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This new neckline, shown on some of the smartest frocks, combines the advantage of the V and the square decolletage. The frock is of white and salmon-colored crepe de chine with white embroidery and was originated by Doeuillet of Paris.

"V necks, square necks, boat necks and U at the back"—this is the way one professional fashion observer classifies the decolletages found on the evening gowns at present worn by well-dressed women. Occasionally you see an evening frock that doesn't come under any of these categories. Doeuillet, the distinguished French dressmaker, is making evening frocks with the top of the bodice cut after the manner shown in the sketch. It has been called a V'ed square and sometimes a squared V. There doesn't seem to be any better way of describing it.

The thing to remember is that your decolletage should suit your "face and figure." There are so many ways of managing the upper outline of the bodice now that it ought not to be difficult to find one that suits you. Really the decolletage is the most important consideration of an evening frock. It has more to do with the becomingness or the unbecomingness of the frock than anything else—just as the shaping of the collar is the most important consideration of a winter coat. Women who sell ready-made evening frocks will tell you that it is harder to sell a frock of a chosen color with an unbecoming neckline than a frock with a becoming neckline of a color not at first considered.

Some of us can remember the time when evening dress meant "low neck and short sleeves." The two expressions were synonymous. Times have changed. Now, daytime frocks may be made with fairly low necks and no sleeves at all, while some evening frocks have long sleeves and some have high collars. The low-cut back is, however, something that is left almost exclusively to the evening frock and sometimes it amounts to almost no back at all. A beautiful back is something that no woman nowadays has much difficulty in showing—and she usually has no scruples in doing so. For the dancing frock you may consider one of these frocks cut fairly high in front but decidedly lacking at the back as rather more modest than the evening frocks our mothers used to wear—cut high at back but quite low in front.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

CHAPTER I.

The Forbes were at it again!

The Randolph Todhunter Forbes, you know, of Park Avenue and Newport and Southampton and the Berkshires and the North Shore. Oh, THE Forbes; the R. T. Forbes—Ranny and Joan (nee Smedthye, of THE Brookline Smedthyes of course), whose dashing elopement of two years before had been the sensation of the high social world, and whose crashing scraps ever since were no less the sensation of the idle rich.

Yes, the Forbes were at it again. Nor the haunting mellow loveliness of the early autumn day, nor the satiny green beauty of the Old Westbury polo field there beside the Jericho Turnpike, could sweeten the vials of ill-married wrath. Or soften those dirty looks, those dirtier words, those dirtiest smiles. Verily, the Forbes were at it again!

"The trouble with marriage," said Joan Forbes in the icily remote tones that married women use in addressing their husbands and their caddies, "is that after the wedding most men become husbands."

"Ha! Ha!" rasped Ranny, swinging off the Turnpike with an unsignaled suddenness that almost scared the spavined horse of an Italian farmer into bolting, and so startled the drivers of at least six other cars that they simultaneously ruined their brakes and their chances of getting to heaven by the impious fervor with which they consigned Ranny to Hades. "The trouble with marriage," he jeered, "is that after the ceremony ALL women become wives. And if there's anything under the sun harder on a guy's good nature than a wife, may I be struck into a pink-eared baboon—"

"You merely lack the pink ears—"

"Any wife is enough to drive any man to drink!"

"Ha! Ha! Now it's my turn to Ha! Ha! You never knew a sober day until you married me!"

"Nor a sorry one!" he mourned, savagely plunging their Lincoln into a parking space of Ford dimension, and jamming his brakes on in time to stop only a scant foot from a chiffony group of affrighted Junior Leaguers.

Joan FELT the knowing glances from the helmeted, booted, and bright-shirted players who were selecting their first chukker ponies, from the grooms who were gingerly walking the blanket-swathed ponies. Yea, even from the wise little ponies themselves.

"Clown," she hissed, her cheeks aflame. "Go right ahead making a public show of your nasty temper. Then EVERYONE"—with a cosmic shrug of her pretty shoulders—"can judge for themselves why I should get a divorce."

"Well, why don't you get it?"

"Hypocrite! You know full well why I don't," Joan stormed. "It's because you're not man enough to provide me with grounds for divorce. If you were half the man you pretend to be, you'd go to Atlantic City with a chorus girl, or let me find you in your pajamas in some art model's studio. But no, you'd rather remain pure but cranky. And talk me to death by inches—"

"If you ever come to your death through talking, it'll be suicide."

Joan's subdued cry marked the climatic height of her inner storm.

"Why don't you give me a divorce?" she gritted.

"So's you can marry that—"

Joan paled suddenly; "Who?" she whispered.

"—that—that worm! I know more than I've been letting on!" Ranny's emotions were getting a bit out of hand.

"What worm?" raged Joan with a bold front, under which she was quakingly wondering if and how he could possibly know.

The boom of a deep voice—a new voice—rumbled in the tensely charged atmosphere of the luxurious limousine. It was Clay Varick, Ranny's chum, looming his fat shoulders through a door window, grinning with shrewd amusement at the flushed and angry countenances.

"Greetings, little love birds," he chortled. Clay was a bachelor, and forthright. "Late, as usual. Five minutes more and I'd have called play without you, Ranny, much as I'd hate to deprive the Tornadoes of their fleetest back, and the spectators of the sight of their favorite hard-riding and sensational All-America player."

Clay was to referee the afternoon's game—the final in the Westbury Cup Match, in which Ranny's Tornadoes were pitted against the invading Argentines.

"So please cut short billing and cooing, you two—and Ranny come along and select your first mount. You will spare your boy friend for a while, won't you, Joan?" he grinned, wickedly.

Even though he was an old friend, Joan glared at Clay with the defensive hostility every married woman harbors toward bachelors. "Take him and lose him—and go along yourself!" she crackled.

"What," asked Clay as he walked away hurriedly with Ranny, inwardly breathing his bachelor's prayer of thanksgiving for single blessedness, "little pebble on the matrimonial sea has rippled sweet Joan's placid surface today?"

"Quit being poetic, chump," gloomed Ranny. "It has become serious. Joan wants a divorce."

"Congratulations!" enthusiastically.

"Congratulations be blowed! I don't want a divorce. I—I love Joan!"

"Then why do you fight with her all the time?"

"Because I like to fight!" bridling.

"Well," remarked Clay drily. "I know a bit of your career in South American revolutions, in the late European shindy, in many a hard-drinking port, and as amateur heavyweight boxing champion of America. But I was under the impression that you always picked MEN for your opponents."

"Oh, that's always the way with you blasted bachelors. Dragging chivalry in every time a woman is concerned. But save your fattish sentiment in Joan's case—she's worth any three heavyweight champions you can name!"

"Then why not hold up her glove, and acknowledge your better half?"

"I'm afraid it's too late for a graceful surrender," Ranny said heavily, flint-eyed, wan and white around the lips. "For I've discovered that Joan loves another man!"

Clay stopped dead in his tracks on the turf. "Good Lord, Ranny, no—not that!"

Ranny shrugged miserably, silently.

"Who—who is the man?"

"Abner Gratman."

"What? That fortune-hunting shrimp! Why, you could break him in pieces with your bare hands."

"What good would it do me? Only serve to rouse Joan's maternal sympathy—for him." Ranny laughed, ruefully. "She—she doesn't know, yet, that I know."

They had arrived at the temporary paddock, erected beyond one end of the long rectangle of perfect greensward. A fine-looking man stepped forth from the little knot of enthusiasts gathered there.

"Gallop out and show your stuff, Forbes!"

It was Stivner, billionaire lumber magnate, with whom Ranny had been seeking a big business deal. Negotiations, were still pending and dubious, but Ranny's business sense was gratified at this friendly interest. "I've got a cool fifty thousand wagered on your side," continued the magnate."

Ranny whistled. Even for opulent Westbury, that was a stiff bet. "With whom," he queried, polite though curious.

"Abner Gratman," declared Stivner.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BRUSH FIRE

All about in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, the animal people were cleaning up around their nest houses or hollow tree houses or burrows in the ground, getting ready for Christmas. Dried leaves were swept into piles, and some were carried into burrows, nests or hollow trees to make warm places for the little creatures to stay all winter.

Uncle Wiggily, and some of his forty seven little bunny boys and girls, had gathered great piles of leaves about the cellar walls of the hollow stump bungalow to keep out the cold, wintry winds which soon would be blowing.

"When winter comes," said Nurse Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, "I often wish I was in Florida."

"It would be nice, in some ways," agreed Mrs. Littletail. "But Uncle Wiggily loves it so in these woods I don't believe he will ever move away. We shall be warm enough, I think."

So they made the best of it, and got ready for winter. In the woods where there were many leaves that no one wanted, the wind blew them into great piles, together with bits of brush heaped up in rows so they looked like a plowed field.

"This is a bad time for fires," Uncle Wiggily told his little rabbit children. "Don't light any, or, if you do, see that the blazes are put out before you leave them. Throw dirt on the fires before you come away."

And Namby and Pamby, with Stooter and Tooter and Nimble and Skimble, some of Uncle Wiggily's rabbit boys, who made little fires to roast carrots and potatoes, were always very careful to put the blazes out before they went home to do their school lessons.

But some one was not so careful as this and one day, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, having looked without any luck for an adventure, he smelled smoke.

"Some one has started a brush fire, I think," said the old rabbit gentleman. "I hope it isn't a big one, and I hope the wind will not blow it toward my hollow stump bungalow."

Uncle Wiggily hopped toward home as fast as he could, but the smell of smoke became stronger and suddenly, though it was a cold day, the rabbit gentleman felt a hot blast of air.

"The fire is coming nearer!" he said. Then he looked ahead through the trees and he saw where there was a long line of burning leaves and brush in the dry woods. For there had been no rain in a long time and no snow.

"I must go around the other way!" said Uncle Wiggily. But when he started to hop back he found that the fire had run through the dried leaves and brush so fast that it was now blazing on all sides of him. "Oh, dear, what shall I do?" exclaimed Mr. Long ears. "I am like an island, only I am surrounded by fire instead of water. I can't jump through it without getting burned. What shall I do?"

Just then he saw, leaping toward him, a wild rabbit who had no hollow stump bungalow and who did not care

"The fire is coming nearer!" he cried to wear red trousers, a black coat and a tall silk hat as did Mr. Longears.

"There's a big brush fire!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "It is all around us! What are we going to do?"

"We must dig a burrow down near the pond, and hide in the damp, wet earth," said the wild rabbit. "Then the fire will sweep along, over our heads, but we shall not feel it because we shall be down in the cool ground. Can you dig a burrow?"

"You just watch me!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and he began to paw with his feet, as did the wild rabbit until, in a short time, they had two deep holes going down into the ground where it was moist from the water of the pond. Uncle Wiggily might have gone in the pond, with only his nose sticking out and let the fire roll across, but the water was too cold. So he stayed until the brush fire had burned itself out. Then over the blackened ground, still warm, Uncle Wiggily hopped safely home and the wild rabbit went to another part of the woods.

So everything came out all right, and if the ice pick doesn't take all of the raisins out of the rice pudding to throw at the dinner bell, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and his icicle ladder.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WHEN LIFE IS AT ELEVEN

Another night, and then another day;
So slip the nights, and days, and years away,
And who too long will sorrow,
Or mourn today tomorrow?

For now it is we come to New Year's Eve—
Not with the thought of something old to grieve,
Not with old thoughts to sadden
But with new thoughts to gladden.

The New Year opens now a narrow gate;
For none shall pass it with some load of hate;
Only the wise shall find it
Who leave the past behind it.

Nor must we week too long for those so fond;
Oh, let us bear but memories beyond.
Plant hope's bright flower above them;
Mourn less, and better love them.

For if God makes for every night a dawn,
For each old year a new that follows on,
New buds in April weather,
White hills that turn to heather,

In these new things may not a Father speak
The very faith for which we blindly seek?
Ah, yes, God has His reasons
For dawns, and years, and seasons—

That men may know beyond the grave so cold
Lie other springs, new lives beyond the old;
When life is at eleven
We're but an hour from heaven.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

EMPEROR PAUL OF RUSSIA AND THE EMPRESS MARJA FEDEROVNA

He was a Prince and She a Princess But they Could Be as Sentimental as a School Boy and Girl.

How do kings and princes love? Isn't that a thought that runs through the minds of mortals of commoner clay whenever a newspaper account of a gorgeous betrothal or marriage ceremony in some royal European court is read? Read the following two love letters written by Princess Sophia-Dorothea of Wurtemburg, to the crown prince of Russia, and the mystery, in one case at least, will be cleared up.

"I cannot go to bed, my dear and adorable Prince, before letting you once more know that I love and adore you to distraction, my friendship for you has increased since the conversation we had this evening. God alone knows what pleasure it will be to me soon to belong to you entirely. All my future life will prove to you my sentiments; yes, dear adorable, dearest Prince, all my life will I devote to you and give you constant proof of my attachment and of the love with which my heart is beating for you. Goodnight, adorable Prince, sleep well; banish all phantoms and dream of one that adores you."

The second was written on the prince's birthday, soon after their arrival.

"My soul is full of joy, happiness, satisfaction, on this day which gave existence to the most adorable and dearest of husbands. Live happy and contented! live a thousand years to do good to millions of subjects. Such is the wish of your faithful and tender friend and wife.

"I adore you—I love you to distraction—you are my idol, my supreme Good, and I cherish you beyond expression."

The emperor Paul I. was the son fo Catherine II., and the Empress Maria Federovna as the Princess Sophia-Dorothea was known, was his second wife. His first wife passed out of the world at childbirth under suspicious circumstances, the story running that when the doctors said that the expectant princess could never again have children and that the baby that was to come would be dead, Catherine had her sacrificed so that Paul could marry again and have an heir. At the birth of the dead baby there was present only a midwife and Catherine with a minister. The midwife later became surprisingly rich and intimate with Catherine.

In spite of this tragedy, or perhaps because of it, Paul, a very impressionable and sensitive man, loved his new bride madly and she returned his love fully, as her letters show. But Catherine's court had a woeful effect on the weak and nervous Paul. By the time he became Emperor, on Catherine's death, his love for his wife had cooled, and he took a maid-in-waiting, Mlle Nalidov, for a mistress. The Empress however, was faithful to her love and as Mlle. Nalidov loved him also, these two women entered into the unusual pact of sharing one man, to protect him from the excesses to which his nature was leading him. This agreement served its purpose, but Mlle. Nalidov was soon supplanted by others, and Paul went headlong to ruin. The four and a half years of his reign were those of a near-madman, and the country had to find relief by assassinating him.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By AHERN

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT the world's first newspaper appeared in Rome several centuries before the Christian era. It was literally a bulletin called the "Acta Diurna," in which accounts were given of the progress of the Imperial arms and other matters of state. The Peking "Gazette" the oldest daily newspaper in the world, was first issued about A.D. 1350. The earliest English newspaper in the true sense of the word was Buttler's "Weekly News" which appeared in 1622. The first advertisements were published in English newspapers in 1652. The first newspaper on the American side of the Atlantic, "Publick Occurrences, both Foreign and Domestick," was a monthly published in Boston by Benjamin Harris in 1690. In 1702 appeared "The Boston Newsletter," and in 1729 Benjamin Franklin issued his "Pennsylvania Gazette" now "The Saturday Evening Post."

These newspapers in the aggregate spend around 1,000,000,000 a year to gather and write the news from the four corners of the earth. Twice that sum is spent for composition, engraving, printing and other incidental processes. The bill for newsprint paper amounts to more than 225,000,000.

Two Automobiles Not Enough To Kill One Local Horse

Animal Survives Two Collisions Within Few Minutes

One Peterborough horse, judging from its performance last night, threatens to prove a strong rival to members of the feline tribe in the tenacity with which it clings to life.

On Park Street, between McGill and Braidwood, a bus belonging to Cooney and Jopling struck the rig. The driver of the bus and Frank Longdo, owner of the horse and buggy, were having a consultation regarding the accident, the horse and buggy being drawn up alongside the bus.

Just at that moment along came a car, driven by John Whitfield, and crashed into the horse. Mr. Whitfield stated that he was dazzled by the lights of the bus and was unable to see the horse, which, he said, was on the wrong side of the road.

The damage to the automobile was a broken windshield and damaged radiator. The injuries to the horse are not known, but it was able to proceed on its journey.

Many Prominent Players Involved in Baseball Clean-up

RISBERG TELLS OF FIXED SERIES WITH CHICAGO WHITE SOX IN 1917

Makes Affidavit Before Commissioner Landis Describing Corruption in Baseball.

NAMES PLAYERS

Defends Cobb and Speaker as Two Straight Players in League.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The baseball scandals of 1926 were continued into the New Year last night with disclosure of a fixed series back in 1917.

Charles A. "Swede" Risberg, one of the banished "Black Sox" of the 1919 world's series scandal, gave an affidavit to Commissioner K. M. Landis, describing a four-game series which the Chicago White Sox fixed with the Detroit Americans, so the Sox would win and capture the American League pennant. Those four victories, on Labor Day, 1917, and the Sunday previous, gave the Sox fourteen victories in a row.

The White Sox contributed $45 apiece to raise a pool of about $1,100, Risberg said, which was given to the Detroit team principally pitchers, to "slough" the series to the Sox.

The scheme to get the Detroit team to lay down in the series, which began Labor Day, 1917, was first broached to him, Risberg told Landis, by Clarence Rowland, then Sox manager, and now an American League umpire. Rowland managed the Winnipeg Maroons in 1910.

All the members of the Sox team contributed to the $1,100 pool for Detroit, Risberg said.

George "Buck" Weaver, Sox third baseman in 1917, who was dismissed with Risberg after the 1919 scandal broke, listened to his former teammate's recital and nodded assent, though he declined to talk himself.

Besides Rowland, Risberg brought in the names of other players who are still in baseball, including Eddie Collins, Sox manager last year, who has signed with Philadelphia; Ray Schalk, new Sox manager for 1927, and Donnie Bush, former Detroit player, who has been signed to manage Pittsburgh next summer.

Risberg was compelled to return to his dairy farm near Rochester, Minn., Saturday night, but promised the Commissioner to return and face the men he named next Wednesday.

"I'm not squawking to get even with anybody," Risberg said after he had made his sworn statement to Landis. "I'm not sore at any ball players. I heard that the bosses of baseball wanted to clean up the game and I told my piece to help them.

"Every word of what I told Landis is the truth, and I'll face any of the fellows I accused. That goes for Rowland.

"They pushed Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker out on a piker bet. I think it's only fair that the 'white lilies' get the same treatment.

"There never were two better or straight baseball players than Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker either," he declared, asserting belief that Cobb received none of the money mentioned in the latest baseball scandal.

The former Sox infielder said games were thrown by the men playing out of position. "I never heard of sloughing a game until I came to the Sox in 1917," he said. "But from the talk of the other players I learned it was a common thing for one team to let another team win."

"Happy" Felsch, member of the White Sox baseball club in 1917, corroborated the Risberg charges at Milwaukee and expressed surprise that more startling revelations were not made by Risberg. Rowland had nothing to do with the scandal, as far as he knew, Felsch said.

"I don't think Rowland had anything to do with it," Felsch said. "From what I learned at the time, the doings were engineered by Chick Gandil, but every White Sox player but Weaver and Russell put in the pot."

Telegrams were sent by Commissioner Landis last night to Ray Schalk, Eddie Collins, Donie Bush, Clarence Rowland, Oscar "Happy" Felsch and all the other ball players who were mentioned in the new baseball scandal.

Risberg's story of the collection of a pool of $1,100 from members of the White Sox team in 1917 to pay the Detroit team did not correspond with versions of some of the men he named in his affidavit. Some of the players mentioned, and sports writers who recalled the story, declared that the pool was raised as a present for the Tigers for a three-game series they took from Boston, the Sox's rival for the pennant that year.

Commissioner Landis mentioned this version to Risberg when he was testifying last night, but Risberg said he had never heard of the Boston angle.

Rowland declared that "if Risberg says I had anything to do with framing games, he lies."

Rowland said he was surprised that Schalk had admitted contributing to the pool for the Detroit players, as the Risberg story was the first he had ever heard of it. Risberg last night told Landis that Rowland had given himself and Gandil, Sox first sacker, money to go to Philadelphia and turn the pot over to Bill James, then a Tiger pitcher.

Donie Bush, a Detroit infielder in 1917, and newly appointed manager for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was equally vehement in his denial of knowledge of the $1,100 donation, which Risberg said Bush was aware of.

Schalk's admission of participation in the pool was followed with a denial that the money was for the purchase of a four-game series from the Tigers. The gift was a reward for the defeats handed Boston, the Sox's rival, by the Detroit club, according to Schalk. Eddie Collins, who played second base for the White Sox in 1917, declined to discuss the matter or comment on Risberg's story at this time.

Denial of any knowledge of the plot came from Howard Ehmke, now a pitcher for the Philadelphia American club, but a former member of the Detroit pitching staff, alleged to have benefitted by the purse, and from Dave Banforth, then Sox pitcher, but now in the American Association. Hughie Jennings, manager of the Detroit team in 1917 and now recuperating from a long illness, denied knowledge of the alleged deal and declared if he had known of it he "wouldn't have waited ten years to tell about it."

An orgy of base-running such as rarely has been reported in major league baseball took place in the two consecutive double-headers played in September, 1917. Twenty-one bases were stolen by White Sox in the four games. It is pointed out that wild base-running is often due to the deliberateness of the opposing pitcher and some significance in this in view of Swede Risberg's charges that the Detroit pitchers were the principal beneficiaries of the fund collected among Chicago players as payment to Detroit for alleged "sloughing."

Boratra Is Eliminated In French Indoor Upset

PARIS, Jan. 1. — Jean Borotra was eliminated on Saturday in the semi-finals of the French covered court championship, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, by Pierre Landry, 21 year old newcomer in French tennis. Landry will meet Rene Lacoste in the final. His victory was the biggest upset in French tennis for a long time. Borotra shared first place with Lacoste and Henri Cochet, in the French tennis rankings. Landry was rated in a tie with Jean Emile Couiteas for fifth place. Borotra, it is said, was not in his best form as he landed from an airplane from Milan at noon, had his lunch and then went to the courts.

TURNOVER SEEN FIRST DIVISION ENGLISH LEAGUE

Newcastle United Once More Leads—Burnley Fails at Everton.

TYNSIDERS AHEAD.

Community Singing Features Game Between Birmingham and Leicester City.

LONDON, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press Cable).—Community singing, so familiar to Canadian ears, was a feature that preceded the soccer fixture at Birmingham Saturday where the local eleven engaged in their New Year's match with Leicester City. The forty-five thousand spectators that thronged the ground joined in choruses, and such was their inspiring effect on the homesters that, after being one koal in arrears all through the game until the final three minutes, Birmingham came from behind and a couple of quick counters from the toe of Bradford gave the home eleven the victory.

Saturday's encounters saw a turnover in the first division of the league, with Newcastle United once more on top. Burnley failed at Everton, succumbing by the odd goal in five, and thereby lost their place as leaders. At Newcastle, the Tynesiders gained the points by the only goal scored in their contest with Leeds United thus placing them definitely ahead of Burnley in the league standings. The Northumbrians still have one game in hand over the Lancashire club and are one point out in front.

On their own ground, Sunderland made a poor showing against Blackburn Rovers. Seven goals were registered in this contest which had two outstanding features. One was the eclipse of the Wearsiders by no less than three goals, and the other was the elimination of the referee for some part of the game. This official collided with a hot shot and the ball knocked him out. He was revived after a while and the game proceeded.

Huddersfield Town ran true to form against West Bromwich inasmuch as, the game being played on territory foreign to the Yorkshiremen, Huddersfield emerged with a division of the points. This chalked up the twelfth drawn game played by the league champions away from home this season. The lone point acquired by West Bromwich did not do them much good, for they are still in the basement position, six points in rear of Everton.

Several clubs in all the divisions were resting Saturday, presumably in anticipation of the cup ties next Saturday. The Spurs and Aston Villa were the idlers in the major department. Arsenal and West Ham were engaged, however, both games being played in the Metropolis. They were equally divided as far as honors were concerned, for Arsenal defeated Cardiff City at Highbury, and Derby County took the measure of West Ham at Upton Park.

The crowds were in holiday mood and were unusually large. An average of the ten game played in the first string showed 33,000 spectators.

In the second division Middlesborough strengthened their hold on the honors by defeating Port Vale five goals to two. Camsell, Middlesbrough's youthful centre-forward, recorded three of the winning goals, bringing his total for the season up to 36. This gets Camsell well within reach of the individual record of 44 for the season.

The biggest individual scorer Saturday was Flanagan of Tranmere Rovers, of the third division (Northern section) who sent home five of the seven goals registered by Tranmere against Barrow. Herbert of Coventry City secured four out of the five which represented Coventry's score against Watford.

A serious accident overtook Lansdale, Millwall's goalkeeper, in their game with Southend. He was injured in the course of a hot attack, but after surgical treatment which included the insertion of four stitches in his chin he was able to resume and finished out the game.

The Saratoga Snow-Shoe Club, organized in 1881 was the first club of its kind in the United States.

Canada has one golf course for every 10,393 inhabitants; in the United States there is one for every 25,793 people.

TWO PRINCIPALS IN 1926 SCANDAL

The above photograph shows, left to right, Umpire Brick Owen, Ty. Cobb, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, and Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, in a pre-game conference at Cleveland last summer. Cobb and Speaker were named recently in a scandal that rivals the notorious "Black Sox" dishonesty in the world's series of 1919. In a hearing before Judge Landis they were charged by "Dutch" Leonard, former Red Sox pitcher, of having bet on a "fixed" game between Detroit and Cleveland on September 25, 1919.

Riot Follows Soccer Game in Paris Saturday; Irish May Ask France Be Expelled From Union

PARIS, Jan. 3 (AP) — The unsportsmanlike conduct Saturday of rugby fans at a match between France and Iceland in Colombes Stadium, attended by 30,000 spectators, is likely to result in Ireland asking the International Rugby Union to expel France.

After the Irish team had defeated the French players, 8 to 3, a crowd of fans invaded the field to get at the referee, R. L. Scott of Scotland, who was saved from a severe manhandling only after police had interfered.

The crowd howled and jeered at Scott but no blows were delivered, due to the activity of the police in holding off the mob. A force of 100 reserves, was summoned from Paris to take Scott out of the stadium by a back gate.

During the play the match became a regular Donnybrook Fair, the players mixing freely and getting out of the referee's control.

Ireland had a similar, although less unpleasant, experience two years ago today and announced then that if it happened again it would ask for France's expulsion from the union.

SIX CLUBS

Can Afford to be Amused at Any Balk of Obstacles.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 3.—William T. McCullough, who managed the Pittsburgh club of the old Federal League and who has announced that he expected to fill the same position here with the newly proposed third major baseball league, is quoted by the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times as having said the acquisition of the University of Pittsburgh Stadium for use of a Pittsburgh team was almost assured as soon as red tape had been unraveled. He also said the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium at Philadelphia would be controlled by the third league.

McCullough further stated, according to the paper, that Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Baltimore already had received charters in the new league and that Milwaukee, New York, Chicago and Philadelphia had applied for the two remaining charters in the proposed six club circuit. Capital in eight of the largest cities of the country is behind the project. He said:

"We can afford to be amused at any talk of obstacles. I can't reveal who is behind the league."

He added that he expected to have the "same relation to the new league that I had to the Federal League, and I am now assisting in putting the final touches to the organization. Our plans are just about complete and I can say that any talk of "snags" is a mistake. The completion of our plans is assured."

NEWBURG, NY, Jan 3 (Canadian Press)—Charles Gorman of St. John, N.B., world speed skating champion, on Saturday won the Middle Atlantic speed skating championship for the second successive year. Gorman scored 110 points of a possible 120. He was beaten only in the 220 yard event, which was captured by Paul Forsman, New York. Forsman was second in the point scoring with 50 points.

Miss Leila Brooks, of the Old Orchard Club, Toronto, dethroned Miss Elsie Muller, five times champion of the women's section of the Middle Atlantic. Miss Brooks showed sprints at the finish of three events in which she was entered that each time proved too much for Miss Muller.

Gorman not only captured the championship but won the three mile Joseph Donohue Memorial Race. Pacing the first seventeen laps of this event with the field of 50 entrants, Gorman came up fast near the finish to win over Irving W. Jaffee of New York, and Edgar Snodgrass of New York.

Despite the fact that the temperature remained above freezing during most of the day, the ice of Downing Park Lake remained hard as the sun hid behind the clouds. A throng estimated to number more than 10,000 witnessed the events.

BASS VICTOR ON FOUL BLOW

Red Chapman Disqualified in First Round of Feather-weight Match.

WAS UNEXPECTED

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Red Chapman, of Boston, was disqualified for fouling Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, in the first round of a 10 round feather-weight match at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The quick and sudden ending of the bout, the survivor of which had been promised a match with Honeyboy Finnegan, of Boston, for recognition as world's feather-weight champion, stunned a crowd of 10,000 spectators. Only a half dozen blows had been struck when Bass careened to the canvas under a sweeping right hand blow to the body.

Doubled up in apparent agony, Bass refused to rise and was assisted to his corner by Referee Johnny McAvoy, who awarded the verdict to the Philadelphian.

Bass weighed 126; Chapman 124 1-2.

The second 10-round melee developed a torrid slugging bee between Babe Herman, California junior lightweight, and Al Winkler, of Philadelphia, with the rugged and aggressive Quaker entry carrying off the verdict. Herman weighed 128 1-2; Winkler 131.

HOW TO SKI

HILL-CLIMBING.

In the case of a moderately steep hill, start walking up at an angle, then kick-turn, and, zig-zagging in this manner you gain altitude. Side-stepping would accomplish the same result somewhat faster, but is somewhat more tiring. However, for a real steep ascent it is the only way. Just stand sideways on to the slope, lift one ski and raise it to the side of the slope a little, get it firmly placed and then simply bring the other ski alongside it. In this way ever steeper slopes can be climbed on skiis than on snowshoes. Another, even more tiring method is known as 'herring-boning.' It is the quickest manner of getting up moderate slopes. You toe out the skiis and walk, (or waddle) up the hill. Do not lean on the poles, but push with them from behind.

Take Advantage of "Breaks" in Final to Score Tally.

FAST GAME

Two Brothers Score First Goals for Both Teams.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 3 (Canadian Press).—The winning streak of the Canadiens of Montreal that has carried them into second position in the international circuit was halted by a doggedly determined Senator crew here Saturday night in as strenuous a National Hockey League battle as has ever been staged in the Auditorium. A goal that Frankie Finnegan, Ottawa reserve, batted in half way through the final period resulted in a 2 to 1 defeat to the Habitants—the first they have suffered in their last five starts.

The deciding tally came unexpectedly and at a time when the Canadiens appeared to have worn down the resistance of the locals. The pace had been lightning fast throughout and both teams appeared legweary, but if anything the Senators were more so than their opponents. It was a matter of taking advantage of the "breaks," and Finnegan was ready when Gagne over-skated the puck as he carried it near his own goal. The flashy Ottawa sub was close behind and rushing in he drove a low one through a maze of players to bulge the twine.

The opening period in which Billy Boucher tallied for the visitors and his brother George equalized for the locals; and then the second frame that produced nerve wracking and evenly fought hockey in every sense of the phrases, kept the season's record crowd of 7,500 which witnessed the contest, continually on their feet. The flying Frenchmen literally flew about the ice, for the most part using a perfectly timed combination attack that held Senator followers with abated breath. The Ottawans, perhaps using team play with slightly less effect, battered away in the rip-roaring style which has carried them to the top of the circuit standing, and rooters for the Canadiens also had cause for nervousness. But the two machines were so equally matched that neither could gain much headway.

Perhaps to ease their pent-up nerves, spectators in the "rush end" sent showers of metal bottle tops, fish hooks and coppers on to the ice and five times the game was halted while the playing surface was made safe. Usually such demonstrations are occasioned by the gallery disproving with the referee's decisions, but this did not appear the cause this time. It was unexplainable.

Billy Boucher's goal came after nine minutes of peppery play. Just previously defenceman Leduc had raced in a drive a hard one that brought Alec Connell down to his knees to save. The Senator tender toppled to the ice with the effort and as the disc fell behind his back in the mouth of the goal cage Boucher slipped through the unwary Ottawa backs to shove the rubber in. It was a heady piece of work and the dashing winger drew the plaudits of the crowd.

The goal edge was not to be restrained long, however, for Captain George Boucher led his men behind the Canadien's blue line to turn a blistering fire of pucks on the Montreal citadel. And in just more than two minutes after his younger brother had scored, Captain George squirmed along the left board to within about fifteen feet out and drove one that caught Goalie Hainsworth unawares.

The only respite the fans had from the hard, nerve cracking play of the second period which held them in such terrible suspense came when Referee Laflamme halted the game long nough to impose major penalties an George Boucher and Mantha. The Ottawa pilot and the Canadien defence star had jostled each other throughout the game, and when they clashed with uraised sticks a few minutes before the end of the stanza a fist fight appeared certain, but the referee banished them before a melee could get under way.

The line-up:

MANY INVITED TO FACE RISBERG ABOUT CHARGES

Some of Accused Admit Paying Money To Detroit Team.

USED DIFFERENTLY.

Was Reward For Beating Boston in Crucial Series of 1917, They Say.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (Canadian Press)—Invitations were out today for Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, Red Faber, Donie Bush, Clarence Rowland and about thirty others who were named in an affidavit given Commissioner Landis on Saturday night by Charles "Swede" Risberg. He told Landis that the Chicago White Sox, with whom he used to play short-stop, fixed a four game series on September 2 and 3, 1917, so that Detroit would be down and give Chicago a better chance for the pennant.

Some of those Risberg named as contributing $45 each toward a present of about $1,100 for the Detroit players, admitted raising the pool but gave a different version of its circumstances.

Everybody knew, said Nemo Leibold, Sox outfielder at the time, that the Chicago team gave Detroit that money for beating Boston in three games, Sept. 19 and 20, 1917, killing the Red Sox chances of winning the pennant from the White Sox. Detroit pitchers were not paid to lie down for the Sox, he said.

Frank Navin, President of the Detroit Club, believes the money was presented to the Detroit pitchers by the White Sox for their work in defeating Boston in a series toward the end of 1917 season, which virtually eliminated Boston from the race that year. According to Navin it was a common thing, during 1916 when Detroit was in the race for the pennant, for officials of the Boston Club to induce pitchers for pay to "bear down" on Detroit. It was considered fair, for the rewards were for winning.

Ray Schalk, Sox new manager for 1927, admitted he gave his $45 and told the same story as Liebold Rowland, who managed the White Sox that year and is now an American League umpire, denied any knowledge of the pool. He added that he welcomed the invitation to face Risberg.

Landis on Saturday night asked Riseberg if the White Sox had raised a pool to pay Detroit pitchers or players to beat Boston.

"No," said Riseberg. "I never heard of that. Money was collected by myself and Chick Gandil (Sox first baseman), and was for paying Detroit players to slough those two double-headers to us at Chicago on Labor Day and the Sunday before. Rowland instigated the scheme."

TRADE ABSURD.

Says Yank Pilot in Referring To Rumor About Meusel

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees brands as ridiculous the rumor that Outfielder Bob Meusel will be traded because of his disastrous muff that cost the final game of the world series and championship.

"There is no better left fielder in the American League, so why should I trade Meusel?" is the curt manner in which the Yankee pilot dismisses the subject.

While Meusel isn't the most popular player in New York, due to his unfortunate break in the series and his seemingly don't-care attitude, there are just about seven other clubs in the American League who would bid for his services.

TRIBUTE PAID TO ENGINEERS

Professor C. R. Young Addresses the Rotary Club To-day.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

Members of the Peterboro Rotary Club were to-day reminded of the great debt that is owing the engineering profession for its contributions to the welfare and progress of the world by Prof. C. R. Young, professor of Structural Engineering, Toronto University, who was the speaker at to-day's luncheon.

Professor Young, a pleasing and eloquent speaker covered the field of engineering development in rapid fire fashion, bringing out the highlights in each branch of the profession in a remarkably effective manner, considering the brief time at his disposal. The achievements of engineers in regard to improving transportation facilities were illustrated by short sketches of the work of Brindley in regard to the building of the Bridgewater Canal, of Telford in his splendid record in improving highway facilities in Scotland, of Stephenson for bringing into use the steam railway, of Brunel and his contribution toward revolutionizing deep sea transportation, of Sir Sandford Fleming and his successful efforts in railway building in Canada, of Col. By and other canal builders, and of Sir James Kennedy and his vision in harbour construction.

Professor Young dealt briefly with power engineering, paying a tribute to Watt and his great discovery of the steam engine and touching upon the constant improvements that were being made. Of the field of electric engineering he said it was unnecessary to say anything in a city where so many eminent electrical engineers resided. The speaker confined his remarks in this connection to the rapid improvement in power transmission that is being recorded.

The achievements of the engineering profession in irrigation and reclamation work, in health and sanitation efforts and in many other fields were sketched by Professor Young in eloquent fashion.

The thanks of the Rotary Club were tendered the speaker on motion of Rotarian Max Saeur who referred to the splendid graduates turned out by Professor Young.

To-day's luncheon was featured by a most enjoyable musical programme by Miss Blanche Senior and Mrs. Douglas Fletcher. With Mrs. Fletcher as accompanist Miss Senior contributed two solos in which she displayed a very clear and powerful soprano and a clearness of enunciation that was refreshing. As an encore Miss Senior and Mrs. Fletcher gave a most effective rendition of "The Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie."

It was announced that two members of the Club, Rotarians Jerry McClelland and Jack Seels, had a 100 per cent attendance record during last year.

An interesting feature of to-day's luncheon was the presence of E. R. Shirley, new elected member of the Utilities Commission, and of Charles Sisson, former member.

OBITUARY.

PETER KING.

The death took place on Thursday in Chicago, suddenly, while at his work, of Peter King, a former resident of this city.

The deceased was well known here, and while he had been away from the city for some years, he spent some time here about two years ago building up his health.

He was a young man of many good qualities, was big hearted and open-handed and will be greatly missed by relatives and friends. He leaves to mourn his loss two sisters in Peterborough, Miss Bella King and Mrs. A. C. Hawley.

The body was brought from Chicago and interment took place in Little Lake cemetery this afternoon, Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's United church, officiating.

HERBERT KING.

Following the sudden death of his brother, Peter King, in Chicago, on Thursday, Herbert King passed away in the same city last evening. Herbert King was one of Peterborough's gifted sons. He had a remarkable voice and during his residence in Chicago of more than thirty years, gained a great deal of notoriety as a soloist, as well as having been a member of one of the finest church quartettes in Chicago.

While here he was a clerk in the law office of Stratton and Hall, but on going to Chicago entered the produce business and became one of the best posted men in his line. He leaves a wife and daughter in Chicago and two sisters in Peterborough.

Interment will take place in Chicago.

MRS. JULIA TETRO.

The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital on New Year's Day of Mrs. Julia Tetro, an old resident of this city. She had been ill for three years and death was not unexpected.

The deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. Annie Grady, and a brother, Mr. Thomas Murray, of this city. Her husband predeceased her ten years ago.

The funeral took place this morning from the home of her sister at 531 1-2 Park street.

MISS SARAH McKEOWN

Died in Peterboro on Sunday, Miss Sarah McKeown. The funeral will leave the Protestant Home on Tuesday morning, January 4th, at 10.30 and proceed to Hillside cemetery, Lakefield, with Rev. Mr. Hughes officiating.

WILLIAM HARDILL.

William Hardill died this morning at twenty minutes to eleven at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Gillespie.

Mr. Hardill was apparently in his usual health on Thursday. He worked all day at the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and that evening he spent with his daughter and family. Soon after midnight he was taken seriously ill.

Mr. Hardill was a man of sterling integrity. In church and civic relationships, he was always to be counted upon to do his part.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Gillespie (nee Annie Hardill) at home and one son, George Nelson, of Milwaukee, also a sister, Mrs. John Wilson, of Hamilton, and two brothers, Joseph of Mitchell, Ont., and John of this city.

The date of the funeral will be announced later.

WALLACE G. LUDGATE.

Mr. Wallace G. Ludgate, formerly of Peterborough, and who has made his home in the West for this last 40 years, passed away after a short illness at his home in Portland, Oregon, on the 26th of December. Mr. Ludgate was a brother of Mrs. A. E. Coulthard and Mrs. R. R. Hall.

MRS. JOHN KNIGHT.

The death occurred early this morning of Margaret Hillier, widow of the late John Knight.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss Blanche, at home, and Miss Winnie of Detroit; also three sisters, Mrs. Helen Whatley of England, Mrs. Dredge, and Mrs. Poolman, both of this city, and one brother, Mr. H. H. Hillier of Toronto.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 589 Reid St., on Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock.

Interment in the Little Lake cemetery, Rev. J. W. Gordon and Adjutant Ham officiating.

VOTING CLOSE IN MONAGHAN

Dobbin Elected Deputy-Reeve By Margin of Eight Votes.

BY-LAW PASSED.

A farmers' council was elected for 1927 by the ratepayers of North Monaghan on New Year's Day. Four members of the new council are farmers and the fifth member is a retired farmer. Only about one-third the ratepayers cast their votes, it being the smallest municipal vote in many years. The Brinton Carpet by-law passed with a majority of 255. This by-law grants a fixed assessment of $15,000 to the company for a period of five years.

The new council will consist of Reeve R. T. Lillico, who was elected by acclamation; R. A. Dobbin, deputy reeve, and Councilmen A. Kent, T. M. Hunter and W. G. Waterman.

The vote was very close, especially for deputy reve, when Mr. Dobbin won by eight votes over G. A. Wood. W. G. Waterman won third place on the council over T. B. Henry by seven votes.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To thy grave not far away,
Where we laid our dearest mother
Just a year ago to-day."

FUR SALES! FUR SALES!!

FUR SALES!!!

Announcing Reductions so Impossible as to be Rightfully Questioned.

OUR SALE POLICY means NO MARKING UP of prices to allow for these so-stated "enormous reduction" after the holidays.

Furs can be bought, more often than not, for less than these "sale" prices at our regular prices.

HONEST VALUES IN FURS

We are, however, quoting SPECIAL PRICES NOW that should interest any fur purchaser, GIVING REDUCTIONS that will hold and convince, when compared on lines of quality, workmanship and price, with any of these so-called "sales," now flamboyantly arresting in costly attractiveness, the eye and the senses of the reader.

FOR SUBSTANTIAL WORTH in quality, workmanship and rightfully represented fur goods, our reduced prices will achieve precedence as better values to all discriminating persons.

BETTER PRICES, BETTER GOODS

C.G.E. OFFERS STOCK TO EMPLOYEES

Investment Plan Open To Peterboro Works In New Year Scheme

E. G. Patterson, Works Manager, Gives Hearty Approval To Plan Announced Yesterday Evening—Stock May Be Purchased at Par On Easy Terms.

EXTRA BONUS GIVEN BY COMPANY TO ENCOURAGE GREATER SAVINGS

Preference Stock Is To-day Quoted $7 Higher Than Cost of Purchase To Employees—Dividends Accrue From April 1 and Year Given For Payment.

Notices displayed in the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric Company last night announced the inauguration of a plan whereby the employees are offered the opportunity to purchase cumulative preference stock of the company at par value, on terms of payment that enable every employee to participate.

In an interview given The Examiner just before the announcement was made public, E. G. Patterson, manager of the local plant, explained the project in detail, with an enthusiasm that has arisen from long advocacy of such a scheme. Mr. Patterson remarked that he has believed in the principle of employees' participation in the Company for many years, and that thirty years ago he proposed just such a plan as that now formulated. It is, he believes, a spendid opportunity for investment by all employees of the Company.

The stock will be sold at par value of $50 a share, though todays quotation through Stobie, Furlong & Company to J. C. Hawley quotes Canadian General Electric stock at $57 a share.

The dividend is 7 per cent. per annum, cumulative, and is payable on the first days of January, April, July and October. In addition to this dividend a bonus of 1 per cent. on par value of the shares acquired under this plan will be made by company yearly. This is not an extra dividend, or part of the dividend, Mr. Patterson emphasized, but is a special bonus to encourage saving and investment. The payment may be greater than the 1 per cent. if the earnings of the company permit, another clause in the plan providing for the payment of an amount equal to half of 1 per cent. of the par value of the shares for every 1 per cent. of the net earnings of the company in the year, over and above 8 per cent. on the sum of its average common stock outstanding, and the average balance in surplus account during the year, after all deductions and charges, including the 7 per cent. preference dividend.

Purchase Conditions.

There is nothing obligatory in this scheme, subscriptions being entirely voluntary, Mr. Patterson said. Its sole purpose is to afford the company's employees a convenient method of investing their savings in the company.

Any employee who has been in continuous service since December 31, 1926, is eligible to purchase stock to the amount of one to twenty shares, each at the par value of $50. The purchase price is payable four dollars a share per month, or one dollar a week, to be withheld from the employees' salaries or wages, or the employee may make payment in cash in full for the shares applied for, remitting before April 1. Dividends on the stock will be applied toward payment until such time as the shares are fully paid for, and in addition, as soon in 1928 as possible, the extra payment of 1 per cent. or more, will be credited to the employee's account for payment on the stock, or paid direct to the employee if his stock is fully paid for. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum will be charged on unpaid balances.

Rights of Employee.

In the event of the employment of an employee terminating, the total amount paid in for stock under this plan will be refunded, plus interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, but no allowances will be made for accrued dividends nor for the credit of extra payment, and no interest will be charged on unpaid balances. In case of death, the total amount paid in by the employee by means of deductions from pay, accrued dividends, and the pro-rata proportion of the extra payment credit, less interest at 5 per cent. per annum on unpaid balances, will be paid to the estate of the deceased employee. Any employee may withdraw from the puchase agreement at any time, and in case of withdrawal refund will be made on the same basis as if employment had terminated.

When stock has been fully paid for it will be identified in the records of the trustees as being held for the benefit of the employee, but will be carried in the names of the trustees on the share register of the company. As an evidence of the employee's interest in such shares,

FIRE BRIGADE HAD BUSY YEAR

More Calls Than Ever Before—Chimney Fires Provided Half.

TOTAL WAS 465.

Last year the fire department had the most alarms in the history of this city. Four hundred and sixty-five alarms were rung in, being 29 more than the previous record year and 90 more than 1925. Three hundred and twenty-three of these were day calls and 142 night calls.

There were 231 to chimney fires, 2 to spontaneous combustion, 9 unknown, 10 the result of carelessness, 16 grass, leaves, and rubbish, 5 children playing with matches, defective chimnies 3, faults 16, and incendiary 2 and the remaining number divided amongst many causes.

In the year 20,150 feet of 2 1-2 inch hose were used, 100 feet of 1 1-2 inch hose, and 2900 gallons of chemicals. The apparatus travelled 1036.8 miles.

CITY HAS GAINED 500 SINCE 1921

Number of New Citizens Augurs Well For Increase in Next List.

SUBURBS GROW.

The City of Peterborough has been able to hold her population and show a small increase since the last census was taken. This is considered a fair record as many cities in Ontario have not been able to show an increase in the past few years as the country has passed through very trying times when large numbers of the young people left this country. The last census records show that there is a population of 21,519 in this city, an increase of 520 over the 1921 census. The figures of the assessor are low, as he never is able to get all the citizens on his record, and it is thought that the 1927 census will show a decided increase in the population of this city. Many new citizens have come to this city, and at the present time many of the houses which were not occupied early last year are found to be inhabited now.

The greatest increase shown in the past few years has been in the suburban section, as considerable building has been done on the outskirts of the city.

Niagara in the Ice-King's Grip

Hundreds of thousands of people see Niagara Falls every year—but not many of them see the famous cataract in its beautiful winter garb. These pictures were taken after winter had finally put its grip on Niagara. At the left is he "Cave of the Winds," now clothed with the longest icicles south of the Arctic circle. At the right is a scene from Luna Island, looking toward the American shore. The inset shows the ice mountains at the base of the American falls.

BRITISH CONCESSIONS AT HANKOW ATTACKED BY CHINESE COOLIES

Incited By Inflamatory Speeches Thousands Storm Settlement With Stones—Are Held in Check By Marines—Three Taken To Hospital.

LATER DISPERSED BY NATIVE POLICE.

HANKOW, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Thousands of Chinese coolies, incited by anti-British speeches, attacked the British concession district here yesterday. They stoned British police and marines and sailors landed to protect British residents. Three of the defending party were taken to hospitals. The defenders held the huge Chinese mob in check four hours without firing. Chinese soldiers finally arrived and dispersed the mob.

Agitators addressed thousands of Chinese gathered at the border of the British concession along the Yangtze River as part of the New Year holiday celebration and incited them to fury by relating acts of the British which they asserted demonstrated hostility toward the Chinese. They urged them to attack the concession in which the British lived.

The mob rushed upon the concession and began stoning the British police. These, aided by twenty sailors from British war ships in the river, held back the mob without firing. Reinforcements of marines were hastily landed and special police entered the line of British opposing the mob of Chinese.

One British sailor was bayonetted with his own rifle when twenty coolies jumped upon him. Two other sailors were badly beaten with poles and had to be taken to a hospital.

Throughout the afternoon, the British, without firing a shot, held their ground against the thousands of Chinese. At dusk Cantonese government soldiers arrived from a nearby point and forced the mob to disperse.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—The report of the United States Commission recommending the St. Lawrence waterway route from the Great Lakes to the sea, forwarded to President Coolidge by Secretary Hoover, was transmitted to the Senate yesterday and referred to the Commerce Committee.

SEARCH FOR ARK OF COVENANT TO BE STARTED AT MOUNT NEBO

Central Symbol Of Ancient Judaism Was Hidden 2,500 Years Ago.

FINDING FORETOLD.

Leader of Search Believes Return of Jews Fulfils Conditions.

(By Samuel J. Williams—United Press Special Correspondent).

JERUSALEM, Jan. 4.—Search for the Ark of the Covenant, the most sacred thing in the worship of ancient Judaism, soon will begin on Mount Nebo, where history records the Ark was hidden in the sixth century B.C. by the prophet Jeremiah.

A. J. Futterer, president of the American Jerusalem Bible Institute, of Los Angeles, has arrived here to make the search. Futterer is one of those who believe that many of the ancient prophecies of the Bible are on the eve of fulfillment. It was because of this belief that he came here from California to search for the relic of Judaism. The Ark of the Covenant was precious and sacred because it contained the tables of the law given to Moses by God on Mount Sinai. Just prior to the Babylonian captivity, Jeremiah hid the Ark in a cave on Mount Nebo. Thereafter there is no record of the Ark having been found, but according to a prophecy in the apocryphal work of Maccabees, the Ark will be found in Mount Nebo at the time when the Jews are gathered again in Palestine.

Since the war and the resultant encouragement of Jews to return to the Holy Land, there has been a remarkable movement of the Jews toward their old home. Futterer said he was confident that the present situation fulfills, or soon will fulfill, the conditions of the prophecy and that he believes the Ark will be found.

After making a survey of Mount Nebo, Futterer applied to the Trans-Jordania Department of Antiquities for a lease on Mount Nebo. As soon as he gets it, Futterer said he will begin the search.

Nickle Resumes Practice As Lawyer In Kingston

Bluejackets As Ladies' Maids During Long Sea Voyage No Female Servants To Accompany Duchess To Australia

PORTSMOUTH, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Bluejackets will act as maids to the Duchess of York and her two ladies-in-waiting, the Countess of Cavan and Hon. Mrs. John Gilmour, when H.M.S. Renown leaves here on Thursday with the Duke of York for his tour of New Zealand and Australia. As women ordinarily are barred on warships, the present voyage will set a precedent in the British navy. There will be no female servants to look after the wants of the Duchess and her ladies, as the Admiralty has decided that Jack Tar, handyman that he is, is very well qualified to run things as they should be run on the high seas. This even includes hair dressing.

The Duke will represent the King at the opening of Australia's new capital, Canberra, on May 9. The voyage ends here on June 27.

MANY POSITIONS MUST BE FILLED

Long List of Vacancies Awaits Attention of Cabinet After Holidays.

IMPORTANT POSTS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press)—Meetings of cabinet will be resumed this afternoon. Quite a formidable list of vacancies awaits the attention of the ministers while consideration has to be given to legislation which will be introduced during the session.

In connection with the important position of deputy minister of customs, which has to be filled, rumor connects the name of income tax collector Walters of Hamilton, but W. J. Egan, deputy minister of Immigration, and G. W. Taylor, acting deputy minister of Customs, are also mentioned.

Selection of an appointee to the post of chief electoral officer must also be made and the position of chairman of the International Joint Commission, vacated by C. A. McGrath, is to be filled. The appointment of Rt. Hon. George P. Graham to the Senate created two vacancies, head of the tariff board and chief of the national advisory committee, St. Lawrence waterways.

German Makes Machine To Measure Body's Secrets

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (United Press).—Regarding the human body as nothing more than a highly intricate motor, a German electrical engineer has stepped forward with a machine for measuring its secrets.

The inventor is Dr. Rudolph Goldschmidt, once scientific advisor to Kaiser Wilhelm, and a noted authority on electro dynamics. His invention is called the pulse resenator, or more specifically the vitality meter.

The credability of witnesses, the exact effect of alcohol, black coffee, drugs, individual fitness for a given task, love, hatred—all these, Goldschmidt claims may be detected in the individual by the machine.

"Can't You Give Me Four Months?" Query Of Prisoner When Sentenced To-day To Three Months For B.O.T.A.

"If you are going to give me anything, Your Worship, don't give me less than six months, or give me two years, and maybe I'll get a parole in six months," implored a prisoner of Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning.

The accused, who has been in the hands of the police several times on different charges but recently has been appearing in the role of a "canned heat" drinker, was arrested Monday for the third time within three months.

His Worship told the accused that the Act permitted a sentence of only three months for this class of offence, but this did not satisfy the prisoner. "Cant you give me four months?" he enquired; the remark causing a titter among the usual crowd of railbirds that adorned the back of the court.

"I'm sorry I can't," declared His Worship, "I sentence you to three months in the common jail, and perhaps you can get transferred to Guelph."

BRIAND FINDS EUROPEAN PEACE TOOK ROOT DURING YEAR OF 1926

Foreign Minister Reviews Events In Europe Which Built Frame-up of a New Order — Lauds Part Reich Played.

STRESSES FRIENDSHIP FOR ITALY.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—The Matin will publish today an exclusive interview by its foreign editor Jules Sauerwein, with the French Foreign Minister, Aristide Briand. The master of the Quai d'Orsay finds 1926 was not such a bad year.

"At the risk of being regarded as unrepentant," he says, "I find the year has been a good one. Taking all in all, examining the causes of disquiet as well as the causes of dissatisfaction, I cannot condemn the year which saw the entry into operation of the Locarno accords and the consolidation of our eastern frontiers, which brought us the security of the English guarantee—that is to say, gave us back the central basis of the Versailles Treaty.

"All that, from the point of view of peace, does not make a bad balance sheet."

"Grouchy people, I know, are only happy at dismal prospects. Not only do they see everything through their natural pessimism, but they present to others current events under the most sinister aspects, like those fishes whose peculiarity it is to distribute thick ink in their wake on feeling the slightest emotion.

"At the risk of exposing myself to their sarcasm, from which I am not safe, I persist in considering that the year 1926 constructed in Europe the framework of peace, which incidents in the life of peoples may shake from time to time in a disquieting fashion, but which after all constitutes a solid instrument against the risks of war.

Briand Lauds Germanys Role

"Germany now forms a part of the League of Nations. She publicly and of her own free will dedicated her frontiers in the treaties. She undertook never to modify them by force. The juridical system founded by the treaties of conciliation and arbitration has come to replace the old method of alliances, directed one against the other, which inevitably were ended some day or other by violence. That is the principal reason why I am full of hope.

"That which is valuable in the accords is that they have been established with the full harmony of our allies, our Rumanian, Czechoslovak and Yugoslav political friends. Far from loosening the bonds which united us, they have tightened them. These friendly people have been grateful to us for having remained in close contact with them during all our negotiations and for having in all circumstances considered their legitimate interests."

Asked about the Italian-German treaty, he replied:

"I think no ill of this treaty. On the contrary it has been under negotiation since the signing of the agreement at Locarno, in which Italy participated. It is absolutely similar to all the arbitration and conciliation treaties contracted between Germany and other signatories of Locarno. It is logical that Italy should sign with Germany a treaty of this nature. It is drafted in irreproachable terms and it enters into the general system of peace of which the League of Nations is qualified as the depository and guarantor.

Stresses Friendship for Italy

"I have always been, and remain, the sincere friend of Italy. Recent incidents are the result of passing misunderstandings between the two countries. At no moment did I commit the fault of taking them dramatically, and always I hoped that the passing clouds would be dispersed. At no moment, above all things, did I think they might end in tragic adventures.

"Such a development is unthinkable between Italy and France. It is necessary for them to agree, and I do not doubt that they will succeed in a very short time. Already a better understanding is manifesting itself, and if it depends only on me to reduce things to their proper proportions you can count on me to make every effort to use every favorable opportunity."

Turning to the Russian situation, M. Briand said:

"Our relations are as good as might be expected under present conditions. Only it is up to the Russian Government to make relations better by showing its goodwill in conformity with international justice. We do not despair in obtaining as much from Russia, and, in my opinion, the sooner it happens the better."

Thinks Peace Has Taken Root.

"In conclusion, while certain preoccupying indications must be watched with the greatest attention, I believe that peace is taking root more and more deeply among all peoples. Whatever may be done to disturb our public opinion, the French people are clearly on the path of peace. That does not mean that it wishes to grope for it blindly, abandoning those precautions which a great country can in no case neglect.

"But, after all, th only means of achieving such a purpose is to attach oneself resolutely to it, and that is the master thought in the policy of peace which I shall continue to follow with all my strength as long as I am responsible for directing the relations of France with other countries."

BRUCE REACHES TORONTO TO-DAY

Has Busy Day Ahead of Him in Capital of Province.

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Premier Stanley M. Bruce of Australia arrived in Toronto by special train from Ottawa this morning and left immediately for Government House. The Premier is en route to Australia, after attending the Imperial Conference at London, England.

He will address the Canadian Club this afternoon, and be the guest of honor at a dinner to-night which will be given by the Ontario Government.

The Australian premier was met by Premier G. Howard Ferguson, of Ontario, who accompanied the party around the Exhibition grounds. Mr. Bruce showed great interest in the various buildings and was especially interested in the coliseum building. The party afterwards motored to Government House before leaving for the Canadian Club luncheon.

Prince of Wales Qualifies As Quick Change Artist; Also Sets Commuters Example Of How To Catch a Train

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, Jan 4 (United Press).—Inhabitants of this village, in the centre of the fox hunting country, have witnessed the gifted Prince of Wales in still another of the many roles his crowded schedule compels him to play through life. The train for London was due in a few minutes yesterday when a horseman clad in the scarlet coat and white breeches of a hunter dashed through the streets as though he were Dick Turpin escaping from the King's men. Leaping from the saddle, the hurried rider went into the station as the train came into view and in a few moments appeared on the platform dressed in business clothes. The man then began to run for his train, which was starting out, reached a compartment and leaped in.

Villagers thronged the station questioning officials, who revealed that the hurried one was Wales, who had hunted with the Quorn Hounds a few minutes too long and had to run for the train that would get him to London.

U. S. HOUSES DIVIDED OVER POISON ALCOHOL

Question Conduct of Members in Observance of Dry Laws.

DRINK TO EXCESS.

Senator Sheppard Defends Use of Wood Alcohol as Denaturant.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—The controversy over deaths during the holiday season from the drinking of poisoned alcohol reached both the Senate and House floors yesterday as soon as Congress reconvened.

At both end of the Capitol the personal conduct of members in the observance of the dry law was questioned and before sundown the discussion had reached the treasury, where both Secretary Mellon and Linclon C. Andrews, the prohibition enforcement chief, issued statements.

While Representative Cellar, Democrat, New York, was accusing his colleagues in the House of "drinking to excess," Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, in a lengthy speech in the Senate was condemning the Phypocrisy of some of the representatives of the people who vote dry and drink wet."

Celler declared that members of both House and Senate "drink and drink to excess," and called upon them to keep poison out of industrial alcohol to protect those "who ape their betters."

During the day both Houses were also called upon in bills and resolutions to take cognizance of the industrial alcohol situation.

Celler and Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, introduced resolutions to prohibit the use of any poisonous adulterant in the alcohol, while Representative Black, Democrat, New York, presented a resolution calling upon the treasury for its correspondence on the subject so that it might be forwarded to state governors, "so they may direct the prosecuting officers of all counties in which death has occurred from the use of such alcohol to proceed against all persons responsible for such deaths."

Another proposal by Representative Fairchild, Republican, New York, would ask Congress to call to the attention of Federal officials that "there is no such thing as legalized murder," and that any Federal official who causes poison to be used in denatured alcohol "does so upon his own responsibility and at his own risk."

Senator Edwards introduced a resolution asking the treasury for copies of its correspondence on the subject, especially with Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League. His proposal was carried over until today under the Senate rules, while the House resolutions were referred to its juliciary committee.

On the floor the drys let the wets do most of the talking, although Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, defended the use of wood alcohol as a denaturant and said that the "lamentable deaths from indulgence in industrial alcohol shows what can be expected from the use of alcohol." In the House, Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, declared that it is new against the "law to drink the stuff."

Senator Edwards broadened his remarks to include a warning that a "complete breakdown of the American system of government" is threatened if the dry law remains as it is, and said that he thought the Volstead Act with all the attendant evils was a nullification of United States liberty and freedom.

While the fumpus was in progress at the Capitol Secretary Mellon was assured by government chemists that they were hopeful of having within a few days a new non-poisonous ingredient to place in alcohol. Mr. Andrews reiaterated his opposition to the use of poisonous adulterants.

IN SENATE.

W. H. McGuire of Toronto, appointed to the senate in place created by the late Senator McHugh. Mr. McGuire, is a barrister, is president of the Ontario Club and is a nephew of the late Archbishp McEvoy.

FUEL DUTIES BEFORE BOARD

Will Discuss Increased Duty on Coal and Coke Entering Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Increased duties on coal and coke entering Canada will be discussed before the Canadian Tariff Advisory Board on January 18. The Board has received an application from the British Empire Steel Corporation for a duty on anthracite screenings imported for steam purposes, a duty on coke imported for metallurgical foundry and domestic uses, the abolition of the rebate now granted on coal imported by operators of coke ovens and an increased duty on bituminous coal.

Argument for and against the application will be heard in public, the Board having set January 18 for the hearing. When this application is disposed of, a second public hearing will be given to half a dozen applications which have been already partly heard. These applications seek increased duties on candles, tin and corn syrup, and decreased duties on "oil tops," "tops" for gloves and objects of art.

To the list of cases to be heard at the January sitting has been added an application for revision of the tariff on waxed wrapping paper. The Board will sit from January 18 to January 20, three days.

MEN AND DOG SAVED BY BUOY

Coastguardmen Bring Them Ashore By Aerial Cable.

OVER ROUGH SEA.

WELLFLEET, Mass., Jan. 3. — Seven men and a dog rode to safety by breeches buoy over heavy breakers early yesterday after the two-masted fishing schooner Roger Hickey went aground on Cape Cod, about a mile south of the Cahoons Hollow Coast Guard station. The rescuing Coast Guardsmen resorted to the air as the last chance of saving the men when efforts to reach the stranded vessel in the lifeboat failed because of the high sea that was running.

The schooner was homeward ound for Boston with a cargo of 20,000 pounds of mixed fish caught in South Channel, below Chatham. Shortly after midnight the vessel ran upon the beach almost within sight of the life-saving station. It is believed the course was miscalculated because of a variation in the compass.

The small craft was in immediate danger of being pounded to pieces. Signal flares brought out the lifeguards under Chief Boatswains Mate H. O. Daniels. The lifeboat was tossed about hopelessly and the oarsmen could make no headway, and gave up the battle, although the schooner had been driven to within 125 yards from shore.

The rescuers dragged a cannon down the beach. The first shot carried the line across the vessel's deck and it was a matter of only a few minutes before the tackle for the breeches buoy was in place. There was no mishap in transferring the men to shore, the cook carrying the ship's dog in his arms.

MARINES DISARM FORCES OF DIAZ

Fell Back Into Neutral Zone After Defeat By Liberals.

OFFER RESISTANCE.

MANAGUA, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The Diaz government has dispatched military forces from Chontales department to intercept the Liberal Sacasa troops ascending along the Rama and Grande Rivers in the direction of the Nicaraguan capital.

The Diaz troops who retreated after their defeat by the Liberals in battle at Las Perlas were disarmed by the United States authorities at El Bluff, which had previously been declared a neutral zone. United States marines took away their arms, ammunition and machine guns and then permitted them to proceed to Rama.

This is the same procedure adopted by Admiral Latimer at Puerto Cabezas, headquarters of Dr. Sacasa, head of the Liberal government set up here.

SEVERAL KILLED WHEN REBELS STORM GOVERNMENT OFFICES

Siloengkang District Scene of Disturbance Similar To That of Java.

MANY ARRESTED.

Revolutionary Organization Reported To Be Uncovered in Southern Sumatra.

PADANG, Sumatra, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—A number of subversive outbreaks in the Siloengkang district, on the west coast of Sumatra, brought death to 30 insurrectionists, while many others were arrested. The trouble started Saturday night when armed native bands attacked government offices and police barracks and cut telegraph lines at several points.

Those involved in the insurrection are described as Communists and the movement is said to have been similar to the abortive revolt in Java, another island of the Dutch East Indies group, in November.

The centre of the disturbance was Sawahloente, which is the seat of the Dutch administrative official. Here the sub-governor, at the head of the local police force, repulsed an attacking party, killing seven, after the railway station was destroyed and the station master's house burned.

In an attack on the administrative station at Siloengkang a native chief was murdered, and Lieut. Simons of the Dutch army was killed and two native soldiers were wounded in an engagement with insurrectionists last night in Padang. A Dutch road inspector named Leura was killed. He was found murdered in his own home, but his family was unhurt.

Snipers on Sunday ambushed the first of a string of motor lorries transporting troops from Padang to Sawahloente, killing the commanding officer. In a subsequent fight the troops in the lorries killed eight of the insurrectionists and captured four others.

A revolutionary organization is reported to have been uncovered in Southern Sumatra. Ten persons were arrested, among them being a member of the municipal council. Advices from Palembang, one of the chief towns of Southern Sumatra, indicate that the authorities have the situation there under control.

An official investigation of the Javanese outbreak showed that the November revolt was first planned to start on the island of Sumatra with the object of drawing off was intended to attack the capital was inteided to attack the capital of Java, Batavia. For unexplained reasons the plans were changed.

Had Erected 65 Gallows "Sick Of Job" He Quits

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (Associated Press).—Disgusted with hangings, Harry Stanton, for 29 years builder of scaffolds at the county jail, has resigned after the sixty-fifth gallows he erected took the lives of two men.

It has been Stanton's duty to test the gallows, making them deadly efficient. When the trap sprung on James Gricus and Thomas McWane, slayers, it failed to break their necks, and they strangled to death.

"I don't like the job," Stanton said. "I'm sick of it. I'm 60 years old and I'm going to quit and forget what I've seen."

BANK LOOTED BY THREE MEN

Robbers Take Nearly $1,500 From Elysburg Bank.

ESCAPE IN CAR.

ELYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Three men, armed and masked, yesterday held up the First National Bank of Elysburg, handcuffed the cashier and teller, gathered up between $1,300, and $1,500 in cash and escaped in a motor car.

While two of the robbers were in the bank, Mrs. Wm. Richards, wife of the cashier, who lives in an apartment above the bank, heard her husband's cry for help, and opened fire with a pistol on the third man, who remained in the car with the engine running. The bullet shattered the windshield but Mrs. Richards does not believe she hit the robber. Hearing the shot, the other two men rushed from the bank, jumped into their automobile and sped away in the direction of Catawisha.

SHOWS INTEREST FARM METHODS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Keen interest in Canadian methods of farming was shown by Premier Bruce of Australia, in the course of a tour of the Central Experimental Farm in company with Lord Willingdon. The visitors were accompanied by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, and E. S. Archibald, director of experimental farms.

All branches of the live stock and cereal divisions were viewed. Premier Bruce showed great interest in the Canadian methods of handling live stock in winter and commented favorably on the stock at the farm.

Considerable time was spent in the cereal department, where the work of producing new grades of wheat drew the closest attention. Examination of the wheat being grown in the greenhouses was also made. The production of new grades of wheat proved interesting to the Antipodes Premier, especially a rust-resisting grade.

INVESTMENT PLAN

the employee will be given an agreement receipt embodying the provisions of this plan. This arrangement of trusteeship, Mr. Patterson explained, is necessary to prevent the placing on the market of the stock purchased at this special par rate.

Any employe may at any time turn the shares back to the trustees at par plus unpaid accrued dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and the trustees will make payment for these shares within sixty days. At any time after the employee has held his interest in the shares for a period of five years, he shall have the right to have the shares placed in his name in the share register of the company, and receive regular certificates therefor, if the then current market price be par or less. Should the then market be above par, the employee shall have the right to have the shares placed in his name upon making payment of the difference between par and the market price. But upon issuance of certificates the extra payment made by the company as a bonus shall cease. No assignment or transfer of rights under this plan is permitted.

The offer is open, Mr. Patterson concluded, until March 15, and stock purchased by the employees under this plan will be recorded as of April 1, 1927. Dividends will accrue from that date.

ILLITERACY IS DECREASING IN THE DOMINION

Bureau of Statistics Shows Great Reduction in Thirty Years.

STUDY CONDITIONS.

Ignorant Parents Chief Cause For Non-Attendance at School.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued an interesting volume on illiteracy in Canada, made up from analysis of the census returns of 1921. The bureau finds that illiteracy is decreasing. It declares that the main factor in illiteracy is "practically identified" with the presence of certain non-Canadian racial elements.

"To conclusion," it says, "would seem to be justified that in Canada under the conditions of 1921 the total influence of physical conditions upon school attendance was somewhat less than the influence of the psychological or social factors. In other words, illiteracy and other mental, social or racial factors kept more children out of school in 1921 than climate, thin and new settlements, etc., combined. This would seem to be a startling conclusion, but it would seem to follow from the data."

Connection Plain.

Among other conclusions arrived at in the study of the population of school age are the following:

Under present conditions in Canada there is a decided condition between the illiteracy of a community and the school attendance of children 7 to 14 years of age.

There is a certain connection, as might be expected, between essentially rural conditions and school non-attendance. In other words, in an extremely cold or thinly settled rural community the school attendance will be decidedly poorer than in the adjoining urban areas or in the most favored rural communities.

The main social factor affecting school attendance has been illiteracy, which in certain samples chosen has been found to be practically identified with the presence of certain non-Canadian racial elements.

Where these races are settled under unfavorable physical conditions the results are of course the combined effects of race and physical conditions, and appear as very large percentage out of the school. Where, however, they are settled either in urban areas or in favorable rural areas, their existence is sufficient to neutralize the physical advantages so that these areas show poorer school attendance than more unfavorably situated rural communities where the races do not exist. More important still, school non-attendance increases in a definite relationship with their existence, regardless of physical conditions.

Best Mixture.

It is estimated that rural conditions do not of themselves account for more than one per cent. of the illiteracy. Foreign-born children and those of foreign-born parents are more illiterate than Canadians of at least the second generation. British-born are less illiterate than native-born. The least illiterate are those with one parent British and the other parent Canadian.

The war, the influenza epidemic and other such catastrophes are blamed for small increases in illiteracy. The general per cent of illiterates in Canada is 5. It is raised from among Canadian or British-born to 5 by the foreigners.

Progress in the elimination of illiteracy is measurable directly for the ages of ten and over and by age groups as between 1901 and 1921. The percentage illiterate of the population ten years and over (exclusive of Indians) in 1891 was 13.9, in 1921 it was 5.1.

Another measure of progress is the difference between the illiteracy of age groups in 1921. The percentage illiterate at the ages of 10 to 14 was 2.0; at 15 to 20 it was 2.8; at 21 to 34 it was 3.9; at 35 to 64 it was 6.5; at 65 and over it was 13.2, and at "age not given" it was 24.3.

Final Comparison.

A still better measure of progress is the difference between the illiteracy of Empire and foreign born of the same races. This, however, is not entirely the work of Canadian schools as some of the "Empire born" were born in other parts of the Empire than Canada. However, if the British and French races be excluded, the proportion of other races born in other parts of the Empire than in Canada is small. Excluding then, the English and French speaking races, the percentages illiterate of the other races were as follows: Foreign born 21 years and over, 18.8; foreign born 10 to 20 years, 5.7; native born, 10 to 20 years, 2.9, and native born, 21 years and over, 3.9.

BOOK REVIEWS

What do people read books for? Have most people any definite aim in doing so? These questions are really worth some little consideration, and they have attained prominence just now because of the publication and speedy withdrawal of "The Whispering Gallery" in Great Britain, though it is understood this pernicious book is still being sold in the United States. The storng protests against this book are an indication of not only the feeling against the class of the so-called "Memoirs" which in so many recent cases have made attacks upon the dead as well as upon the living, but also against the tone of so many novels of today. The public is resenting the former and objecting to the latter. This is proved by the outcry against such "Memoirs," and by the fact that many people are now reading once again the work of Thackeray, Bulwer-Lytton, Scott, and such authors in preference to the modern novels dealing with the sex problem in ways which are offensive. They want clean books; books which are on a high plane which entertain, instruct, amuse and entrance them as good friends should and do. It has been truly said that books are the best things, well used; abused, among the worst. The people have found this out, and the publishers, too, who are paying more attention than ever to the tone of the books which they publish. It is well that this is so, for it is not only the adult readers who have to be considered, but the younger generation, for as has been said the books that charmed us in youth recall the delight ever afterwards; we are hardly persuaded there are many like them, say deserving our affections; fortunate if the best fall in our way during this susceptible and forming period of our lives.

"Canadian Houses of Romance" is another of those charming books which Katherine Hale has written, and which is published by the Macmillan Company of Canada. It is a welcome addition to her other well-known and thoroughly appreciated books, "Canadian Cities of Romance," "Morning in the West," "Legends of the St. Lawrence." Kingston, as might be expected with its historic associations, is given a chapter to itself, and what is said about it will interest more people than those of that city, and even they will probably learn some interesting facts with which they were previously unacquainted. Before mentioning some of these, it is impossible to resist giving the pen picture of Kingston which this clever and appreciative authoress gives as follows: "There's a flash of crimson about Kingston. At any moment you may see a Gentleman Cadet with his cape upon his arm and his cane in his hand. Motors rush through the prim streets; but the stamp, stamp of horses, the champ, champ of bridles, the champ of soldiers, suit Kingston best—and a ship at the end of a street." It would be hard to beat this short description. Miss Hale first of all deals with Alvington House which was built by the fourth Baron Le Moyne, and links it with the ancestral fortress castle at Longueuil and with Alvington Manor on the St. John River. This Le Moyne was a Grant. His father, a Scotch captain, married Carolina de Longueuil. She became a Baroness in her own right at her father's death. Alvington was the residence of three Governor-Generals. To two of them it was an ill-fated house. Near its gates Lord Sydenham's horse swerved, and he died as the result of a fall. Sir Charles Bagot, who succeeded him also died at Alvington. He was followed by Sir Charles Metcalfe, who resided there until the seat of Government was moved to Montreal. The Longueuil estate was really on Wolfe Island. Carolina Grant, Baroness de Longueuil lived here in a small house. Her daughter, who had married an Irish clergyman of a literary turn, the Rev. Antisel Allen, built "Ardath," a lovely limestone house, going down almost sheer to the water. People who remember it in its zenith describe it as "a dream of beauty." The son of the house was the well-known novelist, Grant Allen. Mention is made of the house on Rideau Street East, where Sir John A. Macdonald spent so much of his boyhood. Then there is the little house once occupied by Molly Brant, the sister of the Mohawk Chief, the house where Tom Moore boarded, and where Charles Sangster lived. Many more houses of romance are mentioned, and particularly interesting is the description of The White House, the home of the Fairfield family for five generations. This will give the reader some idea how carefully and entrancingly Miss Hale has handled her delightful subject, and we advise all Canadians to get the book, and visit with her the many Canadian houses of romance into which she will take them.

The Troubadours played an important though perhaps not so romantic a part in history as many people think. "Marcabrun" is a book about one of the famous of them. How he acquired this name must be left to the reader to discover. The author, Ramon Guthrie, has devoted a great deal of research in bringing this curious individual into a living reality. He writes of times when life was very different to what it is today, and he describes them wonderfully well, though at times they are of necessity coarse. There is history bound up in Marcabrun's life, and the part which he played concerning a Crusade is very interesting. The character of Eleanor is a strange one for a Princess, but it is quite compatible with the spirit of those times, while Naia, the troubador's wife, makes an admirable contrast to her. The book is published by George H. Doran Company of Toronto.

Messrs. W. Collins Sons & Co., 48 Pall Mall, London, have published some very interesting books. One is "The Delilah of the Moment," which makes an excellent story of the hero Harvey, who describes himself as one who has been a complete ass, a complete prig, and a complete fool. The reader will agree with him, but find a great deal of amusement and enjoyment in finding out the reasons for this description, and how in the end he becomes a different being. It is one of the best studies of a not altogether unknown or fanciful character which has been written. "The White in the Black," by that popular authoress, E. Maria Albanesi, is a work quite up to her usual entertaining style. There are some good characters in it. Nan and Loisa are in love with the same man, but how differently they treat him, and their markedly different characters are well drawn. It is a book which deserves reading from cover to cover.

Arthur Mee is noted for doing well anything he undertakes and the little book which the Musson Book Company of Toronto have published for him called "The Children's Life of Jesus" is ample proof of this. It is noticeable that in preparing this he used the version of the New Testament which is familiar to most people, and in that he is right, as this contains without doubt the most beautiful language. The Gospels alone tell the story. The book is superbly illustrated with copies of the most celebrated pictures of the life of Christ, and this makes it additionally valuable.

Messrs. Longmans, Green & Co. have published "Bison of Clay," by Max Begouen, which is a wonderful book, altogether out of the ordinary. There is space only to say that it is a book which is as instructive as it is deeply interesting. It deserves a longer notice which it will receive later on.

ONE BOTTLE BEATS 16 YEARS OF BATHS

"Have been trying for 16 years to get my colon cleaned out. Have taken internal baths and used all kinds of medicines. Have taken a bottle of Adlerika and am thankful that I have found something to restore my health."—Frank Ott.

Because Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, it gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterboro at McDermid & Jury and other druggists.

CLEVER INVENTIONS MAKE MOVIES REAL

You Can't Trust Your Eyes When You Watch Spectacular Effects on Screen.

A few years ago no director or continuity writer in an American moving picture company would have dared call for a scene staged outside the British House of Parliament. Nobody knew any way to get such a scene other than by the costly expedient of sending a producing company to London. Today, however, photoplay script may specify a scene in almost any location in the world, and it can be made easily without transporting actors and cameramen off their own "lot."

The process makes clever use of glass backgrounds. A scene representing the lower part of the desired location is constructed in the studio. Then, working from photographs, an artist copies the upper part of the building on glass. The glass painting of the upper stories begins at the place where the constructed first story stops, so that, when the time arrives to "shoot" the scene, the two may be matched together without disclosing the line of junction in the completed film. The huge cathedral shown in the production of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" was an excellent early example of working with glass backgrounds.

Few, probably, among the millions who attend the moving picture theatres every week are aware of the extent to which this sort of legitimate and ingenious trickery is practiced, writes Sumner Smith in the January Popular Science Monthly.

One of the most useful devices in the cameraman's bag of tricks is that of turning the crank of a camera backward. When the camera action is reversed and the film run through the projector normally, the action that was pictured is reversed on the screen.

You've seen a film hero rush toward a high wall and then draw himself up and over the wall? Reverse motion—nine times out of ten. What the actor really did was crawl over the top of the wall from the opposite side, drop to the ground and then run away—backwards. You've seen—especially in comedies—an actor walk into the path of a rapidly moving automobile, get knocked down and run over, and immediately rise and walk away unhurt? Reverse motion again. As the cameraman began grinding, the automobile started backing away and the actor started walking backward toward the sidewalk. When the resulting film was run in correct sequence, the automobile was shown dashing down upon and running into the man who seemed to stroll nonchalantly into its path.

Once, when photographic trickery was new, a tragedy of the films occurred in Great Britain. An English producer saw a film in which the hero, swinging from the cowcatcher of a speeding express train, pulled from the tracks to safety the limp body of the heroine. The Englishman didn't know that the scene was faked, that the engine backed away after the hero had dropped the lady on the ties while the camera ground backward. And when his cast attempted to duplicate the feat, from a real express train, the actress was killed.

NORTH MONAGHAN'S COUNCIL.

North Monaghan, as a result of its municipal election, commences business this year under the guidance of a Council that is three-fifths new.

All three Councilmen, A. Kent, T. M. Hunter and W. G. Waterman, are new members, while the positions of Deputy-Reeve and Reeve have been filled by promotion, R. T. Lillico, Deputy-Reeve for some years, being chosen by acclamation as Reeve, while R. A. Dobbin, Councillor over a long period, was elected as Deputy-Reeve.

The election was featured by the return to office of a veteran of North Monaghan municipal politics, T. M. Hunter, former Reeve and ex-Warden of the county, who was persuaded to come out of retirement and who ran second in the race for Council.

Although there are a large number of suburban voters in the township, it is noticeable that four members of the Council are farmers and the fifth is a former farmer.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Although a daylight saving measure has twice been defeated by the people of Peterboro, it is evident that in centres where summer time has been given a test over a term of years it is gaining rather than losing in popularity.

Such is the case in Toronto, where a daylight saving bylaw was carried on New Year's Day by the big majority of 30,999, the measure committing the Queen City to daylight saving during the summer months for the next five years.

Three years ago when the electors of Toronto were asked if they wanted the system to remain in force until 1926 the majority in favour was 12,896.

This year's vote showed an increase in favour of daylight saving in every ward in Toronto, the system receiving 13,317 more votes than in 1923, while the opposition to the measure decreased by 4,796.

The project has been rejected locally whenever it has been proposed, and there is no reason to expect a different answer were another measure to be brought forward; yet it must be admitted that some of the complaints against daylight saving stressed by its opponents cannot be of any great importance or 60,000 Toronto people would not surely have voted in favour of five years more of the system.

CIVIC SLACKERS.

A check-up of the local municipal election establishes the fact that the total vote polled was even smaller than at first realized, and that the percentage of franchise-users was only a fraction over 33 per cent.

Only one elector out of every three in Peterboro took any active part in the election.

E. R. Shirley was elected to the Utilities Commission with a total that scarcely represented one voter out of every ten on the list.

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, fifth in the aldermanic field, was chosen by a vote that was about one-sixth of the total eligible electorate.

These instances are not quoted disparagingly — no doubt had the vote been larger these candidates would have received a proportionately larger endorsation—but merely to illustrate the failure of the electors of Peterboro to measure up to their responsibility as citizens.

There is not the slightest excuse for such a small vote on a day when the conditions were altogether favourable.

The explanation that the voters have been spoiled by the political parties, who have educated them into expecting that a closed car will call for them and provide them with comfortable transportation to and from the polls, perhaps is not without some truth.

But even that does not explain why two-thirds of the electors were civic slackers on New Year's Day.

RAILWAYS AND THE MOTOR.

Railroad executives no longer regard the various forms of gasoline-propelled vehicle as a menace to solvency or even prosperity. That highway transport is waging active competition and will continue to do so permanently is not questioned, but such competition is now more clearly seen subject to various limitations, including those of distance, commodity or service requirements, cost and some others. It is being more clearly realized, also, that a high degree of co-ordination between rail and highway services is possible and probably will be brought about along functional lines. That result is being promoted by experimental use of both trucks and buses by the railroads themselves.

That an important part of the short-haul traffic is going to motor trucks is obvious. This loss bears with varying degrees of hardship upon different railroads; it is more severe for the New England roads, for example, than for Union Pacific or Atchison. No general statement universally applicable can be made, but it is probably safe to say that for most roads short-haul traffic, particularly that passing through busy city terminals, is the least profitable of the freight business. Capacity of existing city terminals being limited and expansion usually extremely expensive, the loss of local traffic will in the long run be compensated for in most cases by the release of terminal space to accommodate the growth of better-paying traffic.

A few engineers of prominence have declared that as highways grow in mileage and capacity, the present apparent distance limitations upon truck operation will be modified and trucks will make deeper and deeper inroads upon raiload taffic. That is a question for the future. The broader question remains, whether the motor vehicle in its swift rise has taken more business from the rails than it has created for them. Would the railroads be better off than they are today if the gasoline-propelled vehicle had never been invented?—Barron's.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT.

That punishment should follow crime, for the reason that punishment of crime prevents further crime, is an axiom that is accepted by most of the sensible people in the world. Some good people there are, however, and many silly people, who are inclined to extend unnecessary sympathy even to the habitual criminal, so the other point of view is worth keeping in mind.

The State of New York, less than a year ago, brought into effect a new law popularly known as the Baumes law, from the fact that it was introduced in the New York Legislature by a member named Baumes. This law was the result of the fact that persistent criminals in New York have been rather apt to escape the consequences of repeated crime owing to the fact that trial and sentence for any particular offence did not take cognizance of previous convictions. The Baumes law provides that any person convicted of a felony in New York State for the second time shall be sentenced to at least the maximum term called for by the first offence, and in addition a term of equal length for the second offence. Thus a second time offender whose first crime called for a sentence of from any two to ten years, and who had received a sentence of say five years—which possibly he had not served out—must be sent to prison on conviction of a second offence for a term of no less than ten years—and could be imprisoned for twenty.

A further clause in the law provides for imprisonment for life upon conviction of a fourth felony. The law reads as follows:

"A person who, after having been three times convicted within this State, of felonies or attempts to commit felonies, or under the law of any other State, Government or country, of crimes which if committed within this State would be felonies, commits a felony within this State, shall be sentenced upon conviction of such fourth, or subsequent offence, to imprisonment in a State prison for the term of his natural life."

Although this law has been in effect little over six months, it is said to have made quite a difference in the amount of crime perpetrated in New York City and State. Habitual criminals are said by the police to be leaving the State in a considerable number. One by-product is that there is an advance in the crime rate in the adjoining States of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, where the criminals have gone to work in greener pastures. As a consequence, these States are talking of enacting laws similar to the New York statutes. At any rate, it is asserted that New York City is now more free of criminals and life and property more secure within its borders than has been the case at any time since the war.

Undoubtedly this idea of special punishment for the special criminal will spread. A California commission for the reform of criminal procedure is recommending that some law similar to that of the Baumes law in New York State should be passed in California.

The development in New York is certainly an interesting illustration of the fact that punishment of crime does tend to prevent further crime. This is, of course, particularly the case when the punishment is prompt. It would not be wise that punishment should be severe for a first offence, except an offence of the gravest kind. The history of criminal law in England, where at one time, a hundred years ago or more, a man was liable to be hanged for a small theft, has proved sufficiently that great severity of punishment for first offences is not only a most cruel mistake, but a very great mistake, if only for the reason that where punishment is too severe, part of society at once forms itself into a league to protect the offender and to prevent punishment altogether. Only against the habitual and determined criminal should society try to protect itself by prolonged imprisonment, or even capital punishment. Sometimes there may be mistake in this extreme punishment, but surely it will likely be better for society that there may be occasional mistake in such a matter than that criminals should be coddled and crime be promoted by maudlin sympathy and mistaken leniency.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Only one-third of the electors voted on New Year's Day. That can scarcely be counted a good start for 1927.

North Monaghan endorsed the Brinton Company's bylaw—a wise decision on the part of the electors of the township.

The vote in Toronto was the largest ever polled in a municipal contest. There is one place where "Vote as you like" drive has had some effect apparently.

1927 would be a banner year if some way were to be found to eliminate the road hogs and the air pirates.

Judging by the amount of "squealing" in the air these nights Peterboro's radio dealers must have done a record Christmas season business.

It is pleasing to know that a great insurance firm will insure all and sundry against the risks of baldness, earthquakes, revolutions and twins.—Ottawa Journal.

A correspondent of the Toronto Globe wants a Canadian King. What's the matter with the King that already directs our affairs?—Lethbridge Herald.

Judge Landis has had his salary increased to $65,000 as head of organized baseball. Outside of the movies, this is the best job going.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Sanding the boys' slides may seem like the refinement of cruelty, but it saves many a collision for the pedestrian.—Guelph Mercury.

This is to be Canada's year, and Peterboro should resolve to march ahead with the country.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—The market opened for the new year with a firmer tone than at the closing out of the old. A moderate run met a good demand for the best butcher steers, heifers and cows, prices 20c to 25c higher the choicest offerings. Common and poor medium quality butcher stuff, however, is not wanted, and shippers are emphatically advised not to ship poor quality cattle to market this week. The demand is only for choice butcher and good fat cows.

Heavy export steers met only a light demand, and will not be wanted in any number for another two weeks. Buyers took about 170 steers at about steady prices with last week.

Cows steady to firm.

Lambs strong and higher.

Hogs steady for yesterday's deliveries at $10.75 f.o.b., but packers bidding $10.25 for yesterday's loadings.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press)—There was some demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for wheat in the Montreal market yesterday and sales of several loads of tough grades were made. An easier feeling prevailed in the grain freight situation and rates for heavy grain to the United Kingdom were quoted at 3s. to 3s. 6d. per quarter, January loading.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was slow, but the tone was steady and prices showed no change.

The feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for Spring wheat grades and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel.

Prices for Winter wheat flour were steady with a small trade passing.

A fairly active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and prices were well maintained. Extreme dullness marked the trade in standard grades of rolled oats but prices were firm.

The egg market was quiet but firm. The receipts were 1,174 cases.

Prices for all qualities of potatoes were well maintained under a quiet demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountain were offered at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag of 90 pounds, New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.55 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.40 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk.

Only a small trade was done in butter but values were unchanged. The receipts were 525 packages.

The cheese market was inactive, but the undertone was strong. The receipts were 232 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Wheat was at a standstill yesterday and all grains were easier with traders hesitant. Business was so light that wheat moved within the narrow range of around 1 cent. Market interest generally was quiet, the annual board of trade election occupying more attention by the pit occupants than did trade conditions. There was some short covering toward the end of the session and most of an early downturn was recovered. Wheat finished 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher; corn was 3-4 to 7-8c off; oats declined 1-4 to 1-2 and provisions were 15 cents down to 10 cents up.

Corn displayed a decidedly easy undertone, the market being under pressure partly because of liquidation due to the weak cash position represented by the 11 cents discount under May and a January. Buying was chiefly against indemnities.

Weakness in other grains brought lower levels in oats.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

FEW LINES

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Queen Elizabeth, historians tell us, had twenty watches, complex and fantastically jeweled, and not one of them kept correct time.

A laborer to-day carries a "dollar watch" that is the acme of simplicity in watch construction, but keeps perfect time.

Says Adam Smith, in his "Essay on the Principles Which Lead and Direct Philosophical Inquiries":

"The machines that are first invented to perform any particular movement are always the most complex, and succeeding artists generally discover that with fewer wheels, with fewer principles of motion than had originally been employed, the same effects may be more easily produced."

The nearer perfection a thing gets, the simpler it is.

The keener the mind the more it strips away useless discussion. "It leaves out everything but the point."

Napoleon said in the council chamber he was pitted against more eloquent men than himself, but that he always won out by the simple argument "that two and two make four."

When we finish talking and our thought is not clear, it is not because the thought is too complex to express, but because we are not masters enough of it and of our words to make it simple.

"Language," someone who observed the common failing of not making thought simple, said, "was invented to obscure thought."

The highest art in writing and speaking is clarity couched in simplicity.

The Lord's Prayer, the Sermon on the Mount, and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address are among the greatest pieces of literature and each approaches the simplicity of perfection.

A noted cartoonist says, "Cartoons, when published, look as if the fellow drew them in a minute or two. Those simple-looking drawings with but few lines are deceptive. There is more work back of them than if they contained a million pen strokes. The fewer the lines the harder the work."

Few lines, in every field of effort, is the slogan of approaching perfection.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: This letter has no reference to Mr. Duffus but it has a very distinct reference to a man by the name of Merrill who airs his ignorance in your columns occasionally. In the first place this man says that many people objected to Mr. Duffus's nomination for Senator by him or account of his religion. I brand that as a mischievous lie. I defy him to name one person who said any such thing.

In the second place anybody that knows anything about Canadian constitutional history would know that "the people" have nothing to do with the Senate. The Senate is appointed by the Crown and not by every voter who thinks because he has a vote he is just about the most important thing in the whole goddarned universe. Wouldn't the Senate be a nice kind of a check on the Commons if the only people who elect the Commons could decide also who were to be Senators?

At this time too, when the King and Parliament of Great Britain have given their warm sanction to the report of the Imperial Conference for the first time in history forming "the British Commonwealth of Nations," as His Majesty himself named it, and when it has been hailed by Catholic and Protestant alike throughout the empire, certainly it was ill advised to let Merrill vent his anger at his last defeat by making a suggestion that is false to the core. —Reader.

HUGE DISTILLERY FOUND AT BUFFALO

Supplied All Varieites of Whiskey To Niagara District.

BUFFALO, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The source of the flood of illicit liquor which has been pouring in upon western New York for several months is believed by prohibition officials to have been discovered in the raid upon a large distillery late last week, the federal authorities here announced today. Since the raid on Friday afternoon, the officials have been conducting a quiet investigation into the activities of the plant, and they felt free to-day to announce their conclusions. The distillery contained apparatus having an estimated value of $100,000 and an approximate capacity of 10,000 gallons.

During the past several months, the prohibition officials charged, this plant has been contributing thousands of quarts of almost any variety of whiskey and gin desired into the homes and speak easys of the Niagara district.

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF HEMORRHOIDS

The last five to eight inches of the large intestine is called the rectum. The external opening of the colon is the anus, which is controlled by a sphincter muscle, called the External Sphincter. The Internal Sphincter muscle is located five to eight inches above the external opening and the section between these two muscles is called the rectum.

The most common rectal trouble is caused by an enlargement of the veins at the opening of the rectum at the anus. In this section, there is an unusually large number of veins. Because of constipation or any unusual nervous contraction of the anus, these veins are squeezed so tightly as to make them enlarge. With most people, there is a slight protrusion of the veins at the anus and these are called hemorrhoids. It is very rare to find these enlarged veins any place in the intestines, except the lower last inch of the rectum.

In addition to constipation being the principal cause of hemorrhoids, there is another factor of a chemical more than a mechanical nature. The feces passing through the rectum is, of course, the most poisonous substance eliminated from the body, and as it passes over the membrances there must necessarily be some irritation. If one is expecially toxic, the feces is, of course, more poisonous; therefore, more irritating to the delicate membranes lining the colon.

If the rectum has been stretched by constipated feces, and especially if fissures or cracks have been made in the membranes through this stretching, the feces, loaded with vicious toxins, will burn into the membranes and produce larger fissures, which develop into fistulas, and often permanent openings through the intestinal walls.

It is easy to understand then that if anyone is suffering from liver trouble, the poisons thrown off from the morbid functioning of the liver will be an added chemical irritation to the rectum in addition to the mechanical injury caused by constipation.

The cure consists in getting rid of the constipation, and in using proper treatments to the rectum itself. In curing constipation, remember these four important points:

(1) Go to the toilet regularly at a certain time each day.

(2) Assume a squatting position on the toilet. This can be accomplished by putting the feet on the rungs of a chair in front of you.

(3) Take plenty of vigorous physical exercise, especially the setting-up exercises.

(4) Eat a large amount of non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and raw.

For local treatments in the rectum in case of hemorrhoids, there is nothing better than the application of ice. A good way to apply ice is to break a piece of ice into small pieces and force a pointed piece into the rectum and hold it at the opening, partially inside the anus, until it melts, or for about four or five minutes. This is as good as any electrical treatments you can take in a doctor's office, as it will shrink the hemorrhoids and help the veins recover their muscular tone.

Before and after this treatment, keep the rectum well lubricated with plain vaseline. Use an enema once daily, if necessary, to keep the bowels open.

When you have succeeded in overcoming constipation, you will find that these ice treatments will be particularly effective and will assist you bringing about a complete cure.

NEW YEAR'S SERVICE.

St. Paul's Church Rector Delivers Inspiring Address at Marmora.

MARMORA, Jan. 4.—A goodly congregation at St. Paul's on Sunday listened to an appropriate New Year's message from the rector, on the first four words of the Bible. "In the Beginning of God." He remarked at the outset that the commencement of a New Year again brought the reality of God very much before us and when we think of that reality we also remind ourselves that God is everywhere. He is now our Creator, Preserver, Deliverer, Judge, Father and Redeemer. Through the changing pages of the Bible the same message is told that God is at the beginning of all creation and that He is everywhere. The Bible begins with a great assertion. It asserts that there is a God. It begins with a mystery, but it is not a mystery of darkness, for it is a mystery of light. Jesus has revealed God to us. We do not ask for proof of God from the Bible. There is no proof in the Bible which is the creation of God. The Bible takes God for granted. It does not grope after or speculate about God and nowhere in its pages can one find an apologetic tone on behalf of Him whose word it is God's reality will assert itself upon man. God made us and so we belong to God. The new year is hidden, but God is not. Let us live throughout the year, drawing of the faith that lies in the hand of God.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TOOTHBRUSH
(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Do you think it will be all right for us to leave you alone, my dear?" Uncle Wiggily's wife asked him one morning after the little bunny rabbits had gone to school. "Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy and I are going down town shopping again," went on the rabbit lady, "and I see you are going to read a book, which means you are going to stay in the bungalow. But if you are afraid of being left alone——"

"Why should I be afraid of being left alone?" asked Mr. Longears, with a sly little twinkle of his pink nose.

"Well, yesterday, when you were alone the Bob Cat got in and nearly took you away," squeaked Nurse Jane.

"Yes, but what happened to the Bob Cat?" asked the bunny with a laugh. "Didn't I play a brave trick on him? Didn't I shut him up in the steamer chair until the Police Dog came? Of course I did. So run along my dear," he said to his wife. "I'm not afraid to stay alone."

So Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longearr went down to the eight and nine dollar store to buy a pound reading a book about how to get the sharp points off carrots without sticking yourself.

"Heigh, ho, hum!" said the bunny to himself after a while when he had been reading for about an hour. "This is very dull here with not even Baby Bunty to tease me. I think I'll go out and hop around. I may have an adventure."

So Mr. Longears put on his tall, silk hat, his red trousers and black coat, and forth he hopped down the front walk of his bungalow.

All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily reached the front gate he happened to think:

"Gracious goodness! I forgot to clean my teeth! I must go right back in my bungalow and give them a good scrubbing. The idea! How could I be so careless as to start adventuring without cleaning my teeth? It was very careless of me."

Uncle Wiggily hopped back to the front door, unlocked it and went in, leaving the door open behind him, for he intended to come right down again and go out. It would not take him long to clean his teeth with the new brush he had bought.

The rabbit gentleman hopped up three steps at a time and soon was in the bathroom, with the water splashing, and he began to scrub his teeth. All of a sudden, however, the rabbit gentleman heard a noise down stairs.

"Who is there?" he called from the bathroom, and he talked rather thickly as he had his toothbrush in his mouth.

"I am," answered a loud voice.

"O, is that you, Mr. Whitewash?" asked the bunny, thinking it was his polar bear friend who had given him the steamer chair.

"No, it isn't Mr. Whitewash, and it isn't Mr. Blackwash either!" suddenly came the shout and up the stairs came clattering the Skillery Scallery Alligator with the double-jointed tail. Into the bathroom he popped himself.

"What do you want?" asked the bunny.

"I want to nibble you!" howled the 'Gator. "That's what I came in for—to nibble you!"

Then up spoke brave Uncle Wiggily, asking:

"Have you cleaned your teeth to day?"

"What has that to do with nibbling you?" asked the Alligator.

"Plenty," answered the bunny. "I never let any one nibble me who hasn't cleaned his teeth. So, as you didn't clean yours yourself, I'll clean them for you. Now it happened that Nurse Jane had left in the bathroom a big, hard scrubbing brush in a pail of soapy water. Catching up his scrubbing brush, Uncle Wiggily rubbed it on the yellow soap and then, thrusting it into the 'Gator's mouth, he began to clean the bad chap's teeth.

"Oh! Wow! Ouch! Oh, you hurt!" howled the Skillery Scallery chap.

"Then why don't you clean your own teeth?" asked the bunny. "Open your mouth wider so I can get at your back teeth!"

"No! No! I'd rather never nibble you than have you clean my teeth with a soapy scrubbing brush!" howled the bad chap, and away he ran clattering down the stairs faster than he had come up. Uncle Wiggily laughed, finishing cleaning his own teeth and then he went for a walk. And if the rocking horse will sing the bedspread to sleep, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's lumpy cushion.

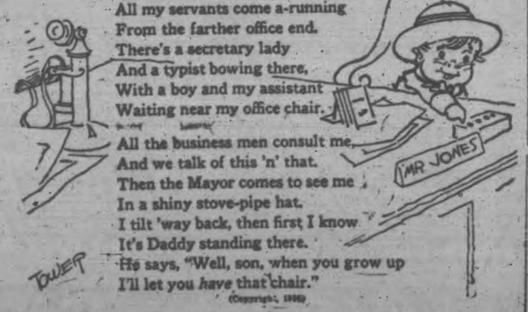
Daddy's Office Chair

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

DADDIES were just naturally made for hero worship. When the child is wee Daddy is a being who makes excursions into an entrancing outer world, coming back for occasional playtimes, a being of authority to be treated with respect. Later everything Daddy does is crowned with wonder. He isn't always around like mother, nor does he have the everlasting problems of training to face. His is a special advantage for comradeship and inspiration if he'll only take it, and no Daddy need ever come down from his pedestal except by his own carelessness or indifference. I fear too many Daddies are so busy accumulating material things for little sons and daughters that they fail to endow them with the companionship and contact which is life's greatest treasure. They are entirely missing, for instance, the radiance of importance enveloping the little son who is permitted to sit in Daddy's office chair.



WHEN I visit Daddy's office
Up so high it's 'most a mile,
I always hope he'll leave the room
And stay out quite a while,
'Cause I pretend I own the place
Since no one else is there,
And I'm the "big boss," sitting
In my Daddy's office chair.

When I push the buzzer button,
(This is only just pretend),
All my servants come a-running
From the farther office end.
There's a secretary lady
And a typist bowing there,
With a boy and my assistant
Waiting near my office chair.

All the business men consult me,
And we talk of this 'n' that.
Then the Mayor comes to see me
In a shiny stove-pipe hat.
I tilt 'way back, then first I know
It's Daddy standing there.
He says, "Well, son, when you grow up
I'll let you have that chair."

SHORT STORY

Ben Waters had gone almost into bankruptcy in his first business venture, a book shop on a fashionable street in Boston.

Fortunately, he had seen the handwriting on the wall in time to read it and retire while he could still hold on to precious books. He had lost all his money, a lot of faith in his own judgment, most of his patience with what he had formerly idealized as the cream of Boston intelligencia but—he possessed many fine editions of rare books, autographed copies, specially bound volumes, a unique collection of works that might serve him in good stead some day.

He secured a job in a bookshop in a railway terminal in New York where he did not expect anything of the clients who might come and go, and where he operated, on the side, a circulating library of some activity.

"There is more appreciation of books in the minds of the people who come in here with not more than a quarter to spend on a loaned volume than I found in all my experience in effete Boston," he said bitterly, to Horace, a colleague and a man who was becoming his friend.

Summer approached and Ben chafed under the confinement. The terminal bookshop was open evenings as well as all day and his hours very long.

One night as he walked down toward Greenwich Village, where he had a cubicle in which to sleep, he had an inspiration. Why could he not take his precious books and, with the cooperation of some firm of progressive publishers, combine his wares with theirs, and his work and experience with their investment and go a-caravaning for the summer? To live among his books, to sleep at nigh in the silent places, to travel the dusty country roads and commune with country folk—that would be a delightful life, thought Ben.

It took him some time to convince a house of book publishers that this would pay, not only on the immediate investment but as a permanent advertisement for their books and periodicals. But he had a charming personality, a persuasive manner when he was thoroughly in earnest and, almost as a dream coming true, he found himself the keeper of the book caravan. He had a well-stocked set of shelves, a hundred books for circulation on his journey, a portable home and book shop combined.

Thoughts of a girl he had fallen in love with while visiting a college friend in Brattleboro, Vermont, took him, one night, to camp just outside the town on a lovely brook—Broad Brook, as he remembered the name. He drew his motor up under a group of fragrant, age-old pine trees and there he pitched his camp. His book business had progressed and not only had he sold many volumes and taken orders for more, but he had left, through his circulating system, many others that were to be called for on his return trip.

From the region of Brattleboro, he took daily trips to the camps in the neighborhood. Always, like a fragrant scent pursuing him, came to him the memory of this girl he had always since thought of as his Dream Girl. At every turn, it seemed as if he must find her. He knew her name but further than that he had heard nothing of her since his college years.

Occasionally, at noon, when he stopped his book wagon at a country place, he was invited to eat the midday meal with the family. And such meals! And such a wealth of philosophy as he found among the great souls who had been reared and were still living in the wonderful hills of Vermont.

"Couldn't you come back to spend Sunday with us?" asked a woman who had been more than glad to have him to dinner. "Ethel, my daughter will be home and she loves books—and folks like you."

Ben accepted the invitation and recalled with a quickly beating pulse that Ethel had been the name of his Dream Girl. Could it, would it, be she? If not, why was he to be haunted by the memory of her sweetness?

Why had he been led into the depths of this country but for a romantic purpose?

On Sunday when his motor caravan chug-chugged up to the white gate Ethel was the first person he saw in the old-fashioned garden beside the porch.

She came out to greet him for she had read his name on the Bookmobile Booklet and—had remembered it.

When she saw him she knew it was the same Ben of her teen days.

The spaces in their minds where they found a common meeting ground were numberless and Ethel's mother invited Ben to spend the night with them.

"No—I'll come to breakfast with you, if I may," he said, "but tonight—this night of nights—I must spend out under the stars to give my thanks for what has happened to me."

The mother understood. She also began to be consoled for the realization that her daughter had never found a man she cared for but had kept on teaching in Brattleboro. She had carried the ideal of a girlhood lover in her heart so that none other might enter.

"And you will marry me, Ethel?" Ben begged the girl the last night before leaving to retrace the trail back to the publishers who had had faith in him.

"Of course, Ben—I've always said you would find me," she said simply.

"THE TEMPTRESS"

"The Temptress" is a story of the vivid type, filmed for the screen from one of the exotic tales of Ibanez. It is the sort of picture that is different, with an extraordinary lady as the heroine. The older-time vamps like Theda Bara and even Gloria Swanson have been superseded by a strange lody who uses her eyes in snake-like fashion and has no dissimulations at all with regard to her inner desires. The Maquise Elena played by Greta Garbo in a striking characterization, works her wiles on the man she loves and follows him from Paris to South America in her efforts to finally capture him. Her husband is a negligible factor in her plans, and goes out of the picture quite comfortably by way of a stray bullet intended for the man she pursues, Manuel Robledo, played in somewhat inadequate style by Antonio Moreno. The outstanding masculine role in the piece is that of Roy D'Arcy, whose delineation of the villain, Manos Duras, is diabolic in the extreme. Lionel Barrymore and Marc McDermott, the latter playing the part of Fontenoy, the Parisian banker who suicides, after a vain attempt to capture the fancy of the Marquise, are other notable figures in a picture that is colorful and vivid in the extreme, with its odd heroine, its background of Paris and South America, and its quick action. A thrilling portion is the fight with bull whips between Manos Duras and Rogledo, in which the two men almost cut each other to pieces in their struggle for mastery. The latter part of the picture gives the impression of a ruthless shearing by the censor.

The comedy is an exciting one, with the weak hero and the strong villain engaging in numerous crazy adventures aboard an airplane.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

THRILLS, LAUGHS IN NEW PICTURE.

Rare Comedy and Drama Abound in "Bachelor Brides."

A laugh in every foot—with a thrill between each laugh. Such is William K. Howard's production of 'Bachelor Brides,' Rod La Rocque's new starring picture which will be displayed at the Regent Theatre to-day. The film is a delightful comedy mystery piece, which masterfully combines genuine laughs with hair-raising situations galore.

The picture presents La Rocque, as a monocled English peer, who seeks the hands of a wealthy American heiress. The father of the girl, a Chicago butter and egg man, is seen in a hurried flight to Scotland in a vain attempt to block the marriage, and what happens at Duncraggan Towers the stormy night of his arrival furnishes first laughs—than suspense—then laughs again.

Opposite La Rocque is Elinor Fair, while Julia Faye, Lucien Littlefield, George Nichols, Paul Nicholson, Eddie Gribbon, Eulalie Jensen and Sally Rand are in the supporting cast. The adaptation was made by Garrett Fort, while C. Gardner Sullivan wrote the continuity.

"Hit of the Year Sale"

DISSOLVING PARTNERSHIP

A Sensational Sale

When we decided to break the policy of 37 years and put on the first Sale that has been seen in this Store in more than a quarter of a century, we made up our mind to do it right. The dissolution of the partnership of Mr. F. McFadden and T. H. Adams, the members of the present firm, makes it absolutely necessary to turn a large part of this well-known staple stock into cash in as short a time as possible. This applies to both the Peterboro Store and the Lakefield branch as well, and the price-cutting in both stocks is unprecedented.

Two Heavily Stocked Stores

Both the Dickson Stores, the old stand and that in Lakefield, are heavily stocked with splendid stocks of Dry Goods that are absolutely staple. Dickson's prices for dependable goods have always been moderate, as hundreds of customers know to their advantage. During this Sale these already low prices have been given a tremendous reduction, and this on Dry Goods that are every-day needs means genuine and substantial savings. It will pay well to buy a supply for a long time ahead. Such opportunities come only once in a lifetime.

RICKARD CONFERS WITH PETE REILLY

Reconciliation Between the Promoter and Jack Delaney Expected.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press)—A course to reconciliation between Tex Rickard and Jack Delaney, world's lightheavyweight champion, appeared to have been opened after a conference yesterday in which Pete Reilly, manager of the French Canadian, met Rickard for the first time since their split last spring. Rickard refused to discuss the meeting but Reilly admitted he had given his consent for Delaney to fight either Jack Dempsey or Tunney.

Reilly objected to Delaney's participation in Rickard's heavy weight elimination tournament. He contended that Delaney already had qualified for either Dempsey or Tunney by his quick knockout triumph over Bud Gorman.

"I signed no binding document, and I told Rickard I wanted Delaney to fight Dempsey early next summer," said Reilly. "Tunney as well as Rickard wants the man who will draw the most in a heavyweight title bout next fall. Delaney will fight Dempsey and beat him. I see no reason for Delaney beating any of the others."

MISSIONARIES VISIT UNITED CHURCHES

Important Services Will Be Held Here Next Sunday.

Three distinguished scholars and missionaries of the United church are to visit Peterborough next Sunday to discuss the importance and significance of the Foreign Mission work of the church.

At Trinity and Mark street, Rev. J. T. Tucker, D.D., is to speak of his experiences in Africa. He is a former representative of the Congregational church and has just completed a tour of the United church from coast to coast. His addresses have attracted wide attention.

At St. Andrew's and Knox the speaker will be Rev. Andrew Thompson of Honan, China. Mr. Thompson won a scholarship in his class in college and is a keen observer of conditions in China. A most successful missionary and a man well worth hearing on any matter which he cares to discuss.

FOR PARKING, AUTO CAN RUN SIDEWAYS

Remarkable New Device Aids Motorists in Tight Places.

On a crowded street in Baltimore, Md., the other day, passers-by were amazed to see a five-passenger car stop suddenly, move sideways, and slip smoothly and easily into a parking space less than two inches longer than the car itself.

To accomplish this the driver, having halted his car, threw out the clutch and moved a small gear lever. With the shift, the automobile began rising from the pavement, and within a few seconds the wheels where a full three inches from the ground. Then the driver shifted the lever once more, and the vehicle began to move sideways toward the curb, between two other cars. Close to the curbstone, but without touching, the liver, pressing on the clutch pedal, brought the sidewise journey to an end. All the time the engine kept running.

This remarkable feat was accomplished says the January Popular Science Monthly, through the use of an ingenious new parking device, the invention of Villor P. Williams, a Baltimore engineer. The device carried four small, solid-tired wheels, concealed beneath the chassis of the car close to the vertical plane of each axle. They are set at right angles to the frame.

These small wheels are made to descend through the use of a worm gear, connected with the transmission, and operated by the engine of the car. When the small wheels touch the pavement, the worm-gear continues to work, exerting powerful downward pressure, with the result of lifting the car bodily.

When the weight of the car is supported by the auxiliary wheels, a shift of the special gear-lever operates a mechanism which causes the car to move sideways on the small wheels. This too, is accomplished by means of the car's motive power, and without the driver's having to leave his seat. The sideward motion may be continued indefinitely—across the street or for the full length of a boulevard.

After being halted, the car may be lowered again or left "in the air." Removal of the vehicle from the restricted parking space is merely a matter of reversing the process.

Other advantages of the device, besides its application to parking, are pointed out by the inventor. Because it enables the driver, in his seat, to lift the car clear of the ground, it does away with the hand jack in changing tires. Similarly the added clearance simplifies the task of making repairs underneath the car.

When Caldwell went over the Michigan line for a touchdown in the recent Michigan-Navy game it was the first time that an opponent had crossed the Wolverines' goal line since Harold Grange, of Illinois made one of his touchdowns in 1924.

SCIENCE MAKES USE OF POWER IN MUSIC

Rhythm Has Strange Ability To Excite, Soothe or Depress Us.

Most of us who enjoy music have felts its mysterious power to sway us—the rest of us when we are tired, make us happy when we are glum, encourage us thrill and inspire us. But just what is this strange power? Why do we tap our feet to the rhythm of a lively tune? Why does one kind of music "feel good," another depress us?

Scientists are just beginning to learn the answers. They have learned that music, besides being a source of pleasure and entertainment, can become a force of immense practical value in our homes, offices and workshops; that melodies and harmonies, chosen and used scientifically, possess remarkable powers of renewing our vitality.

They generally agree, writes Edgar C. Wheeler, in Popular Science Monthly for January, that the secret of music's power is its rhythm. This rhythm, impressed upon us through our ears, goes through our bodies with contagious effect, just as the footfalls of marching soldiers will cause a bridge to sway if the soldiers keep in step.

Nearly all our bodily machinery operates rhythmically. The rhythm of music seems to have the effect of altering the beat of his natural rhythm. It arouses or depresses the action of the nerves, changes the action of bodily secretions, makes the heart beat faster or slower, alters the rhythm of breathing, and acts through moor nerves and muscles.

The effect of any musical selection depends largely on the relation to the speed of rhythm to the speed of your hearbeats. The average normal human pulse runs about seventy beats to the minute. A lively tune, like a quick-step march, the rythm of which is faster than the hearbeat—say eighty to the minute—almost always has the effect of exciting or exhilarating us. We express our reaction to this excitement by tapping with our feet and applauding. On the other hand, music with rhythm slower than the heartbeat has oposite effects. Sometimes it rests us; often it depresses and makes us gloomy.

Franz Kneisel, late leader of the famous Kneisel string quartet; took advantage of these facts by deliberately setting the rhythm of his selection slightly above the normal heartbeat. The result of this invariably was a marked increased in applause. The secret of the popularity of John Philip Sousa the famous bandmaster, lies partly in the fact that he usually times the rhythm of his band music just above that of the normal heartbeat.

Dr. E. E. Free, athority on sound and light, learned some interesting facts about our foot-tapping habits in recent experiments with theatre audiences. During a slow-moving number, a stethoscope detected considerable tapping of feet at the outset, but this quickly died out. During a lively selection, the tapping began softly and steadily increased until finally at least ninety per cent of the audience were beating time with their feet.

WEEK OF PRAYER STARTED IN CITY

Rev. W. M. McDonald Gives Address at Opening Service in Trinity Church.

The observance of the World's Week of Prayer, January 3 to 7, began locally last night in Trinity United Church. Rev. David Wren, pastor of the church, presided, and Rev. William McDonald of Knox Church gave the address. The general topic of the week is "Communion with Christ," and the special topic last night was "Communion with Christ as the Redeemer of Life." The speaker called attention to certain qualities and characteristics of Christ as the Redeemer of Life. He was a careful student of and thoroughly understood the Scriptures of His own time. He had a sympathetic insight into the problem of society in His own day, especially the problems of disease and suffering, and He knew how to solve them. Those who needed Him most were readily attracted to Him. With His help and in His way lies all possibility of meeting the world's need and solving its problems.

A most attentive and interested as well as a large congregation shared in this service.

Carry Religious Banner While Holding Up Cars

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4.—(United Press.) — Carrying a banner bearing the inscription "Long live Christ, our king," fifty armed men, reinforced by 100 more, stopped twenty autos on the road from Cuernavaca. Just outside Mexico City, last night and asked the passengers for arms and money. Americans were among the passengers. The men explained that their action was directed not at the individuals whom they were asking for money, but at Mexican officials and that the money was wanted to aid them in their fight against the "enemies of religion." Violence was not resorted to and the automobiles were not searched. Some of the motorists handed over their arms without protest and others did likewise with their money.

NEW INVESTIGATION INTO 'KIDNAPPING'

Mrs. McPherson, However, Denies Having Been at Carmel.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 4—(Canadian Press).—A new investigation of the movements of Aimee Semple McPherson last summer during the time she declares she was held for ransom by kidnappers, has been started by the district attorney's office, the Times says. The enquiry centres on a hotel registration in El Paso, Texas, two days prior to the evangelist's reappearance in Mexico.

A woman who registered at an El Paso hotel remained there a day and a night, after June 21, and departed on a westbound train which went through Douglas, Arizona, approximately ten hours before the evangelist was found in Agua Prieta, Sonora, across the boundary from Douglas.

The investigators are attempting to determine whether the woman who registered at the El Paso hotel was alone or accompanied by other persons.

They also began a check of the movements of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio man.

"I don't care what they claim to have uncovered in the way of transcontinental jaunts," said Mrs. McPherson, when informed of the new developments, "Mr. Ormiston may have traveled about the country while I was in the hands of kidnappers. I have already stated I was not 'Miss X.' He said his companion was 'Miss X.' I was not at Carmel and that settles it."

One of the main features during the evening was a presentation of a beautiful set of dishes, together with an address to Mrs. Lily Turner, who was completely taken by surprise but was able, in a few well chosen words, to thank everyone who showed such kink thoughts for her. Mrs. Turner has faithfully and voluntarily fulfilled the duties of organist in a most capable manner and the token of appreciation could not have been better placed. The address read as follows:

Dear Mrs. Turner:

We, the members and officials of the Roseneath United church congregation, have chosen this occasion at this Christmas season to express to you in some tangible way our heart felt appreciation of the faithful and efficient service you have rendered us during the past year, as organist and assistant choir leader of our church. In view of this free and faithful service we feel that it only becomes us to assure you of our most hearty co-operation, trusting that by such mutual agreement the services of the church may be both a delight to you and the people, and the uplift to the kingdom of God, in our midst.

We sincerely trust therefore, that you will accept this gifts as a token of our deep appreciation of the splendid and faithful service you are giving us as co-leader of the choir and organist of our church.

Signed on behalf of the minister, congregation and officials of the Roseneath United church.

William Higgs, and the late Mrs. Higgs, became the bride of Dr. Charles Alvin Richards, of Curtisville, Pennsylvania, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Richards, Millbrook.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the bride, daintily attired in ivory georgette, with seed pearl and sequin trimming, entered the living-room, leaning on the arm of her father. Her corsage bouquet was of Ophelia roses, and she wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms.

Miss Edith Widdup, A.T.C.M., of the Ontario Ladies' College, played the wedding march.

The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreen intertwined with roses, and was performed by the Rev. William Higgs, assisted by Rev. F. L. Farewell, Principal of the O.L.C., Whitby. Previous to her marriage, the bride was a member of the teaching staff of the college at Whiby.

Miss Eileen Higgs attended her sister, wearing a becoming dress of shot silk taffeta in blue and silver, with trimmings of silver lace and with silver shoes and stockings to match. Her bouquet was of roses.

Dr. Bruce Griffin, of Curtisville, Pa., supported the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Helen Bunner sang "My World." The guests numbered twenty-five, and inclcuded the immediate relatives and friends.

The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of matched pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold vanity case, and to the groomsman gold cuff links.

After the wedding breakfast Dr. and Mrs. Richards left for a brief honeymoon at Toronto and other points, the bride tarvelling in a dress of Palmetto satin, with hat to match, and seal coat, sable trimmed.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

During the week that followed, Cherry was in a fever of excitement over her prodigal shopping. On Wednesday two huge wardrobe trunks, a steamer trunk, two patent leather hat boxes, and two magnificent calfskin suitcases were delivered to the little Myrtle Street house, but Faith began to wonder helplessly how five times as many pieces of luggage could hold the vast wardrobe that Cherry was accumulating.

On Thursday an expensive seamstress, whose cards proclaimed that she was "Madame Denise, Modiste Parisienne," arrived with a stooped, humble little old sewing woman, and regally took charge of the Lane establishment. The pier glass was transferred to Cherry's bedroom, which billowed and frothed and overflowed with exotic silks, satins and laces.

"Madame Denise," who confessed to Faith on Friday that her real name was Nora Dennis, spent most of her time manicuring her pointed nails and posing before the pier glass, admiring the effect of her marcelled, hennaed hair, but she managed somehow, miraculously, it seemed to Faith, to design and supervise the construction of half a dozen amazingly becoming gowns and a great stack of chiffon, georgette and crepe undergarments, delirous with lace, ribbons and touches of hand embroidery.

"You haven't a shop of your own, Mrs. Dennis?" Faith asked one day, as she carefully set clusters of French knots below the narrow straps of a filmy white chiffon "combination."

"No, I prefer to take entire charge of a trousseau or a debutante's coming out wardrobe," "Madame Denise" paused, hand on svelte hip, to smile upon Faith. "No overhead, you see. It takes an immense amount of money to doll up a shop so that it will make a woman ashamed to spend less than a hundred and fifty dollars for a frock. Rents are terrific, too, in the best locations. This way, I have absolutely no expense. I can't go bankrupt to save my life. And when the trousseau is finished, I have most of my earnings clear. I can go to Europe if I want to, or run down to my father's farm for a month. And believe me, I salt it away. The thousand I'll make here will keep me for three or four months if I want to loaf."

"Thousand?" Faith gasped. "A thousand dollars for four weeks work?"

"And cheap at the price," "Madame Denise" patted her marcel with a complacent hand. "Of course your sister has to pay Mrs. Hogan's wages extra, but they amount to only seven dollars a day. But if I do say it, when we've finished here Miss Cherry will have the swankiest trousseau that was ever turned out in this town. And I don't mean maybe."

While Faith was dizzily trying to compute the total of Cherry's supreme extravagance, Mrs. Dennis went on in the confidential, friendly tone she had dropped into so naturally with Faith. "Listen here, girlie, you ought to go into this business. Of course I'm not kidding you! You've got the neatest little natural talent I ever run across in all my professional career, and I know my Paris and New York, too, believe me! If you want to learn the business, and you can see it's a sweet little game, I'll take you in hand after your sister's married. You can come with me as a sewing woman—best way in the world to learn every trick in the trade—and after you've learned all I can teach you, I'll take you into partnership. I'll get the contracts, and we'll hit on some fair percentage basis. What d'ye say?"

Faith flushed with pleasure as she looked rearchingly into the warm, friendly, painted face of the modiste. Mrs. Dennis' keen green eyes met Faith's unwaveringly, honestly.

"I don't know if I could really do it," Faith deprecated, but her eyes glistened with hope.

"I can't keep from thinking of flowers when I plan a dress for Cherry." Faith looked up at the kindly woman with brimming eyes. "She's always looked so lovely in that pale, creamy yellow and green, that it seemed the most natural thing in the world to think of her as a water lily, and dress her to look like one."

"It's a shame that it won't be a handsome young Prince Charming that will have the pleasure of seeing your sister in these pretty things on her wedding night," Mrs. Dennis' eyes followed Faith's, and rested dreamingly, wistfully on the "Water Lily" negligee.

"That must be Cherry now," Faith said warningly, in a low voice, as the front door opened and closed sharply.

"Ah, mademoiselle, we have something to show you!" "Madame Denise" put on her airs and her accent as Cherry flung open the door into her bedroom.

"I can't be bothered right now!" Cherry's eyes were wide, that blazing, angry yellow that Faith knew so well. She ran to Faith, breathlessly, and flung two letters upon her sister's lap. "Look! Do you see what I see, or am I going crazy! Look at that—and that!"

Every vestige of color faded from Faith's cheeks and lips, as her staring horrified eyes took in the thing that Cherry had seen.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

In Peterborough Churches

ST PAUL'S PREBYTERIAN.

One of the features of the Sunday evening service at this church is the organ recital by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., which commences fifteen minutes before the regular service. On Sunday evening, music lovers had a rare treat in the following numbers: "Toccato and Fugue D Minor" by Bach; "Intermezzo in B Flat," by Lemare, and an "Improvisation on tune St. Sylvester."

When the organ broke forth in the stirring notes of the Doxology practically every seat in the church was occupied. The sermon which followed was just a little different from the ordinary sermon of the average church. It was a New Year's message with a backward look in the nature of a review of 1926. The title of it was "Our Main Street."

The preacher started off by saying: "I was born on Main Street. Most people are! And I can see it now as if it were but yesterday that I walked and played on it. Then I left it and began to roam the world around. My wanderings took me mostly to great cities; and I like the crowd even if it be made up of strangers. When, in 1913, I arrived in Brooklyn—the city of churches—a man, big in every sense of the word, said to me, after we had been talking about Australia, 'Remember, from now on, you must hurrah for Brooklyn.' And, in that advice, I was reminded of the fact that I was still on Main Street.

"A little more than a year ago, I left one of the greatest cities for the place where I now find myself. I came because I believed that God had given me as distinct a call as any prophet or preacher had ever received. At first I could not see why the call had come. I can see a little clearer now although there is not as much light as I should like to have. But this much I have discovered through all these wanderings and changes—no matter where you go you will find Main Street.

Life Standardized.

"Main Street is life standardized. Just like Ingersoll watches and Ford cars. Everybody on Main Street thinks one way, speaks one way, and acts one way. Mrs. Grundy reigns and rules on Main Street. She sets the fashion; and if you don't fall into line she will criticize you unmercifully. Her pet phrase is 'It has always been done this way.'

"According to Sinclair Lewis, 'Main Street is the climax of civilization. That this Ford car might stand in front of the Bon Ton Store, Hannibal invaded Rome and Erasmus wrote in Oxford cloisters.' And I might add, just by way of a change 'On Main Street, that is heresy which Messrs. Always-Been-Here, and Know-It-All, don't know and sanction.'

The Cruelty of Main Street.

Main Street can be very cruel. A sensitive soul had better keep off Main Street. You should either have a hide as thick as a rhinoceros, or be like Miss Horne, a character in one of George Macdonald's books, 'ha'e nae feelin's.' It is often cruel because it is so small. A really big person can never be cruel. But small people are in the majority on Main Street, and that is why so much cruelty is practiced there.

We have too many people on Main Street with rural minds. It is possible to have a city with too many country folks in it. What Main Street needs is men of vision and conviction. Men who will refuse to have their thinking standardized, but will be courageous enough to speak and act as highest wisdom dictates and not as Mrs. Grundy desires. When we get more men of that type on Main Street things will begin to happen which have been too long delayed. We'll do more to keep our young life from going off to larger cities by providing for them the opportunities they ought to have. What we need is such a school as will give the necessary technical training to those who are destined to work with their hands even more than with their minds.

Music In Our Schools

"On one occasion, when visiting a public school in Philadelphia, I heard between eight hundred and a thousand children sing unaccompanied part of 'The New World Symphony' and I know the Principal of a Kindergarten school in Toronto who trains the children to sing the most difficult pieces of music, such as Mendelssohn's Spring Song and Melody in F. When I remember these things and compare them with what passes for music in some of our schools, I can't get away from the feeling that there is something seriously wrong. A song such as 'Where Did You Get Those Eyes,' may be all right in the proper place, but in my judgment its proper place is not as a preface to morning prayers in a school.

Meeting Friends.

"It gives one a nice feeling to go out on Main Street and know that at least you have a nodding acquaintance with almost every person you meet. That is one of the charms of being on Main Street in a smaller city. I believe that business has been good and is likely to get better. Everything that is in the nature of a boost will have my whole-hearted backing. This age will yet be known not as the Stone or the Ice Age but as the Advertising Age. And I wish that some public spirited concern such as the C.G.E., or the Quaker Oats would give our Main Street a great broadcasting station. It is not to our credit that Lindsay should be ahead of us in this respect. If we had that our friends would be greatly increased in the world.

Card-Crazy and Pleasure-Mad.

"Without passing judgment on cards or wine or dancing, for that is not my business as a preacher of the Gospel, I would like to say this, that if your name is on some church roll and you find more pleasure in shuffling cards than you do in reading the word of God there is something radically wrong with your life. Our danger on Main Street is that of becoming card-crazy and pleasure-mad. And it is all the more dangerous because it helps you to forget God and leads you to reject Christ.

Business of the Church.

"What is the business of the church? At times you might think it is to provide entertainment, sales of work, and suppers. There is not much concern about the lack of conversion. That may be, of course, because modernistic theology has brought us to believe that there is now no need of conversion. We add members by certificate or by the door of respectability and then forget all about them unless they have some money or influence we want the benefit of. The business of the church is to get humanity vitally related to Jesus Christ, and in that business she is largely a failure.

A New Year's Greeting

"Let I greet you all on Main Street this first Sabbath evening of the New Year and wish you the compliments of the season. And in doing this I make bold to address this one question to you: "Is it well with your soul?" If I asked for the health of your body you would not resent it. Then why should you do so when I ask for the health of your soul? It was said by a celebrated orator in the House or Lords more than a century ago, that an Englishman's house is his castle. The winds of heaven might enter by every window, the rain might penetrate through every cranny, but that not even the sovereign of the land dare enter it, however humble, without its owner's permission. Thus it is with the soul and God. The winds may blow through every avenue of approach to your being, but the God who made you cannot enter without your consent. Let that consent be given tonight and you will be so greatly transformed in your character and conduct that Main Street may have difficulty in recognizing you."

The free library is not an exclusively modern institution. There are proofs that Nineveh possessed a public library consisting of 10,000 distinct works on tablets of clay.

MRS. FRED ATKINSON

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Fred Atkinson, whose death occurred on Wednesday, took place from the family residence, River Road, on Friday afternoon, December 31st, at two o'clock. The Rev. E. Ford, pastor of the Baptist Church, and Rev. E. Orser, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, had charge of the funeral services. Rev. Mr. Ford spoke from the 23rd Pslam: "The Lord is My Shepherd," and Rev. Mr. Orser took as his text, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints," both speaking of personal friendships with the deceased and of her many unequalled traits of character.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles Nicholas of Seymour and William Nicholas, Perth, brothers; Robert Johnston of Toronto, John Frederick and George Hurst of town and Arthur Coon of Havelock, brothers-in-law.

Many beautiful wreaths were mute testimony of the esteem in which Mrs. Atkinson was held by all.

STIRLING WINS.

MARMORA, Jan. 4. — Marmora Hockey Team opened its fixtures in the Hastings County League by engaging Madoc on the home rink on Monday evening and inflicting a 6 to 2 defeat on their opponents. The ice was in first-class condition and the mild weather was responsible for an encouraging attendance.

The game, which started late, opened fast with end-to-end rushes. Within eleven minutes Hughes, who was particularly aggressive for the homesters, netted the first goal. Four minutes later Wood added a second Marmora leading at the end of the first period by 2 to 0.

In the second period both teams changed their goalies, Murray replacing Neal and Walbridge replacing Lenahan. Hughes, who was showing splendid form, rushed a score after Walbridge had cleared around the back of goal. In less than two minutes Blue registered for the visitors with a hot shot. Play slackened somewhat for the rest of the period, the goalies having to deal with long shots in the main.

The third period saw play livelier with both teams attempting more combination than previously in the game. Neal returned to goal for Marmora.

Half way through the period Wood, displaying wonderful agility, beat Walbridge with a fast shot. Watson, the pick of the visiting team, replied for Madoc with a fast shot that baffled Neal. Five minutes passed with each goal being attacked in turn and then McWilliams drew Walbridge out to make no mistake with his shot. A minute later Wood added his third, and the last of the game. A. Shannon, assisting as in the score of the previous goal.

The referee kept the game in splendid control, only one major penalty being awarded though there were several minor ones.

Both teams, though off color at the start, showed in the third period that they are capable of a good brand of hockey before the season is much advanced.

The local lads looked nice in their new sweaters. They retain the old colors, green and white. The line-up:

Madoc—Goal, Lenahan; r. defence Blue; l. defence, Rupert; centre, Moon; r. wing, Bryan; l. wing, Watson; subs., Wallbridge, Henderson, A. Brady; goal umpire, A. Smith.

Stirling 2; Tweed 0.

TWEED, Jan. 4. — The first hockey game of the Hastings County League was played on the Tweed rink last evening between Stirling and Tweed. Much credit should be given the Tweed team the way they played as they had only had one practice.

The first period was scoreless and the puck was continually in front of the Stirling net. The second period provided faster hockey and a great many lone rushes were made. Both goalies were kept very busy. Stirling opened this period with a goal by Ackers. The third period looked as though it would be scoreless until Wallace dropped one in on Wager which made the score 2-0.

The whole game was clean, snappy hockey with only a couple of penalties on each team. Referee Jackson Peterboro, handled the game.

The line up of the teams was:

Stirling: Huto goal; Tullock right defence; Ackers centre; Wallace right wing; Ingram, left defence; McGee, left wing; N. Graham Scott, sub.

Tweed: Wager goal; A. Geraldi, right defence; Houston, centre; Fred Geraldi, right wing; Quinn left defence; Max Geraldi left wing; Smith and Geo. Geraldi, subs.

CAMPBELLFORD CONTESTS CLOSE

Bygott and Davidson Capture Reeveship and Deputy's Post.

DOCTORS ELECTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4 — It was not till all polls had completed their returns that Town Clerk McGregor was able to state definitely the results of the municipal elections held here yesterday so close was the contest in the majority of cases.

With five of the six polls showing complete returns, Robert J. Allen was leading C. H. Davidson by thirteen but No. 4 poll, the ward where Davidson resided for some years swung the tide in favor of the ex-reeve, giving him a majority of 66 in the total vote.

Ex-Deputy Reeve Palliser, running for the higher office, fell before a comparatively new man in the town's municipal affairs, Major J. M. Bygott. The Major had had some experience in municipal affairs in Lakefield, and served for a number of years on the local school board but this is his first experience in the affairs of the town.

S. J. Abernethy was re-elected for his seventh year on the Water and Light Commission, with a majority of 89 over C. H. Nadoo. This was Nadoo's first venture for municipal honors and he polled a substantial vote against the veteran campaigner, Abernethy.

Support for the two dentists running for public school trustee was very evenly divided; they running almost neck and neck in every polling subdivision. Dr. H. O. Richardson headed the poll with 615, Dr. O. C. Watson second with 607, the medical doctor, H. B. Longmore, being the other elected member with 475. A. T. Linton, the defeated candidate is a comparatively new man to town, and is not so well known.

The results by polling sub-divisions were as follows:

ONLY ONE CHANGE SEYMOUR COUNCIL

John Locke Succeeds Robert Lynn as One Councillor.

LARGE MAJORITIES.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan 4. — Results of the Seymoru Township elections held yesterday, failed to greatly alter the personnel of the governing body. The election of John Locke to the council in place of ex-councillor Robert Lynn, was the only break in the quintette that has officiated for the past two years.

Ex-Reeve George Vanvolkenburg, after a rest of two years, tried the come back stunt, but like many who try to do a come back he failed by a large majority, the vote standing 558 to 399.

Andrew Milne was another making another try after an absence of two years, and he met the same fate as the ex-reeve, Russell Peake being re-elected to the deputy reeveship.

Peake and Milne were in a three-cornered fight for the same office two years ago with the deputy reeve elect victorious on that occasion also.

John Locke, rejected two years ago was successful in his second attempt.

Will Allen repeated his success of two years ago and headed the poll with Robert Innes second.

The results by polling sub-divisions For Reeve:

FISHERMEN DRIFT ON HUGE ICE FLOE

Obliged To Subsist on Raw Herrings For Three Days.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Jan. 4 (United Press).—A story of three days and two nights spent on Lake Superior by a horse and two fishermen upon a huge ice raft and of their rescue by the Ile Parisien Lighthouse keeper, was brought here to-day.

Alex. McLean and C. R. Draper, fishermen, of Dollar Settlement, near here, left on Tuesday with their horse and started to haul a net in White Fish Bay. While busy with the net, a huge chunk of ice, half a mile square, broke off and floated with them out into the Lake.

For two bitter cold nights without sleep and with only their sleigh for protection from the wind and raw frozen herring to eat, the trio drifted. The horse had nothing to eat.

Finally the ice chunk drifted to Ile Parisien, where they were sighted by Lighthouse Keeper Douglas and assisted ashore. Following a good rest and meals, the party, broncho and all, were loaded in a 25-foot launch and taken to the mainland.

SEEK MEMBERS FOR Y.W.C.A. GYM

Campaign On To Get More Girls To Join the Classes.

The first week of the New Year at the Y.W.C.A. sees the launching of a gymnasium campaign for new members. Members of the classes have set as their objective 100 new members this month. In order to keep track of the new pupils the bulletin board in the Association front hall has taken on a decorative and interesting color scheme. Seven ladders on gaily colored cardboard represent the various classes and seven cupid dolls with bright ribbon bows are mounting the rungs of the ladder as each new member is registered. The elementary class represented by a pink ladder has the honor of moving its cupid with its bright blue bow up the first rung.

The aim of the gymnasium department of the Y.W.C.A. is to build up and keep good health and through corrective work, general gymnastics, apparatus, reed, club, wand, dumbbell and Swedish exercises and folk dancing the whole body is equipped to meet the strain of strenuous business or school life of the girl.

Health is the cheapest thing in the world. With health men have felt within them the power to move mountains, to fly the air as birds, to gain the wealth of Croesus.

Health is the secret of happiness. Without health the years are but a menace, old age a tragedy.

Health offers itself to you, and you do not heed. Health bids its time. To-morrow you will come begging, but health shall turn aside. Health cannot, will not be ignored.

Health is the sunlight of the day; the star-dotted heaven of the night.

Health holds your future in the hollow of its hand.

Health can make of you what it will. Health is the door of opportunity; the open road to the fairy land of dreams.

Health is one of the most important things in the world, one thing without which all else is impossible.

Join the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium during this month's campaign and learn more about this wonderful health which you may achieve along with fun and friends and good times at the Y.W.C.A.

Wheat Prices Go Down To New Records For Crop

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press). — Wheat values tumbled sharply at the start to-day and registered new low price records on the crop. May led the retreat with a loss of about three cents. The break was chiefly attributed to weakness in foreign markets. Resting orders of around $1.36 for May and some buying against bids checked the decline. Starting 5-8 cent to 2 cents lower, the market showed but little power to rally. Corn, oats, and provisions were affected by wheat, corn opening 3-8 cent to 3-4 cent down and later undergoing a slight rally.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 136 7-8, July 129½; corn, May 78¼,

Mining Shares Weaker With Declines General

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—With the exception of a gain of 45 cents in Dome Mines, changes in mining stocks on the Standard Exchange to-day were disadvantageous. Dome went down to 10.50 on small sales. The market was weak and declines were general. More than nine hundred thousand shares were dealt in during the early trading. Area declined 15 cents at 130, Baldwin was down 3-4 at 3, Beaver eased one at 74 and Kirkland Hunton and Laval-Quebec each declined two, the former at 30 and the latter at 43. Teck Hughes was one lower at 547, Gold Hill Mines one at 52, and Cons. W. D. Lake 3-4 at 17¼.

Business Dull To-day But Most Shares Strong

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press) — Business was decidedly dull on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day in contract to the heavy session of last week. The market, while listless, was strong and fractional gains were registered in the majority of prominent stocks. Brazilian, on sales of around 200 shares, gained 1-2 a point to 104. International Nickel, leader in point of activity, was down 1-8 at 38 3-4. Massey-Harris gained 1-4 at 69 3-4. The unlisted side of the market was fairly active and Gooderham and Worts received the majority of attention. The issue gained 1 1-8 at 45 1-8. Imperial Oil, on small dealings, gained 1-4 at 38. The balance of the list was unchanged.

General Decline To-day Led By Railway Shares

NEW YORK Jan. 4. Canadian Press. — Speculators for the decline succeeded in bringing about further reaction in to-day's market.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, whose directors declared an extra cash dividend of only 75 cents, opened 4 1-4 points lower, rallied above 165 just before the dividend action was announced and then sold down to 162 1-, an overnight loss of nearly six points. Sharp recessions also took place in such issues as Atlantic Coast Line, Jersey Central and Westinghouse Air Brake.

ST. JOSEPH'S ALUMNAE DANCE

The Alumnae of St. Joseph's Hospital were hostesses at a very enjoyalbe dance and card party held last evening in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. About fifteen tables of bridge and euchre were played upstairs, and dancers numbering nearly two hundred enjoyed the fine music of Logan's "Merrymarkers" Orchestra in the hall downstairs, decorated for the occasion very attractively, the stage being arranged with black hangings and quantities of palms and ferns. A profusion of gold and white streamers, the colors of the association, and festoons across the stage and hall gave a cheerful note to the interior.

Prizes for bridge, in charge of Mrs. H. Owens and Miss Laura O'Brien, were won by Mrs. N. D. Buchanan and Dr. J. F. O'Brien, and for euchre, in charge of Mr. T. Turcotte, by Mesdames Anthony and McMartin, and Messrs. Anthony and Driscoll.

Patronesses were Mesdames F. P. McNulty, C. B. Waite, G. M. Fraser, C. D. Hewitt, T. G. Louden, W. O'Brien, G. S. Cameron, N. D. Buchanan. The President of the association, Miss J. The Airship

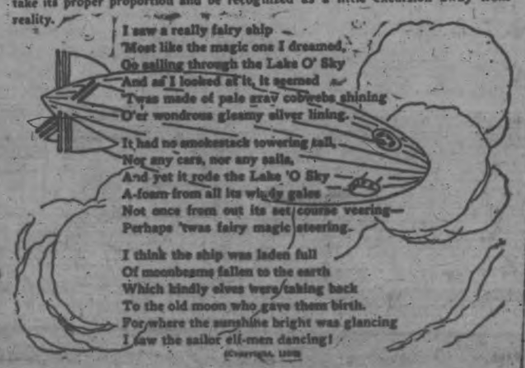
By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THERE is in all of us, more or less hidden, the wish to keep believing in fairies. Big and little we are intrigued by magic. We like to get away from the material things of our everyday world and dabble a bit in the mystic and fanciful and a certain amount of it is perfectly legitimate, but it would not be mentally healthy to live continuously in a world of make believe because it would mean the continued refusal to meet practical life. Let your child play make believe. It develops his imagination, but be sure he meets the really-truly-world frankly. Let him read fairy tales, but watch that he also reads biography, history and practical stories that he may face things as they are. Then when he indulges in fancy it will take its proper proportion and be recognized as a little excursion away from reality.



I saw a really fairy ship
'Most like the magic one I dreamed,
Go sailing through the Lake O' Sky
And as I looked at it, it seemed
'Twas made of pale gray cobwebs shining
O'er wondrous gleamy silver lining.

It had no smokestack towering tall,
Nor any cars, nor any sails,
And yet it rode the Lake 'O Sky
A-foam from all its windy gales
Not once from out its set course veering—
Perhaps 'twas fairy magic steering.

I think the ship was laden full
Of moonbeams fallen to the earth
Which kindly elves were taking back
To the old moon who gave them birth.
For where the sunshine bright was glancing
I saw the sailor elf-men dancing!

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The talismanic gem for today is the emerald, which on this occasion is particularly potent in bringing to those who have passed middle age a rejuvenation of spirits and reawakening of love.

The onyx, today's natal gem, protects its wearer from the ardors of unwelcome love and endows him with coolness and poise.

Silver blue is today's color.

The yellow rose is today's flower. Curiously enough, it is not lucky, since it indicates jealousy and quarrels.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

AUDUBON AND LUCY BAKEWELL

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

This is Audubon's own account of how he met his wife, Lucy Bakewell, the woman who played such a great part in the life of the naturalist:

"Well do I recollect the morning, and may it please God that I never forget it, when for the first time I entered Mr. Bakewell's dwelling. It happened that he was absent from home and I was shown into a parlour where only one young lady was seated at her work in front of the fire. She rose at my entrance and offered me a seat and assured me of the gratification her father would feel on his return. . . . Other ruddy cheeks and bright eyes had made their transient appearance but, like spirits gay, soon vanished from my sight; and there I sat, my gaze riveted, as it were, on the young girl before me who, half working, half talking, essayed to make the time pleasant to me.

"Oh, may God bless her! It was she, my dear sons, who afterward became my beloved wife and your mother. . . ."

The following excerpt is from one of Audubon's many and long letters to his wife and it well shows his tender feeling for her:

". . . I hope this day the last brooch I sent thee as a New Year's gift is shining on thy bosom, as I have witnessed the brightness of thine own sweet eyes. Oh, my Lucy, what would I give now in possession for a kiss on thy lips and . . . God for ever bless thee. Thine Husband and Friend for ever, John J. Audubon."

The work for which John James Audubon is famous is a series of books containing 1,065 colored plates, drawn by himself, of American birds. Besides being a work of exquisite beauty it is of inestimable value to natural history. Later, Audubon did similar service for the quadrupeds of America. In both of these works the researches were conducted by Audubon himself. The present Audobon societies for the preservation of wild life are a memorial to the naturalist.

Before Audubon became known he had a hard struggle for existence. He attempted farming and trading and failed at both through his lack of business ability and was reduced at one time to teaching dancing and fencing.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

IS CHIVALRY STILL DEAD?

By Alma Whitaker.

A few years ago "letters to the papers" were deploring the death of chivalry. Some ungallant males were even justifying it. It appeared that there was no sense in chivalry in a world of votes-for-women.

Chivalry means quite a lot of precious things—courage, nobleness, honor, generosity, "respect for the dignity and chastity of women"—in fact, one could hardly be a gentleman without a liberal dash of chivalry. But, according to this flood of deploring letters, gentlemen really could not be expected to be chivalrous while the ladies were showing such a disposition to be able to take care of themselves. Weak, fragile, timid, and preferably good-looking feminity was seemingly essential to chivalry.

However, chivalry seems to have suffered a set-back before that. As long ago as the French revolution, Edmund Burke informed the world that "The age of chivalry has gone."

All the same, a world without chivalry is unthinkable. Chivalry is more important to men than to women. We can get along without the benefits of chivalry, but men's souls cannot thrive without the practise of chivalry. Nothing, positively nothing can provide such a glow of satisfying exaltation to a man as his chivalrous impulses To feel the urge for knighthood, for the display of courage, for the application of his protective instincts, his crusading instincts, his sacrificial instincts is essential to man's amour propre, his self-respect. The sort of fellow who can write to the papers whining that he no longer feels called upon to relinquish his seat in a street car to a woman, or remove his hat in an elevator because a woman is present, is a "poor thing" who is only cheating himself of life's graces. Chivalry is a sweet prerogative of superior character.

I insist that a delightful amount of chivalry still exists. I personally know dozens of chivalrous men, whose courage and graces are as real as any "when knighthood was in flower." But it is no longer good form to be melodramatic about it.

But what is even more interesting is that women are learning chivalry too. Chivalry has always seemed an with so much feminine independence and prestige around, the women are cultivating chivalry too. It is rather charming when chivalry works both ways, when the stronger and more capable of either sex accepts responsibility and gallantry towards the weaker.

Modern chivalry is not so showy it is more practical, less choosey. It is not accomplished with such a flourish, it is more deeply imbedded in our daily lives, our daily tasks, our ordinary contacts. We talk about it less, but practise it more regularly. We scarcely know it for chivalry, which seems to us a high-sounding name for ordinary virtues. I think a world in which both men and women practise chivalry as a matter of ordinary regular good manners is better than one in which gentlemen alone enjoyed the eclat—and reserved their urges for effective occasions. Had I the space, I could give instance after instance of superlative chivalry, practised so unostentatiously by men that they would blush to be called "knights." Chivalry, by other and less high-sounding names, is being taught in our schools and colleges, in our sports, in business, in our clubs and organizations, and the veriest Babbitts amongst us, of both sexes, have this divine spark glimmering in their consciousness. Oh, no, chivalry is not dead, it has only settled down and become a regular citizen.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

CHANGE OF PERSON IN A SENTENCE

In grammar, the "first person" is the one speaking, the second person is the one spoken to, and the third person is the one spoken of.

Writers sometimes express their thoughts in the first person, sometimes in the third. But it is considered incorrect to change from the first person to the third, or vice versa, especially in one sentence. An error of this sort that was noted recently was contained in a report of a prize-fight. The writer said:

"The writer was at the ringside, and my opinion is that the Englishman never had a chance."

He should have used either of the following forms:

"The writer was at the ringside, and his opinion is," etc. "I was at the ringside, and my opinion is," etc.

OLD MASTERS

At the corner of Wood street, when daylight appears,
Hangs a thrush that sings loud, it has sung for three years:
Poor Susan has passed by the spot, and has heard
In the silence of morning the song of the bird.

'Tis a note of enchantment: what ails her? She sees
A mountain ascending, a vision of trees:
Bright volumes of vapor through Lothbury glide,
And a river flows on through the vale of Cheapside.

Green pastures she views in the midst of the dale
Down which she so often has tripped with her pail;
And a single small cottage, a nest like a dove's,
The one only dwelling on earth that she loves.

She looks, and her heart is in heaven: but they fade,
The mist and the river, the hill and the shade;
The stream will not flow, and the hill will not rise,
And the colors have all pass'd away from her eyes!

—W. Wordsworth: The Reverie of Poor Susan.

HATTIE

(The McClure Syndicate.)

Though somewhat provincial, Hattie is none the less popular as a feminine name. It is a nice, comfortable, cozy sort of a name without frills or ornamentation. It means "home-ruler," though it comes originally from Teutonic mythology, it has elements of the modern attitude toward home. Even in their heathenism, the guardian of the dwelling of the grave spirits of the dead, known as Heimdell, was regarded as the "Home-ruler"—"true to the kindred points of heaven and home."

By various stages, through the German Heinz, the French Henri, and the English Henry and Harry, the feminine of this interesting name was evolved in the 16th century. It made its first appearance in France in the House of Stuart de' Aubigne. Various feminines of Henri were popular in the court of Katherine de Medici.

In the form of Henrietta, the name made it asppearance in England with the daughter of Henri IV of France and it was descendents of this good queen who carried the name through successive steps until it reached the quaint diminutive Hattie.

Jet is Hattie's talismanic stone. For her it is not a symbol of sorrow but a talisman against grief. Friday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Some women actually seem to belong to the age of the broom and the dustpan. Lots of housemaids and cleaning women are of this genre. They would rather sweep a room in the old-fashioned, dusty, toilsome fashion than use the intelligence needed to run and keep in order an up-to-date vacuum cleaner. They would rather use an old-fashioned flatiron that has to be carried back and forth to the stove to keep it hot than bother with the cord on an electric iron.

It is all very well if you honestly don't like to use electrical appliances not to use them. There were people who used candles long after the majority used oil and people who used kerosene long after electric lights were available. The really unfair thing is to use these devices when you don't know how and won't take time to use them properly. You can't expect to have them give good service if you abuse them.

The best thing to do when you get a new electric appliance is to take good heed of what the demonstrator has to say and try if possible to get a demonstrator who knows his or her business. There are always pamphlets and folders to be had giving specific instructions concerning the care of the electric appliances and these you may be sure contain the advice of experts. Read these directions. If you trust your electric devices to servants read these directions to them.

Ernest's Lament

Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and healing commences.

FREE TRIAL. Cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 25c box.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT the best judges of the merits of merchandise are the people who use them.

THAT it is no pleasure for a shopper to visit a store where the stock looks like a lot of scrambled merchandise and to be waited on by a grouchy clerk.

THAT it has a bad effect on their minds and they leave determined to shop elsewhere.

THAT with a few such experiences it doesn't take long for them to learn that the store of advertised goods carries clean stocks of seasonable merchandise and that their clerks are courteous.

THAT the stores that advertise always carry snappy, quality merchandise at popular prices.

THAT many of these stores advertise sales each season in order to reduce their stock or to get rid of odds and ends of good merchandise.

THAT at these sales they give superior goods with perfect service and at money-saving prices.

THAT people who really appreciate good goods cheap should jump at the chance to buy at these sales.

THAT there is something fascinating about advertised sales because you have such a great opportunity to secure real bargains at them.

AT ADVERTISED SALES YOU OFTEN FIND GOODS THAT YOU THOUGHT YOU COULD NOT AFFORD AT PRICES WITHIN YOUR REACH.

Don't Be Skinny

Gain Pounds of Weight in 3 Weeks with Yeast and Iron—or pay nothing

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST is a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood building properties of vegetable iron with yeast. It is nine times more effective than a cake of ordinary baker's yeast of iron alone.

Sickening Oil Unnecessary.

IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in cod liver oil without the sickening, fishy taste or "repeating" afterward.

New Complexion For You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Hollows fill out. No wonder thousands of women pour in letters to us in praise of the marvelous, youthifying effects of IRONIZED YEAST!

Yet the answer is simple. Vegetable iron and yeast have been used for years to vitalize the body; to make rich, healthy blood; to improve digestion and bowel action and add weight. In IRONIZED YEAST these two valuable elements are combined in a special formula that is nine times stronger than yeast and iron used separately. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. No nasty, pasty taste. —Safe to take—contains no harmful drugs.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The glove and slipper shown above are of mauve kid with sequin embroidery. They have been chosen for afternoon wear at Palm Beach. Below is a slipper and handbag, both made of maroon-colored patent leather trimmed with lizard skin and a gold buckle.

The improvement in city pavements has had more to do with changes in shoe fashions of late years than the shoemakers themselves. It used not to be considered "good form" to wear thin-soled, light-colored shoes in the street—and it wouldn't be considered good form now if streets and sidewalks were what they used to be. English women rather more than women of any other part of the world insisted on conforming to the convention of wearing substantial boots for the street—shoes of stout leather that could be brightened up with shoe blacking after every day's wear. But even they have changed their minds. They have royal precedent for this change. The much admired Duchess of York—the "little duchess" as they call her—follows the fashion of wearing "party shoes" on the street and wears dancing slippers to luncheons.

Of course we do draw distinctions even now about the sort of shoes that are appropriate for evening and those that are worn for afternoon, but there is a very fine line of distinction. It is not that afternoon shoes are less ornate or fragile, but that evening shoes are more so.

The change in street conditions has been more striking in this country than in European cities. Twenty or even fifteen years ago there were always muddy stretches along the sidewalk in almost every residential or shopping district. And now we can go for miles and miles in almost all the big cities and many of the smaller ones without having anything but perfectly cemented paths to walk upon. Popular-priced automobiles, too, have had their effect on footwear. In suburban communities where sidewalks are less perfect almost every woman has her own car, or at least a thoughtful neighbor who will take her to luncheons and card parties.

FOOD AND HEALTH

FOOD AND TRADITION

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs,
Food Specialist.

We all remember the woe-begone individual who bewailed the fact that he could not muster any great amount of hospitable enthusiasm when he had only a radiator for the toasting of his guest's toes. With fire places becoming fewer and smaller, with living space being more and more compressed, it is extremely difficult to indulge in what might be called old time hospitality.

There are certain traditions, however, relating to food and hospitality that we may hold on to, that is, so far as the spirit is concerned. Denied the joys of a colonial house with its broad passages and towering ceilings, it is entirely possible for the clever housewife to preserve, to some extent, the traditions, the spirit, if you like, of that period of leisurely living.

Walls hung with damasks and brocades, beautifully printed coverings for furniture, exclusively wrought silver and other lovely things may, in our own day, need to be reduced to a minimum because of physical conditions. I maintain, however, that it is wholly possible to adapt our furnishings, our mode of living to modern conditions and still preserve the essence of tradition that flourished at the time of "walnuts and wine." Does this sound vague? Just how it is to be accomplished is something for the mistress of the individual home to decide. First, she must be first with an appreciation of the loveliness of the period of which I have been speaking. She must have the wit and imagination to realize that graciousness of living had something to do with beauty of character; that beauty of character on the part of these ancestors of ours helped to give us our heritage.

Of course, they would regret our confined spaces and our rattling radiators. They would realize, however, that if we are to preserve the beauty of their dining rooms only in museums, we have still made permanently our own that which was borne and fostered in the lovely old dwellings.

They were well fed and well nourished, these dwellers in another day. Except where we have, to some extent, dissipated the strength of body handed down from them to us, we are enjoying that very heritage that came from their sensible diet and appreciation of the gracious things of life.

Who shall say that the sensible diet, either then or now, would have been as completely nourishing served in the midst of complete lack of grace and beauty.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1927

Contrary planetary influences are at work to-day, according to astrologers who warn men and women to practice the homely virtues.

There is a good sign to-day for workers who will benefit greatly in the next few months, if they do not quarrel, for Mars is in a threatening aspect.

Under this rule there may be much misleading information given out to hide intrigue and other destructive efforts to discredit the United States.

Under this rule there may be much misleading information given out to hide intrigue and other destructive efforts to discredit the United States.

Mars appears to give promise of supreme activity in steel and iron. Many orders from foreign lands will come to America.

England is to manufacture great quantities of armaments, if the stars are wisely interpreted, and larger consignments will go indirectly to India, Persia and Russia.

In the Labor Party in Great Britain radical leaders will make much progress, it is prognosticated.

Religious fanaticism will appear in new forms in the new year, it is foretold, and it may be the cause of much bloodshed.

Efforts to restore the crown to deposed monarchs will be persistent in more than one country of Europe, the seers prophesy.

Mexico is still subject to planetary influences, making for uprisings and revolutionary movements.

The first annular eclipse of the Sun this year is read as presaging world excitement and widespread unrest among the people.

Great fluctuations of the financial market may be expected and all who speculate will take unusual risks.

Venezuela and Colombia are likely to benefit in a commercial way, for new natural resources will be utilized.

Persons whose birthdate it is will benefit most if they act with unusual discretion in the coming year. They should not make changes.

Children born on this day may be rather domineering in temperament but able to accomplish big things in life.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

The hot and stubborn tempers of Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, result in temperamental storms that furnish elite society with choice gossop. Before the start of the Westbury Cup final, in which Ranny is to play, he tells his chum, Clay Varick, that Joan wants a divorce; but when Clay congratulates him Ranny earnestly avows that he loves Joan. Worse, he brokenly confides his discovery that she is in love with another man, Abner Gratman. Joan, it seems, is not aware that he knows Stivner, a lumber king with whom he has been negotiating a gigantic business deal, tells Ranny he has wagered fifty thousand on his team. Ranny sees that victory will mean business good will. And a world of additional meaning is lent the situation when Ranny learns that the wager is with—Abner Gratman!

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

"Yes, with Abner Gratman no less," went on the billionaire, a partially contemptuous and wholly disparaging twist to his strong mouth. "Imagine that, if your imagination is lively, Forbes!"

Ranny was tongue-tied, not so much from an unlively imagination as from a too lurid one! Clay made a verbal pinch hit for him, mockingly:

"We can't imagine it, Stivner. Now if this game were to be tiddly-winks!—"

"Oh, Gratman frankly admitted that it wasn't so much a sporting appreciation of polo that prompted him," broke in Stivner jovially, with an altogether innocent wink that Ranny was not supposed to miss, and did not, "but merely a desire to settle a point of evident discussion between himself and Mrs. Forbes, to flaunt his winnings in her face as proof of his contention that Forbes here is a rotten polo player!"

Livingstone Stivner meant his jollying all in good part. He could hardly be expected to know that each of his words fell like axe strokes on the raw of Ranny's heart.

Ranny huskily took advantage of a chance to excuse himself. "Here's my groom."

A "horsey" little bantam of a Cockney was bringing up two ponies. Ranny, who had driven out in his togs ready to mount and play, strode to meet him.

"Judy's in the finest fettle—" the groom started to say briskly, but suddenly switched: "Why, sir, wot's the matter? You're all white and pysty!"

"Nothing—nothing. What was it you were saying?" Ranny nervously threw one of his mallets aside and hefted the swish of the one with which he had elected to open play.

"Well, sir, I was saying as 'ow Judy's warmed up quickest. You'll myke no mistyke to tyke her first, sir."

Such was Ranny's implicit faith in the canniness of the weazened groom that he accepted the advice without comment and vaulted, in a pre-occupied, mechanical way, upon the back of the sleek little Irish bred mare. The Argentines, in their saffron shirts and black helmets, and Ranny's teammates, in their red and blue striped jerseys, were loping toward midfield—a pretty picture on their handsome mounts against the emerald field, with its papier-mache goal posts and its threadwy white board outline. Clay, who had mounted a big horse, dignified and midnight black, was loafing after them, a shiny new willow root ball in his hand, extra ones in each side pocket of his Norfolk jacket.

Full around the field automobiles were jammed hub to hub. Many hundred thousand dollars were represented in that secondary border of steel and glass. Some of the spectators remained seated in their motors to outlook, but the keener ones tightened around the freshly whitewashed foot high planking. A surge of expectancy waved through the bobbing humans in the grandstand.

Ranny immediately broke Judy into a mad gallop and overtook Clay. "Well, you heard THAT?"

"Uh huh!" grimly.

"By the way, where is Gratman sitting?"

"There's his roadster back of the west goal—the pretty, pretty one in pale yellow. But—he just strolled over and joined Joan in your car."

Ranny's troubled eyes sought his sedan and witnessed testimony that grievously deepened the frowning wrinkle above his nose. Even at this distance he could see that Joan and Abner were chatting animatedly. He beheaded an imaginary Abner with his mallet.

"Clay," he promised, "you're going to see two things this afternoon. You're going to see me make that crumb lose fifty thousand, and you're going to see me drive a polo ball smack through his snivelly little face!"

Now Ranny had spurred away from Clay and joined his mates, dissembling with a bit of cheery bombast that provoked grins and banter from both sides. Now the eight eager horsemen and eight even more eager ponies were facing in a milling group that broke into irregularity as Clay, rising in his stirrups, threw the ball impartially into their midst, and the cigar shaped mallets of the captains reached and clashed and locked in the nervous bid for possession. And now the glistening white spheroid had shot clear of the tangle of pony legs and mallet-shafts, and the opposing forwards were off in a mad chase of it.

Given an early autumnal day of the rare, crisp balminess that can be known only on the beautiful leas of Long Island's north side, plus the rich turnout of gowns and equipages and color and flavor of America's wealthiest and smartest society, and there can be no more entrancing kaleidescope of dash and beauty in all the world than this modern rendition of the game that had its birth in ancient Persia. The regal game that went successively to Turkestan, to Tibet, to Japan, to olden China, while the Long Island of its present and greatest glory, was still to be for a thousand years an unfound wilderness.

The declining sun glinted without partisanship on Argentine yellow, on Yankee red and blue, on flailing mallets, on soaring, zipping ball—and on the homicidal determination in Ranny Forbes' eyes.

While the team spread out in that first wild rush, each man—forwards and backs—riding hard to cover and outfight and outride and outguess the man of similar position on the opposing team, the tide of play swirled towards the side of the field where sat Joan Forbes and Abner Gratman.

Ranny, recklessly riding out his particular opposing back so viciously that the Argentine had to hurdle the board and wheel offside to prevent his pony from somersaulting, was suddenly conscious of two things at once. A miracle of double vision, possible only in a jealous husband.

First, he saw the ball rolling towards him, neatly passed by a friendly forward; second, he saw Abner Gratman laughing at him—most insolently, languidly. A taunting laugh that roused Ranny to his fightingest pdide. If that bounding ball had been Abner's bald head Ranny could not have ridden it down harder or smote it with greater gusto.

Straight and true two hundred yards that ball took flight through the tangy air and between the goal posts. A great salvo of cheers paid tribute to the incredibility of the shot. Only Ranny and Clay knew that it was not the ball, but Abner's head that really took the marvelous flight.

Ranny could not forego a sinister triumphant glance toward the sedan, and could not but enjoy the crestfallen way in which the grin faded from Abner's face as he watched the flag of the attendant behind the goal signal that the public score was now Argentine, 0; United States, 1; and the private count: Ranny Forbes, 1; Abner Gratman, 0!

But the Argentines were mad as dervishes now, and in Abner Gratman's eyes gleamed the cunning light of the fox who always has a trump up his sleeve!

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

LEAVE GOD TO JUDGE

The world is full of courts,
The self-appointed kind,
Where rumors and reports
And many a tale you find;
And there we sit and try
And judge the human race,
But who am I that I
Should take the judge's place.

And who are you that you
Should sit and censure me,
Whatever I may do,
We cannot know the heart,
That only God can read,
And yet we sit apart
And judge another's deed.

And so I say to one
And say to all again
That justice will be done
By God and not by men.
Good, evil, black or white,
The world will get along
If men will praise the right,
Leave God to judge the wrong.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

Ty Cobb to be Present at Hearing Into 1917 Ball Scandal

FIFTEEN OF 38 NAMED PLAYERS WILL FACE RISBERG WEDNESDAY

Landis Demands Members of Both Teams To Attend Hearing.

WAS GIFT.

Accused Admit Sharing Pool But Deny Knowledge of Graft.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—Fifteen of the 38 major league baseball players, past and present, named in the latest scandal, last night had assured Commissioner K. M. Landis they would be here Wednesday morning to face their accuser, Charles A. (Swede) Risberg.

All the members of the Chicago and Detroit teams of 1917 had been required by the Commissioner to attend the hearing into the charges made by Risberg, that members of the Chicago team gave certain Detroit players $1,100 to "slough off" in a four-game series September 2 and 3, 1917, so the White Sox would win the Imerican League pennant.

Among those who had wired the Commissioner assuring him they would be here Wednesday are:

Ty Cobb, who is involved with Tris Speaker in the still smouldering scandal of the Detroit-Cleveland series in 1919; Eddie Collins, former manager of the White Sox and now signed with the Philadelphia Athletics; Owen "Donie" Bush; Harry Heilmann, still with the Detroit Club as outfielder; Ed. Walsh, the famous spitball pitcher of the Sox; Harry Leibold, Boston outfielder, who was one of the 1917 Sox; Dave Danforth, now a pitcher on the Milwaukee Association team, who was one of the Sox at that time; George Burns, Howard Ehmke, George Dauss and Oscar Vitt, former Detroit players, and John Collins and Eddie Murphy, former White Sox.

Clarence Rowland, now an American League umpire, who managed the Sox at that time, and Ray Schalk, the present Sox manager, were among the first to notify the Commissioner they would be there.

Expenses for the 38 players in financing their trip to Chicago, it was estimated, would dent the Commission's bankroll to the extent of about $20,000, as some of the men involved will need to travel more than 2,000 miles. Landis promised Risberg expenses and "fair compensation" for his trip to Chicago.

Risberg's story told to Landis under oath was that each of the Sox contributed $45 to present to the Detroit players for "sloughing" four games to the Sox.

Many of the players Risberg mentioned admitted sharing in the pool, both Sox and Tigers, but denied Risberg's charges that it was to buy four games from Detroit. They contended it was a present to Detroit for killing off the Boston Red Sox in the September pennant race by beating them three straight, Sept. 19 and 20, 1917.

George "Buck" Weaver and "Chick" Gandil, who with Risberg were banished from baseball because of the 1919 Chicago-Cincinnati world series disclosures, were among those who substantiated Risberg.

COACH ON THIRD HAS TOUGH JOB

Must Know Everything About Player in League.

HARD PROBLEM

"Coaching at third base," said Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, "is the hardest and meanest task in baseball that I ever ran into."

"The hardest problem of every major leader is to get a coacher at third base who knows what it's all about.

"The coach at third base must know every player in the league, his speed, the throwing arm of the infielders or outfielders, the smartness of the catcher behind the plate, the slowness or quickness of the pitcher on the mound—and the speed of his own base runners.

"Say, I've seen some great games lost by faulty coaching around third base. To know when to send a runner into the plate, to know his speed, his sliding ability when pitched against the throw of the outfielder handling the ball, or the infielder taking it for the relay throw, is something that makes coaching at third base a very important task. Many a one-run game is lost around third base by loose coaching. Good coaching is necessary to a winning ball club.

"Many people may not see it from the grandstand, but many a game is won or lost by the third base coacher. It is a thankless job, believe me. A coacher can easily become a goat if the man he waves home with the tying or winning run is knocked off; if that man scores, the runner gets the credit, the outfielders's faulty throw gets the razz and the poor coach who figured prominently in the play is completely forgotten all the way around.

"Yes, siree! A man who can coach at third base without handicapping his own baseball club is indeed a prize that any manager would willingly pay a top price for," concluded Jack.

DUKES DEFEAT NORTH TORONTO

Marlboros Far Too Good For McFadyen's Team, Score Being 8-1.

KITCHENER WINS.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Marlboros swept through to an 8 to 1 victory over North Toronto in their senior O.H.A. game at the Arena Gardens last night, and stayed very much in the running for group honors. If Varsity Grads defeat Peterboro at the U. of T. Arena on Friday night, the Dukes will be high and dry in second place.

After the first period, there was nothing else to the game but Marlboros. Displaying some sparkling combination and dazzling individual runs, Selke's team popped five shots past Courtney during the second twenty minutes of play, and were all over the better team.

The Dukes, faster skaters, combined better and were smarter around their opponents' net. Joe Primeau was the big star of the winners. He scored three goals, all on brilliant individual efforts. He bagged the first counter of the game on a solo run through the North Toronto team, coasting around Jack Cain to get right in on Courtney before shooting.

Kitchener 7, Parkdale 2.

KITCHENER, Ont., Jan. 4.—The Twin City Greenshirts defeated Parkdale Canoe Club by 7 to 2 in the opening game of the local senior O.H.A. season at the Auditorium last night, and they were easily five goals better than their opponents. In fact, it was not until within four minutes of time that the visitors scored, and then a Greenshirt did the trick in trying to clear a loose puck from in front of the net. Parkdale added another with less than a minute to play, when the defence got a bit careless.

Galt 3, Preston 2.

PRESTON, Ont., Jan. 4.—Preston Riversides, fresh from a 5 to 1 victory over Parkdale at Toronto, a few days ago, were last night nosed out by their rivals of old, the Galt Terriers, by a 3 to 2 score. The game provided thrills aplenty from start to finish, with the visitors being the stronger team in the last period.

Neither team had an over supply of condition, but the locals faded badly when the third frame got under way and the Terriers had whatever edge there was as far as goals went.

LAKEFIELD HOCKEY

The hockey season will shortly reopen and the District League will play off for the Casement Cup, won the past two years by the Colts. The Kennedy Cup, given to the individual player who proves to be of greatest value to his team, goal getting, combination and conduct on and off the ice being considered, is also a trophy in the District League and a much-coveted one. Gordon Hill of the Alerts won the cup last year.

COBB SAYS "HE ALMOST RUINED A BATTING CHAMPION"

Johnson Denies Writing Letter To Federal Court

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Threatened introduction in the House of Representatives at Washington of a bill placing baseball under the control of a Federal commission with the claim that it had the sanction of Ban Johnson brought forth a denial from the American League head today.

Johnson stated he had not written a letter to any Government official urging such a commission.

He said he wrote a letter several years ago in regard to passing a Federal law making it possible to prosecute and punish violators of gambling on baseball games, both in and out of ball parks.

Johnson declared, however, if the Government desired him to appear before a committee he would be glad to assist in any way in investigations and

RICKARD AFTER TUNNEY CONTRACT

Wants Heavyweight Championship Bout Next September at Yankee Stadium.

FUGAZY ON TRAIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Tex Rickard packed his grips for St. Louis yesterday, assuring his friends he would return with the contracts of Gene Tunney for a world's heavyweight championship battle next September at Yankee Stadium.

Humbert J. Fugazy, who has entered into a race with Madison Square Garden promoter for Tunney's signature, is expected to hit the same trail a day later. Observers here look for definite action before the end of the week.

Tunney already admits that Fugazy has made him a "very generous offer," while Rickard admits his price "will be plenty." Boxing men close to Tex say he may go as high as $750,000, the cheque he drew in favor of Jack Dempsey for the Sesqui-centennial battle.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 4.—Gene Tunney believes his meeting here next Thursday with Tex Rickard, promoter, will result "favorably to both sides and that the scene and approximate date of my first bout in defence of the championship will be ready for announcement."

The conqueror of Jack Dempsey, fulfilling a vaudeville engagement here this week, declared he was ready to meet anyone "they select for me, provided he is a logical contender."

Heinie Manush led the American League in batting last season with the handsome average of .377.

Two years ago Manush was removed from the Detroit lineup because of a batting slump that caused his average to drop well below the .300 mark.

During the spring of the year Heinie had his troubles for a time in keeping his head above a .200 average.

Thereby hangs an interesting tale that Ty Cobb unfolded to me last summer.

As the world knows, there never was a greater batsman than Cobb. He was the master of technique. After watching a batter for five minutes Cobb could dissect his faults and offer a remedy for each and every one of them.

It was not unusual for Cobb to take a visiting player off to one side and point out how he believed that player might improve his batting.

But to get back to Heine Manush.

"I almost ruined that fellow as a batsman," remarked Ty to me as he pointed in the direction of Manush. It was in batting practice at the Yankee Stadium and Heinie had just sent two long drives well up into the right field bleachers.

"There is one of the greatest natural hitters in the history of baseball," continued Ty, "but he has certain weaknesses like all of us and I thought if I could correct them he might boost his average perhaps 20 points, possibly more.

"Taking Manush aside for several days I worked with him as to several changes I had in mind, particularly as to his stance.

"Heinie tried his best to execute my ideas but almost immediately his average began to shrink. In attempting to alter his style, he lost confidence in his great natural ability and slumped so badly that I had to remove him from the lineup.

"While Manush sat on the bench for a couple of weeks, brooding over his failure to hit, I reached the decision that he was a natural batsman, not a scientific one; that his batting power was great enough to dwarf one of his minor faults.

"It has been my experience that a majority of batters can improve their style and averages by making a study of the business of baschits. Then there are others who are just natural hitters and it is a mistake to try to change them. Babe Ruth is such a batsman.

"Having made up my mind that science should not enter into Manush's style, I put him back into the lineup and my only suggestion was that he be natural, take his healthy swing.

"Immediately he began to show improvement. In 1925 he finished with a mark of .303 after a very bad start. At the start of the 1926 season I told Manush it wasn't how you hit them but where and stressed the point that he be natural.

"Improving his average by 74 points over 1925, Manush reached the goal of every great batsman, the winning of a batting championship by capturing the American League title."

There is a moral to this story of Heinie Manush, champion batsman of the American League for 1926—BE NATURAL, ALWAYS.

STILL CALL JACK DEMPSEY "THE CHAMP"

Former Champion's Followers Believe He Can Make Grade Back.

MORE RUMORS.

Has Started Light Training With View For Comeback.

By JOE WILLIAMS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—I have a letter from Gus Wilson, noted trainer, telling me "the champion" has started light training again on the coast with a view of winning back the heavyweight title, if possible.

Jack Dempsey, you will note, is still "the champion" to his trainer, just as he persists in being in the minds of a surprisingly big number of fight followers who have eagerly subscribed to the theory that there was something phoney about Gene Tunney's victory.

Wilson writes that "the champion" has looked impressive in his preliminary gestures of training and that he is confident Dempsey is capable of regaining enough of his old-time formidability to recover the title.

"It will be different when he fights again," writes Wilson. "There will be no Jack Kearns to drive him to mental torment, there will be no political intrigues by boxing commissions to keep the match in a state of uncertainty, and there will be no other things."

Wilson does not take the time to explain what he means by other things, but the inference is he has no objection to my assuming that Captain Charles Mabbutt's story about the poisoned cream was not made up entirely by the comical elements of hooey.

Wilson's letter makes reference to a bet of $20 which he lost to me on the outcome of the fight. While picking Dempsey to win I was convinced he would not be able to knock out Tunney. Over an exquisite ensemble of corn beef and cabbage served in Marty Burke's cafe at Atlantic City Wilson laid me twenty at evens the fight would not go the limit.

Commenting on the bet Wilson writes:

"I've lost a lot of bets in my time, and I probably shall lose many more before I take the final count. But I never expect to lose another bet on a man who was whipped before he started—and not because he wasn't in his normal condition, amply good enough to win."

The insinuation here is obvious. Wilson has taken up the camp cry that "the champion" was given the works before he entered the ring. I habe much respect for Wilson. He is a star man in a corner. Even his long association with European heavyweights has not distorted his sense of fistic values.

Yet I wouldn't put it beyond Wilson, or anyone else connected with "the champion's" camp, to attempt to capitalize the widespread feeling of skepticism that followed Tunney's unexpected victory—and which follows every unexpected victory in any line of sport.

If "the champion" is coming back to fight, and apparently that is his present intention, the less legitimate his first defeat can be made to appear, the greater will be the public interest in his return. This is all a part of the intricate ballyhoo. Other great stars have used it. Why not "the champion?"

It was very nice of organized basebell, we'll tell you, to allow Eddie Collins to come back to the big leagues to serve as a third or fourth assistant manager or something, and we do hope they are paying him three or four thousand dollars anyhow.

Augusta held a rousing home welcome for Ty Cobb, and we understand Mr. Squawk Leonard has been promised an even better one if he'll come in some time in the near future.

Reilly Reaps Fortune Off Delaney Contract

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Jack Delaney's victory over Bud Gorman and his establishments in the heavyweight division is another instance where cheap contracts have led to a gold mine.

Delaney cost Pete Reilly, his manager $800. He has already earned $200,000 and is still going strong.

Jack Kearns got Jack Dempsey's contract for nothing in the back room of a Frisco saloon. Jack Sharkey didn't cost Johnny Buckley a dime and he has made a small fortune already and is gunning for a $10,000 bout with Tunney.

OSHAWA HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Motor Town Intermediates To Open Petes' Home Schedule.

GOOD GAME LIKELY.

Oshawa intermediates will be here to-morrow to play the Petes and the game promises to be a battle royal. The visitors can see nothing in their path to the Ontario title, and after their games with senior teams, figure on the easy capture of this group.

On the other hand the Petes have ironed out the weakness displayed at Port Hope and, given hard ice, should give the visitors a hard fight. The local lads are young and have developed good combination and shooting.

Norman Albert of Toronto has been appointed to referee to-morrow's game. Reserved seats will be on sale at Bond's Drug Store.

Some authorities say that modern billiards came into existence at the beginning of the nineteenth century, when the fall of a ball into a pocket rang a bell.

M'GRAW LAUDS ABILITY OF RUTH

One of Greatest All-Round Ball Players of the Game.

GREATEST SLUGGER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 —"Babe Ruth is one of the greatest all round ball players the game has ever produced," says Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants.

"If Ruth wasn't the greatest slugger of all time, fandom would be raving about his marvelous fielding ability, his accurate throwing arm and his remarkable speed for a big fellow.

"Ruth's feat of making three home runs in one game of the recent world series unquestionably was the feat of a super player, but to my way of thinking, two other things he did in the series made a greater impression.

"One of them was a sensational one-handed catch of a fly ball as he crashed into the temporary stands at St. Louis, while the other was a perfect throw he made from deep left field to cut down one of the fleet Cardinals at the plate.

"If Ruth wasn't famous for his feats of slugging, he would be hogging the spotlight because of some other feature of his play."

John McGraw knows his stuff and his sizeup of Ruth is correct. Fandom fails to appreciate his true worth because it knows him only as the slugger.

RISBERT UP BEFORE LANDIS

Gives Information Concerning Crookedness of Several Major League Players.

CHICAGO, Ill., December 30. — Canadian Press. — Charles ('Swede') Risberg, former shorts for the Chicago White Sox, last night was invited by Kenesaw M. Landis, the baseball commissioner, to come to Chicago and formally place before him the information. Risberg has been quoted in newspaper interviews as saying he can give and thereby connect with baseball scandal, a score of major league players never before mentioned in connection with crookedness.

Risberg's fair compensation and expenses were guaranteed in a telegram Commissioner Landis sent to him last night at Rochester, Minn.

"The earlier the better," was the Landis reply to Risberg's "challenge to the commissioner," printed in today's newspapers.

"Landis and the big bosses of baseball don't want to know the facts," said newspapers quoting Risberg, who was ousted from organized baseball in 1920, along with the other "black sox" of the Chicago team of 1919. "This is a challenge to the commissioner; let's see what he'll do about it."

The following telegram represents what the commissioner did:

"Papers print statement purporting to come from you to the efect that you can give information that will implicate twenty big leaguers, who never before have been mentioned in connection with crookedness.' Assuming that you made the statement I earnestly request you to come here with the facts. Fair compensation for your time and expenses guaranteed."

"Wire collect when you may be expected, the earlier the better."

Signed Kensaw M. Landis."

More fuel was heaped on the base ball bon fire yesterday by the arrival here of Frank D. Navin, president of the Detroit Baseball Club, who slipped into Chicago unheralded for the purpose of conferring with Commissioner Landis and Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

During the day Navin and Commissioner Landis discussed the latest turn of events in the baseball scandal behind closed doors. If there were any new developments the public must wait patiently for the facts.

"I have absolutely nothing to say" was all the information coming from Commissioner Landis when was finally located in his office late in the afternoon.

RUGBY GAME SCANDAL, TOO

Charges That Army-Navy Football Match Become Commercialized.

OVER TICKET PRICES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Charges that the annual Army-Navy football game is becoming commercialized with an "outside agency" disposing of 60,000 tickets "at any price it may determine," were made before the House Appropriations Committee by Rep. Oliver, Dem., Alabama, according to testimony published yesterday.

Rear Admiral Nulton, of the Annapolis Academy, was criticized for permitting the South Park Board Commission, Chicago, to sell at more than $3.50 each, tickets obtained from the Naval Academy. Nulton denied any agreement permitting boosting of prices to the $10 and $15 Olive claimed the board set as a minimum He added, however, that without turning over 10,000 tickets at $3.50 each to the park organization it would have been impossible to have the recent game in Chicago.

Oliver said the public had believed there was a patriotic offer on Chicago's part to bear the game expense without the skyrocketing ticket prices which prevailed, and he expressed surprise that official approval had been given the arrangement.

Nulton replied he understood the Park Commission faced a deficit of $25,000 to $30,000 anyway, as a result of the game.

CHIEF TO OPPOSE GIVING FREEDOM SECOND TIME

Says Suspended Sentence Being Abused in Cobourg Case.

SECOND OFFENCE.

Young Man Released Here Again Let Out on Theft Charge.

"I am taking this matter up with the Attorney General as to why suspended sentence, which I consider ideal in the case of first offenders, should be abused in this case," declared Chief Constable Samuel Newhall this morning. The chief was referring to the case of a young man who on October 29 last was convicted in Police court here of charges of theft and forgery and was permitted to go on suspended sentence.

The same young man, he said, was arrested just recently in Campbellford and was convicted of burglary and was again permitted to go on suspended sentence. "It gives the police force no chance of enforcing law and order or protecting the property of individuals when individuals of this kind are permitted to go at large after committing such serious offences," he declared.

The circumstances of the case in Peterborough were that he issued a worthless cheque to which he forged another man's name and then purchased a suit of clothes with it, he said

"He then stole a car from the market square, smashing it so badly that the owner had to purchase a new car. In addition to this, I have been informed that the car stealing in Peterborough was not his first offence," declared the Chief.

"For these reasons I intend taking further action in the matter," he concluded.

AROUND THE CITY.

Fire alarms over the week-end:

January 1st—12.15 p.m., chimney fire at 177 Douro street; 4.53 p.m., chimney fire at 309 Rubidge street.

January 2nd—6.22 a.m., an automobile smashed into a telephone pole in front of Driscoll Terrace and caught fire.

January 3rd—12.10 p.m., chimney fire at 208 Lansdowne street.

Early Sunday morning a fire broke out at 412 London street. The water pipes between the partitions in the bath room had become frozen and attempts had been made to thaw them out when the fire broke out. The blaze was confined to the partitions by the timely efforts of the fire department.

At noon to-day a farmer from Douro was driving west along Hunter street, between George and Aylmer. When he went to turn into a stable to feed his horse a car struck the cutter from behind. The cutter was thrown forward and struck the horse. The driver lost control of the lines and the horse jumped on to the sidewalk and started east. The cutter struck McGee's gasoline pump, being badly broken and the horse became free and galloped along Hunter street.

ATTORNEY SAYS LANDIS REFUSED INVESTIGATION

Commissioner Knew in 1922 of Detroit "Throwing" Games.

LET CHICAGO WIN.

Attorney For "Black Sox" Says Two Men Told of Plot.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — Ray Canon, the Milwaukee attorney, who at one time represented the baseball players dismissed following the expose of the so-called White Sox scandal of 1919, declared here to-day that Commissioner K. M. Landis knew back in 1922 that the Detroit Club of the American League had "thrown" games to Chicago in 1917 as charged recently by Swede Risberg, and refused to investigate it.

Cannon stated that "Happy" Felsch told the Commissioner, "Buck" Weaver later corroborated that the Detroit Club deliberately permitted Chicago to win seven games near the end of the season. Cannon added that he asked Charles Comiskey to submit to an examination to determine the status of the White Sox Club, but that Comiskey declined.

Jackson Asks Chance

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press)—Joe Jackson, banished from baseball after the 1919 world's series, told newspapermen to-day he "could put straight lots of things in the record which are not true if baseball's latest scandal offers opportunity."

The former Chicago White Sox outfielder said he would withhold comment awaiting advices of his counsel.

DICKSON STORE CHANGES HANDS

Partnership of T. H. Adams and F. J. McFadden is Dissolved.

FORMER SOLE OWNER.

One of the oldest established businesses on George Street, the Dickson Store, is about to see another change in its management. The partnership which has existed between T. H. Adams and F. J. McFadden, is being dissolved and the business, which includes the Lakefield branch, will be continued under its present name, by Mr. Adams. Mr. McFadden is leaving the city to take over a business which he has acquired in Napanee.

The Dickson store is one of the oldest dry goods businesses in Peterborough, having been in operation for 37 years in the same stand, 395 George Street. In July, 1890, Mr. A. G. Dickson took over the Dolan business and continued it for 24 years, up to the time of his death. The A. G. Dickson estate had the management for two years longer, and in 1916 the partnership between Messrs. Adams and McFadden was formed, the business purchased, and run up to the present, still under its old name of The Dickson Store.

For 37 years, the Dickson Store has been a household word in Peterborough and for miles around. It has always maintained a reputation for honest dealing in dependable dry goods at fair prices. This was the motto of the founder, the late Mr. Dickson, and has been adhered to by the present firm for the past eleven years, a factor which has contributed to the continued success of the store for so long a period.

In all the 37 years of its existence, Dicksons' Store has never put on a big sale, but contented themselves with the patronage that resulted from selling reliable goods at moderate prices; living, in fact, on a reputation for value-giving that has so far seemed quite satisfactory.

Now, however, this latest change necessitates turning a quite considerable part of the stock into cash in the shortest possible time, and a Sale of considerable magnitude at both the Peterborough and Lakefield Stores will be announced in a few days. This will be quite an event on George Street, the breaking of a 37-year-old policy, but the firm are facing the situation philosophically, determined, when they do undertake the novelty of conducting a sale, to do it right and make things hum.

CHURCH MUST STAND FIRM FOR MARRIAGE

King's Chaplain Would, However, Permit Innocent Divorcees To Remarry.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (Canadian Press)—The churches of the world must stand squarely for Christian monogamy but divorce and remarriage in the church should be possible in worthy cases is the belief of Rev. Dr. G. A. Studdert Kennedy, chaplain to King George. All countries must rehabilitate the family if they are to meet divorce evil he said.

"On the other hand," he added, "I am opposed to the present attitude of my church with regard to innocent parties. I would not throw down the bars to divorced parties, but I am convinced that in certain cases in which the church can establish innocence the party should be permitted to remarry.

WEDDING BELLS.

KING—MOFFATT

A quiet wedding took place at St. Luke's Church, Peterborough, on December 31st, when Verna Lydia, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moffatt, became the bride of Nelson David King, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. King. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. J. Bousfield.

PRIMEAU—BEAUSOLIEL.

A pretty wedding took place at six o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Rev. P. Costello performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Minnie, second oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Beausolied of 300 Brock Street, and Alexander Primeau of Detroit, Michigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Primeau, Cricket Place, Ashburnham. Miss Hurley played the wedding music, singing also during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely frock of white georgette, embroidered with silver flowers and beaded with pearls. Her hat was of white satin, with shoes and stockings to match and bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Bernadette Beausoliel, a sister of the bride, wore a beaded gown of peach georgette, trimmed with pale blue crepe, hat to match, silver shoes and stockings, and carried a bouquet of roses.

Mr. Arthur Primeau acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the members of the two families at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Primeau leaving on the 7.25 C.P.R. train for Detroit, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a gown of black satin, trimmed with pink crepe and silver, with black hat, shoes and stockings, and seal coat trimmed with grey squirrel.

GLENN—ROBERTS.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, R. R. No. 2, Hastings, when Miss Edith Roberts became the birde of Mr. Ward Glenn. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Thos. Doupe.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of Mr. Thos. Brown and was married under an arch of evergreens and pink and white roses and wedding bells. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Archer.

The bride's gown was golden brown, crepe back satin and blue cut velvet with shoes and stockings to match. Little Jean Brown was flower girl and was dressed in jade green silk, and carried a basket of pink roses and maiden hair fern. Little Clarence Glenn, who was ring bearer, carried the ring on a silver tray.

After the signing of the register the bridal couple and friends assembled in the dining room, where a sumptuous dinner was spread. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn left for a honeymoon in Toronto and points west.

BURLEY—STAZICKER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. W. H. Buckler, on Monday, Jan. 3rd, 1927, at the home of Mrs. Matthew Stazicker, Downer's Corners, Peterboro, when her eldest daughter, Lillian Atkinson Stazicker, was united in holy matrimony to Garfield Burley, son of Ferne Burley of Keene.

The happy couple will reside in Keene.

Prince Of Wales May Visit Canada In 1927

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(United Press.)—The Prince of Wales may make another trip to Canada this year. In a speech at the Savoy hotel last night he predicted 1927 would be a better year than 1926. "Anyway," he added, "1927 holds out to me the greatest hopes for revisiting Canada."

The dinner was in commemoration of the bicentenary of the birth of General Wolfe, the conqueror of Quebec. In a tribute to him, the Prince said it was impossible to think of Canada without thinking of Wolfe.

OFFER WHISKEY TO SECRETARY OF DRY LEAGUE

Five Men Arrested in Detroit For Selling Liquor.

TWO FROM TORONTO.

Had Mailing List of 1,000 Detroiters and Many Agents.

DETROIT, Jan 5 (Canadian Press). — Because, it is charged, they picked the secretary of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League as their customer, Douglas Cooper, who gave his address as Toronto; Alfred Strowger, Toronto, and Al McKinnon, Leland Rose and Merritt Gillaspie of Detroit, connected with the Ontario Extract Company, are held for trial on charges of selling a gallon of grain alcohol and a case of "whiskey extract" to Rev. C. C. Wilkins, who is financial secretary of the State Anti-Saloon organization.

Cooper, according to Federal authorities, is manager of the Extract Company, while the others are said to be salesmen. Rev. Mr. Wilkins states that Gillaspie offered him a case of Scotch whiskey for $40. The anti-saloon official ordered the case and asked to have it delivered to his rooms. Federal officers were on hand when delivery was made and arrested McKinnon. The others were arrested in the offices of the Extract Company, where there was a mailing list containing the names of 1,000 Detroiters and correspondence indicating the firm had agents throughout Michigan.

ADDINGTON MAN TO BE SPEAKER

Unofficial Reports Say Black Will Be Government Nominee.

SUCCEEDS THOMPSON.

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press)—It is stated unofficially at the Provincial parliament buildings to-day that W. D. Black, M.L.A. for Addington, will be nominated by the Ferguson government as speaker of the new legislature, which has been called to assemble on February 2. This anticipates the promotion of Hon. J. E. Thompson, member for Toronto St. Davids, to a portfolio in the provincial cabinet.

Mr. Black has been Conservative member for Addington in the Provincial house since 1911. He is sixty years of age, a Presbyterian, and his residence is at Parham, Ontario, where he has been active in public service in local organizations and councils for many years.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris, 1000 feet high, is almost double the height of the second tallest building in Europe, the Cologne cathedral.

NEW ORE BODY IS UNCOVERED NEAR SUDBURY

Diamond Drilling Discloses Deposits of Lead-Zinc-Copper.

NEW MINE INDUSTRY.

Discoveries in Other Districts Proving of Great Value.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — "Virtual certainty" of the establishment of a great lead-zinc-copper mining industry, practically within gunshot of the famous Sudbury nickel mines, is declared by the Ontario Department of Mines. The necessary ore for its creation has been revealed on the surface for a stretch of several miles and $250,000 has been spent in developing interests in diamond drilling. With a shaft sunk to a depth of 330 feet and with ore being encountered in the cross cuts, the Provincial government believes that indications are sufficient to forecast for the very near future a new and important development of Northern Ontario wealth.

Not only the Sudbury situation, however, but progress with discoveries elsewhere, is engaging the keen interests of the Mines Department of the Government at the present time, leading to the firm conviction that the province is on the eve of a great expansion in its mineral wealth. A showing of copper which was recently found in Munro Township, and excited considerable attention because possibly indicating the extension of the Rouyn field across the Provincial boundary line, has been assayed and found to run 7.1 per cent copper and 18.1 per cent. zinc.

Profitable Ore.

Such mineral content constitutes an excellent grade of ore, as will be apparent when it is realized that in some of the United States mines, where there is greater facility in extracting the minerals, ore which grades as low as 1-2 per cent. in its copper content is profitably treated. Along with the Munro township discoveries there have been recent discoveries in the townships of Clifford and Ben Nevis, which all strengthen the hope that the Quebec orebody in the Rouyn may be picked up in Ontario. Staking of claims in the townships where the recent finds have been made, has been active.

Another find of interest as well as of great possible value has been made east of Searchmount Station on the Algoma Central Railway where silver lead ore has been located assaying 127 ounces of silver to the ton and 40 per cent in its lead content. Interests have optioned the claims for immediate development.

New Gold Area

Over north of Buck Station at Savant Lake important gold discoveries have also been reported to the department. At one time placer gold was found in the sands of Savant Lake, but in insufficient quantities to prove profitable for mining purposes. Now, however, quartz veins of richness are reported as uncovered. The Hollinger Company has gone in and optioned some of the claims for development.

The various discoveries which herald a period of unparalleled mineral development for Ontario in the near future are in process of embodiment in a report which the Department of Mines is compiling of the results of its geological surveys during the season just closed. The report will be one of the most comprehensive which the department has issued. It will include a report upon Red Lake proper by J. E. Hawey and E. L. Bruce on Red Lake West to the Manitoba boundary line by Geoffrey Gilbert; on East Red Lake, including Woman and Narrow Lakes by J. W. Greig; on the Michipicoten and Goudreau areas by L. Gledhill; on East Shining Tree by George Langford; on the geological conditions in the working of the Kirkland Lake Mines by E. W. Todd and Provincial Geologist A. G. Burrows; and on the Matagami slope where lignite and clay deposits have been found, by R. S. Montgomery.

In the usual conservative phraseology of Government correspondence the Mines Department in the following letter yesterday summarized recent developments for one of the

Eighteen Year Old Youth Fights With Huge Shark In Vain Effort To Save Friend Attacked By Monster

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Jan. 5.—A story of unexampled heroism in shark infested waters comes from Port Hacking, New South Wales.

When a huge shark attacked fifteen-year-old Merwyn Allum in twenty feet of water, Stanley Gibbs, his eighteen-year-old mate, jumped from the prow of their launch on to the back of the fish and straddling his legs across its back, pummelled it so vigorously with both fists that it was compelled to release his comrade. When both lads were being hauled back into the boat, however, the shark made a second attack on Allum; it was beaten off, but the boy died from the effects of frightful injuries

Bobbed Hair and Curls To Be 1927 Style Coiffeurs Declare At Vienna Exposition

VIENNA, Jan. 5.—Bobbed hair styles for 1927 will be more feminine, with curls predominating, it was decided yesterday as the result of an international prize competition and exposition held here with the aim of beautifying the bob.

The forty coiffeurs entered competed in all styles, except the Eton cut, which had not a single backer and is considered quite out of fashion.

Curls had a decided triumph over all models, four prize-winners displaying them. The general tendency favored curls on the forehead and the back of the head over the nape. The first prize, a fantasy, or carnival, hair dressing, went to a Berlin coiffeur, who formed rooster combs of curls.

Postiches, "rats" of false hair, are also greatly favored as a method of beautifying the bob, many of them being secured to the head by ingenious devices or fantasy combs. The extreme boyish cut is frowned up, the coiffeurs agreeing that even the shortest shingle should retain something distinctly feminine.

Representatives of coiffeurs of all Central European States, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland and some Americans participated in or attended the competition. The Viennesse coiffeurs, who won all but one of the prizes, are rapidly making Vienna the capital of bobbed hairdom, if the fulsome praise which foreigners here, including Americans and Parisians, shower on local hairdressers is any indication.

The number of smart foreign women whom one hears express the desire to come to Vienna whenever the bob needs remodeling is surprising at least to mere man..... ....

EMPIRE DEFENCE CONTRIBUTON IS DUTY OF EVERY DOMINION ASSERTS AUSTRALIAN PREMIER

No Foundation, He Says, For Apprehension Over Conference.

QUOTES FIGURES.

Equal Rights Involve Equal Duties, He Tells Toronto Audience.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—"There is not the slightest foundation for apprehension," was the clear-cut and emphatic statement of Right Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, the soldier-Premier of Australia, addressing the Canadian Club of Toronto yesterday. He made this declaration to reassure "a number of people who have a true, loyal spirit to our Imperial connection: who believe in the British Empire; who believe it is the greatest force for civilization and peace in the world; who have looked on this Imperial Conference, and have in their minds a feeling of apprehension that something has been done which is going to undermine the great unity of the Empire, and which must inevitably in the future lead to its disintegration."

Frank Words of Counsel.

But the Australian Premier had also some frank words of caution and counsel for his great audience. "I wish," he said, "to deal with another angle of this whole question. It is that we in the Dominions are a little inclined to talk of our importance and to talk of our rights. One of the things we have talked a great deal about recently is our right to declare to the world that we are an autonomous, self-governing people; that in every respect we are as good as Great Britain. Let us admit that, but don't let us imagine for a second that we can hold that proud position, talking of what great people we are, and of our equality not only with other Dominions, not only with Britain, but with all the other nations of the world, unless we are going to be prepared to assume the responsibility which that involves."

And Mr. Bruce made his meaning very clear. Unless, he said, a Dominion is prepared to accept a position of inferiority within the Empire she must contribute, proportionately to her population and wealth, to Empire-defence costs. He quoted present Empire-defence contributions as follows: Great Britain, 51 shillings 1 penny; Australia, 27 shillings 2 pence; New Zealand, 12 shillings 11 pence; Canada, 5 shillings 10 pence; and South Africa, 2 shillings 6 pence per capita per year.

An Axiom of Equality.

"If we are to go on claiming from Britain equality with her in every respect," he said, at the Canadian Club luncheon, "we cannot continue to let her pay 51 shillings per head for the defence of the Empire as a whole unless we, too, are willing to spend a few pence for that purpose."

Mr. Bruce reminded his audiences also that, next to Great Britain herself, Canada possessed the greatest overseas trade of any part of the Empire.

From train to Government House, to Canadian Club luncheon speech, to Convocation Hall address and honor conferment, to Government dinner at the Parliament Buildings at night, with trips to points of interest, press interviews and social functions thrown in between times, the Australian Prime Minister put in one crowded day in Toronto. But he stood it well, and came up smiling for a last press interview at Government House in the evening.

Premier Bruce's Toronto audiences liked him immensely, and undoubtedly each individual would have thought even more highly of the distinguished visitor if he had been privileged to enjoy a private chat. For, while Stanley Bruce looks the aristocrat, he is a ready mixer and engaging conversationalist, with no evidence of pomposity in his make-up.

Conclusions of Conference.

"Were the conclusions of the Conference respecting the relations of the Dominions with the Motherland completely satisfactory to you?" Premier Bruce was asked, in the course of his interview. "Yes, absolutely. I went over all that in my speech to the Canadian Club, and if you care for an elaboration you can look it up there."

"Was the Imperial Conference conclusion in any sense a compromise?" "Nothing to compromise about. It is a statement, not of something new, but a statement of ordinary process of evolution."

"What are the responsibilities which the Dominions have taken over from the Motherland?" "Nothing, nothing that they had not before."

"What have the Dominions received or secured from the Motherland?" "Nothing at all."

"Wherein does the status to-day differ from the status before the Conference?"

Mr. Bruce stated that his answer to this question must be secured from his set speeches. He did not care, he said, to make an isolated, abbreviated reply, which might be taken up wrongly, and possibly cause harm.

WANTS EVEN DEAL.

PREMIER BRUCE

Of Australia, who says Dominions should share equally responsibilities of Empire defence.

BRADBURN CHAIRMAN.

POLITICAL POT MAY BOIL OVER AFTER A TRUCE

Briand and Poincare Due To Clash on Foreign Policies.

ENDANGER CABINET.

Interview With Minister Seen as a Slap at the Premier.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—After a fortunate quiescence which has permitted Premier Poincare to do so much for the financial position of France, it appears that the Paris political pot may soon start boiling again.

For five months now there has been a truce between the parties in the Chamber, with a Right leader holding office, while the majority of the Chamber is of Left political complexion. This result followed on the lamentable failure of the Left leaders to solve the fiscal problems of the country, and M. Poincare came into office on their fear of public resentment.

But now the franc seems to be saved and the Left leaders are beginning to show restlessness. The coming Senatorial elections have filled the air with politics and in the session of Parliament which opens next week interesting developments may take place.

There is growing criticism of Premier Poincare for not stabilizing the franc, while many think he has the opportunity. There is dissatisfaction with the failure of retail prices to fall. There is almost certain to be growing unemployment and there is to be a debate on the debt settlements.

Predict Clash on Foreign Policies.

But to these possibilities of discord a new one is added by the spreading of an idea that M. Briand and Premier Poincare are due for a clash on foreign policy — not so much over the Locarno system itself as over a detail of its application, namely, early withdrawal of the French troops from the Rhineland. Under the peace treaty Mayence may be occupied until 1935. M. Briand is believed to favor earlier evacuation.

M. Poincare's friends find some fault with the ceremony at the Elysee Palace on New Year's Day, when the Papal Nuncio, speaking as dean of the diplomatic corps, gave bouquets to M. Briand, but seemed to neglect his superior. This feeling is increased by the effect of an interview with M. Briand published here, in which the Foreign Minister, when congratulated on the success of the Locarno policy, took plans to say that, after all, the policy of rapprochement with Germany had been started by him at Cannes in 1922.

It will be remembered that President Miller and a majority of the Cabinet refused to approve M. Briand's course at Cannes and he resigned as Premier, to be replaced by M. Poincare, advocate of a firmer policy toward Germany.

In the interview M. Briand recalled that his Cannes policy was to have been extended at the Genoa conference, and he added:

"You know what happened there. But do not let us complain. Do not let us discuss personalities. We do not ask if we were right and others wrong. There are events which are stronger than men."

Slap at Poincare Seen.

Whether M. Briand, who is always peaceably inclined, meant it or not, it is easy for M. Poincare's friends to see a slap at the Premier in these words of the Foreign Minister.

Now that M. Briand has insisted that in January there must be a big debate on his foreign policies, he expects, of course, strong approval by the Chamber. Premier Poincare is not at all anxious for this debate too soon, for in it lies the possibility of trouble with certain members of his Cabinet, notably M. Marin, leader of the Nationalists in the Chamber, and M. Tardieu. In any event, while the debate may pass off smoothly it certainly contains the possibilities of a shake-up in the French Cabinet. While it is not likely that the basic policies of France—either that of Locarno or the domestic financial policy—will be altered, it is possible that the Cabinet may see some changes.

Suicide Survives Leap That Has Killed Dozen

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 5 (United News) — Walter B. Church, 37, attempted suicide yesterday by jumping from the centre of the Delaware River bridge, 145 feet above the water. He was rescued by the crew of a fire boat and is recovering in a hospital.

Only one other man has ever leaped from the bridge and survived. He was a professional diver who jumped from the Camden side, where the span is lower. During construction of the bridge over a dozen workmen were killed by falling into the water. Several suicides have made the leap.

ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST H. MANN IS DISMISSED

Addison Jones Accused Him of Causing Bodily Harm.

QUARREL OVER WORK.

Dispute About Placing of Pipes Leads To Blow at C.G.E. Plant.

The case against Harold W. Mann, who was charged with causing actual bodily harm to Addison Jones, by striking him in the face, was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning.

It arose as a result of a fracas between the accused and Mr. Jones in the yard of the Canadian General Electric Company, when, as the complainant alleged, the accused, instead of placing some piping where he was ordered, threw them around in a disorderly fashion. Some words were uttered and the accused struck him on the eye with such violence that he was later sent to the hospital, where he remained for two days.

The case was featured by the evidence of one witness, who although an Irishman, testified that he had endeavored to stop the fight and had told them to "cut it out as it was against the rules to fight."

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., appeared for the prosecution. The prisoner was represented by G. N. Gordon, K.C.

A local doctor testified that Mr. Jones was brought to his office by a taxi man on December 28. He noticed blood on his face and observed a small hemorrhage from the right nostril. Mr. Jones, he said, did not say how it happened but simply said something "about having a fracas with another man.

Addison Jones

The complainant, examined by Mr. Hatton, stated that he was employed by the Canadian General Electric Company as a pipe fitter. On December 28, he continued, the accused, with P. Scully, was engaged in drawing pipes to the new building and instead of dumping them inside they dumped them outside. "I told them to unload the pipe inside, not outside on frozen ground. The accused refused, and started to throw them off on the ground.

"I went up to him with a hammer in one hand and a paint pot in the other. He said 'You're not going to hit me with that hammer" and grabbed it and threw it away," declared the witness. "He then threw the pipes and chains all over the ground.

"I ventured up to him again and caught hold of him—He then hit me with something—I don't know what it was," he said.

He stated that he then received first aid from the nurse of the surgery, afterwards being taken in a taxi to the doctor, who sent him to hospital, where he remained for two days.

C. J. Copping.

C. J. Copping stated that he was working with Mr. Jones on December 28 but that he did not see the assault.

Afterwards, he said, he asked the accused, "What did you hit him for?" the accused replying that "he tried to hit me but he got one instead."

Patrick Scully.

Patrick Scully stated that he was a teamster in the employ of the Canadian General Electric Company. On the day of the assault the accused was working with him. Upon reaching the building he

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Coolies Out of Control of Chinese Troops—Marines Retire.

HONG KONG, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—The British warships Vindictive, Carlisle and Wishart have been ordered to Hankow. All available British naval forces at Shanghai have also been ordered to proceed at full speed to Hankow, it is reported. All women and children at Hankow are believed to have been instructed to embark in readiness to leave that city.

Appeals for Aid

LONDON, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—Frantic appeals for more land and naval forces are being made by the British community at Hankow to the British Government. The Foreign Office says the situation at Hankow is fraught with the gravest danger, but it is felt that the British authorities on the spot will be successful in averting armed conflict.

The situation is considered easier by the placing of the responsibility for the preservation or order at Hankow on the Chinese authorities.

The Foreign Office says the Hankow disturbance is due to Cantonese agitators attempting to provoke the British to use force, thereby stirring up another crisis in order to embarass Britain's newly declared policy of conciliation.

Situation Serious

PEKING, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press) —Official despatches from Hankow, where the British colony is being beseiged by thousands of infuriated coolies as a result of anti-foreign agitation, show the situation is growing increasingly serious and indicate the angry natives are out of control. Despatches reported the situation very discouraging and that the Bund, the principal thoroughfare for Britishers, is "unsafe for foreigners."

British armed forces, feeling it would have been impossible to hold the masses back without firing, retired, leaving the concession in charge of Cantonese troops.

DISTURBANCES ARE REPORTED THROUGH MEXICO

Unofficial Despatches Say Numerous Risings Occured Throughout Country.

ARE SUPPRESSED.

Catholic Episcopate Firm Against Armed Opposition Over Religious Situation.

MEXICO City, Jan. 5, — Canadian Press. — Mexico City is deluged with tales of revolutionary disturbances in various parts of the republic. Within the last three days there has been one murder and two holdups by bandits only a few miles from the capital, and one train and six automobiles have been attacked, and the passengers robbed within 40 miles of the city. Newspaper despatches assert that revolutionary risings in towns in three different states have been suppressed by federal soldiers and 11 of the leaders executed at Leon, State of Guanajuato.

Not all of the rumors can be confirmed, for Mexico City is a hotbed most of the time for alarming reports of disturbances in other parts of the country, but they have been more persistent than usual, and picture a grave condition of general unrest, with numerous clashes occuring at various places.

Reports that Roman Catholics, as such, are involved in any of the revolutionary disorders or that Catholic leaders were among the revolutionaries executed at Leon, were denied yesterday by the Catholic episcopate, which added that the episcopate had not altered its attitude in refusing to sanction armed opposition over the religious situation.

The war department declares that the federal army is in control of the situation throughout the country, is suppressing, and will continue promptly to suppress all uprisings. The war department denies that there is any general revolutionary movement under way, explaining that any such operations are the work of local bandits or groups of so-called revolutionaries, which the federals are exterminating.

The boldness of the bandits in coming as near as ten miles to Mexico has caused considerable excitement in the capital. Monday bandits kidnapped six Mexican hunters returning to the city and killed one who resisted and severely wounded another. The bandits released the remaining four after robbing them. The same day presumably the same band, held up several automobiles near Tlalpam, a suburb, robbing the passengers.

Two hundred revolutionaries attacked the military garrison at Leon Monday but were repulsed by the federals, who killed 10 of them, and executed 11 of the leaders, who are said to have been prominent citizens of the place.

On Sunday afternoon 35 or more armed men ,described by the authorities as bandits, but who themselves shouted that they were revolutionists, needing supplies for their operations, robbed the passengers of six automobiles near Cuernavaca. Not long afterwards a railroad train near the town of Ajusco, 30 miles from Mexico City, was boarded by bandits and robbed.

Late despatches say that the federals put down rebel risings at Concepcion del Oro, State of Zacatecas, executing several of the leaders.

The specials also report, but without confirmation, that there was a rising of Catholics at Barras de la Fuente, State of Coahuila, and that they "seized the municipal authorities."

He left his home last night, stating that he was going to attend the furnace in his store.

Beauty Shop Owners Resume Attack On Bobbed Hair: "Neither Practical Nor Necessary," They Declare

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The annual campaign against bobbed hair was started by beauty shop owners in convention here yesterday. Long hair can be dressed more becomingly and with more individuality than short hair, speakers said. Bobbing is neither practical nor necessary to beauty and should be abolished forthwith and for evermore, it was resolved.

"The worst crime committed in the name of beauty is bobbed hair," Mrs. Ruth J. Maurer, head of the National School of Cosmeticians, said in an address, "for several years now women have been going about, looking worse than comic valentines. Their short hair has been kept in curl, but constantly straying in wisps about their faces. Then there are those who will be coquetish by frizzing their hair all around until they look like a Fiji Islander or cedar mop."

Catholic Church and Wesleyan Is Looted By Insurgents.

HANKOW, Jan. 5.—General mobilization of British volunteers in Hankow and of British sailors and marines from the gunboats Magnolia, Wollstan and Bee to defenses of the concession here has been effected because of the seriousness of the local situation. Anti-British agitators have found willing listeners among the Chinese population.

Defenses at Pekin.

PEKIN, Jan. 5.—The latest flare-up of anti-British violence in Hankow and Kiu Kiang caused apprehension yesterday in the foreign quarters of the two cities, as officials strengthened their guard to cope with new attacks by coolies.

British marines wounded several Chinese with their bayonets in the rioting at Hankow Monday, amplified reports of the fighting revealed yesterday. The coolies stoned the British, who barricaded themselves in the customs house. Several British citizens were injured, but none killed. The marines report repulsing every advance of the Chinese.

Church Looted.

LONDON, Jan. 5.— The Hankow, China, correspondent of the Daily Mail reports the arrival there of an English missionary, Miss Booth, from Taye, where, on Saturday, she says, a mob looted the Catholic church, the Wesleyan school and hospital, and hunted the foreigners.

The fate of other missionaries at Taye, an English couple named Simon, and Miss Anderson, a Swede, is unknown.

CITIZENS MOURN SHERMAN E. HILL

Soldiers and Civilians Attend Funeral of Hero of Great War.

IMPRESSIVE SEBVICE.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—The funeral of Sherman Ernest Hill was held on Thursday afternoon from the family residence, Clementi street, where a brief service was held and then proceeding to St. John's church, and was attended by hundreds of people from the village and countryside, including a large number of returned men, and also a good representation of fellow employees of the Trent Canal Service. The church was packed to capacity and nearly as many more were unable to get in but remained on the street. The procession was led into the church by St. John's vested choir followed by the casket covered with the Union Jack surmounted by his cap bearing the regimental badge of the 21st battalion to which the deceased was attached in France, and a wreath of maple leaves and poppies from the 93rd battalion with which he joined up in 1915. Following the casket were the pall-bearers, three from the 93rd and three from the 21st battalion. They were Comrades David Tucker, Reginald Murduff, J. Roy Robinson, Walter Chappell, John J. McFadden, and Earl Orr. The family, the firing party, and a large number of men of the Canadian Legion, each wearing a scarlet poppy "in rememberance", followed, and the simple, impressive burial service of the Church of England was read by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, who also said a few words of comfort to the friends. The speaker had known the deceased for many years as a fine type of Canadian manhood who gave his life in the service of his country as surely as he risked it many times in France or Flanders. "God is our great Judge and He knows our hearts, and it is He who must make the judgement of our lives and works knowing all our feelings and our motives and it is well that it is so. As we live and do our duty in this world are we judged. God wants us to make the world better for our having been in it, and it will be well for us if God finds us doing our duty faithfully as did Sherman Hill," he said

The hymn "Oh God Our Help In Ages Past" was sung and also the Nunc Dimittis as the procession slowly passed down the aisle.

The procession re-formed for the march to the Lakefield cemetery. The Citizen's Band, which led the procession from the house, led it also to the cemetry and their music added to the impressive character of the cortege which included besides the firing party a long procession of ex-service men, including Col T. J. Johnston of the 93rd battalion, and Sidney Whatley, secretary of the Canadian Legion in Peterboro, and scores of citizens in motor cars and cutters. The street were lined with pedestrians who watched reverently the long procession pass down Queen street where the blinds on every store were lowered to pay a token of respect to the man, ho had lived here as man and boy as his father had before him.

The service at the cemetery was short and impressive, the Last Post was sounded by Bugler Thirnbeck of Peterboro, and the poppies were cast into the grave as an emblem of rememberance to the dead man.

Among those in the firing party were: Sergeant Stenner Comrades E. Robertshaw, Alfred Hudson, A. Barker, Wilbert Webster, S. Grylls, Laurence Charlton, E. Tighe, W. Robinson, Elmer Johnston, and W. Doherty.

The funeral was in charge of the Lakefield branch of the Canadian Legion and was excellently managed throughout. Decorations were worn by the men.

Sherman Ernest Hill was born in Lakefield 36 years and 8 months ago, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Hill, and lived in and about the village all his life with the exception of about four years when he was absent in his country's service in war time. More than ten years ago he married Miss Maude Udy of Lakefield, who with four children, Sherman, Denise, Gordon, and Jean survive him. His parents also survive and six brothers, Roland of Port Hope, and Frank, Percy, D'Arcy, and Harry, all of Lakefield, and one sister, Miss Eva Helen Hill of the staff of the Lakefield Public school.

Sherman Hill also took an active part in athletics and was prominent and popular in hockey circles as were all the Hill brothers. He enlisted in C company of the 93rd battalion in the winter of 1915-16, and was an excellent soldier, a favorite with officers and men. When the battalion was broken up in England, he was attached to the 21st battalion of which battalion his brother, Joseph was one of the orignal members Sherman and Joe were awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous bravery in the field (a distinction rarely won by two members of the same family) and it is understood that Sherman was recommended for the V.C. After his return to Canada he received the appointment of lockmaster at Lock 23 on the Trent Canal, a position which he held till his death and where he gave his life in pursuit of his duty as the supreme sacrifice of service.

The floral offerings in memory of this brave soldier and faithful civil servant were many and beautiful and were contributed both by military and civilian friends, with affectionate regard for a splendid Canadian, whose devotion to duty should be an evercontinuing lesson to all those whose human endeavor is still incomplete.

OBITUARY.

PETER KING.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon of the late Peter King of Chicago from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. A. C. Hawley, Charlotte street, the pall-bearers being Messrs. Fred Skitch, George Evans, Victor Tully and A. C. Hawley.

Three sisters survive: Miss Bella and Miss Minnie King and Mrs. A. C. Hawley, and one brother, Mr. Harry King, who was with the 24th Field Battery, and who is now in England.

SEVERAL MEN TRAPPED BY FIRE WHEN EXPLOSION WRECKS BARGE

Was Loading Pitch at Railroad Pier in Baltimore Docks.

OTHERS INJURED.

Known Missing and Injured Were Mostly Dock Workers.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—Between eight and twelve men were missing and 23 were injured after an explosion late yesterday which ignited a cargo of pitch aboard the French barque Richelieu at a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad coal pier in Curtis Bay. Five of the missing and two of the injured were members of the vessel's crew. The others were for the most part negro dock workers. Six French naval cadets, attached for training to the Richelieu, were reported by Captain Jules Cornec, the ship's master, to be safe. The Richelieu carried a crew of 46.

Paul Maguerez, in charge of workmen trimming pitch in No. 3 hatch, where the blast occurred, finished work and led 20 men from the hatchway a few moments before flames leaped from the opening. His crew was at first believed to have been trapped in the hold. The missing men last night were believed to be somewhere in the ship's interior, which was a seething mass of flames.

Fire was raging unchecked throughout the vessel and it was feared the missing men were caught in the hold. Fourteen men were taken to hospitals, the extent of their injuries unknown. Two of the known injured were crew members and the others dock hands.

Captain Jules Cornec, the Richelieu's commander, said a check showed 39 of his crew of 46 unhurt. Of 40 workmen known to have been on the dock or aboard the Richelieu, all were either in hospitals or reported missing. Most of them were negroes.

All available fire apparatus and ambulances were called from Baltimore and private automobiles were pressed into ambulance service.

The Richelieu was a 3,000-ton four-masted barque, 323 feet long, with beam of 27 feet. She docked at Curtis Bay from Brest last week and was loading pitch for Lauriente, France.

The explosion occurred in hatch No. 3 when 30 workmen were trimming pitch, Captain Cornec said. The captain himself was in his cabin directly above the hatch and was thrown to the floor by the blast. He immediately dashed upon the deck and ordered his crew and all workmen in sight overboard. None of the 30 men in the hatch had been accounted for. No bodies had been taken from the ship early in the evening, but firemen were unable to approach the hatchway where the workmen were believed to have been caught.

EUROPE SWEPT BY EPIDEMIC OF MILD INFLUENZA

Disease Is Spreading Rampant Over Great Britain and Continent.

INVADES GERMANY.

Is Not of the Deadly Kind That Was Known in Past.

LONDON, Jan. 5 (United Press).—A wave of influenza yesterday was seeping Western Europe and Great Britain and many deaths already have occurred among the thousands of sufferers.

A United Press survey revealed that the epidemic ranged southwest and northwest from Bavaria.

United Press despatches from Berlin said influenza was raging throughout the Reich, but that Bavaria was most affected. Grippe was spreading like wind-blown smoke in Berlin, where the illness usually is of a comparatively mild intensity accompanied by fever.

20,000 Ill

Office, shop, factory and governmental bureau staffs were greatly reduced yesterday owing to illness. Although the Berlin health department possessed no official figures, an official estimated there were 20,000 persons suffering from the epidemic in Berlin.

Is Mild Type

Madrid reported 94 deaths from influenza during the past week and it was estimated that there were 100,000 cases of the illness in Spain. Many Madrid physicians were ill and their colleagues were overworked. The disease in Spain was mild and without the dangerous aftermath menace of the famous Spanish influenza which mowed down thousands in 1918.

"In the Michipicoten area there has been some revival of gold mining. The Pioneer Mining Company, a subsidiary of the Huronian Belt, is opening up the Minto Mine with apparently good prospects of success. Discoveries of gold during the present season at the Woman Lake and Narrow Lake areas are promising, and, as capital is being interested, they are likely to undergo immediate development. The dropping by the Dome of the option on the Howie-Red Lake claims stopped active development on this property, but attempt to refinance are being made and will possibly succeed. Developments already made seem to indicate a gold mine there. Recent discoveries of gold have been made at Savant Lake, north of Buck Station, on the National Railway. These are described as of very considerable promise. West of Porcupine, in the Townships of Jamieson and Robb, massive copper-sulphide has been found, and parties acting with Hollinger have optioned the properties with a view to developing them. On the Ontario side of the Quebec boundary copper-zinc-lead ores have been uncovered in Ben Nevis and Clifford Townships. Some distance northwest of these areas a good find of similar ore has been made in the Township of Munro, 13 feet in width of solid ore having been uncovered. Extensive deposits of copper-zinc-lead are have been exposed in the townships of Balfour and Creighton, in the Sudbury basin, where the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining companies have spent $250,000 in diamond drilling and a shaft is being sunk which is now down 330 feet. Some miles east of Searchmount Station, on the Algoma Central Railway, a good-looking show of lead-zinc ore was found, and some 10 or 12 miles further east argentiferous galena deposits have been located. Samples of this ore, as assayed, show 127 ounces of silver per ton and 40 per cent. led. It has been optioned for immediate development."

Press Rags Insurance Company For Excess Premiums Charged French-Canadian Women

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—An excess charge added to the premium paid by a certain class (as classified by the company involved) of French-Canadian married women taking out life insurance policies in an insurance company, was removed by the company concerned here yesterday.

The case, which created a small sensation in the French-Canadian press recently, was first brought to the attention of the public by a Quebec newspaper and was followed by editorials and comments by practically every French language paper in Canada. The writers claimed that the health of French-Canadian women was as good as that of other married women in Canada and that the rate of mortality among them was no higher than elsewhere. They saw in the surcharge an affront to French-Canadian married women.

Later the insurance company issued a statement expressing astonishment at the publicity given the matter, stating that the charge only affected a small percentage of French-Canadian married women insured by that company, and that the ruling had been in effect a number of years. The company presented figures and a mass of techincal evidence tending to show that the firm was not discriminating against French-Canadian married women, and disclaimed all allegations that the clause calling for the charge put FrenchCanadian married women in an inferior position

In abolishing the surcharge yesterday, the company added that the total revenue from this impost amounted to only $320, and hoped that with its removal all causes of misunderstanding would be eliminated

Postpones Action on Note of Great Britain Regarding China.

HANDS-OFF POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (United Press).—After a delay of several weeks in answering Great Britain's proposal for a new hands-off policy by the powers in China, because of military and political victories of the Nationalist anti-foreign movement there, the State Department decided yesterday to postpone action on determination of policy.

The President and Secretary of State Kellogg feel they have insufficient data, regarding a highly confused and delicate situation, upon which to define a policy.

That was given as an explanation for yesterday's order to American Minister Van A. MacMurray to return from Pekin to Washington for consultation.

MacMurray is expected to land in this country February 9.

If a reply is sent to Great Britain before MacMurray's return, it probably will reaffirm previous pledges of American willingness to increase Chinese tariffs and relax foreign extraterritoriality without, however, committing this government to specific or immediate action.

TP. ELECTION RETURNS

AT HOPE TOWNSHIP

In Hope Township the Councillors were elected by acclamation but election was necessary for the position of Reeve and Deputy.

The Council is as follows:

Reeve—Mr. M. Wilson.

Deputy Reeve—Mr. Fred Ough.

Councillors — Mr. B. Dickinson, Mr. T. A. Finney and Mr. Byers.

BURNBRAE DISTRICT

BURNBRAE, Jan. 5.—The Burnbrae district was unfortunate in the municipal elections, as both candidates for office were defeated. Robert Linn, who for two years past has been a member of the Seymour Council, lost his seat to John Locke, West Seymour. Andrew Milne, ex-Councillor, contesting the Deputy-Reeveship against Russell Peake, was also unsuccessful. The Menie poll, as in other years, failed to show any partiality to home candidates and invariably the candidate whose home poll does not rally to his support, is defeated. While this community has no representation in the Council, it is earnestly hoped that the 1927 municipal body will recognize the necessity of some immediate improvement of road conditions in this part of the township.

SUE WOMAN FOR SLANDER

Action By Westminster Township Councillors Against Mrs. Robert Bruce.

CALLED DRUNKARDS.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 5. — Damage actions instituted by four members of the 1926 Westminster Township Council against Mrs. Robert Bruce, of Glenworth, for slander, assumed concrete form yesterday when separate writs on behalf of each were filed in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Thre of the plaintiffs are members of this year's council, while the fourth, John S. Cousins, of Belmont, reeve, has retired.

The others are Harry Davis, first deputy, who resides at Lambeth; William J. Grieve, second deputy, Wilton Grove and John McMillan, a councillor of Glanworth. The first named two were returned by acclamation. No stated amount is set out in the writs.

It is alleged that at an election meeting in the basement of the Presbyterian Church at Glanworth, Mrs. Bruce made statements to the effect that the council members were drunkards, was subsequently notified through a lawyer that legal action would be taken against her, but had nothing to say.

On hearing what had been said ex-reeve Cousins at once instituted proceedings. Incidentally he has offered to give a substantial sum to any charity organization if the charges alleged by Mrs. Bruce are proven.

Mrs. Bruce is known as one of the most active temperance workers in Middlesex.

J. M. McEvoy, K.C., is acting for all four plaintiffs.

DOMINION TO PUT CURB ON LIQUOR RUNNING

Royal Commission's Inquiry Reveals Widespread Smuggling Into United States.

DIGEST TREATY.

Expect Numerous Evasions of Customs Duties in East.

OTTAWA, Jan. 5. — Further measures looking for material strengthenit of the customs preventive service in Canada, both by land and sea, will result from the Royal Commission inquiry.

Although the commission has only completed its investigation of the situation on the Pacific Coast—a small portion of its agenda—developments already are considered to assure recommendations for a stronger border patrol. After hearings on Jan. 19 at Vancouver, the inquiry is to be carried east, with the commission sitting at Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and in Ontario.

Many witnesses at the hearings on the Pacific Coast told how liquor in large and small quantities was shipped to the border. On the Pacific Coast very little commercial smuggling in commodities other than liquor was discovered. As the commission moves east however it is expected that instances of evasion of the Canadian customs duties will become more numerous.

In Ontario, unless some changes are made, the commission will sit at Toronto and Windsor. This does not mean that investigation will be confined to these two places, but the present intention is to bring witnesses from other cities at one or the other of the two points mentioned.

After Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces will be visited by the Commissioners.

In addition to investigating the functioning of the Canadian Customs Department, the commission is going into the operation of the anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States.

When the Dominion has been covered Commission will crystalize its conclusions into a report for submission to Parliament.

NEW YEAR'S EVE ENTERTAINMENT

Splendid Programme Given at United Church at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 5.—The annual entertainment given by the scholars of the United Church Sunday school was held on New Year's night, and was well attended not only by a large number of the parents and friends but also by many others interested in the school's welfare.

This year an innovation was tried by holding the concert in the church basement instead of the auditorium upstairs, and has been the custom for many years past. By raising the platform and extending it some three feet plenty of stage space was provided, easily seen from all parts of the large room, and comfortable seating capacity was available for all—indeed a considerably larger audience could have been accomodated.

The superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, was chairman, and the programme was planned to open with the National Anthem, the closing number being arranged to leave an impression of high resolve for the New Year, the benediction by the pastor being a fitting conclusion.

The first half of the programme was given by the primary and junior pupils, and included a motion song, "In the Clear, Cool Water"; recitations by Lenore and Vonner Lamber, Bernice Smith, Marie Douglas and Bessie Dawson, two action songs(in costume), "The Bunnies", and "The Mamma Dolls"; a comic selection, "Poor Old Maids" (in costume) by 7 girls, with "Last Year's Christmas Dolls" as an encore, and a very beautiful Christmas pageant.

In the pageant, Jean Stinson took the part of the "Fairy Queen", and Jack Stinson, Marshal Fallis, Bessie Dawson, and Beatrice McDowell were the children who hung up two stockings, so greedy were they in the demands made upon Santa's bounty. Taught by the "Ugly Wishes" their mistake, they bring gifts to jolly old Saint Nicholas, and their "Wishes" then shed their dark coverings and shone forth in white and silver beauty instead. The "Sandmen" in suits of red, silver-trimmed, and the "Good Wishes" with dainty fairies wearing gauzy wings poised on their shoulders, come in obedience to the Queen's summons, and the whole massed upon the platform, with Santa seated beside the Queen upon the high throne, with background of white, and with mantel piece and cosy fire, made an impressive picture.

Mrs. Offa Williamson deserves much credit for the careful training and planning in connection with this part of the programme.

Piano duets by Marjorie Skitch and Miss Hetherington, and Bertha Lang and Miss Hetherington, were interspersed through the evening and the accompanists were Misses Annie McMahon, S. Hetherington, and Mrs. H. W. Johnston.

A comedy, in one act, "The Senses Man", proved popular with the audience, the local hits by Farmer Day (Walter Sayles) provoking much laughter Miss Sally Day (Elsie Spence) is very determined the "Senses Man" (Jack Byam) shall "skip the ages" in filling out his report; her real age, 58, comes out in the end in spite of her precautions, and her declaration, "I'm 33 if you want to know."

A three act play, "Answering the 'Phone" featured an Irish maid, Nora Flannigan (Margaret Howard), who is left by her mistress, Mrs. Courtney (Elinor Fallis), and her daughter, Miss Eleanora Courtney (Hazel McMahon), to attend to the 'phone during their absence down town shopping.

Nora, knowing nothing about a telephone, discovers how it is used, and makes a date "for the theater and a bit of supper afterwards" with Reginald Harcourt (Clarence Ball), Miss Courtney's beau. Reginald, who calls his sweetheart 'Nora' thinks the latter is "trying to fool me putting on that broad, Irish brogue," and is genuinely surprised at the cool reception given him when he calls that evening.

The maid's desire is for "a rale Oirsh perliceman", and just as Reginald and Eleanora are straightening out their quarrel, the bell rings and Terrence O'Toole (Jim Larmer), "the polaceman on this bate", comes in. He had directed Nora to her new place "from the nixt block but wan day before yisterday; a n' the swate face of yez has been in me moind ivir since."

So all ends happily for the two pairs of lovers.

The concluding number, a recital of "Resolve" (Ella Wheeler Wilcox), by Jean Burnham, had for stage setting an arch daintily trimmed in white and silver, with small white bells tied with silver bows, and a large white bell immediately overhead. The "Recessional" was played sofetly during the recital, and between the first and second stanzas a clock struck the "hour of midnight, the passing" of the Old Year. Between the next two verses, the bells tolled, and then rang joyfully "of new days ahead." A duet, "Farewell Old Year" followed the last verse, Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Miss Eva Hansman singing this softly from behind the curtain.

Immediately following this number the benediction, "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee," was pronounced by Rev. F. H. Howard.

The receipts were over $60.00, and the was considered successful in every particular.

BURNLEY FACTORY ANNUAL MEETING

About Fifty Patrons Sent Milk During Past Season.

NORHAM, Jan. 5.—The annual meeting of the stockholders and patrons of Burnley Cheese factory was held in the hall on Friday afternoon The auditor's report given by Charles Bull, Jr., and Herbert Minor was very satisfactory. The amount of milk received was slightly above 135,000 pounds. The average price of cheese a pound was 17.7 cents. There are about 50 patrons sending milk to the factory.

George Ointment, who has made the cheese for the past four years, has been re-engaged. William Henry Porter, who has acted as salesman for the past ten years, was re-appointed. Peter Brahaney was re-elected secretary and now enters upon his twelfth year in the office. Henry Richardson was re-appointed president, last year having been his first in that office. The following directors were appointed: Fred Harnden, John Ferguson, Bruce King, William Masters, and Harry Richardson. The directors were appointed a committee to look into the matter of selling cheese to the United Dairymen's Cooperative Company which is considering a cold storage plant in Campbellford. The matter of feeding turnips was left over to be discussed at a future meeting.

Friday was an especially busy day for Peter S Ewing, clerk of Percy township, and the members of the Royal Banking Staff, it being the last day of grace for receiving taxes for the municipality. After that date five per cent will be added to all unpaid taxes. Several delayed until evening and came along after the bank had closed and faced some inconvenience before being able to square away their accounts. Taxes are received at both Hastings and Campbellford banks and it is a little difficult therefore to arrive at conclusions but officers here believe that of the $41,623.84 due for taxes the major portion has been paid. The total assessment for Percy township is $907,552.50.

While the three former commissioners of Warkworth village, William A. Kelly, W. Herbert Henry, George L. Walker and four others, Wallace B. Baker, James F. Dingman, Benjamin F. Kellogg and James A. Armstrong were nominated for office for 1927 there will be no election as in the final all withdrew their names excepting William A Kelly, James A. Armstrong and George L. Walker who were declared elected by acclamation.

Announcement to RED ROSE TEA Enthusiasts

CENTURIES ago, when tea was first introduced to the English Nobility, the precious leaves—then almost priceless—were packed in sealed lead containers.

For many generations lead continued to be used as a protective package for all fine quality teas. Then the modern metal, Aluminum, was introduced. But during war-time and later, paper bags and paper boxes were largely used and have held sway ever since.

In our 30 years experience putting up Red Rose Tea we have used all these containers and each has some particular merit.

But careful tests over a long period prove that Aluminum is by far the best container that has yet been found, and paper packages of every kind the poorest. When in contact with dampness paper absorbs moisture which soon affects the quality of the tea, and in some instances completely spoils it.

Having found the paper package unreliable and uncertain, we have again adopted the Aluminum package which we used years ago. For we know now that Aluminum can be better depended upon than any other.

Unlike paper, Aluminum does not absorb moisture. It preserves all the original flavor and strength. So now and in the future Red Rose Tea will be packed in the Aluminum package, as it was in years gone by.

A CHANCE TO SAVE.

In keeping with the trend of modern industry is the plan announced by the Canadian General Electric Company by which employees of the company are given a splendid opportunity to invest their savings under most convenient terms in the stock of the company.

The announcement is one of the most important in the history of the local plant.

It makes an attractive investment possible for every employee of the C. G. E. Company, as the provisions for payment offer the investor every chance, while in addition, the employees are encouraged to invest by the company's offer of an extra bonus.

There is, of course, nothing compulsory in the scheme.

Employees are not in any way obliged to invest, but the officials of the company believe that this convenient method of investing their savings will appeal strongly to many workers and lead to the establishment of a nest-egg, the providing of which in many cases has been neglected in these days of rapid spending and far-from-consistent practice of thrift.

DOMINION DAY.

A Citizens' Committee was appointed some time ago to formulate plans for the proper celebration of Canada's diamond jubilee this year.

To this committee every assistance should be given, and the extent to which the City Council will co-operate in the celebration should receive early consideration from the Aldermen.

The observance of Dominion Day is not, of course, to be an ordinary holiday demonstration, but will consist, it is hoped, of a series of features that will bring home to everybody the historical importance of the occasion.

Such features cannot be improvised at the last moment; they will require careful and intelligent planning, and the committee should have the help of the community generally, and especially of the City Council, in making the Dominion Day celebration what it should be.

Canada's natal day has been too long neglected, but the Dominion-wide observance of the anniversary of Confederation this year will do much to make amends for the past.

THE LOVE OF MUSIC.

A love of music is of itself a commendable thing; you remember what Shakespeare said about "the man who hath not music in his soul."

And yet sometimes the desire to hear good music is accompanied by impulses that are distinctly sinful.

Thus a restaurant proprietor reports to The Examiner that in the last few days some of his patrons have walked out with ten or twelve new phonograph records, while a radio dealer confides the fact that somebody coolly delved into the mysteries of a receiving set and helped himself to two perfectly good tubes.

The beneficial effects of music upon the hearts of people who would steal phonograph records or radio tubes in order to gratify their longing for "concords of sweet sounds" may reasonably be doubted.

So far as the victims are concerned they are of the opinion that a reasonable way of making the punishment fit the crime would be to force the light-fingered culprits to listen to a continuous rendition of "The Prisoner's Song" delivered in an appropriate setting of stone walls and iron bars.

APPOINTING AN ALDERMAN.

One of the first duties that will have to be assumed by the new Council is that of selecting a member to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of ex-Alderman E. M. Turner, who with a year of his term to run resigned to enter the contest for the Utilities Commission.

In making this appointment the Council's hands are not tied.

They can choose any one of the unsuccessful candidates or go outside of the election field to secure a member.

However, it is customary to consider that the candidate topping the list of unsuccessful aspirants has some claim to be appointed, and consequently the name of ex-Alderman Walter Stocker is being advanced as the Council's likely choice.

It is true that this method was not followed last year when a similar situation had to be dealt with, and Ald. Phelan, who had resigned from the Council to stand for the mayoralty, was appointed, but the big vote polled for Mr. Phelan in the mayoralty contest and his good record as Chairman of the Finance Committee were justification for choosing him for the vacancy.

The Aldermen are not compelled to recognize any precedent in arriving at their decision, but it is believed that in dealing with the present case they are likely to come to the conclusion that the people having voted ex-Ald. Stocker into sixth place his appointment to the Council should follow.

SCIENCE AND WHISKERS.

An English naturalist, Dr. H. C. Brooke, some months ago announced his belief that it would be possible to relieve men of their "greatest bogbear, the morning shave." From certain experiments that he had been making with mice, Dr. Brooke had reached the conclusion that, by the application of existing scientific knowledge of heredity, the growth of hair on the human face might be dispensed with. Perhaps the publication of Dr. Brooke's statement of his theory furnished the originator of a contest recently held at Timmins, Ont., with an idea.

Perhaps the originator of that contest thought it would be interesting to observe to what extent men today retained the capacity to grow whiskers. At any rate, twenty-one men, who were clean-shaven on October 16th lined up on December 17th with hirsute facial adornments of various degrees of luxuriance as competitors for a prize. Furthermore, if Dr. Brooke believes that by the application of scientific knowledge even the suspicion of hair can be banished from men's countenances, the winner of the Timmins competition asserts that the utilization of scientific methods of cultivation enabled him to grow the prize-winning crop of whiskers. The publication of Dr. Brooke's opinion and the contest direct attention to the changes that have taken place in men's attitude toward whiskers, beards and moustaches. It is recorded that Alexander the Great ordered his Macedonian soldiers to "shave off the handle by which an enemy could seize them," and that the beards of the Roman senators were grasped as handles by the Gothic invaders. Peter the Great, it has been said, taxed beards in Russia and Henry VIII. in England ordered men to wear their hair short, but allowed them "to make their beards as fierce as they chose." Shakespeare has spoken of the soldier of his day "full of strange oaths and bearded like the pard." Members of the Lincoln's Inn Society, about 1542, made rules providing for the fining or expulsion of men who came bearded to their mess. Nearly three centuries later, when George Frederick Muntz appeared in Parliament wearing a full beard, it has been recalled, a critic asserted that Muntz "had introduced his own strange method of insulting English parliamentary institutions." When Livingstone attended a gathering at the Mansion House in London in 1857, a newspaper announced that he had gone there "wearing a moustache, braving the prejudices of his countrymen, and thus evincing a courage only inferior to that exhibited by him among the savages of Central Africa."

There appears to have been no such keen antipathy to the wearing of beards and whiskers in Canada in the middle of the nineteenth century. Among the Fathers of Confederation, as shown in the picture with which most Canadians are familiar, were a number of clean-shaven statesmen, but also a number displaying beards, whiskers of various patterns and moustaches. From group pictures of members of Legislative Assemblies of Ontario, the impression is gained that beards and whiskers were fashionable in political circles in the years that immediately followed Confederation, but became gradually less popular. Someone may allege that politicians have been growing more barefaced. Indeed, the practice of shaving the face has grown more and more widespread among men on both sides of the Atlantic in recent years. Yet, it is possible that, though they now shave the hair off their faces, men might not be prepared to forgo altogether the power to grow whiskers if they desired to do so.—Mail and Empire.

CANADA'S PAPER INDUSTRY.

Canada manufactures more paper than any other country in the world. This position has been reached in comparatively recent years, owing to the existence in this country of great spruce forests contiguous to great water powers. A summary just published by a Montreal stock-broking firm, Craig, Luther & Irvine, gives a very interesting resume of the position and production of ten of the largest newsprint producers of today in the Dominion. The capitalization of these ten companies aggregates over $300,000,000. They are as follows:

Abitibi Paper & Pulp Co.	$16,000,000
Brompton Paper & Pulp Co.	14,000,000
International Paper Co.	97,000,000
Laurentide Paper & Pulp Co.	29,000,000
Port Alfred Paper Co.	8,000,000
Price Bros., Quebec	65,000,000
Spanish River Co.	30,000,000
St. Lawrence Paper Co.	11,000,000
St. Maurice Valley Co.	33,000,000
Wayagamack Paper & Pulp Co.	11,000,000

These companies, except the International Paper Company—and, to a very small degree, the Brompton Company—are purely Canadian companies. The International Paper Company has large holdings in Canada, but its main interest is still in the United States, so that a considerable proportion of its capitalization cannot be considered as concerned with this country. But it is to be remembered that the above ten companies are by no means all that have large mills in Canada. It is probable that even deducting a greater part of the capital of the International Paper Company, the capitalization of Canadian paper and pulp mills would still run over $300,000,000.

These mills produced last year in Canada $120,000,000 worth of pulp and paper. They constitute not only the greatest paper manufacturing industry in the world, but the greatest manufacturing industry of any kind in Canada; and the export of paper and pulp now from this country is second in value only to the export of grain.

This great industry depends chiefly on our spruce forests. The great enemy of our spruce forests is fire, which in most years does more damage to our forests than is done by all the demand for the manufacturing of lumber, pulp and paper. If we expect these tremendous Canadian industries to live, there must be unrelenting warfare against the danger of fire.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

How many of the New Year's resolutions are still intact?

One item that should be included in this year's programme of the City Council is co-operation with other bodies in pressing for the completion of the Trent Canal.

Youth must be served, it is true, but Thomas Foster, three times in succession elected Mayor of Toronto, is seventy-four and seems to have plenty of vigour left yet.

If these baseball charges keep on the good old public will begin to wonder if there is anything about the professional game that is straight.

This year's City Council hasn't to worry very much about experienced Aldermen for the various chairmanships.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was of a very limited character and little business of importance was done. There was some demand from New York exporters for Manitoba Spring wheat here, and sales of some fair sized lots were made at c.i.f. prices Buffalo, and they also took a few loads of barley on the same basis. Some No. 3 barley was sold to local exporters at 3 cents per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, track Fort William.

The local and country demand for coarse grains was quiet and the volume of business was small.

Prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour were well maintained under a quiet demand.

The millfeed market was fairly active and the undertone was firm. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats for which the demand was quiet.

A feature of the egg trade was the somewhat unsettled feeling that developed in the market for strictly fresh eggs owing to the more liberal supplies coming forward from Canadian centres, and the fact that the arrivals from the United States have been larger than was generally expected, with the result that the offerings were ample to fill all requirements. On the other hand the tone of the market for storage eggs was firm. The receipts were 1,970 cases.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the market for potatoes and prices scored an advance of 5 cents per bag, which was attributed to the increased demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of 90 pounds. New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.60 to $1.65, and Quebec White stock at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-track.

Considerable business was again transacted in butter and prices ruled firm. The receipts were 61 packages.

Only a small volume of business was done in cheese, but prices were steady. The receipts were 241 boxes.

Sterling demand $4.85 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.86 1-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices scored new low records yesterday on the Board of Trade when May and July deliveries touched $1.35 3-4 and $1.28 1-4 respectively, thereby going 2 1-2c and 2c under the previous close. Heavy liquidation by discouraged longs prompted by breaks in Liverpool and Buenos Aires, was chiefly responsible for the downturn. Buying against indemnities and short covering checked the decline

Coarse grains, at first affected by the action of wheat, recovered somewhat when a better class of buying became evident.

Wheat finished 1 3-8 to 1 7-8c lower; corn 3-8 to 1-2c higher; oats unchanged to a shade up, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents down.

Corn encountered considerable support o the early break, which was largely in sympathy with wheat weakness. A falling off in receipts helped to check the selling. There was rather extensive short covering and some commission houses were good buyers.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

THE CHURCH AND POLITICS

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Under this title an editorial was published the other day in a metropolitan daily rebuking the Methodist Church for meddling in politics.

It intimated that a church's real business was looking after men's souls and getting them to heaven, that it had no right to meddle in men's conditions.

It all depends on what you think a church is for.

The old idea is that it is the business of the church and church workers to snatch men as brands from the burning to make sure that they get out of this world into the world of bliss.

The modern idea, however, is that it is the church's business to make human life more bearable and more ideal without reference to what may happen beyond the grave.

If the church is to make men more moral and more social creatures and if it is to remove those things that render them anti-social, then the church ought to be in politics.

But if a churchman's business is simply to fold his hands piously on his breast and roll his eyes to heaven without reference to whether his brother is hungry or not, perhaps this paper's idea is correct.

It looks to us, however, as if this paper is taking a medieval point of view of this whole question.

The business of the church is to incorporate into our laws and our customs as much of the moral convictions of humanity as possible, being sure that these moral convictions are not mere opinions, but are demonstrated ways in which men can be happier and human life made better.

Perhaps it is the business of the church to make sure that people have tickets for heaven, but it seems to us that it is rather the business of the church to make this world a pleasanter place to live in and remove those evils which interfere with the welfare of mankind.

DIETING FOR DIABETES

The presence of sugar in the urine is not the only sign of diabetes. Sometimes, in the insipient stages, there is really no sugar in the urine. Excessive thirst is one of the main symptoms to be found in this disease of enervation. Usually, there is excessive urination, as the body seeks to eliminate the excess of sugar.

On account of the faulty metabolism, there is usually hunger present, and a craving for all kinds of food. The patient will notice a gradual loss of strength, with a tendency to infections, and a general loss of muscular tone to the whole body. These latter symptoms often appear long before the sugar shows in the urine.

Enervation must be cited as the principal cause of this disease. And enervation, in turn, is caused by any bad habits of living, such as wrong eating, improper exercise, mental strain, worry, or any other destructive habits of thought, and because the body does not have enough energy to carry on its normal metabolism, the function of all of the organs is interfered with.

This is, of course, true, with the little secreting organ called the pancreas, which secretes the pancreatic fluid fluid necessary to the digestion of starches and sugars.

To bring about a cure, it is necessary to build up the general tone of the body, and increase the strength of all of the parts through proper exercise, increased physical culture, taking long walks, etc.

It is folly for the patient to go to bed, as this will only weaken him all the more, and interfere with a cure, no matter what treatment he takes.

There is one important point usually overlooked by the diabetic and also by members of the medical profession, and that is, that diabetes could be easily controlled if the patient would be taught that it is not necessary to use starch or sugar at all, and that the body would get along perfectly all right without them.

It is just as easy for man to live without sugar and starch as it is for the carnivorous animal.

The physician often, to satisfy the patient's desires, permits him to take too much starch and sugar when suffering from diabetes, and then tries to get rid of the trouble by giving him the regular doses of some serum or "glandular extract," such as Insulin, which is an extract of the pancreas of sheep. It is folly to think that the giving of this sheep extract can in any way strengthen the patient's own pancreas, but in reality, there will only be a weakening effect because the patient's own pancreas will not have the tendency to make as much as it should normally, and certainly not as much as it has been making under the condition of diabetes.

There is no reason why the one who has a tendency to suffer from diabetes should not live to a long life if he will only restrict himself in the use of the carb hydrates—that is—the sugars and starches.

News Briefs.

Carscadden S. S. No. 14 held its annual school meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 29. The meeting was of a lively nature. Three candidates were nominated for trustee, and it required the second ballot to decide the winner. The result was that Mr. James Curtis was re-elected for another term of three years. Several tenders were put in for the wood contracts, and also for caretaking. Mr. R. Henderson was chairman for the meeting and Mr. B. Muir secretary. The auditor's report showed a large balance on hand. The trustees for the next year will be Mr. James Curtis, Mr. James Boggs (secretary-treasurer) and Mr. John Payne (chairman of the board).

Mrs. Freeman Eddy is visiting her mother, Mrs. R. G. Payne.

Miss Laura McGill Yelverton, is visiting friends in Pontypool.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. John Fiske on Wednesday evening when a party was given in honor of his daughter, Miss Edith Fiske, who is now home on her vacation. The evening was spent in progressive euchre, games and dancing, and was concluded by a short programme.

Owing to the illness of Rev. A. J. Terrill, pastor of the United Church, Christmas services were in charge of Mr. A. Monk, of Bethany. Good crowds were present at both Sunday School and church worship.

The Young People's League met in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening. The meeting was of a social nature. Owing to the absence of the social vice-president, Miss Lily Barwell, who is home on her vacation, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Wilder and Miss Ruth Richardson. A programme consisting of readings, violin and piano music, community singing and speeches was given, after which a dainty lunch was served. Next meeting will be in charge of the Christian Endeavour Department, Mrs. Jessop in charge.

BOARD PAYS OUT A LARGE SUM AS COMPENSATION

This Year's Total of $5,821,351 Gain of $300,000 Over Last Year.

400 FATAL DISEASES.

Silicosis and Caisson Disease Added To List of Industrial Maladies.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Victims of some 65,916 industrial accidents in Ontario during the past year received benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act of $5,821,351. This total stands some $300,000 higher than last year's total of $5,565,443, while the number of accidents also shows an increase over last year's figure of 60,012. Fatal accidents during the year numbered 400, an increase of 55 over those occurring in 1925.

Details of the operations of the compensation legislation during the past twelve months were made available yesterday by Chairman V. A. Sinclair of the Compensation Board. The statistics indicate a year of record activity and utility upon the part of the compensation law. Daily payments have averaged 696 in comparison with 646 during 1925, and the daily total disbursed has averaged $19,400. The amount of mail now handled per day totals between 5,000 and 6,000 letters and the number of claims handled daily averages 225.

One of the features of the year's work is that the number of accidents reported constitutes a record in the history of the legislation. Investigation of reports shows that a great many more cases have been reported involving medical aid only, indicating that many cases formerly dealt with as first aid cases are now being reported for medical aid purposes. The amount awarded for medical aid during the year totalled $988,486, in contrast to $875,836 thus expended in 1925.

During the year silicosis has been added to the list of industrial diseases and considerable expenditures have been made on account of such cases, resulting in the collection of a considerable amount from those engaged in active mining operations. Hope is expressed by the Compensation Board chairman that hereafter costs in this department will be materially lessened, due to increased precautions against the disease in the mines and to more rigid medical examination both before and during employment. Compressed air or caisson disease has also been added to the list for which compensation is awarded, due to deep sewer work which is being carried on in Toronto.

The work of the board is declared to have been largely increased during the year by the greater number of accidents which have been handled. Very slight staff increases, however, are declared to have been required to handle the additional work.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

Rev. J. D. Richardson Speaker at Tuesday's Gathering.

At the Tuesday evening service of the World's Week of Prayer in Trinity Church, Rev. J. D. Richardson of St. James United Church, presided and conducted the devotional exercises. Mr. John Crane presided at the organ, and Mr. Douglas Carlisle sang "The Lord is My Shepherd. The attendance was large.

Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church was the preacher for the evening, his topic being "Communion with Jesus as the Imperious Lord of the World." Each age, said the speaker, has its own task. For example, the apostolic age had as its task the establishing of the Christian Church. Each age since has had its own peculiar task. In our own day our task is to evangelize the non-Christian world. He must reign until He has put all enemies under his feet.

Tonight the topic is "Communion With Christ as the Ultimate Comrade."

BIG VOTE POLLED AROUND PONTYPOOL

Ninety Per Cent of Electors Turn Out in Municipal Elections.

PONTYPOOL, Jan. 5. — The municipal election held here on Monday was not as keenly contested as was at first expected. Results for the Township were:

Reeve

Fred Gray .....Acclamation

Deputy Reeve

Bert Richardson..... 503
Offa Staples 342

Councillors—3 to be Elected

Corbett 450
Burns 356
Potts 354
Whiteside 261
McMaster 244

Mr. Richardson served three years as Councillor and the past year as Deputy Reeve, and his opponent was making his first appearance in municipal politics. Mr. Corbitt is an ex-Reeve of the Township and has been out of the Council for a couple of years, but came back and headed the poll. Mr. Burns is serving his second year as Councillor and received a good vote. Mr. Alex Potts, who has been assessor of the Township for years, made his first appearance for Councillor, and was successful. The two defeated candidates, Mr. William Whiteside and Mr. William McMaster, were members of last year's Council, Mr. McMaster having served over twenty years on the Township Council.

A record vote was polled in this village, when over 90 per cent of the available vote was cast. The vote was:

Richardson 203, Staples 24.
Corbett 141, Burns 60, McMaster 85, Potts 88, Whiteside 38.

This is the largest vote ever polled by any candidate in any election here and the second largest vote ever polled in this village. Mr. Richardson and Mr. Corbett, both of this village, are being congratulated on their victory.

After the returns, a crowd gathered in the Orange Hall and Dr. McNeil was chosen chairman, and speeches were made by Mr. Richardson and Mr. Corbett, after which every one enjoyed a dance till midnight.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

The hot and stubborn tempers of Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, result in temperamental storms that furnish elite society with choice gossip. Joan wants a divorce, but Ranny earnestly avows to his chum, Clay, that he loves her. Worse, he confides his secret discovery that she is in love with another man, Abner Gratman. Stivner, a lumber king with whom Ranny has been negotiating a gigantic business deal, tells him he has wagered fifty thousand on Ranny's team in the Westbury Cup finals. Ranny sees that victory will mean business good will. Interest is lent the situation when Ranny learns that the wager is with—Abner Gratman! Ranny makes a phenomenal goal.

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

Never before in the history of international polo had so mighty a stroke been uncorked, nor, indeed, a goal achieved, with the first chukker but a scant thirty seconds under way. Of course there was no boisterous cheering. One does not cheer within a radius of fifty Etiquette Book paragraphs from Meadow Brook. One applauds. So hands that had never touched dishwater were smacked vigorously together until genteel palms smarted and reddened. Voices that had never taken on the brass of commerce cried: "Great shot, Forbes! Bully work, America!" Youngsters and oldsters raised something of a clamor with auto horns. Many young girls squeaked a bit, and Stivner gloated heartily. But only down in the paddock was there more enthusiasm than politeness. There Ranny's bandy-legged groom alternately turned handsprings and ejaculated to no one in particular: "Stryke me pink! Stryke me pink!"

The Argentines galloped, rather than cantered, back to midfield, so impatient were they for the second toss-in and a chance to retrive this immediate advantage their friendly enemies had secured. But Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of Ranny's side closed in and rode stirrup to stirrup with him at a somewhat less eager pace, boyishly glorying in the blood that had been drawn rather than tasting that still to be shed. Polo, after all, is a game for men with the hearts of boys.

It was the essential boyishness of his nature that made Ranny sulkily exult in his shot, not for what it had meant, but for its reaction upon the object of his jealousy and contempt. He managed a furtive glance back toward the sedan. It was not hard to conjure up a delightful picture of the chagrin on Abner's dark face.

Into it again. There! Take it, Number 1! Ride him out, 2—ride him out. Ah, a beautiful long diagonal pass and a saffron Argentine back streaking after it, dribbling it along with short, snappy strokes until he should come within range of the Tornadoes' goal. A clear shot ahead of him. Uncovered! "After him, Ranny, after him!" But Ranny had hesitated inalertly, his thoughts with Joan and Abner in the car instead of on the shimmering 300 by 150 yard expanse of playing field. Awake now, and in pursuit! But too late. "Go it, Judy!"

The game mad mare stretched out at full tilt until her lean little belly almost scraped the ground between her flying feet. Man and mare a giddy oneness. Ranny flattened up over her neck jockeywise, giving her free head. There! The Argentine has placed the ball beautifully for a straightway try at the goal, only eighty yards away. He spurs at the almost motionless sphere, all the confidence in the world in the free swing of his malacca mallet, the easy way in which he stands in his stirrups for a toehold and throws his weight over to his hitting side. Swish!

But wait! Judy has rushed her snorting nostrils into the picture. Ranny's mallet flashes overhand in a cross back stroke and meets the ball simultaneously with the Argentine's forward smash. The ball is knocked off at a tangent. The Tornadoes' goal remains virginal.

Ranny veered Judy sharply, expertly, so as to avoid the fullest brunt of the unavoidable side-swiping collision with the Argentine, then threw her back on her haunches, pivoting her in one of those miraculously short turns that only a thoroughbred polo pony, whose heart is in the game, can make. Now the other six men had thundered down, and the ball was knocked on its erratic way.

Ranny and Judy, both breathing hard, the little mare quivering and snorting in the awful excitement of the reckless play, tore after the field. Always there was a vision of a laughing face before Ranny's eyes, a taunting grin whose erasure by prowess was demanded by pride. Always it was Ranny and Judy who aborted Argentinian tries, who broke up rallies in front of the Tornadoes' posts. Judy sometimes by kicking and pecking at the ball with her precious little forefeet; Ranny by vicious reaches; both by hard and spectacular riding, irregardless of danger. No one could ride out an opponent with such utterly reckless disregard of life and limb as Ranny; no pony could stand the cruel bruising with such fortitude as Judy.

A bell rang. The seven and a half minutes of the first of eight chukkers were up; three minutes to change ponies. There would be seven between the fourth and fifth chukkers; time for a bit of respite then. But now, just enough to dash down to the paddock; off the weary, onto the fresh.

Ranny took out Firebug for the second chukker. Milkmaid would be ready for the third. Then Judy again—Judy, the favorite. Meantime, Stivner seized advantage of the chance for an abbreviated chat with Ranny, talking even while the perspiring star was transferring from Judy to Firebug.

"Marvellous work, Forbes. The greatest single stroke I've ever seen, and I've watched polo twenty years and in twenty countries. A man who can swing a mallet like you ought to be in the lumber business—" jocosely.

"If that proposition we've been discussing goes through I guess I'll be in the lumber business," said Ranny, as hurriedly as humorously.

Stivner chuckled cordially. "The satisfaction of winning my wager—and, even greater, of seeing your wonderful play win for America—won't make me illy disposed toward you, now will it?"

The lumber king, whose social and business power made him undeniably a personage of immense distinction, was obviously as boyishly proud of his privilege in talking to the star polo player as a sand lot kid would be in talking to Babe Ruth. "Seriously," went on Stivner, "you and I have much in common, Forbes. I hope we'll see a lot of each other hereafter. For the present I'm going to look up Gratman and see if he'd like to double the bet."

"You'll find him in my car talking to my wife!" said Ranny, so bitterly that Stivner arched his brows.

Ranny burned up the grass with Firebug getting to midfield. "It's Ranny's day," gloated the spectators, seeing his incendiary riding. The backdrift of this talk reached the Forbes' sedan.

"You look quite proud of—him!" pouted Abner.

"If Ranny were half as attentive a husband as he is a poloist he could make any woman happy," Joan said quite femininely—and a bit wistfully.

Abner frowned. It would not do to have Ranny become again a hero in his wife's eyes. Then there was that bet! Abner excused himself, slipped out of the car and threaded furtively down the rear of the sidelines towards the paddock, where Milkmaid was already saddled for Ranny's use in the next chukker. As he sneaked along he fingered a pocketknife thoughtfully; small, but sharp enough to cut through stirrup strap leather!

OPTIMISTIC ABOUT CANADA'S FUTURE

President of Canadian Automobile Association Addresses Radio Club.

Those who were fortunate enough to hear Dr. P. E. Doolittle, president of the Canadian Automobile Association with which is affiliated most of the Provincial Motor Leagues, speak at the meeting last night of the Peterborough Radio Club were well impressed by his clever and optimistic opinion in regard to certain scientific achievements and Canada's future. He is head of an organization which has as its duty the bettering of motoring conditions especially that particular and essential one, good roads.

Dr. Doolittle hopes to see in the near future a complete transcontinental highway across Canada, having himself last summer covered 14,000 miles in his car going from coast to coast. He said "Twenty-five years ago the automobile was referred to as a mere toy and those who had the first ones, and by the way I had the first car in Canada, securing the same through a Hamilton man, had to be good mechanics and had to carry smock and tools on every trip to insure a safe return."

This being a radio meeting the speaker apologized for not being able to give a technical talk on radio construction preferring to let the man who repairs them do this. However, he outlined several possibilities of this industry with its music, talks and market reports to the farmers and city folk in the east and west as well as opening up communication to the more remote places. "Radio," he said "is just in its infancy" and he visions more perfect achievements when one will get uninterrupted reception and it, like the telephone, will have a greater commercial value.

Mr. Doolittle hoped and said it should be the desire of everyone to encourage tourist traffic not only in summer but also winter as that has long been recognized as a trade in itself. He referred to the Kawartha lakes as being one of the best attractions in this regard.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker and regret was felt that more did not hear this splendid address.

CHRYSLER OF CANADA TAKES OVER PLANT OF FISHER BODY

Increased Facilities To Speed Up Production and Provide For Almost Complete Manufacture of Chrysler Cars in Canada.

92% INCREASE IN 1926 SALES

After a year of record business, the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, has taken possession of the plant formerly occupied by the Fisher Body Company of Ford City, Ont., and is operating it in addition to the Windsor, Ont., factory.

"The demand for Chrysler cars throughout Canada continues to increase from year to year," said Mr. John D. Mansfield, president of the company, in a recent interview. "We have an amazing record for a company only three years old. Our 1925 business showed an increase of 150 per cent. over 1924. Business for 1926 was 93% per cent. greater than that of the preceding year. And there are signs that 1927 will easily measure up to the average yearly increase of 100 per cent.

"That is why we have taken over the plant at Ford City, Ont. It gives us 300 per cent. increased floor space and production facilities. It also enables us to put into effect our place for almost complete manufacture of the Chrysler car in Canada.

"Chrysler cars, as now produced in our two Border Cities plants, are truly Canadian cars—built very largely of Canadian materials by Canadian workmen.

"In re-opening the Ford City plant which has stood idle for three years since being vacated by the Fisher Body Company, we are contributing not merely to local but also to national prosperity. Our two plants to-day utilize Canadian materials to an appreciable degree — the ore, lumber, wool, hides, steel, brass, iron, tires, fabrics, etc., coming for the most part from Canadian mines and forests and mills. In this way the Chrysler Corporation of Canada is helping to develop the industry and trade and progress of Canada."

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL.

LOYAL CANADIANS WILL GLORY IN THIS PICTURE

"Every Mother's Son" Described as British Version of "The Big Parade."

If you saw "The Big Parade" and "The Unknown Soldier" you know how the United States remembers the titanic struggle of 1914-1918, and how her people were affected by their upheaval, their new experiences and their post-war living conditions.

With the natural pride in the great achievement of the dear old mother country; knowing to the full the depth of her sacrifice and agony, it gives Manager Fletcher, of the Capitol Theatre, the greatest pleasure to announce a real British production that has more heart interest, more patriotic appeal, more genuine worth than either of the two above mentioned pictures.

Every loyal Canadian will be roused to the highest pitch of enthusiasm by the spirit that underlies every inch of this film; you have seen "Zeebrugge" and "Ypres" official records of Britain's prowess on sea and land; you have seen her heroes fighting and dying for the same principles that inspired the brave men who sent Spain's Armada back to her own own shores, that made the names of Sir Francis Drake, of Nelson, of Wellington and countless other British heroes ring round the world.

In "Every Mother's Son" you sense the same spirit of indomitable will to suffer, to conquer and to smile when life is exacting her uttermost; but in this picture you have an irresistible setting. Not the panoply of warfare chiefly, not the magnificence only of stately abbey and noble castle, but typical English countryside and home life. Homes such as you all know; homes that do honor to the plain man and his wife, with their children about them; homes that testify to the love that makes life worth living for the humblest.

Homes of the more fortunate in the possession of wordly goods, that of a real British country gentleman than which there is nothing finer on earth; and what a treat to find them all correct in every detail, with English men and women dressed fittingly, living and acting as would the characters they portray.

Here is no catering to a sentimental public that wants its hero to be handsomer than any ordinary man really is; here is no smirking, sophisticated, vampish heroine, but an honest to goodness wholesome country lass, she trips innocently and gaily through the lanes and paths. Here you have gentlemen and gentlewomen hiding their emotions behind a mask of indifference, showing under this exterior the same sentiments that influence their humbler neighbors. But there is no exaggeration in their dress or manner; you recognize at once a class of which England and Englishmen are justly proud.

"Every Mother's Son" is one of the best pictures ever made in England; every member of the cast is English—Jean Jay, Leal Douglas, Marie Ault, Gladys Hamer, among the women; every man saw service during the Great War. It was made in an English studio, providing work for British workmen and it is being offered to loyal sons of Britain with the assurance that it is the best the Old Land has to offer.

AT THE REGENT

INDIANS FEAR SLAYING STEED THEY CALL THE 'DEVIL HORSE'

Rex, the wild horse that has thrilled vast audiences as no human star of the screen has succeeded in doing, comes to the Regent Theatre to-morrow in his newest picture. "The Devil Horse," which, though as dramatically potent, is said to be far more spectacular in production than his previous productions of "The King of Wild Horses" and "Black Cyclone."

In "The Devil Horse" Rex is a wild creature who, first meeting cruelty and tragedy at the hands of Indians, grows up with a hatred for the Indian smell. Whenever it comes to his nostrils his wild heart is filled with fury and the desire to stamp it out. So many Indians have been attacked by him and killed by his terrible hoofs that, to them, he is a supernatural creature—perhaps an invention of the white man to torment and slay them!

So they secretly plan warfare against the white people at Fort Baldwin, to whom Prowling Wolf, a young chief of the Spotted Horse tribe, offers a treacherous friendship. It is also his plan to take for his squaw the daughter of the commanding officer of the fort. Prowling Wolf and his braves plot well, and everything would have been in their favor but for the Devil Horse, who turns four-footed averger.

Rex is also quite a sheik of the wilds, winning the beautiful gray mare, Lady, and fighting off the terrible Killer, again played by the spotted stallion with the wicked-looking black eye. The human characters in the story of "The Devil Horse" are portrayed by Yakima Canutt, Gladys McConnell, Robert Kortman, Roy Clements and Fred Jackman, Jr., the young son of the director of this and other Rex pictures.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE LXVIII—They Believed the Earth Was Flat by MAX HAHN

DURING THALES' LIFE MOST MEN BELIEVED THE WORLD WAS A FLAT DISK SURROUNDED BY WATER. THALES (640-546 B. C.) WAS GREECE'S FIRST ASTRONOMER.

ANCIENT CREEKS IMAGINED THAT THE SUN SET IN A BOAT AT THE END OF THE DAY. THEY WERE SURE THAT DURING EACH NIGHT THE SUN SAILED BEHIND THE NORTHERN MOUNTAINS AROUND TO THE EAST WHERE IT AROSE. VISITING EGYPT'S WISE MEN, THALES LEARNED ALL THEY KNEW ABOUT THE STARS.

UNLIKE MOST PEOPLE WHO BELIEVED THE SUN AND STARS WERE PILOTED BY GODS, THALES HAD SOME FAIRLY SOUND IDEAS ON ASTRONOMY.

THALES DID NOT THINK OF THE MOON AS A SMALL SUN. HE LEARNED THAT IT SERVED AS A GREAT MIRROR TO REFLECT LIGHT FROM THE SUN.

HOPE OF BRITISH EMPIRE RESTS WITH CANADA AND AUSTRALIA

Premier Bruce Speaks at Dinner Provided By Provincial Cabinet.

NO DISINTEGRATION.

Urges Earnest Effort Toward Commercial Unity in Empire.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — Premier Bruce of Australia last night sounded the call for a great policy of Imperial trade. Speaking at a banquet tendered him by Premier Ferguson and the Ontario Cabinet, Mr. Bruce emphatically declared that the hope of the British Empire rested with Canada and Australia, and that if the Empire was to regain the commercial pre-eminence of old, it behooved the people of Canada and Australia to awaken to the value of the resources at their command; to abandon the haphazard development which so often, he said, characterized the efforts of young countries, and to set their faces earnestly toward a goal of commercial unity within the Empire.

His Chief Ambition.

"The greatest ambition of my life" said Mr. Bruce, "is to get people to realize that."

The Australian Premier, in this the "ever-plaintive cry" that the British Empire is on the brink of disintegration. "Are'nt we getting a bit tired of that cry" he asked. "The war showed plainly enough that at that time the Empire was the strongest it had ever been, and that same strength, let me say, continues today. Since coming to Canada, I have tried earnestly to correct this foolish impression of disintegration."

Mr. Bruce contended that Canada, of all nations within the Empire, would have the most to gain from the Imperial system of co-operative trade. Canada, he pointed out, lived "in the shadow" of a great neighbor, which flooded the Canadian market with goods, and swamped Canadian industries before they fairly got started. In respect of trade negotiations, Mr. Bruce expressed the belief that early this year the Mother Country would send to Australia, a committee, comprising "some of the best business brains" in the land for the purpose of considering and opening up new avenues of business. Mr. Bruce placed great stock in "the business brains' of the country.

"Instead of Governments playing about as governments have to do in the newer countries," said he, "let us try to get the best brains of the Empire to assist in the development of the Empire."

Relating what Australia had accomplished by taking the question of immigration out of the hands of the government and placing it with a commission of business and financial men, empowered to pass on any scheme involving capital expenditure for the absorption of new people, Mr. Bruce said pointedly that this was "a question that was no subject matter for consideration by Governments or Ministers."

"Get Brains Working."

"Get the best brains working," said Mr. Bruce, "and you will see great countries like Canada and Australia develop at a faster rate than ever before, and beyond our widest expectations."

The greatest thing needed at the present time, he stated, was increased efficiency. Australia—and he could speak for the Mother Country, too, he said—was just recovering from the "slackening up" of the past three years. Tightening up was now the order of things. Even the Mother Country had come to recognize the necessity of employing modern methods in doing business. Application of science to industry, as considered at the Imperial conference, would, he felt, be dealt with in future on a world-wide basis.

GIRL RESCUES FIVE CHILDREN

Is Unable To Save Three Year Old Brother From Flames.

PARENTS AWAY.

NORTH BAY Jan. 5. — Canadian Press. — Fire, starting in the festive decorations at the home of Leo Dorval, mileage 66, on the Canadian Pacific Railway, caused the death of his three year old son, Leo.

Six other children, ranging in age from 18 months to 16 years, were badly frostbitten, when they were forced to walk 3 1-2 miles from the fire to a railway section house.

On Sunday the father took his wife to the hospital at Temiskaming, leaving his daughter Irene, aged 16 years, in charge of the six children at home. She rescued five of them, when the fire broke out, but was unable to find Leo.

Carrying the baby in her arms, the girl walked to the section house, leaving the other six children, in their night robes, at the scene of the fire. She returned to the ruins of the home and led the remaining children to safety, although all were badly frost bitten.

The father returned on Monday and found his home completely burnt out. Nearly crazed, he walked to the section house, and found his family suffering intense pain from their exposure.

Realizing that medical attention was necessary, he at once started the twenty mile walk into Temiskaming, no trains being due until the morning. He arrived there yesterday, and a special train was sent to the section house immediately to bring the children into the hospital. The news was not received until to-day.

VISITORS ADDRESS LEAGUE MEETING

Tell of Work in Other Parts of Ontario—New Year Party.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Jan. 5.—The regular league meeting on Thursday evening last was in charge of the social and recreation department, led by Miss Gladys Simpson. Forty-seven were in attendance, with the Khaki in the lead with 16. A New Year's reading by Mrs. F. Barnum and the New Year's topic by Gladys Simpson were the main items. The remainder of the programme was somewhat impromptu.

Rev. Mr. Daniel led the league in song, as well as giving the devotional topic. Three former members of the league who have moved away were present and were asked to address the meeting.

Mr. Everett Fairman, who has been teaching school at Porquis Junction in Northern Ontario, told some very interesting facts regarding the great area to the north. He stressed the importance of the police force in that country. They are all Provincial men and entirely independent of local influences. The police sergeant in Mr. Fairman's district was a great help in maintaining good morals in all walks of life. The people of the North are used to the enforcement of the O.T.A. and have seen its benefits. They were sorely disappointed when Southern Ontario defeated the temperance measure. In regard to church work at Porquis Junction, Mr. Fairman said that the United and Anglican bodies worked in complete harmony and are establishing a joint league.

Miss Hazel Brown, who is employed at the new Albert College, Belleville, complimented the Zion League on its high standing. She had not seen a league in the city to compare with it, and she greatly missed the fellowship of the league of which she was formerly a member.

Mr. Morley Petherick, who is engaged in auto mechanics at Hamilton, was the last speaker. His work kept him busy during the evenings so that he was unable to attend league in his home city.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present, especially the messages from the friends who have been away.

The next meeting, on Thursday, Jan. 6, will be in charge of the devotional convener, Mr. Thomas Fry. This meeting will start a series of four to be concluded on Sunday, Jan. 9, the object of which is a reawakening and strengthening of the religious fellowship of the entire community. Everyone in the district is given a cordial invitation to attend this series of inspirational religious services on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. Song service will begin each evening at 7.30.

News Briefs.

A large number of young people from Petherick's Corners spent an enjoyable time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spencer, 19th line of Rawdon, on Wednesday evening. Guests were present from all the surrounding communities and a very pleasant evening was spent in cards and dancing. Good music was supplied by Messrs. Archer and Ayrhart, of Campbellford.

A most delightful New Year's Eve party was given by the Misses Gladys and Alma Simpson at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson, Petherick's Corners. The early part of the evening was pleasantly spent by several of the guests playing euchre. The Spencer orchestra provided splendid music for lancing from 10 p.m. until the smaller hours of the New Year. The passing of the old year and the coming of the new was observed by the orchestra breaking from quadrille music into the New Year's Waltz. A dainty lunch then was served and dancing was resumed for some time.

ASSAULT CHARGE

commenced to throw off the load of pipes when Jones picked up a hammer and 'came at him.' "I grabbed Jones and said you had better not fight—it's against the rules and you will only get into trouble," declared witness. "Jones kept running around and made another grab at Mann—then Mann struck him," he said.

J. Gerrard.

J. Gerrard stated that he did not see the fight between the two men but was present immediately after.

When he came to the door of the building he saw the accused and Mr. Jones. "Jones had one eye closed right up, was bleeding at the mouth, and was shivering a bit," he continued. He then took him over to the surgery.

H. W. Mann.

The accused stated that on the day of the assault he was on a wagon with P. Scully, the teamster. Scully ordered him to throw off the pipes alongside the building which he proceeded to do, he said.

"Jones then came on the scene, swearing, and said to put the pipes inside. He picked up a hammer and came at me, grabbing me by the shoulder. Scully grabbed him and told him to cut out the fighting and behave himself.

"Jones rushed at me again," he continued, "and with the hammer raised made an attempt to hit me. I took the hammer from him and threw it down. He then struck me on the forehead with his hand and I hit back, catching him in the face."

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

RAPTURE

Songs singing in our hearts
We cannot write;
Thoughts flitting through our minds
With steps so light
We cannot catch them;
Give them names,
Can only feel them
Run like flames
Through veins grown cold.
Though hearts grown old,
Like some bright light
From some far portal,
Making us something
More than mortal.

Songs singing in our hearts,
Yet there are men
Who say that bed and food
And bed again
Are all of living;
Who tell me I
And all things perish
When these things die.
It may be so;
But this I know:
That now and then
Men feel a rapture
They cannot speak
And cannot capture.

Wheat Rallies To-day After Weak Opening

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press):—With Argentine shipments forecast at less than expected, wheat rallied to-day from an early decline. Initial weakness was ascribed to lack of the expected firmness in Liverpool quotations. Opening at 1-8 cent to ¼ cent off, wheat rose to about yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were firm, corn starting unchanged to ¼ cent lower and then scoring gains.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 136 3-8; July 128½. Corn, May 79¼; July 82½. Oats, May 49, July 47.

Toronto Exchange Quiet; Trade Covers Wide Range

TORONTO, Jan. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—While a wide range of issues was dealt in, trade was fairly quiet on the Toronto stock exchange to-day and price changes were mostly of fractional value. Brazilian Traction, however, declined 1 1-2 points at 103 3-4 in light trading. Consolidated Smelters gained 1-2 at 25 1-2 and International Nickle was up 5-8 at 39 1-2. The unlisted market furnished all the activity. British American Oil, both old and new stocks, Gooderham and Worts, and Seagrams were all heavily dealt in. British American Oil was up 1-4 at 82 1-4, the new stock also showing a 1-8 point gain at 21. Gooderham and Worts was 1 3-4 points up at 47 1-2 and Seagrams, the leader in point of activity, also rose 1 3-8 at 16 7-8.

New York Market Strong Trading Covers Wide List

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (Canadian Press).—The stock market today gave one of the best exhibitions of general strength in recent weeks. Buying orders were spread over a broad list, with practically all groups, except the railroad equipment and coppers, participating in the upswing. Speculative interest centered largely in the motors.

Heaviness of Pullman, which sold down over three points, was in further reflection of a relatively poor November earnings report, while the backwardness of the coppers may have been due to th drop in brass prices.

Nash, Hudson, and Pierce Arrow preferred, each up two points or more, led the advance in motors. Revival of interest in the independent steels suggested the possibility of new combinations during the coming months.

Among the specialties the best gains were recorded by such issues as International Harvester, Continental Baking 'A', Fox Film 'A', Otis Elevator, Twin City Rapid Transit, Stewart Warner, and United States Cast Iron Pipe, all up 2 1-2 to nearly 4 points.

Trade Passes Million Mark On Mining Exchange To-day

TORONTO, Jan. 5. Canadian Press. — Shares again went over the million mark on the Standard Mining Exchange here to-day. Heavy dealing and lower prices were the rule, declines being registered in the maority of issues. Argonaut declined three at 51; Area was 4 lower at 12; Baldwin down 1-4 at 3, and Barry-Hollinger down 1-2 at 86; Keora declined 1 to 11, and Laval Quebec was 3 1-2 olwer at 40. Kirkland Lake gained one at 94 and Pioneer Mines was 7 higher at 113. The unlisted department was very active, Amulet declining 15c at 235. Towagamac, 20

Richards, sub collector of customs and excise at Tilbury, was arraigned before Magistrate Arnold in county police court this morning. He entered a plea of not guilty. The charge read to the accused alleged that during the months of April to October he did steal the sum of $2,939.62, the property of His Majesty, in his possession by virtue of his employment." He was released on $2,500 bail.

SHORT STORY

Tom Carr was a hustingi American, but it took more than a pusher from Yankeeland to get in to London on that morning after the big strike started.

It wasn't his entire business career that depended on his getting to the city on that Wednesday morning, but mighty nea r it. His need for getting in was acute, since it involved either the loss or gain of a big contract.

Carr could have walked the eighteen miles easily—in a day. Somewhere in France he had done double that—but now he was hampered by a leg that couldn't quite do it's pre-war mileage.

Business men and girls, determined to get in to town, were clinging like flies to the scant few trains that had gone in from Snaresbrook. Lorries, taxis, wagons—all were filled to overflowing with their laughing human cargo.

Carr braced his shoulders and decided to stop every vehicle going Londonward until he should be squeezed into one. The quickly painted signs amused him. "Going East Cheap way." "Going Monument way." "All Aboard for Holborn district," and many "Full Up" signs met his glance. There were too many of the latter to suit Carr and in desperation he finally hailed one already well packed that was going Strand way. It was a private motor.

Perhaps it was because the driver was a girl and her sympathy for a slightly lame man asserted itself. Anyway she drew alongside Carr.

It was a tight squeeze, but the crowd already packed in made room for one more and Tom Carr breathed a sigh of relief.

Only a bomb or two could dislodge him now or prevent him getting in to secure that contract. With mind intent on his business, he still had time to notice the girl at the wheel who drove with so steady a nerve through the worst traffic jams he had ever witnessed. All that he could see of her beneath the brim of her powder blue hat was softly feminine.

Carr fell to wondering how he could repay this girl for helping him in his emergency. Hers was one of the "free lift" cars and to offer fare would be an insult the owner.

As they drew into Holborn, Carr got out and slipped swiftly into one of the many shops. Traffic was more slowly conducted than the movements of a snail. He had no difficulty catching the dull red Austin as it crawled along with the rest.

Quickly, so that she could not protest, he tossed into the car a bulky package, then with a wave of the hand and sincere thanks for the lift, Carr went his way.

He remained in town, keeping on the job until he put through the big contract, then sail on Saturday back to New York.

And often during moments of rest he gave himself over to memories of the girl who had driven him in to London, and wondered in just what spirit she had opened the magnificent box of candy he had given her.

As a matter of fact, Alice Larkin had opened the box with great anticipation, which gave place to a little shrick of joy when she saw the exquisite flaxon-haired doll surmounting an extravagant box of candy. She recalled vaguely the clean-cut young man with a slight limp and wished she had had a word or two of conversation with him. Then one day, many weeks later, she saw an item in the newspaper that interested Alice Larkin more than all. This was short and to the point. It was in the Personal column of all the papers.

"Will Lady who drove lame man from Snaresbrook to Holbrook Circus during strike please phone Wanstead 2448?"

Alice flushed as she read it and showed it to her father.

"Isn't that funny?" she questioned. "I wonder if I should telephone him?" She glanced at her father and saw amusement in his eyes as well as consent.

"So long as you meet him here—in your own home—it is quite all right," he said.

And when the lame man and the flaxon-haired girl were made known to one another over the wire, Carr asked quickly, "Are you married—or anything like that? I'm not," he added.

Alice laughed. She considered it rather thoughtful of him to let her know at the start that she would not be playing with fire, that there was no reason why friendship should not carry on.

"Fine," returned Carr, upon hearing that she was not matrimonially involved. "Can I meet you and tell you about all the good things that have happened to me since you were so kind? I should have lost much—if I failed to get in that day. I owe a lot to you and want to tell you all about it."

"And I must thank you in person for the lovely—"

"Make it soon—I'll come around this evening—if I may?"

"You may," said Alice, and it was a bit of a pity that Carr missed the lovely color. "Or better still—come to tea—now."

Being a hustling American, Carr lost no time.

CANADIAN LEGION CHRISTMAS TREE

Large Attendance at Annual Event Held in Lakefield on Friday.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—The annual Christmas tree of the Canadian Legion was held in the Memorial Hall on Friday afternoon at 3.30, with a large attendance of children and adults. The Christmas tree occupied a commanding position in the auditorium and was the cynosure of all juvenile eyes. Many of the youngsters came early to enjoy the delights of anticipation and to gaze on the tree. When the time appointed had arrived the children grouped themselves into a large and admiring semi-circle. The proceedings were opened by Capt. T. W. B. Marling, President of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Capt. Marling welcomed the children and adults on behalf of the Canadian Legion. The Canadian Legion is the union of all Canadian soldier organizations, including the Great War Veterans, under the British Empire Service League, with branches in Australia, New Zealand, India, South Africa, Newfoundland and every section of the Empire which contributed soldiers to assist the Empire.

The G.W.V.A. was organized in Lakefield in 1919, right after the men came home, and in the intervening period has extended help to needy soldiers and their families. In every case the soldiers assisted did not belong to the organization. Soldiers are a bit apt to be skeptical as to whether a society would be a good thing, and the branch is now more or less a silent organization, though always ready to do something when the need arises.

It was suggested last year at the Council that this annual Christmas tree be a community event, managed by the veterans, but intended for all the community. Of course, it would be too big an affair for the veterans to handle alone, but with the co-operation of the village it could be done.

Mr. Marling sent Jack Chappell out to bring in Santa as he was due at that time, and in a few minutes the scarlet clad, white bearded gentleman, to dear to generations of youngsters, appeared and began the distribution of gifts. He was unable to remain long after the gifts were distributed as he had a number of other calls before the dawning of the New Year. The children greeted Santa (patron saint of children in many lands) with a hearty clap.

After the numerous gifts had been distributed, candy and nuts were given the children, and Miss Kathleen Lawless danced the Highland Fling to a most appreciative audience, many of whom tried to emulate her spirited performance.

The children played a few games before dispersing.

The tree was one of the most successful ever held by the legion and their Ladies' Auxiliary and will long remain a happy memory to the youngsters, and also to the adult visitors, who if not already interested, cannot fail to be so after attending the party and realizing its significance.

The following children were remembered: Dorothy Hurl, Baby Hurl, Lorne Northey, Hugh Ogilvie, Shirley Ogilvie, Robbins children, Doris McCracken, Bethel McCracken, Marjorie Dunford, Irma Dunford, Clifford Dunford, Baby Dunford, little Miss Graham, Baby Graham, Daisy Edwards, Francis Edwards, Thelma Edwards, Stanley Edwards, Eva Edwards, Leslie Edwards, Bernice Edwards, Ivan Tighe, Alma Tighe, Elsie Tighe, Baby Tighe, Douglas Holmes, Donald Holmes, Doris O'Neil, Kathleen Lawless, Lilian Pringle, Alice Pringle, Elwood Rowe, Jack Mose, Kathleen Mose, Jerome McFadden, Pat McFadden, Veronica McFadden, Bernard McFadden, Billy McFadden, Baby McFadden, Thomas Chappell, George Chappell, Jack Chappell, Alice Chappell, Elsie Chappell, Bobbie Stenner, Nellie Stenner, Violet Hudson, Freddy Hudson, Dennis Remnant, Kenneth Remnant, Constance Orr, Jean Orr, Ducie Chads, Berie Chads, Bernard Burrows, June Burrows, Jean Clarke, Billy Clarke, Natalie Lampman, Betty Lampman, Katherine Lampman, Barbara Grier, Garnet O'Neil, Mary Renwick, Sherman Hill, Denise Hill, Gordon Hill, Jean Hill, Earl Robinson, Harding Stuart, Elizabeth Twist, Marion Twist, Kenneth Wesley, Merle Webster, Carson Webster, Freida Webster, Vera Webster, Claude Shewen, Ronald Shewen, Jack Elmsley, Theo Elmsley, Peter Elmsley.

News Briefs.

The series of euchres under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. were resumed on Thursday evening last with a very good attendance. Mrs. Junkin and Mr. Walter Graham won the prizes and Miss B. Graham and Mr. T. Waldon the consolation trophies.

A very delightful holiday dance was given by Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie at "The Grove" to the younger set on Friday evening.

The week has been a gay one socially as the holiday visitors were entertained at various delightful functions. This was especially true of the younger set, who crowded the holiday week with festivities.

The New Year was ushered in by the village siren as was scheduled. A number of citizens remained up to usher in the New Year in appropriate manner.

The rink has opened and was a popular rendezvous on New Year's Day for both curlers and skaters. All roads led to the rink apparently and the old saying, "If you are looking for anyone, try the rink," is once more coming true.

The schedule of games for the local curling competition has already been drawn and the games begin on Monday night. This year it has been decided not to hold an open bonspiel.

Messrs. J. W. Ridpath and D. H. Charlton have been appointed district cup skips by the Lakefield Curling Club.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Come into my room." Faith's cold lips formed the words in a whisper.

When she had closed the door of her room, Faith stood slumped against it, one cold hand gripping the knob, the other frozen around the two letters which Cherry had brought her.

"I—I don't understand," she whispered. "Not Bob! Bob couldn't do a thing like that!"

Cherry planted her tense, angry little body so close to Faith that she could feel the younger girl's hot breath on her face. "Well, it didn't take you half a second to see what I saw!" Cherry flamed at her. "The sneaking blackmailer! Look at those letters! Look at the one addressed to Dad, with his return address, in the upper lefthand corner! Then look at this one addressed to me!

"You saw it instantly! You admit it. It's the identical envelope, exactly the same blocking of the address—all stenographers vary a little bit in their ways of arranging addresses, if it's no more than a space or two. Compare these letters! The stenographer who wrote both—and believe me, they were typed by the same person—has her tabulator set for addressing envelopes. There's exactly the same white space from the edge of the evnelope to the beginning of the address, top and side. And the same typewriter was used. That L on both—the top is worn half off and is tinged with red, and the top of the M on Myrtle Street is tinged with red on each envelope. She—or he, if Bob is a stenographer and typed these letters himself—uses a two-color ribbon—top half of it red, for typing figures. An architect would undoubtedly use a red and black ribbon, because half of his dictating would be figures. You can see all that, can't you?"

"I saw that the two envelopes were identical, except for the return address on Dad's," Faith admitted slowly, her eyes black with pain. "Of course I didn't know just how I was convinced of it, at a glance, but everything you point out is true. Oh, God!" she moaned, passing a hand dazedly over her eyes. "But I won't believe it's Bob."

"He knew all about Albert Ettleson, didn't he?" Cherry demanded fiercely. "And he saw me in Chris Wiley's arms at George Pruitt's party that night. Didn't he come running to you for sympathy. Didn't he?" She was shaking an angry finger in Faith's pale, drawn face.

"Yes," Faith groaned. "Yes, he did. I told you. Don t lose control of yourself like that, Cherry. How many of these blackmailing letters have you received?

"This is the fourth, Cherry began to pace up and down the room, her high French heels beating an angry staccato on the painted, uncarpeted floor. "All exactly alike on the outside—two of them mailed one of them delivered by Western Union messenger and one lying on the floor beside my bed when I woke up on Thursday morning."

"Why didn't you tell me—show them to me?"

"I was sick of worrying you with my troubles." Cherry's angry voice softened a little. "And—and I broke my promise to show that first one to Ralph. But I'll show him all of them, and tell him what his precious nephew is doing to me! Bob Hathaway's going to pay for this, Faith! I don't care if you are in love with him!"

"Don't do that yet, Cherry," Faith begged piteously. "I know there's some explanation. Bob couldn't done it—I'd stake my life on that."

"You make me tired!" Cherry whirled to face her sister, her golden eyes wide and hot with anger. "Crazy about a man that just hands you out a crumb of petting now and then! If he's in love with you, why doesn't he say so? Why hasn't he been near you since—since that Saturday night? He hasn't even called you up, I bet!"

"You can't blame him very much for staying away from this house," Faith spoke with a sorry attempt at a spirited rejoiner, but Cherry's words had touched the sorest spot in her heart. "That Saturday night wasn't very pleasant for him, after that scene you made at the Marlboro Country Club. And you must remember that I took your part—as I always do—when he was telling me how you tried to rope him in. Have you read this letter?" she asked suddenly, turning the envelope addressed to Cherry between her cold fingers.

"No." Cherry snatched the envelope from Faith's hand and ripped it open. "Just like the others, except that it's shorter. There's only one line, but—I'd rather not read it to you, Faith." Her cheeks were flaming, and her eyes dropped suddenly. "It's a rotten lie, anyway!"

"Then it can't really hurt you," Faith soothed her, but her heart was heavy with misery and doubt.

"Well, they can't scare me!" Cherry mashed the letter down into the pocket of her suit and flung up her bright, curly head defiantly. "There's only a month between now and the wedding, and I'm going through with it.

"Why, they'd think they'd forced me out, if I backed out now! Well, I'm in too deep to give it up for any reason in the world! Isn't Madame Denise a wonder, Faith? I can't believe all these gorgeous clothes are for me!"

"Have Frances Warren and Selma Pruitt decided on their dresses?" Faith asked, glad of a chance to think of something else than Bob Hathaway. "I really think that lipstick red chiffon is too loud for a wedding, honey. The other girls couldn't possibly get colors that wouldn't clash with it."

"Oh, I forgot to tell you!" Cherry was sparkling again. "Selma and Frances and I've worked it all out. All three of you are to dress to represent flowers. You're to wear golden yellow taffeta—all the dresses are to be taffeta, made in Colonial period design—and you're to be a California poppy, and Selma's to be a sweet pea, in palest orchid and flesh color, and Frances—she's such a lovely, silvery blonde, is to be a cornflower, in that heavenly cornflower shade of taffeta.

"Your bouquets will be of the flowers you represent combined with lilies of the valley. You can wear the lipstick red chiffon to Selma's party she's giving me a week before the wedding. Frances is going to give me, one, too. Isn't everyone lovely to me, Faith? All except that snake in the grass, Bob Hathaway!"

PLATINUM FOUND IN ROUYN FIELD

Tests of Ore on Aconda Property Show $2,100 Per Ton.

GOLD ALSO SHOWN.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 5.—Tests made of ore on the Aconda Mine, in Boischatel Township in the Rouyn mining field has uncovered a rich deposit of platinum running as high as $2,100 per ton, according to report here this morning. A statement issued by Douglas Mutch, mining engineer, is authority for the discovery.

D. A. MacGillivray, of Ottawa, director of the Aconda Mines, Limited, in a statement, discloses that Government laboratory tests of the ore from the Aconda property gives the following assay: Copper ranging from three per cent. to 21 per cent.; gold from 80 cents to $199.50 per ton; platinum from $290 to $2,100 per ton. Mr. MacGillivray's statement adds:

"The directors and engineers associated with the Aconda Company felt that some radical error had been made and being somewhat doubtful as to the value of issuing a statement showing such huge values, not only refrained from issuing a statement of assays to the public and shareholders, but did not include same in official records."

SEEKING COAL NORTH OF SOO

Owners of Land Also Take Permit For Gas or Oil.

HAVE 164 ACRES.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 5. — Captain Asa R. Johnston, 8 Harrick street, and others interested with him in what appears to be a systematic search for coal in the Township of Prince, have staked 164 acres of land in the township, comprising the northeast quarter of subsection 7.80 acres and the south west quarter of subsection 5:84 acres. While the staking was done last October and the stakes planted then, active operations in the search for coal have not actually started until now.

Those interested in the project intend to start drilling operations immediately and the boring permit says the search is for petroleum, natural gas, coal or salt. Arrangements are now being made for the placing of camps on the property which is located on the lake shore about 10 miles from the Sault. The presence of coal in Prince Township has long been suspected as from time to time pieces of a substance closely resembling soft coal has been picked up or dried from the ground and rock. It is reported that some Sudbury people are endeavoring to secure options on property in Prince adjoining that already staked by Capt. Johnston.
